Republican Ratification Meeting at the Cooper Institute.

The Party of Progress Triumphant.

Addresses by Judge Pierrepont, General Hawley and E. Delafield Smith.

A grand ratification meeting was held last evening at the Cooper Institute, under the auspices of the Republican General Committees, for the purpose of ratifying the State nominations. There was a large attendance, including a full representation of ladies, and the proceedings were marked by great enthusiasm. The hall was handsomely adorned with appropriate decorations, the pillars being ornamented with stars, while conspicuous among all was the national banner. Outside a brilliant pyrotechnic display was given, while inside a band of music contributed not a little to enliven the proceedings.

ADDRESS BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY PIERREPONT.

Shortly after eight o'clock District Attorney EDWARDS PIERREPONT presided, and, having called the meeting to order, delivered the following address:—

There can be but two political parties in this country. One or the other of these parties will rule. No third party of any considerable importance can arise. When the country was much smaller a third party was very difficult to organize; now, the vastness of the country and the complicated machinery of a canvass make a third political power impossible. Dissatisfaction will exist and ideas will prevail quite out of harmony with either of the great political divisions; but the expense and difficulty of new organization is such as to discourage and utterly defeat any and all attempts at third party combinations. Every true patriot, and every sagacious statesman, and every selfish politician will find himself acting with one of the two great political parties which now exist. No third party has ever been formed in this country which did not tend to injure the party of its own friends. In 1836 General Harrison and Francis Granger ran against Martin Van Buren and Richard M. Johnson. Hugh L. White, of Tennessee, and John Tyler, of Virginia, ran as third party candidates and defeated their friends and elected their enemies. In 1844 Polk and Dallas ran against Clay and Frelinghuysen. Birney came in as a third party man and defeated his friend Clay and elected his especial enemy Polk. In 1848 Taylor and Fillmore ran against General Cass and Butler, of Kentucky. Martin Van Buren and Charles Francis Adams ran on a third party ticket, and Van Buren had the pleasure of seeing his lifelong democratic friend, General Cass, defeated by a whig. (Applause.) In 1852 Pierce and King ran against General Scott and Graham. John P. Hale ran as a third candidate, and aided in defeating his friend, General Scott. In 1856 Buchanan and Breckinridge ran against Fremont and Dayton. Fillmore and Donaldson ran on the third party ticket and ruined their own friends. In 1860 Bell and Everett ran as the third party candidates, and thus helped to elect Lincoln and Hamlin, who were not their political friends. The last attempt to form a third party was that of Andrew Johnson's, but so abortive was the effort that no candidate was put in the field. (Laughter and applause.) We have done with third parties. (Loud cheers.) Two great parties will continue to represent the opposing sentiments of the American people. One will be on the side of progress, advanced ideas and active moral sentiments. The other conservative, slow, always thinking that the nation is going too fast, halting and believing that any social or moral views not entertained by Abraham and the patriarchs dangerous and unsound. (Applause.) Political parties go to decay, individuals grow old, but the nation is yet young; her youth may remain for a thousand years. She is as fresh and as full of sturdy life and glorious hope and bounding blood as when the morning dawned on the Fourth of July in 1776. The maimed and the halt and the blind cannot lead this great young people. The party of progress will be the party of victory. The party of courage will be the party of power. (Cheers.) For long years the democratic party was the party of progress and of success; they thought the nation had grown old with themselves, and when the war came they halted and wavered and ceased to march to the beat of the nation's heart; they straggled, faltered, were routed and can never rally again to victory. Then parties changed front. The progressive portion of the democratic party came out for the war, and the republicans became the party of advanced ideas, in harmony with the age, and the democratic leaders became the Bourbons of old time. (Cheers.) When the democratic platform of 1864 declared the war a failure and drove so many good men from its ranks, when the overwhelming election of Lincoln repudiated that assertion, and when Grant proved the war a glorious success, could any but the blind fail to see that the people would make the hero of that success the President of the nation? (Applause.) They made him President when he was forty-seven years old, and when he is fifty-one they will make him President again. The sunrise to-morrow is scarce more certain. Great difficulties beset every new administration. In the case of General Grant the difficulties were multiplied by the closing events of the war. When he came to form his Cabinet seven men only could have place. Seven hundred were disappointed. (Laughter.) The same was more eminently true of all the other offices. Of course great apathy and some fault-finding followed this great disappointment. But the people are recovering from that, as the elections in Ohio and Pennsylvania show. A far greater disappointment and a far greater apathy followed the first election of Lincoln, and in the autumn which followed his first inauguration he could have received the electoral vote of but very few States. No man since General Jackson has ever had the confidence of the people so fully as General Grant; you had a test of that a few days ago, when it was insinuated that he favored the gold speculators; even the World newspaper (not suspected of being over kind to General Grant) came out and denounced the foul slander. No one believed a word of it—the people knew that the brave and honest General whom they had chosen would connive at no wrong. General Grant will grow stronger each year, and when the national convention is held (only two and a half years distant) he will have no rival in it. The younger portion of the democratic party will then vote for him. (Loud cheers.) If you watch the developments in Washington this winter you will see efforts made to seduce General Sherman from his loyalty to General Grant with the tempting lure of a suggested Presidency, but it will avail nothing. Sherman is a gallant soldier, an able general, a man of genius and of sense, and he cannot be led astray. The people believe in and trust the President. He fairly represents their will. No rival can displace him. He goes about among the people and learns their wants. I hope he will continue to go about. It is the only way to learn. A judge who sits only in bank, never mingles with the people and only reads law will lose all sense of justice in a few years. If at the end of his present term General Grant should tell the people that he was weary of office and wanted to go out to his farm in Missouri and raise colts the people would tell him that he had no right to go—that he could not go—that his term, like that of General Washington's and General Jackson's, was eight years. If there is a full fair vote the candidates you have selected will be chosen this fall. No better men ever ran upon a State ticket. All are good men. Mr. Greeley, long so eminent and so well known by the people, gives great strength to the ticket. If you go into the canvass with half the zeal of last fall you will stand proudly with the great States of Pennsylvania and Ohio in this victory of a party wherein alone resides the freshness, and vigor, and hope and progress of the nation. (Cheers.)

Colonel VAN BUREN then read a list of vice presidents and secretaries, which was accepted, after which Mr. John H. White read a series of voluminous resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

General HAWLEY, ex-Governor of Connecticut, was next introduced to the meeting. He commenced with a eulogy on General Grant and the republican party, and said the former was doing all in his power to give the country peace. The party had carried Ohio and Pennsylvania by the sheer force of the respect which the people were compelled to accord to General Grant's administration. (Applause.) The speaker then proceeded to pitch into the democratic party for the course pursued by them during and since the war. He showed how the democratic party had pledged themselves to the carrying out of the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution while they joined issue with the republican party on two points only, namely, policy and the debt. In regard to the nigger question the republican party only desired to return to the original policy of the government. The speaker dwelt at considerable length on this subject, contending that the idea that this was solely a white man's government was spawned by secession. (Applause.) The black man paid and the black man fought, and Jefferson said that any man that paid and fought had a right to vote. The black never abused his freedom, sought to be intelligent and desired a permanent interest in the community, and there was no reason why he should not be allowed to vote. It was impolitic to keep any class degraded. Under all the circumstances he trusted that colored people would receive the rights they so fully deserved. The speaker next alluded to the national debt and submitted that it should be paid to the last cent in order that the national honor might be redeemed.

Senator FITCH, from Nevada, also addressed the meeting, reviewing the present aspect of affairs. He denounced the democratic party and contended that the republican party was the only one of progress. It pointed to revenues increased, property enlarged, labor ennobled in the public service, to a peace conquered and maintained, and a flag respected on land and sea. He concluded by calling on the Empire State to support the present administration by its course of action in the coming campaign.

General J. L. SWIFT followed, and touched briefly upon the subject previously alluded to.

ADDRESS BY MR. E. DELAFIELD SMITH.

Mr. E. DELAFIELD SMITH next addressed the meeting. He said:—One year ago you met in this hall as you meet to-night. From early evening to midnight's solemn hour one name inspired your songs, your speeches and your cheers. The hopes of that day were realized. The predictions of that hour were fulfilled. A leaf from the history of Washington was copied to form a page in the biography of Grant. The General became the President. The echoes of your acclamations hardly yet have died away. On the 4th of March he heard them renewed at the east front of the Capitol, and they followed his footsteps to the portals of the White House. You promised that the hearts of the people should warm the cold halls of that dreary mansion and give sunshine to its shadows. Were you not sincere? Have you elevated your favorite beyond the reach of your sympathies? If you have, it were better for his happiness that he still wore the graceful plume of a military hero and not the thorny cap of a political chieftain. (Applause.) Our fathers reversed the maxims of Europe, where for centuries the masses of mankind have been reduced to subjects and to serfs and monarchs have reigned by "right divine." In America the ruler is the servant and the people the sovereign. But while we rightly glory in the change let us beware lest the one be treated as a slave and the other practise the capricious tyranny which belongs to kings. While in foreign countries too much deference may be paid to official position in the United States a public man is fortunate who is not disparaged and traduced, however upright, laborious or successful. We pour upon the candidate the oil of adulation, as if to make hotter the fires of reproach with which we surround the official when once seated upon the height to which our own arms have borne him. Truth and fair play are the boast of one nation and the glory of all. It is surely just to assume that where a man serves his country in field or council, and is advanced to higher official trust, he does not lose either the rights of manhood or the sensibilities of human nature. It was to the immortal honor of the men of the American Revolution that after marching with their chief against Briton and tory, they subsequently stood by him with equal constancy when the sun of peace had bred in his pathway a swarm of slimy detractors. The pride of a nation is said to be its great men. The glory of a people is to honor and exalt them. Who marvels that the name of the great Napoleon is dear to France, Frederic to Prussia, Wellington to Britain, Emmet to Ireland, Garibaldi to Italy, Washington to the country he wrested from tyranny, or Grant to the nation he saved from destruction? The muse of history will embalm the memory of democrats and whigs of other days—the first for their fidelity to Andrew Jackson, the last for their devotion to Henry Clay. I hazard the prediction that in spite of the howlings and the growlings of the few the true republicans and the patriotic people of the United States will be equally faithful to the President of their choice.

The lessening column of the public debt represents the diminishing stature of his enemies; while a rebuilded public credit rises, day by day, a monument to his name. All political organizations in the Southern States pretend to honor his fame and to belong to his party—an unanswerable evidence of his popular strength. So at the North. In the midst of the personal disappointments, the general apathy and the local dissensions which characterize the first year of a Presidential term, his political friends stand erect and triumphant in the great States of Iowa, Pennsylvania and Ohio. For thirty years the flag of the nation has never been so respected abroad, so supreme at home. The conflict of international law involved in our claims against England on the one hand, and in our sympathies with Cuba on the other, shall yet, under a wise and masterly diplomacy, directed by him who presided at the conferences of Appomattox, produce indemnity from the one and freedom to the other.

While the hero of our triumphant armies is prolonging in peace the public services which commenced in war, he is abused by a partizan press and maligned by disloyal organizations. So we read in Irving's "Life of Washington," "His military and political character was attacked with equal violence, and it was averred that he was totally destitute of merit either as a soldier or a statesman." Referring to one of the journals in which those assaults appeared the father of his country said, "I despise all personal attacks upon myself, but there has never been an act of the government which that paper has not abused." In spite of a blind opposition the people adhered to Washington to the end of the eight years of his Presidency, and they will stand by Grant to the close of a double term. The charges against him are, in substance, as follows:—First—That he has one distant relative in Mississippi and another in New York, connected by ties of marriage, not of blood, one of whom is running for Governor, with a prospect of defeat through the influence of his administration, and the other of whom tried his hand in the perilous navigation of Wall street, where he and a speculating crew in the same boat were upset by an adverse wind from Washington. Secondly—That, emulating the cultured manners of the earlier Presidents, when a pair of partridges are sent to him by one of his fellow citizens as a mark of respect and regard he accepts them like a gentleman, instead of rudely returning them, in imitation of modern fastidiousness, with a message branding the giver as unworthy of confidence. Thirdly—That he often absents himself from the capital and mingles among the people to ascertain their wants and sentiments for himself, instead of receiving everything at second hand from self-constituted political advisers, thus again copying President Washington, who took slow stages through the South, through the middle States and through New England, at a time when travel involved an absence of months, where days only are now required to perform the same journeys. Fourthly—That in making appointments to office he has not (as has been well said) revived the miracle of the five loaves and two fishes, and given fifty offices to 5,000 applicants. He has moreover committed the crime of preferring his friends to his enemies—republicans to democrats. Commiserating his traducers, under his flag we are still marshalled in the State of New York, and "on this line" we will fight it out. The key note of his administration was sounded in that manly inaugural address, amid the answering plaudits of his countrymen, which declared the eternal unity of the republic and the equal political rights of the humblest of its citizens.

It was ancient democratic doctrine, often proclaimed in Tammany Hall, that the blessings of representative government, like the dews of heaven, should be equally shared by the poor and the rich, the weak and the strong. The still older laws of chivalry commended the helpless to the magnanimity of manhood. The democrat of to-day points with scorn to a race of American citizens, and seeks to mount from their prostrate forms upon the heights of political power. The bent bodies of miserable negroes are now the caryatides of that democratic "temple of liberty" whose entablatures were anciently supported on pillars hewn out of the eternal rock of humanity and justice. Assume that the black man is weaker and less fortunate than his democratic assailant. Will not a generous spirit give him a helping hand the more for that? Did he not guide our Union captains through Virginia morasses and Carolina swamps to safety and to victory? Social distinctions are one thing, political inequality is another. If the first be a private right, the last is a public wrong. The black man is a citizen of the United States. The fifteenth amendment rightfully forbids his disfranchisement. The Chinese are not citizens; for their naturalization the laws make no provision. The question is not complicated, as the democracy of California have absurdly proclaimed. Men of New York, the people of the nation at large believe that last autumn your great State ought to have been recorded for the Union leader and his patriotic associates. Let our vote this year discourage all attempts to overwhelm or count it down.

Your State ticket is headed by a name of national reputation, of cosmopolitan fame. It was a glory to fight "mit Sigel." It will be an honor to vote for him. The organizing and working republican democracy of our city are rejoicing in the leadership of Daniel D. Conover. The generous and vigorous men of the State at large, unrestrained by party ties, are rallying to a banner which bears many good names, but one pre-eminent—a synonyme for honor and honesty, for justice and courage, for industry and intellect—I allude to Horace Greeley. (Applause.)

Although there were repeated calls for Major Haggarty to speak the lateness of the hour prevented any further orations, and the meeting then adjourned.

TAMMANY SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

Proceedings in the Great "Cut and Dried" Conventions Yesterday—The Beauty of Harmony and Discipline—Tweed, Genet, Creamer, Norton and Bradley.

The Tammany Senatorial Conventions were held at noon yesterday, and the usual matter of form was indulged in, and the Senators, as usual, were "much astonished at the distinguished and unexpected honors thrust upon them."

The Fourth Senatorial District Convention assembled at noon in the court room corner of Pearl and Centre streets. The sidewalks, and even the stairs leading to the hall, were densely crowded with people apparently deeply interested in the proceedings. Precisely at twelve o'clock Judge Shandley, of the Seventh ward, called the delegates to order, and at his suggestion Judge Hogan, of the First ward, was called upon to preside. After an expression of thanks from the President, Mr. Michael Shandley, of the Seventh ward, and Colonel Michael C. Murphy, of the Fifth, were selected as secretaries. After calling the roll ex-Congressman Morgan Jones, of the Sixth ward, moved that Wm. M. Tweed, of the Seventh ward, be by acclamation declared the nominee of the Convention for State Senator. This proposition was the signal for an outburst of cheering, and was declared adopted. Marshal Tooker, of the Thirteenth ward, then rose and moved that a committee, formed by the selection of one delegate from each ward represented in the Convention, be appointed for the purpose of waiting on the candidate and requesting him to appear in the hall. This was adopted and a recess of ten minutes ordered, during which time the delegates indulged in a magnificent lunch on the floor above, and the appointed committee retired. Shortly after the Marshal and his associates returned, accompanied by the object of their search, whose appearance was greeted with enthusiastic cheering. He was formally introduced by the Marshal to the President, who in a few well chosen words notified him of his nomination and offered him his congratulations.

Mr. TWEED then came forward on the platform and spoke as follows, the greatest attention being paid to his remarks:—Mr. President and gentlemen of the Convention, I am at present the representative of the Fourth district in the Senate of the State of New York, and come before you proudly, boldly, with my record. Here I see gathered together men of all stations in the business community—men of professional acquirements, artisans, and those, the source of our nation's greatness, and her great dependence, its honest workingmen. (Cheers.) Two years ago you conferred upon me the honor I to-day again am offered. The first action evidenced your condence in my pledges to serve you faithfully, and to-day's action tells me that you stamp my conduct as a Senator with approval. I again accept the trust. (Loud cheers.) I renew my pledges of fidelity, and assure you that my time, energetic efforts and influence shall be devoted to caring for your interests, the interests of my native city, with a view to her continued advancement in commercial greatness, and to the carrying out of the glorious principles and projects of the mighty party to which we belong. (Cheers.) I am not an ingrate. I thank you for my political prosperity. I see before me my old neighbors, my friends, rejoicing in my good fortune and gladdened by the success which has crowned my humble efforts. These same friends were the friends of my early days and early efforts—the tried friends of the days of my adversity—and here, as the opportunity is afforded me I give expression to my feelings of gratitude and pledge you all that whatever is at my command is yours, and if I have not what you would I will give you the next best thing—my hearty endeavors to secure it. Again, Mr. President and gentlemen, I thank you and frankly say that I am overcome with the emotions which swell my grateful heart. (Great cheering.)

As soon as Mr. Tweed concluded the Convention adjourned.

The Fifth District Convention met at the Adriatic Hotel, corner of Hudson and Barrow streets. James Watson, of the Sixteenth ward, acted as chairman, and John Houtaling, of the Ninth ward, as secretary. On motion of Thomas Levy, of the Fifteenth ward, Mr. Michael Norton was unanimously declared the nominee of the Convention. A committee of one from each ward in the district was appointed to wait upon that gentleman and notify him of his nomination. The convention then adjourned sine die.

In the Sixth Senatorial District Tammany Hall Nominating Convention, held at Humboldt Hall, No. 92 avenue C, Mr. Thomas J. Creamer was nominated.

The Tammany Hall Convention to nominate a candidate for State Senator from the Seventh Senatorial district, met at the corner of Second avenue and Thirty-second street and nominated John J. Bradley by acclamation.

The Eighth District Senatorial Convention met at No. 783 Eighth avenue, for the purpose of placing a candidate in nomination to represent the district in the Senate. William Hitchman acted as chairman, and Messrs. Greene and Seebach as secretaries. The Convention was called to order by Judge Connolly. The Judge then moved that Henry W. Genet be declared the choice of the Convention. The motion was carried by acclamation. A committee of three was appointed to notify Mr. Genet of his nomination, when that gentleman presented himself, and in a few remarks returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him. The Convention then adjourned sine die.

THE TAMMANY JUDICIARY NOMINATIONS—MR. JAMES C. SPENCER.

Among the nominations made by the Tammany Judiciary Convention on Thursday night last appears the name of James C. Spencer for the coming vacancy on the bench of the Superior Court. The selection thus made is a most admirable one and shows that Tammany in its nominations of candidates for the judiciary has not been influenced, as charged against it, by a desire to put none but "political judges" on the bench. Mr. Spencer has never been what is known as a politician, but has, from his admission to the bar to this moment, devoted all his time and energies to his profession. Mr. Spencer is a native of Franklin county, in this State, and the son of the late Judge James B. Spencer, who was a member of the State and national legislatures, serving his district in either legislature for several years. Mr. Spencer, the subject of this brief sketch, entered upon the practice of the law, in the year 1850, in the courts of his native county. In 1854 he removed to Ogdensburg, St. Lawrence county, and there entered into partnership with Judge W. C. Brown, forming the firm of Brown & Spencer, which for ten years and upwards occupied a high position and prosecuted a profitable practice in the courts of northern New York. In 1857 President Buchanan appointed Mr. Spencer United States Attorney for the Northern district of New York, in which office he succeeded ex-Judge Samuel B. Garvin, the present District Attorney in this city. In 1864, just after the McClellan Presidential campaign, in which Mr. Spencer took a very active part in the interest of "Little Mac," he removed to New York, and at once and with great application and industry entered upon the practice of his profession, attaining great success therein. He soon after entered into partnership with Mr. Charles A. Rapallo, and at the completion of the HERALD Building and its occupation by the HERALD the new firm of Rapallo & Spencer rented spacious offices therein, where they soon acquired an extensive and profitable practice.

The firm of Rapallo & Spencer, though lately dissolved, has been familiar to the public from the professional connection it had with some of the gigantic railroad causes celebres which occupied so much of the attention of the courts for two years past. Since the dissolution of the partnership Mr. Spencer devoted all his time and attention and professional talents to his individual business and his own benefit, but he has lately associated with him, to meet the requirements of a rapidly increasing practice, ex-Judge Flanders, of Franklin county, and Mr. James B. Metcalf, one of his former partners.

Mr. Spencer, besides his high qualifications for the office for which he has been nominated, has many claims upon the democracy of the city and State, and it is pleasing to see in this instance that political leaders are not always ungrateful, but will sometimes recognize and reward the talents and qualities which, from time to time, shed a lustre upon the cause and principles they represent.

DEMOCRATIC UNION SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

In pursuance of the call of the Democratic Union General Committee (Smith Ely branch) Senatorial nominating conventions were held in the several Senatorial districts last evening, with the following result:—

Fourth District—James Bagley.
Fifth District—Ignatius Flynn.
Sixth District—Thomas J. Creamer.
Seventh District—Adjourned.
Eighth District—Henry W. Genet.

CONSTITUTIONAL UNION DEMOCRATIC GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Reign of Harmony—The Nominations—Preventive Against Fraud.

The General Committee of the Constitutional Union democracy met last evening at Masonic Hall, Mr. D. B. Northrup being in the chair. Mr. Marcus Hanlon, chairman of the Committee on Candidates, reported that there was unity of action between their association, the Roosevelt wing and the faction of Mozart; that all the candidates had been seen personally and had accepted the nominations, and that they were strong, earnest men, who would fight to the last inch against Tammany, tribe sachems, Big Injun and all. (Cheers.) He then proceeded to read the nominations, which were as follows:—

Supervisor—Jacob Cohen.
Surrogate—Gideon J. Tucker.
Coroner—Nelson W. Young.
District Attorney—Samuel G. Courtney.
Recorder—Abraham D. Russell.
Justice Marine Court—Thomas W. Kearney.
Justice Supreme Court—T. W. Clerke.
Justice Superior Court—M. T. McMahon, long term.
Justice Superior Court—Charles Goepp, long term.
Justice Superior Court—S. C. Read, short term.
Justice Common Pleas—John Linn.

The nominations were received with immense cheering, and after the uproar, the three cheers and a tiger had subsided Mr. Sloan announced that the Constitutional Union democrats would make no nominations for Members of Assembly, but would accept those made by the Workingmen's Association, and would work for them as for their own. (Cheers.)

The acceptance of the report was then moved, seconded and adopted.

NELSON W. YOUNG spoke and appealed to his hearers "as a workingman." He stated that he received the nomination of all the political organizations except one, and that one he could have had, but as a man of honor he would not take, and could easily be elected without it. He further stated that when he first entered the contest he was warned by his friends that he (Mr. Young) not being a man of wealth it would be impossible for him to succeed, but he would say this, that one man stepped forward and pledged both his influence and money, and that friend was the workingmen's candidate, Jacob Cohen.

Mr. JACOB COHEN, who was received with rapturous applause, was the next speaker, and after thanking the audience for their welcome pledged himself as their candidate until sundown the day of election.

Colonel SLOAN made a somewhat grandiloquent speech, in which he announced the return of Andrew Johnson to the Senate, which was received with great applause.

Mr. MARCUS HANLON read the following resolution:—

Resolved, That the chairman of the Executive Committee of this organization have power to engage whatever clerical help he deems necessary to canvass and take from the books of the Registrars the names of all the legally registered voters, as taken by them and to be taken on the 29th and 30th inst., and to compare such lists with the records in the archives of this association.

He explained that the committee had received information of dead soldiers' papers, to the number of 1,600, in the hands of a certain soldiers' agency, at the bottom of Broadway, which were to be feloniously and traitorously used on the 2d of November, and he desired, by checking the lists, to prevent any such fraud. This motion was recorded and adopted without comment.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE UNION LEAGUE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Union League of America was held yesterday at the St. Nicholas Hotel. There was a good attendance of members. Governor Newell, of New Jersey, presided, in the absence of Governor Geary. The Secretary, Mr. Baker, of New York, read a report of the arrangements for the elections in Mississippi and Texas. Some important arrangements for the election in New York State were reported: and the victories in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa were alluded to with gratification. Various measures in aid of the elections about to transpire were adopted, and the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chair. Movements are on foot looking to a thorough revival and reorganization of the Union League.

NINETEENTH WARD CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION.

Nominations for Senator and Assemblyman.

Masonic Hall, in East Eighty-sixth street, between Lexington and Third avenues, was filled last evening by an earnest body of men who met to take decisive steps to promote the objects for which the Nineteenth Ward Citizens' Association was formed—that is, to exert all possible means to procure additional lines of travel toward the upper end of the island. The meeting was called to order by John Foley, the chairman, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Upon taking the chair Mr. Foley made a brief address, in which he earnestly counselled the members to continue their efforts to secure additional means of transportion and public travel for the 100,000 people living in the vicinity of the Nineteenth ward. He spoke in flattering terms of the commendable manner in which Alderman Farley had furthered their interests by extending the stage lines.

Mr. HENRY H. MORANGE then offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, that the thanks of the Nineteenth Ward Citizens' Association be and they are hereby tendered to Alderman Terence Farley for his prompt action in extending the route of the Fifth avenue line of stages, and thereby increasing the accommodation of the citizens of this district, and that we hail his energetic efforts in our behalf as an earnest of his future conduct to promote and protect the interests and welfare of his constituency.

Mr. B. F. McCABE then introduced the following resolutions, which were also unanimously adopted:—

Whereas we, the citizens of the Twelfth and Nineteenth wards, deem it best to nominate honest and reliable men to represent our interests in the Legislature; therefore be it

Resolved, That we nominate for Senator of the Eighth district Myer Stern, and for Member of Assembly William H. McCarthy.

Mr. STERN, the new candidate, then came forward and addressed the meeting. He thanked the members for their nomination, and said that, being no politician, he would rely upon the endeavors of the association for his election. The questions relating to the extension of lines of travel he believed would be agitated with success. Commodore Vanderbilt and his son had made their promises that the Madison Avenue Railroad should be laid and opened as soon as the obstructions were removed in that thoroughfare, between Forty-second and Forty-sixth streets. This work would be commenced on Monday next, as the assurance of Mr. William H. Vanderbilt went, and he had no doubt that all present would make their next New Year's calls in the Madison avenue street cars to Seventy-ninth street, and they should assist to secure an extension of Mr. Vanderbilt's charter so that the road might terminate at the Harlem river. He advocated the immediate cutting through of an east side boulevard, and called for all the improvements which had built up and so wonderfully increased the value of property on the west side. Mr. Stern, upon sitting down, was loudly applauded.

WILLIAM H. McCARTHY, the candidate for member of Assembly, then made a brief address, expressing thanks for the nomination.

A motion was made, seconded and adopted appointing a committee of twenty-five to wait on the Street Commissioner and ask for the speedy removal of the obstructions in Madison avenue.

Mr. FOLEY made some closing remarks, in which he said that the association had already accomplished much in securing the extension of the stages and the expectant Madison avenue cars. The members also must make efforts to reduce the levies and assessments and other jobs of politicians. If the present condition of moneyed affairs in the city continued a vigilance committee would stand at the portals of the City Hall.

MISCELLANEOUS MEETINGS.

The Democratic Union Assembly Convention for the Thirteenth district met last evening at No. 202 Eighth avenue, Mr. Thomas G. Harrison in the chair. Mr. Ashael R. Herrick was unanimously nominated for Assembly from that district, after which the meeting adjourned.

A meeting of the friends of Mr. Michael Norton was held last night at Culkin's, No. 12 Greenwich avenue, for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of that gentleman as candidate for Senator from the Fifth Senatorial district. The meeting was organized by calling J. Walker Fowler to the chair, and appointing James Graham secretary. Speeches were made by Messrs. Fowler, McGiveny, James Gibson, James Barker, Alderman Hamson, John Carey, Alderman Culkin, Senator Norton and others. The meeting was largely attended.

At a meeting of members of the Order of Sons of Herrmann, of the Fourth ward, at No. 101 Chatham street, yesterday evening, Mr. F. Green presiding, the following resolutions were adopted:—

That we endorse the nomination of Mr. Jacob Cohen for the office of Supervisor.

That we know the gentleman to be an honorable and trustworthy man, who will use every effort to benefit the workingmen.

That we earnestly recommend to all brethren of this Order to vote for Mr. Jacob Cohen at the coming election.

Mr. Roswell D. Hatch is the Assembly candidate of the democratic electors of the Nineteenth Assembly district opposed to the Tammany ring and Tammany ticket. His name, as connected with the Mozart nomination for the Superior Court, was used and published without his knowledge or consent.

A mass meeting of the workingmen of the Ninth ward was held last evening, at Jackson Hall, corner of Greenwich avenue and Horatio streets, under the auspices of the Jackson Independent Democratic Association. The meeting was largely attended by the voters of the Fifth Assembly district. Addresses were delivered by the President, Mr. B. A. Leonard; Mr. P. Rafferty, Mr. J. Hoey, Mr. James D. McClellan, Mr. Denis Riorden, Captain Walsh, Mr. Rodgers, Mr. Tierney and Mr. McCormick. After resolving to support Mr. Ignatius Flynn for Senator and Captain James D. McClelland for Assembly, in the Ninth Assembly district, the meeting adjourned.

The Constitutional Democracy had an enthusiastic meeting last evening at Dodworth Hall, No. 806 Broadway. Captain Samuel C. Sloan, in the chair, opened the meeting with appropriate remarks, in which he spoke of the unanimous endorsement of Marcus Hanlon by the Fifteenth ward and the Seventh Assemby district for candidate for General Assembly. M. J. McKenna, secretary of the meeting, made an eloquent speech in favor of the nominee, Marcus Hanlon, for Assemblyman of the Seventh district. He was followed by Thomas W. Kearney, whose remarks were to the same effect as above. Marcus Hanlon, candidate for Assemblyman in the Seventh district, was then called forth, also Jacob Cohen, candidate for Supervisor, and after pertinent remarks and much applause the meeting was adjourned.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Tammany democracy of the Nineteenth ward last evening, at the corner of Eighty-second street and Third avenue, for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of Walter Roche for Supervisor. The meeting was called to order by Owen Rooney, who, in a few remarks, stated the object of the meeting. He was followed by Mr. Dennis Burns, who spoke at some length, eulogizing all the Tammany candidates, and Mr. Roche in particular. The following resolution was offered and unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That we, the democracy of the Nineteenth ward, here assembled, do pledge our hearty support to secure the re-election of Mr. Walter Roche, and that we recognize in him a gentleman who has ably discharged the duties of Supervisor with honor to the city and credit to those who sent him there, and we honor him as a man whose political character is without a blemish.

The meeting adjourned with cheers for Tammany and Mr. Roche.

The Citizens' Reform Movement.

A call has been promulgated, signed by Messrs. J. M. Seabury, Henry Harteau, J. Barnard, G. C. Halstead, J. Cosgrove and other well known citizens, addressed to the ward reform associations of Kings county, requesting them to appoint three delegates each, to meet at Phenix Hall this evening for the purpose of forming a "general committee." They propose that this committee shall have full charge of all questions and matters affecting the interests of the city and county at large." This is deemed by the more rational men in the central organization as the only manner of their arriving at anything akin to practical reformatory influence upon the great field of political mismanagement in this county. The reformers are not able, however, to cope successfully with the great power wielded by the dominant party manipulators this year, whatever they may expect in the future.

Supervisor Little Nominated for Mayor.

Alderman Armfield, who was nominated by the Republican City Convention for Mayor, having declined, the delegates reassembled last night, at the rooms of the Republican General Committee in Washington street, and unanimously nominated Supervisor William M. Little.

The Convention then adjourned.

Second Assembly District Republican Convention.

Mr. Albert Ammerman received the nomination last night as the republican candidate for Assembly in the Second district.

MAYOR HALL ON HORACE GREELEY.

Horace Greeley in the editorial columns of the Tribune having published yesterday a ferocious letter addressed "To Samuel J. Tilden, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee," on democratic election frauds in this city, and having included Mayor Hall in his general indictment against the democratic leaders, the Mayor has sent us the following as his reply:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

In a letter signed by Horace Greeley, addressed to S. J. Tilden, and published editorially in the Tribune, I find the following extract:—

On the principle that "the receiver is as bad as the thief," you are as deeply implicated in them to-day as though your name were Tweed, O'Brien, or Oakey Hall.

By the word "them" is meant grammatically "election frauds." Will any one blame me if I "steal" a moment from a "busy life" and indulge in some "recollections," and perhaps a personality or two upon this Tribune gage?

When Horace and I were whigs together, years ago, at caucuses held "to raise money"—generally held as they should be at the houses of rich men, and assisted (as they always ought to be, and to Horace's great delight) by nice suppers—I have heard rougher suggestions about the use of that money from this cleanly shaved Pharisee of a politician (H. G.) than I ever heard at any democratic caucus. Greeley would call the use of it now and then "pipe-laying."

But of late years I note that he calls it, whenever urging radicals towards work, "scrutinizing the registry." His ally, Theodore Allen, is almost nightly meeting with Greeley, and the "Comptroller's" friends may be relied upon to fully interpret Greeley's new phrase. When interpreted it will bear Greeley's repeating.

It is really amusing for some of Greeley's former whig audiences (some now republicans and others democrats) to observe reflected in the Tribune the pious rolling of his eyes over the editorial inkstand whenever he writes about the misdeeds of political adversaries touching poll appliances; for they remember Greeley's former expressions which proved the similarity between railroad building and electioneering. "Some men," quoth Horace, "survey the routes, others do the grading; some bury ties or clamp rails; a few run the locomotive afterwards; but the people who dig the ditches and get blackened at the outset are not remembered." "So," quoth Horace, "we leaders who raise the capital for the ditch diggers don't need to know what kind of soil they put their picks into whenever we finally ride within the cars into the successful depot."

From my knowledge of Horace Greeley (and I have studied him for years as Dr. Carnochan would study a case of morbid anatomy) I share the belief of thousands in his own party that if he wanted to help a railroad grant at Albany, to enjoy the interest of an Irish fund well invested, to share the profits of a Congressional land grant, or to elect himself to a "paying" office (like Comptroller), there is no rough election chance he wouldn't take if he thought his ditch digging could be covered up by the successful running of the cars.

The hypocrisy of this man Greeley approaches sublimity. The late charcoal sketcher Neal (would that he had lived to sketch H. G.'s) wrote a clever essay on the sublimity of impudence. The editor of the Tribune fully answers the descriptions. Some years ago I furnished to all the libraries of the world a pamphlet called "Horace Greeley Decently Dissected," and in its pages I showed how one by one his Tom Pinch adorers fell away from their Pecksniff, and students of morbid anatomy who wish to consult the pamphlet in any of the libraries will find how the sublimity of H. G.'s hypocrisy and impudence was unmistakably demonstrated.

It is possible that his vanity so leads him to believe in himself that he is convinced he possesses the power to shrive himself daily, and thus to realize the Byronic idea of a "deformed transformed." A man who so supremely believes in himself as Greeley does cannot very well believe in any other man nor accept any alien criticism. What, therefore, you will ask, is the use of answering H. G.? Why Why simply to expose him. The prophet Mathias was, years ago, tried for the mere object of exposing his impostures. You must keep on arraigning this "profit"-seeking philosopher at the bar of public opinion for the purpose of saving people from accepting his self-delusions. I will engage to prove Horace Greeley a monomaniac before any commission of lunatico inquirendo, although it was composed of St. Lawrence radicals. His inconsistencies during the war; his vituperations of men of all creeds and politics for a quarter of a century back; his forgiving the enemy of yesterday or abusing the friend of last week whenever he wished thereby to gain a point; his everyday antics before the Fourth avenue barber shop; his smirk of satisfaction when he steps on or off the stage wherever "ladies are present," at a lecture or "fair opening;" his ungrateful treatment of John Schoolcraft, Weed, McElrath and a dozen others who befriended his poverty; his particularity in searching after odd Catharine street costumes, whereby he attracts as much public notice as the corset man on Broadway; his greed for office, whether it be Congress or Register, delegate or Senator, railway director or Comptroller—all of these well known and widely appreciated eccentricities his little circle call them) Greeleyisms can only be explained upon the vanity, monomania hypothesis. "Do talk about me," said the spinster in one of Brougham's comedies. "How beautiful you are," would come a chorus, and then how she simpered and made friends with everybody. "You are an old humbug," would exclaim some courageous young belle. Then the spinster quitted the charmed circle and the looking glass to throw an old shoe at Miss Courageousness, precisely as H. G. quits his immediate circle of toadies to throw one of his old boots at any one who ever dared to expose him. And when a man who is an "old charlatan" undertakes to puff himself as Horace Greeley does in his recent prospectus of his "busy life" book that fills a Tribune column of leaded type it is the duty of everybody to cast his pebble at the philosopher's glass house. I now end this epistle by challenging Horace Greeley, as candidate for Comptroller, to meet me as a political stumper next week in any rural portion of the State he may select and discuss for three hours on a side the issues of the day, and I will promise to please the radicals who might attend even more than I would hope to gratify the democracy.

A. OAKEY HALL.

MURDER TRIAL IN QUEENS COUNTY.

Burke, the Murderer of Cane, Arraigned Before the Court of Oyer and Terminer—The Testimony Yesterday.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon David Burke, the alleged murder of Thomas Cane, during the great petroleum fire at Hunter's Point on the night of the 25th of October, 1868, was arraigned before the Queens County Court of Oyer and Terminer, Justice Barnard presiding. The case was reviewed in the HERALD of Monday and the principal facts connected with it presented, so that recapitulation is unnecessary. Considerable difficulty was experienced in procuring an unprejudiced jury, some having previously formed opinions concerning the case, and others having conscientious scruples against finding a verdict where the penalty was death. Finally the panel was filled and the case proceeded.

District Attorney Downing opened for the people. The first witness called for the prosecution was Dr. Dembler, of Hunter's Point. He said he knew Cane; he attended him on the night of the 25th of October; he had a pistol shot wound about an inch below the left shoulder blade; the ball passed through the seventh rib and lodged in the ninth vertebræ; his injuries were sufficient to cause death; I recognize the bullet which I took from the wound; I also recognize the pistol. The next witness was Richard Cornell, previously in the employ of Rockfellers, Andrews & Co. He said he was at the fire; he helped remove some naphtha; no oil was saved; he saw no shooting going on. James D. Comstock was the next witness called. He was formerly foreman in the oil works of Warren & Bros.; he was present on the night of the fire; saved some naphtha. Thomas Quinn was the next witness examined, and testified substantially as follows:—I reside at Fifty-ninth street, New York; I was at Hunter's Point on the night of the fire; saw the explosion; I saw Burke, the prisoner, go into a shed where the oil was on fire; I told him not to go in there and pushed him out; I met Cane; I saw Burke coming up with a barrel of oil; he said "Young man, give me a lift and I will pay you;" Cane asked him where he was going with the oil; he said "Go to h—ll you son of a b—h;" Cane asked him if he was mad; Burke pulled a pistol and fired a shot into the ground; I told him to put it up, as it was dangerous; he told me to go on with the oil and he would follow me; I heard a second report of the pistol and went back; I saw Cane lying in the street; I asked him who shot him; Burke was standing about ten feet from him; Cane pointed to Burke and intimated that he (Burke) had shot him; I caught hold of the prisoner and a scuffle ensued; I knocked him down and called for some one to take the revolver from him; he was taken to the station house; Mrs. Cane was there at the time. Edward Brown, of Hunter's Point, testified that Cane had told him that he had been shot by a man with a soldier's cap on; Burke wore a navy cap on the night of the murder. The case will be continued to-day, and probably will be concluded. The defence will be conducted by John H. Anthon.

PERE HYACINTHE.

Movements of the Great Carmelite Monk Yesterday—He is Photographed—Interview of a Canadian Priest With the Pere—Sectarian Views of the Monk's Position.

Father Hyacinthe yesterday managed to escape the importunities of the curious and the impertinence of the Bohemian tribe by leaving the hotel at an early hour of the morning and taking a walk in company with his young interpreter. About noon he proceeded to Brady's gallery, where he had a fine imperial photograph taken. When the picture was being taken he was dressed in a plain suit of black, and held in his hand the "Breviary," which seems to be his vade mecum wherever he goes. The Boston delegation did not call upon him during the day, probably being aware of his absence from the hotel.

After having been shown the proof of the photograph, with which he expressed himself satisfied, he proceeded to Brooklyn, where he remained with a gentleman whom he had formerly known in Paris, and returned to the hotel at four o'clock.

Several cards were on his table, but he did not deign to answer any one of them until his eye had rested on a small slip of crumpled paper on which a name was hastily scrawled. He picked it up, and, on reading the superscription, ordered the gentleman who had sent it up to be shown to his room at once.

Who this honored individual was the good Father refused to make known, but it was ascertained that he was a priest who had come all the way from Montreal expressly to see Father Hyacinthe.

He remained closeted in the room with the monk for over an hour, but although many stories were afloat in the hotel as to what the object of his visit was, nothing definite was learned on the subject. Some affected to believe that the visitor came to tell the Carmelite that the French priests in Canada approved of his course and would stand by him, while others as stoutly asserted that he must have come as an exhorter to deter Father Hyacinthe from the way he had laid down for his future conduct and action.

In the afternoon one of the Boston delegation had a long interview with him, which lasted almost two hours. What was really said at the meeting of the clergymen is a mystery, although Father Hyacinthe, while refusing to give any information on the subject of its details, gave his friends to understand that he declined all invitations of a public reception of any kind.

He paid a visit to Mr. Darling, one of the proprietors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, at his residence in Twenty-third street, in the evening, and retired about ten o'clock.

THE INDIFFERENCE OF THE CATHOLICS WITH REGARD TO THE PERE.

The utter indifference of the Catholics to the reverend gentleman's presence in the city is one of the most remarkable features of his visit. It has become quite a subject of remark among the guests and the hundreds who make it a point to drop into the vestibule of the hotel every evening with the hope of catching a glimpse of the distinguished clergyman. It was generally supposed when the intelligence of his departure for this country was announced that his arrival here would create considerable of a stir among them; but so far there has been no visible sign that they care a pin's point about him or his movements one way or the other. Even the priests, who, people believed, would give their congregations a piece of their mind on the subject of the stranger at some one of the daily morning services, have, with one or two exceptions, manifested no concern in the matter, and are apparently as indifferent to Father Hyacinthe's "position" as though there were no such person in existence.

WHAT A CATHOLIC PRIEST THINKS OF HIM.

One of the exceptions to this general rule, however, happens to be one of the best known and one of the most eloquent preachers in this city, and in commenting yesterday upon the fuss that was being made over Father Hyacinthe he said:—"I have been in France and I know that an eloquent preacher there often has his head turned by the popularity which he wins. He is flattered and fêted and glorified, and everybody tries to make him believe that he is the greatest orator that ever breathed the breath of life, and all that sort of thing. Now, a preacher is as much a human being as any other man, and is it surprising that once in a while we witness the sad spectacle of a good man rising so high in the popular esteem that he becomes dizzy with his own greatness and falls to the earth?"

FATHER HYACINTHE SINCERE, BUT VAIN.

"Do you," inquired the gentleman to whom these remarks were addressed, "do you intend to say that Father Hyacinthe is one of that class?"

"I do. I honestly believe that he is sincere, that he means well; in fact, that he is a good Catholic at heart and desires all good to the Church, at the same time that he does not even dream of joining the Protestants. But it is my conviction that his popularity as a preacher, the universal esteem in which he was held in Paris, the attentions and honors that were paid to him proved too much for his vanity. He became strong in the belief that what everybody said of him was true; that he was great; that he knew as much as any other reasonable man could know, and was, therefore, as good a judge of his own acts as anybody else could be. This being so it was quite consistent for him to refuse obedience to his superior when he was requested to do a certain thing; for wasn't he Père Hyacinthe, and how could Brother Dominick know better than he what was right or what was wrong?"

WHAT HE WAS FORBIDDEN TO DO.

"And allow me here to remark that I do not think that the people in this country are well acquainted with the real merits of the difficulty which has caused Father Hyacinthe to give up his monastery. His superior did not take exceptions to his sermons delivered in the church, but he forbade him to preach before political or semi-political bodies on subjects which had more regard to outside questions than the subject of religion itself. Do you remember the outcry that some of the New York papers made against certain clergymen in this city who made it a practice during the war to drag political subjects into their so-called sermons? Well, supposing a Catholic priest here to-day should 'talk politics' during his sermon, and his bishop should tell him to confine himself to his legitimate sphere and he should refuse to obey. What then? Would he not have broken his vows of obedience to his lawfully constituted superior, and wouldn't every good Catholic applaud the bishop for meting out a severe sentence to the guilty one? The question of disobedience is the one which is to be considered in Father Hyacinthe's case, and not whether he regards the spirit of the nineteenth century in a different light from his colleagues."

HE WILL NOT BE EXCOMMUNICATED FOR WHAT HE HAS DONE.

"Do you not think his inveighing against the expected action of the Ecumenical Council in regard to certain matters will be looked upon as an act deserving excommunication?"

"I certainly do not. You or I or anybody who chooses can, with perfect propriety, discuss the questions which we believe are to come up before the Council, and find fault with them if we choose; that does not make us criminal. We would be simply finding fault with the Council's deciding a certain way before we know how it will decide. Did you hear Archbishop McCloskey's address in the Cathedral to his flock the Sunday before he left for Europe? What did he say about all the talk of what the Council was going to do? He said that it was all conjecture and that even he himself did not know what it would do. Isn't it very foolish, therefore, for Father Hyacinthe or anybody else to waste so much breath in condemning a something that is not yet in existence?"

HE WILL BE EXCOMMUNICATED IF HE OPPOSES THE COUNCIL'S DECISION.

"But, supposing," remarked the priest's interlocutor, "supposing Father Hyacinthe should not like the decisions of the Council when they shall have been made valid by due and regular canonical process, and should continue to refuse obedience to them?"

"In that case, sir, he would deserve excommunication, as would any Catholic who would presume to declare not worthy of belief any article which the assembled wisdom and piety of the Church should have declared an article of faith; and just so sure as Father Hyacinthe does this thing he will be excommunicated."

WHILE THERE'S LIFE THERE'S HOPE.

I trust, however, that he will not be so rash as to incur such an awful penalty. In doing what he has done he has been very imprudent, to say the least, and for him to stand against the decisions of the Council when made will be placing himself outside the pale of the Church entirely."

The name of the reverend gentleman with whom the above conversation was held cannot be given, owing to the fact that he was not aware, when he engaged in it, that the "talk" was intended for publication.

DEPARTURE OF CATHOLIC BISHOPS FOR ROME.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20, 1869.

A large crowd of persons thronged the wharves of the steamship company this afternoon to witness the departure of the Catholic bishops who left for Rome. Archbishop Spaulding was escorted from his residence to the steamer by a large procession, and two large steamers, densely crowded, escorted the Bremen steamer down the river to the bay. The following are among her passengers:—Most Rev. Martin J. Spaulding, Archbishop of Baltimore; Bishops Wood, of Philadelphia; McGill, of Richmond; Domenere, of Pittsburg; Mullin, of Erie; James Gibbons, Vicar Apostolic of North Carolina; James M. O'Gorman, Vicar Apostolic of Nebraska; Rev. Charles O'Connor, Vice Rector of the American College at Rome, and several priests, together with Messrs. Benjamin Kelley, and Corrigan, students from the college at Rome.

TORONTO, Oct. 20, 1869.

Bishop Lynch left to-day for Rome, to attend the Ecumenical Council. Previous to his departure he was presented with several complimentary addresses and a purse containing $2,000.

THE POSITION OF LOPEZ.

THE PARAGUAYAN WAR.

Prospects of the War—Enormous Expenses—Lopez and His Position—Provision Made for His Retreat—The Provisional Government and Its Embarrassments.

[From the Anglo-Brazilian Times, Sept. 23.]

The termination of the war still appears as far off as ever, Lopez having escaped, with men and cannon, to the mountains, where, it is said by well informed persons, he can command abundance of food, and is likely to be materially aided by the Indians, for whose organization he three months ago made provision.

Thus the heavy expenses of this never-ending war must still go on, and will probably increase with the carrying on of operations 150 miles inland, amid the great Cordilleras of Paraguay; for if the Comte d'Eu with all his energy, found it a most arduous task, though aided by the railway, to supply his troops before Ascurra, what difficulties must he not encounter in the new campaign!

The provisional government also brings with it a heavy cost, and every man, woman and child of the pauperized and starving refugees who have collected around the capital has to be supported at the allied cost, for other resource there is none, no industry existing, and no crops being possible for many months. As over 100,000 such helpless persons threw themselves, in August alone, according to official statements, upon the allied humanity, about $10,000 a day has to be distributed in rations, and thus the monthly war expenditure of Brazil has reached £1,500,000.

How this great outlay is to be met no one can say. The treasury has long been in a chronic state of exhaustion, and for some time all the gold and exchange taken by the government has been purchased with treasury bills, until the mass of these in circulation has already risen to the enormous sum of $88,000,000.

No one, it is said, views the financial difficulties of the country with more alarm than the Minister of Finance himself, who, the tears standing in his eyes, laments among his colleagues the impossibility of amelioration while this exhaustive war continues. And, we may ask, what is to be the end if Lopez is to be driven, each time at the cost of millions, from each of the multitude of mountain and forest dens the nature of the country and the apparently inexhaustible devotion of the people facilitate to him?

Even had the Minister of Finance only to deal with the closing of the accounts of a terminated war he might well shrink from the herculean task; what then is to be the case if this spending of four times the annual revenue is still to go on for unprofitable, nay ruinous warfare?

The Abandonment of the Pursuit of Lopez—He is Let Alone—Number of Followers Around Him.

[From the Anglo-Brazilian Times, Sept. 23.]

From the seat of war we learn of no further engagement since that of the 21st of August, when the Argentines cut up a force of 400 Paraguayans twenty miles beyond Caraguatay. After this action the pursuit of Lopez's forces was abandoned in consequence of the horses being exhausted in traversing the flooded and muddy terrain, and of the troops being without food, and the different army corps reunited at Caraguatay to recruit.

As Lopez had succeeded in escaping with forces variously estimated at from 2,000 to 5,000 men and ten to twenty cannon, and was believed to have gone northward to the department of Izidro, in which cattle are still abundant, and the Indians are supposed to be friendly to him, a corps was about to be sent to Rosario to act from that place, and another corps was going to Villa Rica.

Some of the authorities have sent in their adhesion to the provisional government, among whom, it is reported, the Villa Rica ones are numbered, and over 100,000 Paraguayans, chiefly women, children and old men, have come in. Unfortunately, they being utterly destitute and the provisional government being entirely without means, they have to be supported by the allies.

URUGUAY.

Arrival of Refugees from the Seat of War—Their Condition—Business Affairs—Markets.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 14, 1869.

The Gualeguay arrived on Sunday evening, bringing a number of wounded from Paraguay, who arrived in the most pitiable condition. We have nothing later from the seat of war, and the allies seem to have stopped short in their pursuit of Lopez. The State of Asuncion is quite shocking for want of sanitary measures. We hear news of Lopez having shot the Swedish savant Everhard Monck, without any cause assigned.

In Buenos Ayres every one is preparing for the census, which is to begin to-morrow, the day being for that day declared a public holiday.

Money rules at 8 to 12 per cent. Exchange on England is weaker and may be quoted at 48s. 7d. National bonds look upward, as many people are buying now to sell after the dividend of 30th instant. Argentine Bank shares rose to 7 premium, but there was a sale to-day of 50 shares at 6. There are no transactions in gas or bolsa shares, but we note a sale of $5,000 of the roads and bridges stock at 62½. Dry goods merchants note a remarkable improvement and much activity, owing to the number of buyers from the upper provinces. In produce there is much demand for sheepskins. The Americans now buy as well as the French, and good skins are worth up to $150 per dozen. The price of fat sheep is also much advanced. Some animals, preserved whole and packed in ice, will be sent to England per next steamer for London, on the 17th inst. We have had heavy rains, which will be of great benefit to the camps.

The most important news of a commercial character is the arrangement concluded between Baron Maua and the Montevidean government. The government has assumed the whole Maua currency in circulation, amounting to $5,600,000, receiving in payment of same an equivalent amount of bonds and other securities. The balance of assets coming to the bank after this arrangement amounted to nearly nine millions. So satisfactory a result surprised everybody. The government ordering the burning of all the securities given out by Maua has caused some uneasiness among the commercial public. It is said the Baron will wind up the Montevidean house and fix his headquarters in Buenos Ayres.

THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

Industrial Improvements—The Veto Power and How Interpreted—Affairs in the Interior—Big Colonization Scheme—Information About Lopez—News from Uruguay.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 12, 1869.

The question as to whether the national or provincial government was to have the honor of constructing a port for Buenos Ayres was finally settled in the Provincial House of Representatives, on the 3d inst. After some discussion the project was carried by 21 votes against 5, which authorizes the executive power to construct docks, warehouses and such works as may be deemed necessary for bettering the import and export trades in our port. The executive power is also authorized to appropriate for this object the funds and resources of the province. The works are to be commenced within twelve months. The settlement of this project has given general satisfaction. As things now stand, leaving out of consideration the dangers which vessels run in the outer roads, it costs more to load or unload a cargo than its carriage to or from England.

On the same day as the port project was settled a great sensation was created by the message of the President vetoing the bill on intervention. The conduct of the President in this affair, as well as in many others, by the by, is criticised most severely by the opposition papers. The independent way of thinking and acting which Sarmiento learned during his stay in the United States is quite at variance with all South American notions of good government. So that the vetoing of a bill passed by Congress and other similar actions of President Sarmiento, which appear to us most reasonable and constitutional, are explained by them as preliminaries towards gaining absolute power. The Republica, which is the leading opposition paper here, openly accuses Sarmiento in nearly every issue of aiming at that power which so many despots have enjoyed in this country, and calls upon all good citizens to stand against it now instead of leaving it till it is too late. But the worst of it is that all good citizens are so contented with the government of "The Schoolmaster," and so confiding in his patriotism and nobleness, that they don't care to listen to the Republica's call to arms.

The national executive power has recently promulgated the law of Congress, declaring all the materials introduced to this country for the construction of railways, tramways, &c., free from all import duties. A letter of General Taboada, published in the Eco of Cordoba, would lead us to infer that he is not likely to create any more disturbances. This triumph of Sarmiento over one of the most powerful chiefs of the provinces shows federalism is a reality in the republic, and not only a sham, as before; and that the time has now passed for our provincial governors to lay siege to our capital on any pretext that might have suggested itself to them. The curse of all the South American republics has been this petty chieftainship and their remarkable instinct for making war one upon the other, just as we see it in Mexico at present. And if we have at last succeeded in throwing this curse off from our fair country we may look on to a prosperity unequalled even in the history of the United States.

A most extensive scheme of colonization was lately presented to Congress by Messrs. B. Ruirich and J. Ballot Gumay. These gentlemen engage to introduce, at their own expense, 20,000 families of agriculturists, each family averaging five persons, in the course of eight years, and settle them in the Gran Chaco. Each family on its arrival will be supplied with materials for constructing a house, farming implements, seed, four bullocks, two cows and provisions for a year; these things to be advanced to the colonists as loans payable within five years. The families will establish themselves on an area of 600 square leagues, having for its limits the northern extremity of Santa Fé as far as the Rio Vermejo. In return for the advantages which will accrue to the republic from the success of this enterprise the undertakers ask of the government 200 square leagues of the above mentioned 600, and a payment of seventy-five dollars for each family, which must be paid after the arrival of each immigrant ship. And, in order to do away with any misapprehension as to the seriousness of their proposal, they offer to deposit a guarantee of $50,000 in public funds. Very little is actually known of the Gran Chaco, more than that it is a vast tract of land, well covered with woods. Many say that it also contains an abundance of mineral wealth. Should this project succeed it will create a new province and add immensely to the wealth of the nation.

The news from Paraguay that has reached here since the departure of the last packet is not of much importance. A letter, dated Asuncion, August 28, gives an account of a small skirmish which took place between the allies and the rear guard of Lopez's retreating columns, in which the allies succeeded in killing to a man a small force of Paraguayans which had charge of some wagons loaded with ammunition and Madame Lynch's baggage. The commanding officer was Colonel Thompson, who alone succeeded in escaping to the neighboring woods; but was obliged by hunger to deliver himself up to the Brazilians. Lopez has made his escape to the Sierra Aldama, where he is said to be again fortifying himself. His true strength and resources, of course, are not known. The allies say he has no more than 2,000 men, but that these are picked, being "The President's Life Guard." He has also fifteen field pieces with a good supply of ammunition.

The allies have come to a standstill at Caraguatay, which is some 100 miles from Asuncion, quite unable to proceed any further, owing to the bogs and morasses on the way. Nevertheless Count d'Eu seems very desirous to close the campaign as soon as possible. He has sent down here for more horses in order to make sure of his game.

The private letters which come down from Paraguay give the saddest pictures imaginable of the misery of those who have been confined in the mountains by Lopez, who are seen by the thousands, emaciated and naked, coming from their mountain prisons in search of something to sustain life. But what particularly strikes us in the sad picture is the description of the prisoners which were lately taken by the allies. The greater part of them are mere boys, many not being over eight years of age. And when we are told that these mere children are covered with wounds, which they received while fighting like young tigers against the enemies of their country, we cannot but reflect upon the awful power which Lopez had and has still over his people.

The site for the Cordova Exhibition has been selected, and the plan of the building drawn up by Major Rickard, had been approved. The materials will be exported from the States. The time for its opening has been finally fixed for November, 1870. The national government, by decree of the 25th of August, has ratified the regulations drawn up by the committee of directors, all particulars concerning which may be had by consulting Dr. Don Manuel Garcia, the Argentine Minister at Washington.

The chief news from the neighboring republic of Uraguay is the settlement of the money question between Baron Mauá and the government, the basis of which are that the Mauá Bank pay the government in public funds valued at the price of amortization. The total emission to be redeemed is $5,000,000, which will leave about $900,000 in securities to be returned to the bank by the government.

There has been no improvement in trade here since the departure of the last mail. Imports continue dull and freights unchanged. The money market is also about the same. Good paper can easily be discounted at from eight to twelve per cent. The late speculations in the bond market have quieted down, but the public securities remain steady at about 61½ a 62.

The business of mutton tallow is increasing so rapidly as to indicate that the estancieros intend to melt down nearly all their sheep. The sales for the fortnight exceed 5,000 pipes, and hundreds will be killing much more largely in a month or two. Sheep skins are also rising, as the Americans have lately become buyers.

ST. DOMINGO.

Feeling Regarding the United States—The Question of Annexation—An Appeal.

ST. DOMINGO, Oct. 8, 1869.

President Grant and the NEW YORK HERALD have each had their special agent in this field expressly to study and learn for the benefit of their respective constituents the fitness of this island for the manifest destiny of annexation. The HERALD is likely to come out first in this race for information, for it has had a triple set of agents on its Antilles staff, and the errors or losses of any one of the members will surely be corrected on a general comparing of notes.

The summary of Dominican ripeness for annexation can be given in these words, "ready and eager;" but behind this all but universal desire to enter the Union lingers a painful fear that Congress might refuse to receive the State of St. Domingo. If the Dominicans should have presented their country at the door only to be refused admission the popular reaction against those who had promoted the proffer would be tremendous. Baez and his party would be swept out of power, and the black majority would be strongly tempted to leave behind them their cherished landmark of "equality of races before the law" and join the Cacos of Hayti in asserting that it belongs to the negroes alone to govern this island. That feeling is dying out everywhere and nothing could rekindle this old antagonism of race except the misfortune of being ignominiously rejected after having been persuaded to solicit admission into the Union. This view of our position seems entirely ignored in the United States. The press cannot understand and accept this true and simple explanation of the reticence of Baez and his Cabinet on the question of annexation; but it is the true and only obstacle. The agents of the HERALD have traversed the island from end to end and this fact met them everywhere. High and low, black and white made no secret of their desire for annexation; but one and all said the invitation must come from the United States.

If Congress and the Washington Cabinet desire this island they have but to say so, and it is theirs on their own terms. Congress has but to pass an act authorizing the President to receive and protect the State of St. Domingo whenever a majority of two-thirds of her adult population shall declare, by public and open vote, the desire of the Dominicans to be so received, and shall present a State constitution in accordance with the constitution of the United States, and the thing is done. This is the sure and simple way. It turns the dark clouds of possible rejection into the sunshine of perfect confidence. The Union is strong and can afford to be generous. The world understands the position and national status of the Washington Cabinet, and graciousness will become its strength better than pride. The strong brother, conscious of the power of his vigorous manhood, should not say to his infant sister:—"There is a priceless treasure on that surf-bound rock of the ocean. I cannot take the labor and risk of going for it. I am so rich and strong that I can live very well without it; but you, my little sister, need it very much. Throw yourself, therefore, in the breakers, and if you bring it to me I will give you a share of it." The poor little sister hesitates and lovingly appeals to the generosity of her strong elder brother. "We are the children of one mother, only I am yet a feeble child and you have grown to be a giant, yet our common mother, pure and gentle Freedom, touched both our infant brows with a like unction of baptism—the blood of our fathers; blood freely given that you and I, the strong giant and his feeble sister, might not wear the chains of slavery; that we and our children's children might go on ennobling our stature and ever making broader and more beautiful our mother's house, your American system and mine also. Give me your hand, therefore, my brother; lend me your brave arm and generous will, and let us win this island treasure in union, and once safely within the stronghold of the American system you shall dispose of it at your own will."

The inexperienced child would be overwhelmed and lost in this surf, which is but a pleasant excitement to the vigorous and practised strength of her powerful brother; but will that giant brother, who is "rich enough without it," put out his hand to bring the island treasure into a safe haven? Or will he insist that the weak, inexpert sister shall brave all the perils of bringing it to him, and then meet, perhaps, the fatal humiliation of being told the gift is not wanted, and that closer family ties will not be admitted?

We know here that Samaná was twice refused at Washington, that Cuba has had the rivets of her chains kept firm in Spanish keeping for twenty years by United States assistance; that even royal Denmark could not get the St. Thomas sale ratified, and that imperial Russia had to lavish golden persuasions to effect her cession of Alaska binding. How, then, can St. Domingo, who has no royal or imperial godfathers to protect her, who must rely entirely and implicitly upon the will of a yet silent Congress, be sure that she will not be abandoned in the breakers in her hour of supreme need?

There is but one answer; there can be but one remedy. The generosity of the union must be in proportion to its power. It must say, "Fear not, my little sister, you are ours and we will protect you. Here is your place by the side of your elder sisters, come and take it." Let Congress say that word, and without hesitation and without conditions St. Domingo will instantly, joyfully raise the flag and set a bright sentinel star in the constellation of the United States.

CENTRAL ASIA.

The Russian Advance—Native Princes in Prison—Fighting in Bokhara.

CALCUTTA, India, August 30, 1869.

The news of the latest discussion in the British Parliament about the Russian advance in Central Asia towards India has roused the Indian press from one end of the country to the other for a general onslaught upon the unhappy orators who took part in the debate. The worst of the matter is that the suggestion of Mr. Grant Duff that the Ameer of Afghanistan "has two hands," implying that, while accepting a subsidy from the Indian government, he takes bribes also from the Russians, will be certainly reported to the accused himself, and will probably result in his acting as Mr. Duff has supposed he would. The Indian government have already given him sixty lacs of rupees ($300,000), and the dissensions in his kingdom will probably now afford him an excuse for demanding more.

The two younger brothers of Ismail Khan have arrived at Lahore, and are confined in the fort. They are described as being mere children, and the government will have to appoint some one to carry on their education.

Sirdar Ismail Khan himself has not been heard of since his escape, but he is believed to be in hiding somewhere between Khorrum and Cabul. He will probably be heard from only too soon.

The Shah of Persia has agreed to receive Sirdar Ishank Khan on condition that he makes no further attempt against the Ameer.

In Bokhara there has again been fighting between the King and his son, the Ameer Toorajan, at Charjoce; but the King has for once been victorious. His son is followed by all the fanatical inhabitants of the cities, and especially of Bokhara itself, and his avowed object is to drive the Russians from every corner of the country and to prevent the King having any dealings with them, diplomatically or otherwise. In the last martial dispute between the King and his son the former had to call in the Russians to protect him, and it is not impossible that he may ultimately have to do so again. The country people are reported to care little whether they are governed by the Russians or a king under Russian influence, or by the Ameer; they are only anxious for quiet and order.

THE AMERICAN BIBLE UNION.

Twentieth Anniversary—Interesting Proceedings.

The American Bible Union, an incorporated association, organized to effect a reform in the faulty translation of the Holy Scriptures, and to aid in the dissemination of the Bible throughout the world, held the first meeting of its twentieth annual session yesterday and last evening in the Mariners' Temple Baptist church, corner of Henry and Oliver streets.

The morning session was called to order at half-past ten o'clock, and in the absence of the president, Dr. Armitage, the chair was occupied by Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, the vice president. After the usual devotional exercises and the approval of the report of the Committee on Order of Business the election of officers for the ensuing year was proceeded with, which resulted in the re-election of the present board, consisting of Rev. T. Armitage, D. D., President; Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, Vice President; Eleazer Parmly, Treasurer; H. F. Smith, Secretary, and J. T. Smith, Auditor.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. W. H. WYCKOFF to amend the constitution by making the Executive Committee consist of forty-two instead of twenty-seven members, for the purpose of adding lay members, instead of confining the committee exclusively to the clergy. After some debate the amendment was adopted.

The report of the Treasurer, Mr. G. B. Brass, was read, and showed disbursements to the extent of $61,715, and receipts amounting to $58,368. Among the leading expenses the item of officers' salaries reached $5,589; salaries and expenses of agents, $9,727; the Bible House account, $6,419; grants and donations, $9,134; revision of English Scriptures, $7,691, and translation of Chinese Scriptures $2,059. Among the receipts were a bequest from the late Harvey Edwards, of Fayetteville, N. Y., of $400, and one-half of their respective estates, upon the deaths of their widows, from John Naylor, of Halifax, N. S.; Moses Allen, of Northville, Mich., and W.E. McIntosh, of Philadelphia.

The following resolution was then offered by W. H. WYCKOFF, and adopted:—

> Resolved, That a secretary for the American Bible Union be appointed at the South, to locate in a place to be hereafter named, as previous to the war there had been one, and it is deemed advantageous to the Union that a connection with the South be kept up.

Rev. Dr. Yeamans was elected for the office thus created.

The Secretary's report was read, reviewing the objects of the Union and its operations for the past year. The report quoted a statement of Dean Alford, of the English Church, that more than a thousand faulty translations were to be found in the Epistles alone and that the entire New Testament abounded with errors and imperfect renderings. Between 1535 and 1611 there had been seven translations or revisions of the English Bible, whereas since the latter date no revision has been made. The Union has recently issued a pamphlet entitled "Revision of the English Scriptures." A Chinese press has been established in San Francisco for biblical purposes, Bible primers have been largely circulated through the South, the Spanish Testament is receiving a large circulation in Spain, the Book of Exodus has been revised by Dr. Harckott, and the books of Judges and Ruth have been revised by Dr. Bliss. The retranslation of the Psalms is being pressed forward, and rapid progress is making in the Chinese translations of the New Testament.

This report concluded the business of the day. In the evening, after the customary devotional exercises, a number of interesting addresses were delivered. The business session of the Union will be resumed this morning at ten o'clock.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Oct. 12.]

A terrible tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon in the southwestern part of the city, by which one life has already been sacrificed and another undoubtedly will be before the lapse of many hours. The scene of the affair was the residence of Francis Boraheimer, at Page and Webster streets. A young girl named Anna Wagner has resided with the family for some time. A man named Anthony Knette has also been employed by Mr. Boraheimer, in helping to take care of and hold possession of the lands occupied by him. Knette, it appears, formed an attachment for Miss Wagner some time ago, and desired to marry her. His feelings were not reciprocated and his offer was rejected. Miss Wagner's time with the family would have expired to-day, and she expected to have returned this morning to her father and sisters, who live on Garden street, between Sixth and Seventh, below Harrison. Her mother is dead. Yesterday she and Miss Boraheimer came to the city together and returned between three and four o'clock. During their absence, as was afterwards ascertained, Knette went to a trunk belonging to Mr. Boraheimer and took from it a loaded revolver. At about four o'clock Miss Wagner commenced packing up her clothing. Knette sat for a time on a pile of lumber near the house. He afterwards stepped to the door and called Miss Wagner out, telling her he wished to speak to her. Soon afterward Mrs. Boraheimer heard a noise, and on looking out saw Knette with a pistol in one hand while he had hold of the girl with the other. She said to the girl, "Don't be frightened, Anna; he won't shoot." Knette, on hearing this, turned, in a wild manner, toward Mrs. Boraheimer, and with coarse language threatened injury to her. Anna by this time relieved herself and started to run toward a neighboring house, but Knette quickly followed her and fired, and on nearly overtaking her fired three shots, each one of which took effect on the head. Two of the shots entered the left side of the head, back of the ear, and the left cheek. Two of the balls passed through the head. The unfortunate girl did not fall until after the third shot was fired. Knette, on seeing that his fiendish purpose was accomplished, placed the pistol to his head and shot himself in the forehead. Information was soon sent to the Coroner's office that the shooting had taken place and that both parties were dead. On the arrival of the men from the Coroner's office it was found that both were living. Knette was sent to the County Hospital. Miss Wagner lingered until about a quarter before eight o'clock, when she expired. It is said that Knette had, in the presence of others, threatened revenge some time ago, when Miss Wagner first refused to marry him. At a late hour last night Knette was still living, but his recovery was regarded as impossible.

[From the San Francisco Call, Oct. 12.]

Antone R. Knette, the murderer, and probably suicide, is a native of Boston, Mass., aged about thirty-five years, and by occupation a laborer. Anna Wagner, his victim, is a native of Williamsburg, N. Y., seventeen years of age, and of rather prepossessing appearance. The doctor made an examination and discovered that Miss Wagner had been wounded in the head on the left side, just above the ear, the ball entering a little behind her ear, and escaping near the temple. She had received another wound under the chin, the ball ranging upward. At six o'clock in the evening, when our reporter left, the young girl's brain was slowly oozing from the wounds in the left side of her head, and it was not expected that she would live through the night. Knette was found to have shot himself near the forehead. The ball passed through the cerebrum, inflicting a wound that will prove fatal. When Knette was picked up, by his side was found the weapon—a silver-mounted Colt's five-shooter—with which he had done the bloody work.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad vs. Harris, Error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia—Aldrich et al. vs. The Ætna Insurance Company, Error to the New York Court of Appeals.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1869.

No. 164.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company vs. Ellen T. Harris, Administratrix, &c.—This is a writ of error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. In July, 1865, John O. Harris, the intestate of the defendant in error, brought suit in the Supreme Court of the District against the railroad company to recover damages for injuries sustained by him in consequence of a collision between two trains of the road, on one of which he was a passenger, near Mannington, West Va., in October, 1864. The company pleaded to the jurisdiction of the court, claiming not to be liable to suit in the District and demurred to the plaintiff's replication to the plea. The demurrer was sustained at special term, but upon appeal to the general term the judgment was reversed and the company were directed to answer, which they did, pleading the general issue. The trial resulted in favor of Harris for the sum of $882 50. Appeal was again taken to the general term of the court, where the judgment was affirmed. The present writ of error was then sued out, the company contending that the legal entity or person, which exists by force of law, can have no existence beyond the limit of the State or sovereignty which brings it into life and endues it with its facilities and powers. And it is submitted that if a corporation can have no legal existence out of the boundaries of the sovereignty by which it is created and must dwell in the place of its creation, then their corporation cannot by possibility be an inhabitant of this District unless it can be shown that it has been incorporated by a law of Congress operating within the District. The only relation sustained to the District by the company is such as certain acts of Congress have permitted, those acts reciting the fact that the corporation was created by the Legislature of Maryland. It is insisted that it is not enough that the corporation shall be able to hold property in the District and control it by the acts of an agent, nor is it enough that it shall possess certain privileges and powers within the District which it may exercise by an agent. All this may be done as well on the theory that it is a non-resident as upon the theory that it is a resident. The stockholders and president and directors of the corporation cannot hold a corporate meeting outside the State of Maryland; and it is impossible that a corporation can be found within the District which is not, as such, capable in law of holding within the District a meeting of its officers and corporators. The defendant in error argues that under the judiciary act of 1789 the court of the District has cognizance of all cases, in law and equity, between parties, both or either of which shall be resident or found within it. The word "person" includes a corporation, an artificial person, such as the company in this case. The language of the charter of the company is recited to show that the company was a resident corporation, and found within the District at the time of the service of process. The charter granted by Maryland authorizes the construction of a road having two termini outside the boundaries of the State and beyond its jurisdiction. In execution of a general intention the company, immediately after obtaining their charter, applied to Congress and to the State of Virginia for authority to carry into effect the original purpose—the extension of the road within their separate jurisdictions. The acts of Congress and the statutes of Virginia show their assent, and the corporation accepted the privilege granted. The corporation within this District is in the exercise of a franchise by the assent of the sovereign power; a franchise which could exist if the charter of the company should be repealed by the State of Maryland; a franchise of which the sovereign power of that district cannot deprive it, unless by quo warranto or scire facias. The company may sue here by equity. It may sue here as a habitat. It may exercise here all the powers, franchises and privileges that it may within the State of Maryland. Being a habitat the company is estopped from denying its actual presence as an ideal person. The corporate powers conferred by the act of Congress by implication necessarily confer the correlative rights of suing and being sued. If it has the right to hold property, the right of defending and protecting its property by suit is but an incident to the right of ownership. The case is heard here on the question of jurisdiction reserved by an exception taken by the company to the ruling below. The answer, on the merits, was that the injuries to the plaintiff were not in consequence of any want of care or skill on the part of the road, its officers, agents or employes, but were owing to an inevitable accident, caused by the extraordinary pressure of government business upon the road in order to supply General Sheridan with requisite troops, munitions and materials of war in order to enable him to carry on what was known as his Valley campaign in the fall of 1864. Messrs. Bradley and Buchanan for plaintiff in error; T. J. D. Fuller and W. D. Davidge for defendant in error.

No. 165.—George Moltingly vs. John W. Nye, John C. Harkness and Others.—This is another appeal from the Supreme Court of the District. The appeal grows out of a bill in chancery filed by the appellant as a judgment creditor of Nye, one of the defendants, to declare fraudulent and void a voluntary conveyance made by Nye to Harkness, a trustee for the benefit of Nye's wife and children, who are made defendants, while he was largely indebted at the time to complainant. The complainant and defendant had many transactions for the loan of money to the defendant, and to secure the payment of which the defendant made several assignments of various claims he had against Congress for services performed, the defendant contending that those assignments were made in payment and satisfaction of the indebtedness, and the complainant denying it. A further defence of usury to the original indebtedness was set up in answer. Judgment below was for the defendants. It is insisted here that the defence of usury is purely personal and is not available to persons occupying the position of bona fide purchasers, for value, nor to heirs, sureties, devisees and representatives. The case upon the other points turns upon questions of fact, to be decided by the evidence in the case. W. S. Cox and S. L. Phillips for appellant, Joseph H. Bradley for appellee.

No. 159.—William Aldrich et al. vs. the Etna Insurance Company. Error to the New York Court of Appeals.—The plaintiffs in error in February, 1856, conveyed to one Jacobs the whole of the schooner Stella, and he, on the same day, executed a mortgage on her to secure part of the purchase money. She was, at the time of the mortgage, and before, a regularly enrolled and licensed vessel, and was at the same time, and up to the time of commencement of suit, engaged in business and commerce between ports and places in different States and Territories of the United States, upon the Western lakes and waters connecting them. At the date of the mortgage the schooner was lying in port, at Chicago, where her owner resided. On the 1st of March, 1856, she was insured by the defendant in error, at the request of Jacobs, and his promissory note was taken for the premium; and on the 22d of March permission was given to the assured to assign to the plaintiffs in error the policy of insurance, and it was endorsed on the policy that the assignment was made to secure, in case of loss of the schooner by any of the perils insured, the amount of the mortgage. In December of the same year the schooner, being at the port of Buffalo, was attached at the suit of the defendant in error as the property of Jacobs, a non-resident, to recover the amount of the premium note made for the insurance. Upon this statement of facts the Insurace Company claimed that the mortgage of the plaintiffs in error could not be set up as against the attachment, but was void as against it, and that they were entitled to judgment, declaring the lien of the attachment to be paramount to that of the mortgage; and upon the facts as stated an amicable suit was instituted under the statute, which was tried in the Superior Court of Buffalo, and resulted in favor of the company, sustaining their attachment lien. Upon appeal to the General Term of the Court the judgment was affirmed; and again an appeal to the Court of Appeals, the State courts appearing to have concurred in the view that the schooner was a domestic vessel belonging within the limits of the State of Illinois, and subject to her statutes, which were made to control the decision. The plaintiffs in error insist here that a mortgage executed to secure a part of the purchase money of an enrolled and licensed vessel under the laws of the United States and duly recorded according to act of Congress, is valid as against the creditors of the owner or subsequent grantees, without reference to State laws or limits. Such a vessel is a vessel of the United States and is subject exclusively to the laws of Congress. An enrolled American vessel does not belong to any State but to the territory of the United States, and is within the federal regulations of commerce under the constitution. Submitted in the printed points of Robert Rae, for plaintiffs in error; no appearance for defendant in error.

The following paragraph is furnished by Judge Paschal as a correction of the misstatement of the subject recently published in the case of Texas vs. George Peabody & Co., filed by Judge Paschal.

The facts charged are that in 1862 the Military Board of Texas appointed John M. Swisher to sell 300 of the Texas Indemnity bonds in Europe; that Droege & Co. were employed by Swisher to effect the sale; that 149 of these bonds were offered to George Peabody & Co., who detached the coupons and sent them to New York for redemption, concealing the fact that the bonds were not endorsed by the Governor of Texas; that these coupons were cashed by the Assistant Treasurer at New York on presentation by Dabney, Morgan & Co., whereupon George Peabody & Co. purchased the 149 bonds, but afterwards enjoined the money in the hands of Droege & Co., on the ground that the circular of Mr. Chase had given notice that these unendorsed bonds would not be paid; that in October, 1866, the bonds were redeemed and the money paid to Dabney, Morgan & Co. for George Peabody & Co.; that all the parties had notice of the necessity of the endorsement and of the rebel purposes for which the bonds were being used. The remaining 151 bonds are still in the hands of Droege & Co. The amount involved is $350,000 in gold. George Peabody & Co., Dabney, Morgan & Co. and Droege & Co. are made parties. The motion for process will be heard on Friday.

SOUTHWESTERN TRAGEDIES.

Bloody Affray on a Race Course—Two Men Killed and Three Wounded.

A bloody affray occurred at the race course near Berryville, Ala., on the 25th ult., of which the following extract from a private letter is an account:—

In Berryville about one o'clock on the 25th ult. a difficulty occurred between Elisha Bobo and Pleasant Farmer, in which Farmer attempted to shoot Bobo, but was prevented. Some of the parties then made a horse race and repaired to the tracks, two miles west of town, to run. After they arrived at the ground and cavilled some time, Abner H. Clayton and a man named Barger started to the other end of the tracks. After walking some fifty yards they turned and walked back to the crowd. Pleasant Farmer was standing there with his revolver in his hand, wanting to bet on the race. Clayton remarked that he had $100 in greenbacks that he would bet on the race, and immediately added that he would bet Farmer his rifle gun, which he held in his hand, against his navy. Farmer said "All right, put it up," and stood throwing his around in his hand by the handle. Clayton then cocked his gun and presented it to Farmer's breast, telling him to put up his pistol or he would blow his d——d heart out, saying that "was not the first time that pistol had been waved over him." Farmer then commenced returning his pistol into the scabbard.

About this time Bobo made some remarks to Jim Farmer, a son of Pleasant Farmer. Clayton then turned and said to Jim Farmer, "Have you got a pistol?" Jim was standing with a pistol in his right hand, but laying by his left side, in the crook of his left arm, and made no reply. Clayton thereupon presented his gun and said, "If you have a pistol show it, and I will blow your d——d heart out." Jim then patted his pistol with his left hand and said, "Here it is; you can see it." Clayton then snapped at Jim's breast, and immediately after Jim fired at him. When they first commenced firing they were within eight or ten feet of each other. After Jim fired the first shot he rushed upon Clayton and caught him with his left hand, and continued firing till Clayton fell. Clayton was shot once through the head and once through the body, either of them being a mortal wound. So soon as the first shot was fired the firing became general. Bobo was shot in the back, supposed to be by Ky Danley, and fell at the same time Clayton fell. Just in the act of falling, Bobo shot Pleas. Farmer in the left shoulder with eighteen buckshot, inflicting a dreadful wound, though he was still living when last heard from. Bobo was shot at the point of the left shoulder with a Remington ball. It came out about two inches above the right nipple. When he fell he caught on his hand and was lying with his head thrown back, apparently dying, when Jim Farmer turned upon him and said, "damn you, I'll finish you," and, placing his pistol against his left temple, shot him through the head.

In the meantime old man Barger was accidentally shot through the hand, losing one finger, and another man, whose name I do not remember, was slightly wounded in the back accidentally.

Clayton and Bobo were carried back to Berryville and buried, the latter with Masonic honors, as he was a member of the fraternity.

Ky Danley fled and went to Missouri, where he was arrested and placed in jail, in Galena, Stone county, Mo.

James Farmer and Thomas Farmer, another son of Pleas, were arrested. On the examination, Thos. Farmer was released, there being no proof against him. James Farmer was bound for his appearance at Circuit Court, in the sum of $600, for the murder of Bobo.

Sanguinary Battle in Tennessee—Several Persons Killed and Wounded.

[From the Memphis Avalanche, Oct. 16.]

On last Sunday night, in Lincoln county, in this State, was perpetrated one of those deeds of blood, the recital of which makes the hair stand on end. The tragedy originated, as many of them do, in women. The history of the event is peculiar. Two men, named Baugh and Holloway, belonging in Lincoln county, near Elk river, went into Alabama some months ago and took away a good looking, loose young woman named Pye. She lived in the neighborhood of Scrouge Church, in northern Alabama, and had been, in company with two others, great favorites with a circle of young scamps. Baugh and Holloway lured away Miss Pye from these young fellows, and brought her into the Pea Ridge section, where they trotted her round. The young fools of Scrouge Church cross roads were much incensed at the taking away of their favorite girl and vowed vengeance.

Three months passed and the affair was beginning to wear out of their minds, when the two men who had spirited away the woman Pye made their appearance again in the neighborhood of Scrouge Church. The young fellows became aware of the fact, and turning out in great force after dark they scoured the country and captured the two obnoxious chaps in a wood and whipped them severely and let them go. Of course this led to the cultivation of bad blood. Baugh and Holloway made the best of their way to Pea Ridge, and, placing themselves under the care of the girl Pye, she nursed them until their sores were healed over and they were again fit to go on the "warpath." They proceeded to the south bank of Elk river and commenced firing into the house of a person named Bledsoe, whose sons had taken part in the whipping. They peppered the house pretty freely and made things lively there for a time. Old Bledsoe returned the fire and compelled the besiegers to retreat. Finding they could do but little in that direction, they gave up the idea of inflicting punishment just then, but concluded to await another opportunity. On their way back they unfortunately encountered one of Bledsoe's men, and they immediately commenced operations upon him. Putting their pistols to his bosom, they compelled him to go on his knees and repeat after them the following formula:—

"I'm a lousy dog; I beg your pardon for taking part in the whipping in Daby's room; I have no claim to the girl Pye; she is too good for such as I; I promise never to have anything to do with her; I'm a mean cur and a son of a ——."

After this they let him go home. Some days afterwards both Baugh and Holloway got into company with a still hunter, a fellow who was acting as United States Revenue agent. They visited several places and drank freely, and in the night time, while riding through the woods shouting and cursing they found themselves in the neighborhood of Scrouge church and surrounded by a crowd of bushwhackers, who commenced firing on them. They returned the fire and for a few minutes the dark woods rang with the sound of cracking rifles and of human voices raised high in blasphemy. The firing lasted as long as there was ammunition, and when it was over it was found that Baugh and Holloway were shot—actually riddled with bullets—their horses pretty liberally perforated also, and the three United States men who were with them had their clothing holed, but escaped with whole hides. Besides these casualties there were four of the attacking party hurt by bullets also.

Another Desperate Fight in Tennessee—Two Men Killed.

[From the same paper.]

Civilized man is said to be a noble savage. It is true the instincts of eating and fighting are carried along, no matter how high he goes in civilization, and of course there were savage instincts held in common by the Hottentot and humanitarian, by the Dirt Eaters of South America and the Dry-as-Dusts of Boston, and by consequence by the whiskey drinking population of our remote villages.

An event that occurred at La Grange last Saturday illustrates the truth of this. Two gentlemen, named respectively Witherspoon and King, cherished a grudge and an ill feeling some months' growth in their bosoms, and they met on the above-named day, in the above named little town, as we are informed. Mean whiskey, of which there seems to be no lack anywhere, fanned the flames which glared in the rival breasts. They met at a barroom, and with that sinister leer upon each lip that tells at once of scorn, hate and bloody passion, they asked each other to drink, both thinking that the other would refuse, and thus furnish a pretext for beginning the scene. Neither refused; both drank. They drank again, and for a little time things appeared even to the predetermined pair that perhaps there would be no fight this time. They were, however, mistaken in that, for words of bitterness and recrimination came thick and fast from their maudlin mouths, and the fight began. It is represented as terrific. Both men drew their pistols simultaneously and fired on the instant. Witherspoon escaped unhurt, while King was shot through the stomach. Pistols were cocked again, and again King was shot through the arm, his own pistol missing fire. He, however, prepared his weapon and made a hasty attempt to fire it off, but it missed. He then slung it away and made a rush at Witherspoon. The latter stepped outside and fired again, but missed King and struck a young man named Branchford in the leg. King continued to advance upon Witherspoon, and, having forced him into a store, he knocked him down, wrenched the pistol from his hand and beat him over the face with it till his nose was broken in, the teeth all battered down his throat and his eyes gouged out. In fact, his face was a perfect jelly, and he was considered dead. By this time King was so far gone from the effect of his wounds that he fell back and fainted on the floor, and Witherspoon lay like a corpse. The physicians say that both men must necessarily die from the fearful wounds they received.

DEPARTURE OF BISHOPS FOR ROME.

Bishops Ryan, of Buffalo, and McQuade, of Rochester, sailed in the Russia yesterday on their way to Rome. Father Hecker, of this city, accompanies them. The Tripoli, which sails to-day, will take out Archbishop Allemany, of San Francisco; Bishop O'Connell, of Marysville, Cal.; Bishop Williams, of Boston, and Fathers Quinn and Farrelly, of this city. Archbishop Allemany has been the guest of the Jesuit Fathers in Sixteenth street during the past few days. Among the prelates who will sail this week are Archbishop Kenrick, of St. Louis, and Bishop McGill, of Richmond. The bishops who sailed yesterday were escorted to the Cunard docks by Father McNulty, of Paterson; Father Cody, of Hackensack, and many other clergymen.

STATUE OF THE LATE HON. WILLIAM PITT FESSENDEN.—A proposition to erect a statue to the memory of the late Senator Fessenden has been broached. The Portland Press says there are thousands of men in Maine who will esteem it a privilege to contribute to a fund for that purpose, and the State, speaking through its Senators and Representatives, will not hesitate to appropriate sufficient to embody the sanction of the Commonwealth and enable all her sons and daughters, of every sect and creed and party, to feel that they have added their mite to an object so grand and praiseworthy.

THE ERIE STRIKE.

Work Resumed in the Shops—Nothing Accomplished by the Movement—Misguided Action—The Men Regretting Their Haste—Some of Them Out in the Cold—Full Details of the Affair.

The strike among the employés of the Erie Railroad machine shops terminated yesterday, the men signifying a desire to return to work. The movement seems to have been an ill-judged and hasty demonstration for the purpose of exhibiting the power of a labor union and carrying out a threat made some time ago to strike in the event of a certain contingency. The contingency was presented, but from causes wholly beyond the power of the company to control, and the union quit work in the shops without waiting to ascertain the reason for the trouble of which they complained, or making any effort to discover if the company was endeavoring to act in good faith. The strike has resulted in no good whatever except to illustrate the excesses into which salutary reforms are very apt to diverge, and has done much to lessen public sympathy with labor unions and their coercive measures.

consisted only of machinists, blacksmiths and helpers, the boiler makers, foundrymen, car builders, carpenters and laborers not engaging in the movement at all. The three former classes in the shops at Jersey City, Port Jervis, Susquehanna, Buffalo and Dunkirk formed a union, called the Machinists' Protective Association, and which has been in existence a long time. Having a large and well regulated organization the society thought itself strong enough to acquaint the company of its existence, and in September gave notice through a committee to the directors that unless the men in the Port Jervis, Susquehanna and Buffalo shops were paid off on or before the 15th of each month they would strike. The committee was informed that their request would be complied with, and in the words of the secretary of the association, returned to their houses highly gratified with the result of the interview. There are many conflicting statements as to the exact manner in which the strike occurred, and for the purpose of ascertaining the opinions of both sides in the matter a HERALD reporter yesterday visited the headquarters and scene of action of some of the hostile parties. At the railroad shops in Jersey City everything seemed to be running along in the usual manner, with no indications of there being any dissatisfaction, and on finding the master machinist the reporter elicited the following

EXPLANATION OF THE STRIKE.

REPORTER—I have come to ascertain the facts in relation to the strike.

OFFICIAL—Ah! Very glad to see you. The affair has been very badly misrepresented. The strike didn't amount to much, and all the men are anxious to resume work. All have gone to work here except about forty, whom we will not take back.

REPORTER—How did the affair originate?

OFFICIAL—There was some misunderstanding about pay day, and the Machinists' Union gave notice that if all the employés were not paid off by the 15th they would strike. The men at Buffalo and Susquehanna were paid off on the 12th and 13th and the paymaster was on his way to Port Jervis to pay the men there, but was detained by the freshet. The Port Jervis men didn't wait to find out what was the matter, but quit work, and the members of the union in all the other shops of the road struck also as soon as they heard of the movement.

REPORTER—Did all the men in the shops strike?

OFFICIAL—No; only the machinists, blacksmiths and helpers. The carpenters, car builders, foundrymen, boiler makers and laborers had nothing to do with it. The Port Jervis machinists went off at half cock, and the machinists in the other shops, notwithstanding that they had been already paid, struck simply because the rules of their union required them to co-operate with any strike made by detached branches of the association.

REPORTER—Then Port Jervis was the only place where there was cause for complaint?

OFFICIAL—Precisely; and if those men had not been in such a hurry to parade themselves and had taken the trouble to make inquiry in the proper quarter they would have found that their pay was coming all right.

REPORTER—What is the present condition of affairs?

OFFICIAL—At Susquehanna, Buffalo and Dunkirk the men have all resumed work. Port Jervis still holds out, demanding a guarantee that the men shall be paid on a regularly appointed day. Here, in Jersey City, nearly all the men have gone to work again, and all of them would go if we would take them back. There were about forty of the leaders in the affair whom we have paid off up to the 15th, and with whom we will have nothing to do.

REPORTER—What is the intention of the company in the matter?

OFFICIAL—We intend to exclude the ringleaders in this strike from our shops, and if any other similar attempt is made the principals will be treated in a like manner. The strike was wholly without reason, and when men display such a headstrong and unjustifiable course we shall make no concessions nor compromises whatever. If the Port Jervis men go to work again the company will take care of them; but it is not to be intimidated by any combinations of workmen nor forced by strikes to grant favors.

REPORTER—Then you think the affair about ended?

OFFICIAL—Yes. The Port Jervis men are the only ones holding out, and I understand a large number of them are already willing to resume work. If they choose to stay out they can do so. Their places can be easily filled by other men, and their obstinacy is only making trouble for themselves.

THE MACHINIST'S STORY.

From the office of the master machinist our reporter proceeded to the shops and interrogated one of the leaders in the strike, with the following result:—

REPORTER—How are you getting along with your strike?

MACHINIST—It's about over now, I guess. Most all the men have gone to work.

REPORTER—What did you strike for?

MACHINIST—Well, you see our Union notified the directors that if all the shops were not paid off by the 15th of October we should strike. The Port Jervis men were not paid off, and when they struck the rest of our Union had to go with them.

REPORTER—How about the men being generally paid off before the 12th of each month, as some of the company's officers say has been done?

MACHINIST—It's not so. The men in the Port Jervis shops have never got their money before the 20th of the month. They didn't get their pay for August until the 28th of September, and in the preceding six months we never got our pay for one month until the 25th or 26th of the next. Here in Jersey City we were paid off on the 12th, but the others were not.

REPORTER—What do you think will be the result of the strike?

MACHINIST—Not much good to anybody. The Union don't hang together well enough, and now that nearly all the men have gone back to work there ain't any show at all for those who commenced and carried on the fight.

REPORTER—Do you regret that the strike was made?

MACHINIST—Yes. As it has turned out—the Port Jervis men were a little too hasty. They kicked up a muss when there was really no need for it, and have exasperated the company so that I expect that we will have to wait awhile before we get the evils complained of removed. We all want a regular pay-day, but the Union has been demoralized by its failure to hold out, and we must now take our chances for the best we can get. If the Port Jervis men had kept cool and waited a little I expect we could have got a first rate arrangement out of the company; but now we have showed our hand and our game is up, for the present, anyhow.

AT HEADQUARTERS,

in the Opera House, in Twenty-third street, the officials seemed to regard the affair as entirely settled. The interview with the Superintendent of the Erie road was short and sweet, and gave very little additional information, as will be seen by the following colloquy:—

REPORTER—Mr. Superintendent, have you anything new relating to the strike for the HERALD?

SUPERINTENDENT (very sneeringly)—No, sir; its all over and the men gone to work. If the newspapers would let our matters alone we would have a great deal less trouble.

REPORTER—Well, sir, if you make news, you must expect the papers to publish it; and if injustice has been done, now is your chance to correct the matter. Do you think the Port Jervis men will resume work immediately?

SUPERINTENDENT—Yes. The strike is played out. But what's the use of the papers meddling with it? They only make fools of the men, and incite just such movements in every department of business.

REPORTER—Well, I've nothing to do with that question; I am only in search of facts. Is there anything new whatever concerning the strike?

SUPERINTENDENT—Nothing except what I've told you. The men found their strike was a failure and are going to work again. Most of them will be taken back, but the leaders will not be employed again. We are disposed to deal fairly with our employés, and will do for them the best we can, but we are not to be dictated to by anybody.

BUFFALO MEN STILL OUT.

Somewhat different from the above is the statement made in the following despatch received last night:—

BUFFALO, Oct. 20, 1869.

The despatch from New York this morning stating that the Buffalo workmen had resumed work on the Erie Railway is not true. They have no idea of resuming until a regular pay day is guaranteed.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE COURTS.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

Non-Attendance of the Grand Jury—Further Adjournment.

Judge Benedict opened the court yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, but owing to the absence of a number of the Grand Jury no business was transacted. A new panel was ordered for to-day, and the delinquent jurors, among whom was James Fisk, Jr., were ordered to show cause on Saturday next why they should not be punished for contempt.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

The Raid on the Lottery Dealers.

Before Commissioner Shields.

In addition to those already mentioned the following lottery dealers were arrested on the charge of carrying on the business without payment of the special tax provided by the statute, viz.:—Walter Rowe, 140 Greenwich street; Henry Wood, No. 2 Park row, and H. J. Emerson, 206 Broadway. The accused were held under $500 bail to await examination next Wednesday.

The Archer Case—The Case on Behalf of the Defendants.

The United States vs. Charles Archer and Washington Archer.—The hearing of this case, in which the defendants are charged with making false revenue returns, was resumed yesterday afternoon, Mr. Purdy, Assistant District Attorney, appearing on behalf of the government and Mr. McMahon for the defendants.

James Buell, President of the Importers' and Traders' Bank, testified that he had always considered the defendants as financially sound and of good mercantile standing. James O'Donnell, merchant, deposed that he was acquainted with the defendants for some years, and had ever regarded them with confidence; he would be willing to give them $20,000 worth of goods on their own note at six months. Robert Francis also testified as to the character and reputation of the defendants; he had had transactions with them, and they always maintained a good character.

Mr. McMahon, counsel for the defendants, then moved to dismiss the complaint. He cited the charge made against his clients, contending that the evidence had unmistakably demonstrated their entire innocence even of intent to make any false return. The prosecution must prove, first, that the defendants made false returns, and, secondly, that they were made with intent to defraud. Though the returns might be false, yet if the revenue was not defrauded no crime had been committed. Counsel alluded at some length to the evidence of Connolly, the defendants' bookkeeper, and submitted that it was altogether biassed on account of his being discharged by the defendants. Counsel then proceeded to enter minutely into the details of the several revenue returns made by the defendants and contended that they had actually returned $85,000 more than was required by statute. Connolly's evidence went to show that one of the defendants had required him to make certain deductions when giving in the returns. Now, he (counsel) submitted that the conversation testified to by Connolly was entirely consistent with the innocence of the defendants. After citing various legal authorities bearing upon the point counsel went on to argue that so far from making any fraudulent return the defendants had paid over and above what they were required to do as prescribed by law. Having reviewed the evidence adduced in the case, commenting strongly upon the fact that Connolly, the principal witness for the prosecution, had when under examination expressed himself as being biassed against the defendants for being discharged. The figures themselves showed that the defendants had paid $366 tax more than they were entitled to. In fine, counsel adverted to the testimony as to the character of the defendants and moved for a dismissal of the charge.

Mr. Purdy resisted the motion, submitting that it was the duty of the prosecution to make the most minute investigation into the charges preferred. He admitted that the evidence of Connolly was biassed to some extent, but said that the government had other witnesses to substantiate the complaint. He had not gone into the figures, but he contended that there was ground for the detention of the defendants.

Commissioner Shields announced that he would render his decision to-morrow.

Charge of Perjury.

Before Commissioner Stilwell.

The United States vs. Mathew Reichert.—The defendant was charged with committing perjury. A warrant was issued about a fortnight ago for the arrest of the defendant on a charge of perjury, and he was taken into custody yesterday and brought before Commissioner Stilwell. The evidence for the government showed that Reichert had deposed before Commissioner Osborn that he had not been a bondsman in any other case, except one in which he attempted to become surety for a friend. He was held in $2,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART I.

Action for the Loss of a Limb on Board the Yacht Rambler.

Before Judge Ingraham.

William Meier vs. Henry Fearing, Francis Skiddy and Sheppard Gandy.—On the 4th day of July, 1865, the plaintiff was a seaman in the employ of the defendants on board the yacht Rambler, and, by the direction of the defendants, was engaged in loading a gun on board the yacht. The complainant alleges that solely through the negligence, carelessness and unskilfulness of the defendants, and without any fault or negligence on the part of the plaintiff, said gun exploded and shattered the plaintiff's right hand in such a manner that he lost it completely and sustained damage thereby to the extent of $10,000. The defendants deny the allegations in the complaint and contend that the accident happened through the negligence of the plaintiff himself.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Close of the Argument in the Gold Cases—The Papers Submitted.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Smith vs. Cox, &c., &c.—Mr. David Dudley Field commenced his argument in reply to that of Messrs. Seward and Marbury at ten o'clock yesterday morning, travelling very nearly over the same ground covered by Mr. Dudley Field, Jr., on Tuesday, and closing at eleven o'clock, when Judge Cardozo took the papers and reserved his decision.

The Baldwin Will Case.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Sampson et al. vs. Cecilia F. Wood.—This case was again up before the court yesterday, when Mr. Winter, on behalf of the defendant, read her affidavit, which consisted simply of denials of the allegations contained in the affidavits of Root and Spingarn. Counsel on both sides announced that the papers were now all in, and the argument was, therefore, set down for ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Interesting Case Under the Bankrupt Act.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Worth vs. The Bank of North Carolina.—The plaintiff in this action obtained an attachment against the property of the defendant in this State, and afterwards the defendant went into bankruptcy. An application is now made to set aside that attachment, on the ground that it was issued within four months preceding the commencement of proceedings in bankruptcy, the person having possession of the property refusing to give it up without an order from the Court. It appears that the plaintiff had also obtained a judgment in the action, and the assignee now makes a motion to set aside this judgment and attachment on various grounds of irregularity. Plaintiff claims that the proceedings in bankruptcy are irregular, chiefly on the ground that a meeting of directors was not called pursuant to the Bankrupt act, and seeks to restrain the making of this motion to set aside the attachment and get possession of the property of the bankrupt.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.

The Coal Hole Accident.

Before Judge Friedman.

Calvin H. Haywood vs. Ovington Benedict.—The particulars of this case appeared in the HERALD of Tuesday, wherein it was shown that the plaintiff fell through a coal hole owned by the defendant and sustained serious bodily harm, as he alleges.

Judge Freedman, in charging the jury, remarked that it had been repeatedly held by the General Term of this court, and it was therefore his duty to charge them, as it was their duty to accept it as the law of this case, that a coal hole, such as the defendant admits to exist upon said premises, whether covered or uncovered, is an infringement of the public highway, and, therefore, a public nuisance. Being a public nuisance, the defendant is not absolved from liability by reason of the fact that he did not make, create or construct it. By continuing it, by using it, he became an insurer of the safety of all persons who passed by his premises, and is liable for all injuries to an individual so passing resulting from the street or highway being thereby rendered less safe for its appropriate use, provided there is no negligence on the part of the person so injured. The defendant was bound, at his peril, to keep the highway on which the nuisance was situated as safe as it would have been if the nuisance were not there. It is therefore immaterial whether the defendant had the cover over the coal hole fastened or not.

The jury, after about half an hour's absence, returned into court with a verdict of $350 on behalf of the plaintiff.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Naturalization Notice.

Thursday and Friday being the two last days for naturalization, Judge McCunn will sit in the above court room in the evening, from seven to nine o'clock, for the convenience of those who cannot attend during the day.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Grand Larcenies—Alleged Highway Robbery by Youths—A Boy Committed for Contempt of Court and Subsequently Released.

Before Gunning S. Bedford, Jr., City Judge.

At the opening of the court yesterday James Thompson, who pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree a few days since, was sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year.

James Smith, who was charged with burglariously entering the premises of John J. Shafer, No. 113 Allen street, on the 3d inst., pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree, and was sent to the Penitentiary for six months.

Henry Borwin, charged with stealing nineteen pairs of pantaloons on the 12th inst., the property of John Suchner, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny. He was sent to the State Prison for two years.

Johanna Wenthart was placed on trial charged with stealing $125 in money and a watch, on the 21st of September, from Michael Farley, who swore that he met her in the Bowery. The accused told a different story, stating that Farley promised to marry her, gave her a ring and had a picture taken. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

Michael Kavanagh and Joseph White (boys) were charged with robbery in the first degree. Mrs. E. S. Keys testified that while she was passing through Thirty-second street, on the 12th inst., a boy sprang upon her and grabbed her chain. She pursued him and would have caught him had it not been that two boys held her arms.

A little girl named Julia Schultz stated that she was looking out of a window when she saw Kavanagh seize the lady's chain and run away, and that White was one of the boys who detained Mrs. Keys when she endeavored to capture Kavanagh. She positively identified the prisoners.

John Wilkins was then called as a witness by District Attorney Hutchings, but the boy obstinately refused to take the necessary oath. The prosecuting officer and Judge Bedford examined him at length, finally eliciting the fact that young companies of the prisoners threatened personal violence if he appeared as a witness, and that his brother, Klaus Wilkins, residing in Eighth avenue, told him that he must not swear in that case. The Judge endeavored to persuade him to consent to be sworn, cautioning him that if he persisted in refusing to do so it would be his duty to lock him up for contempt of Court. The boy, who had reached the age of sixteen years, was immovable, and the Judge was compelled to have a juror withdrawn until the obstinate witness would give his testimony. This course was pursued and the prisoners were remanded for trial. Mr. Howe, their counsel, offered to take the boy's statement instead of his sworn testimony, but the Judge deemed it proper to maintain the dignity of the court. The witness was then placed in custody. At a later period of the afternoon the brother of the boy was brought before Judge Bedford, who cautioned him as to his statutory rights and also informed him that if it were true that he instructed the youth to refuse to testify in court he would send the matter before the Grand Jury and have him indicted for tampering with a witness. After considerable discussion the Court permitted the elder brother (who was thirty years old) and the youthful obstinate witness to go home, they having promised to appear next term and testify under oath when the case was called up for trial.

John Manchester was charged with robbing John Buckley in a saloon, on the 21st of September, of the sum of twenty-one dollars. The evidence was so conflicting and unsatisfactory that Mr. Hutchings virtually abandoned the case and the jury acquitted the accused.

Oscar Wilson, who was indicted for petty larceny from the person in stealing a watch from Henry Houssling, on the 5th inst., was tried and declared not guilty. The testimony for the prosecution was weak and only circumstantial, and the accused having proven an excellent character, the jury promptly rendered a verdict of acquittal.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—The following record will show the changes in the temperature for the past twenty-four hours in comparison with the corresponding day of last year, as indicated by the thermometer at Hudnut's Pharmacy, HERALD Building, corner of Ann street:—

Average temperature yesterday........ 47½

Average temperature for corresponding date last year........ 53½

A CHILD RUN OVER.—Yesterday, at nine o'clock A. M., James Crookshank, of No. 226 East Broadway, aged nine years, was knocked down, corner of Grand and Suffolk streets, by a dirt cart and severely injured.

EXCISE TRIALS.—There were but two cases of excise violations heard yesterday, both of which were dismissed. They were William Kamnagrossen, No. 134 Broadway, and John Barnhardt, No. 14 avenue D, for selling on Sunday. The complainants did not appear.

SEVERE RUN OVER ACCIDENT.—Last night John B. Arthur, Secretary of the Columbia Insurance Company, was knocked down and run over, at the corner of Cortlandt street and Broadway, by an express wagon driven by Louis Demars. His injuries are of a serious nature.

NATURALIZATION.—Judge McCunn announces that, to accommodate mechanics and other persons engaged in business during the regular court hours, he will sit, for the purpose of naturalizing persons, from seven to nine o'clock P. M., on Thursday and Friday, in the General Term room of the Superior Court, in the New City Hall.

DEATH OF AN ACTRESS.—For some days past Mrs. Crocker, an actress, has been lying ill at Maillard's Hotel, No. 619 Broadway. Yesterday she was taken suddenly ill and died soon afterwards. She was attended by a physician, but the cause of death not being clear Coroner Schirmer was notified to hold an inquest. Deceased, it is said, had recently returned from California.

BUTCHER CART ACCIDENT.—While driving rapidly on Second avenue yesterday morning Andrew Miller, of No. 256 Second avenue, was thrown from his butcher's cart at the corner of Eighteenth street and that avenue. His head struck the pavement, and he was conveyed to his residence in an insensible condition. Fears are entertained that his injuries may prove fatal.

PAINTERS SEVERELY INJURED.—Two painters employed on the rear house of No. 619 East Twelfth street—Francis Burke, of 100th street, between Eighth and Ninth avenue, and Thomas Whalen, of No. 22 West Eighteenth street—fell yesterday from a scaffold and were both very seriously injured. Mr. Whalen was conveyed to his home and his companion to Bellevue Hospital.

ARREST OF A FUGITIVE.—Last evening officer Crook, of the Broadway squad, arrested, on a warrant issued by a justice in Green county, on complaint of Marcus Lipman, of 262 Sixth avenue, a man named Louis Levin, who is charged in the warrant with grand larceny and forgery. He was locked up at the Central office and will to-day be sent to Greene county.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning Nathaniel Skinner, aged forty-five years, dwelling in 123d street, near Seventh avenue, was struck by the twenty minutes past eight train of the Hudson River Railroad, bound south. The accident occurred at the corner of Fourth avenue and Eleventh street. Skinner was very severely injured and taken to his home, where a physician was called to attend him.

POLICE TRIALS.—For some weeks most of the commissioners, in trying complaints against members of the force, have neglected to endorse their recommendation of penalties, believing that their publication tends to demoralize the force. Commissioner Brennan takes the opposite view, and at the trials yesterday inflicted pretty heavy fines in some aggravated cases of neglect of duty and violations of the rules on the part of members of the force. There was not a single case of interest to the public heard.

ACCIDENTS YESTERDAY.—Michael McIntyre broke a thigh at the City Hospital grounds. Alonzo Schoonmaker was knocked down by car No. 97, corner of 116th street and Third avenue, and badly injured. Robert Wainwright, of No. 18 Thomas street, was knocked down by a truck driven by Thomas Reid, and so severely injured that he had to be removed to Bellevue Hospital. Frank Green, of No. 335 East Twenty-eighth street, while intoxicated, fell and fractured his skull. He was sent to Bellevue Hospital.

BOARD OF FIRE COMMISSIONERS.—The Board held their usual weekly meeting yesterday, General Shaler in the chair. A letter was sent to H. Gaylord, treasurer of the Avondale Relief Fund, transmitting a check for $1,022 25 as the contribution of the members of the department toward the fund. Fifteen firms and places of business were reported as keeping kerosene below the standard. Resolutions of regret for the death, while on duty, of James Whalen, foreman of Engine Company No. 6, and of condolence with his family, were adopted.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC ORPHAN ASYLUM.—Two performances will be given to-day in the Academy of Music for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, several distinguished performers having kindly volunteered their assistance. The object itself will doubtless command attention, from the fact that it has hitherto most successfully appealed to its many large-hearted patrons. The new asylum will be erected in Madison avenue, at a cost of $200,000, and it is fondly hoped that the proceeds of the entertainments to be given this afternoon and evening will aid materially this most charitable cause.

COMPETITION OF FIRE ESCAPES AT THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE.—A competitive trial of fire escapes was fixed to take place at the American Institute at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Messrs. W. B. Harrison and Captain Carr were the judges appointed by the managers of the Institute to test their comparative merits. The competing escapes were limited to two in number—one of them by Messrs. Weidling & Seymour and the other belonging to Messrs. Perry & Watson. That of Messrs. Perry & Watson was the first to be tried, horses being harnessed to the escape and drawn up in front of an adjoining four story building, when, after being adjusted, a man succeeded in reaching the top of the building in three and one quarter minutes from the time of the horses being unharnessed. This escape claims the advantage of enabling those engaged in extinguishing fires to work at a safe distance from the heated walls. The judges then proceeded to test the escape of Messrs. Weidling & Seymour, when it was discovered that one of the rollers was broken, and as it was impossible to test its efficiency at the time leave was granted to the owners to get their escape into working order and to send notice to the judges, who will then make their decision and report to the managers of the Institute.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday, all the members present with the exception of Henry Smith and Crane. After the usual routine business, on recommendation of Superintendent Harris, the permits for slaughtering at Nos. 610 West Forty-seventh street and 622 West Forty-eighth street were revoked, the inspector reporting that the business was conducted in an offensive manner. The sewer excavation corner of Seventy-fourth street and Second avenue was reported in a dangerous condition, and the Superintendent instructed to take the usual action.

The usual report of tests of kerosene oils made by the chemists—sixteen in number—showed seven below the standard of both tests, eight below the flashing test standard alone and one up to both standards and in compliance with the law. The Superintendent states that the only test is the one given in the act of the English Parliament, which pronounces all oils dangerous that gives off vapors below 100 degrees Fahrenheit, and the law compels dealers to mark all such oils dangerous. Dr. Smith offered a proposition compelling the rendering of fat only on premises were the animals are killed. It was opposed by counsel of the Board and not acted upon. The New York rendering companies granted an amended permit to carry on their business at the foot of Thirty-eighth street, North river, until next May. The counsel announced that Mr. H. A. Burr, living on the corner of Cliff and Frankfort streets, had made complaints against the officers of the Board for partiality in enforcing the orders. He was invited to appear before the Board on Wednesday next and make his complaints officially. The invitation was extended to all others who may have complaints to make.

THE WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Association was held yesterday afternoon at 49 East Twenty-third street. The elegant rooms of the Bureau were filled with an audience of magnificently attired men and women. The women, as was natural at a woman's suffrage meeting, were in the majority.

Those shining lights of the Bureau, Miss Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Stanton, were absent from the meeting, as they are at present impressing the necessity of the Revolution in the status of woman upon the minds of the good people of Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Phelps was called to the chair, which position she accepted with becoming dignity and overpowering grace.

Mr. J. W. WARD, of San Francisco, was introduced to the meeting and delivered himself of a lengthy dissertation on the "social evil." His remarks had every merit except that of originality, but were nevertheless applauded by the chaste sisters present. He was followed by Mr. Peck, of the New Haven Journal and Courier, the gist of whose remarks was that he had been asked by Miss Anthony to speak, but that he was utterly unprepared so to do. He proceeded to advise them to agitate until they obtained the prize for which they were striving. A great deal had been done in this world by persistent talking, and he hoped they would continue in the good work they had begun.

Mrs. BLAKE introduced a resolution in favor of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution, but in consequence of her remarks receiving very little applause she wisely determined to leave the vote on the question until the next meeting, and subsided for the present.

Mrs. WILBOUR then read a lecture on the question of women's suffrage. The lecture was received with the applause it merited, and the meeting adjourned.

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE AT THE GRAMERCY PARK HOTEL.

Soon after six o'clock on Tuesday evening a very melancholy affair, resulting in the death of one Timothy C. Allyn, a wealthy gentleman engaged in the fire insurance business at No. 50 William street, occurred at the Gramercy Park Hotel. On Saturday last Mr. Allyn took a drive in the Park and while there some one recklessly drove against his carriage, crushing and nearly ruining it and injuring him severely. Since that time Mr. Allyn has been confined to his room, and the accident has seemed to annoy him very much, aside from the pain and inconvenience it caused him.

At the time named on Tuesday evening Mrs. Allyn went down to her dinner, leaving her husband alone in the room. Shortly before seven o'clock she returned, and, on opening the door of the room, was horrified to see her husband lying on his back on the floor, with blood over his face and on the floor where he lay. Mrs. Allyn screamed for help, which soon arrived, and upon examining the body life was found to be extinct; a pistol shot wound in the centre of the forehead was to be seen.

Mr. Allyn had long kept a pistol in his bureau drawer as a protection from thieves and burglars, and from the fact that the drawer was open and blood on the clothing inside, it is presumed that Mr. Allyn examined the weapon, and while doing so it exploded, thus driving a bullet into his brain. Almost instant death must have been the result. Coroner Rollins, on being notified, held an inquest on the body, and the jury returned a verdict of death from accidental shooting. Mr. Allyn was forty years of age and a native of Connecticut. He has left a widow and one son, about fourteen years of age.

FATAL RESULT OF A FRACAS.

Yesterday morning Coroner Keenan received information that Patrick McGinness, a man seventy-six years of age, was lying dead at No. 540 Ninth avenue from the effects of injuries received at the hands of Joseph R. James, living at 538 same avenue. On making inquiries at the Twentieth precinct station house it was learned that deceased and James were drinking together late on Monday afternoon, and while thus engaged a difficulty occurred between them which resulted in James striking deceased and knocking him down. It was not thought at first that McGinness was much injured, as such seemed not to be the intent of James in striking him. The relatives and friends of McGinness did not think the matter of sufficient importance to have James arrested; but they were greatly astonished at the death of the injured man, which occurred at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon. At eight o'clock that evening the occurrence for the first time was brought to the attention of Sergeant Murphy, then in command of the Twentieth precinct police station, who immediately despatched officer Armstrong to arrest James and gain all information possible relating to the matter. The officer also took charge of Mary James, mother of the prisoner; Alexander Mooney, 542 Ninth avenue; Mrs. Wheeler, 540 Ninth avenue, and Isabella McGinness, widow of deceased, all of whom are said to be important witnesses.

Wooster Beach, M. D., made a post mortem examination on the body and found that rupture of the intestines, the result of violence, was the cause of death. The nature of the violence will be shown during the progress of the investigation.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Statistics of Attendance at the Schools During the Past Month—An Opinion as is an Opinion—Apportionment of the School Fund for 1870—That "Special Order of Business."

The Commissioners of Common Schools in the city of New York met last evening in stated session. The Commissioners were all present with one exception, and as it had been announced that a bundle of yellow tissue paper, which had been presented at the last meeting, containing a great many words and figures and emanating indirectly from the Citizens' Association (Mr. Sands), would be made the special order of business at this meeting, there was present a large and respectable outside delegation. The contents of the yellow tissue had been printed in document form and made a book of only twenty-three pages. The subject matter of the document purported to be the result of a thorough examination into the whole public school system, with a view of ascertaining in what way a reduction of expenditures may be effected, without impairing the efficiency of the schools, made by a special committee of five, which was appointed September 15 and reported October 6, 1869. As the committee made "the thorough examination into the whole public school system," and took just three weeks to make the examination and construct the report, and as by the report it was made to appear that the screws of economy could be so applied as to squeeze some $800,000 or more out of the column of expenditures for the coming year, the matter, of course, was regarded as of more than ordinary importance, and had the effect, therefore, of attracting (as the dramatic critics would say) a large and intelligent audience to the meeting of the Board. Mr. R. L. Larremore, the urbane presiding officer of the Board, was in the chair, and with his accustomed celerity and skill announced the titles of the documents presented and their reference to the appropriate committees. Among the communications was a report from the City Superintendent, Mr. S. S. Randall, in relation to the attendance at the schools under the direction of the Board. The report of the superintendent shows as follows:—

On September 29 there were present in the male grammar schools 15,663; in the female grammar schools, 14,312; in the primary departments and schools, 57,259—making an aggregate of 87,234. The whole number of pupils on registers on the 1st inst. was 101,047, showing about thirteen and a half per cent of absentees. Present in colored schools, 836; number on register, 1,168; showing twenty-six per cent of absentees.

Average attendance during September:—Male grammar schools, 14,666; female grammar schools, 12,851; primary departments and schools, 52,862; aggregate, 80,379. Same month last year, 79,018.

Number of classes at present, 1,760. Number of teachers, exclusive of principals, 1,947; of which number 195 are not required to attend regularly. About 22½ per cent were absent from duty—306 on account of sickness and 174 from other causes. Number of days lost by absence of teachers during the month, 1,478½, or 3⅓ per cent of the whole number of days of service during the month.

Number of pupils pursuing the supplementary course in the male grammar schools, 398, nearly all in second grade; female grammar schools, 576 in first grade and 874 in second grade; making a total of 1,848. Number previously returned, 1,351; showing an increase of pupils in the two grades of 497.

In the evening schools, previous to the opening, there were registered 5,764 males and 2,598 females. Many who registered did not appear on the first night, yet the attendance on that night was 7,631 in male schools and in the female schools 3,401, making a total of 11,032. In the colored schools there were 155 pupils on the opening night.

Average attendance for the two weeks ending Friday, the 15th inst., was—Males, 7,437; females, 3,654; teachers in male schools, 198; in female schools, 111.

The report was received and ordered to be printed as a document. A communication was received from the counsel to the Board in regard to the question of the legal residence of pupils attending the public schools. The opinion was a marvellous one, showing a great deal of patience on the part of the counsel, as well as legal acumen, erudition and research, and apparently a firm belief in the patience of those to whom the communication was addressed. It covered some two or three score pages of "legal cap" and exhausted dictionaries, legal authorities, reports of litigations and other interesting and entertaining works, in which the words "domicile" or "residence" could be found. Mr. Davenport, the venerable auditor of the Board, who officiated as clerk, struggled manfully through page after page of the document until from some of the Christian gentlemen present came interrogative sighs of "How long, O Lord, how long?" while some, not quite so Christianly, made use of the same expression with the first "how long" omitted.

Commissioner WOOD then arose, and, stroking his snowy beard, as if not at all wearied or worried, moved that the reading of details be dispensed with, so that the actual opinion of the counsel could be arrived at immediately. The motion was unanimously carried, and the opinion was found to be strictly in accordance with the resolution offered by Commissioner Bell early in September, declaring the residence of the pupil to be where the father or mother or legally constituted guardian of the child resided.

The communication was, on motion, referred to the Committee on Bylaws and ordered to be printed in document form. Several matters of no extraordinary importance were then introduced and referred to the proper committees, after which the President declared the "special order of business" in order, whereupon Mr. SANDS offered a resolution, which was adopted, and by which the "special order" was cut up into small slices and each slice referred to some of the standing committees of the Board.

Commissioner SMYTH then offered a resolution directing the clerk to notify the principals of the schools to furnish the number of children attending the schools who are not residents of this city. This gave rise to a little discussion as to whether Mr. Smyth meant residents in accordance with the opinion of counsel or in the acceptation of the bylaws of the Board. Mr. Smyth thought there was but one residence, and that was, of course, the legal residence.

Commissioner WOOD suggested that it would be well for the resolution to be laid over until Mr. Smyth's committee on bylaws should report on the opinion of the counsel and the Board knew exactly what its own laws were, and with that object he moved to lay the resolution on the table. Thereupon another little debate on the question of "residence" sprang up, in which Messrs. Smyth, Bell and Sands took part. The President did not enforce the parliamentary law allowing no debate on a motion to lay on the table, thinking, no doubt, that it would be safer to let the gentlemen have their "say" at once. Mr. Smyth finally withdrew his resolution and the business proceeded.

A communication in regard to the apportionment of the school fund for 1870 was received and referred to the Finance Committee. The communication shows as follows:—

Amount from the State	$422,217
Amount from the city and county	422,217

Ten dollars on each pupil of the whole number taught, as per official reports, during the year ending October 1, 1869 (218,573)	2,185,730
Total fund	$3,512,214

The report of the auditing committee on the accounts of the clerk from September 3 to October 7 was offered, and shows as follows:—

Total	$342,587

Warrants outstanding	22,849
Paid	$270,687
Total payments	$283,493

After some further unimportant routine business the meeting adjourned.

THE FREE COLLEGE.

Meeting of the Trustees—Appointment of Professors.

The Board of Education, as trustees of the College of the City of New York, met yesterday afternoon at the hall of the Board of Education, with the President, Mr. R. L. Larremore, in the chair. After some routine business had been transacted a report was received from the Committee on Bylaws in regard to altering the rules so as to provide two professors for the ancient languages and literature—one for Latin and the other for Greek. The report was adopted, after which a report was received from the Executive Committee nominating Charles H. Hirberman, Ph. D., for professor of Latin language and literature, and Jesse Ames Spencer, D. D., for professor of the Greek language and literature. The report of the committee was adopted, and the gentlemen named elected to the respective positions. Professor Jean Roemer, LL. D., was named as senior professor in the college, to act as president in case of the absence of the president, after which the meeting adjourned.

EVANGELICAL CONVENTION.

In response to the invitation of the General Synod of the Reformed Church, issued some months ago, a large number of delegates from various evangelical churches met in the Reformed church on Washington square at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Dr. Matthews was elected temporary chairman. On taking his seat the venerable chairman made a short address, in the course of which he extended a cordial welcome to all assembled, and stated the object of the Convention to be to effect a union between all Christians of whatever denomination, and to adopt whatever measures might seem wise and proper to effect this purpose. Furthermore, that every person coming to the church on this occasion should leave his distinctive religious character as a denominational churchman outside and be simply a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Upon the conclusion of Dr. Matthews' remarks a prayer meeting was held, during the progress of which the Rev. Richard Newton, D. D., of Philadelphia, arrived, and was invited to take the chair by the Rev. Dr. Matthews, who introduced Dr. Newton in a few words highly complimentary to the gentleman.

Among the clergymen present were the Rev. Drs. Hutton, Booth, Dewitt, Crosby, Smith and Adams.

The Convention will commence its regular business session this morning at half-past nine o'clock.

PERSONAL MOVEMENTS.

Ex-President Johnson, on Wednesday evening next, is expected to hold forth in the great wigwam of Tammany, to the great delight of "the great unwashed, unterrified democracy" of this city. The very short-skirted ballet girls and professional acrobats attached to that institution have been notified that their services will not be required on that particular evening to enhance the performances.

Charles Sumner's private secretary is the son of Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Father Hecker, one of the most popular of the Paulist Fathers, left in the steamer yesterday to attend the great Council at Rome.

Ex-Senator Murphy has purchased the two blocks bounded by Madison and Fourth avenues and Sixty-eighth and Seventieth streets for $542,500.

John Swanson, of Stockholm, Sweden, has bought twenty square miles of land in Missouri for a Swedish colony, and has several thousand people engaged to come there.

It has been suggested that young Kitts, of Baltimore (aged 107), who has petitioned the Council for fees due since the Revolutionary War, should put the sum into bank, for use when he grows old.

Queen Isabella has purchased a property at Bonneuil, in the north of France, for $5,000, for the use of Soeur Patronicinio and twenty-five other Sisters of Charity. Mr. Marfori acts as major domo.

At Montana, Iowa, a few days ago, Judge Chase stopped his court and halted a lawyer in the middle of his argument to marry a couple who swept up before him and could not wait till the court adjourned.

Colonel John S. Thrasher has purchased the Galveston (Texas) Civilian, and will henceforward conduct that old and reliable journal. There is no journalist in the country who surpasses Colonel Thrasher in decision of character, variety of culture and breadth of understanding.

Mr. E. G. Asay, of Chicago, has in his library one peculiar treasure—the original manuscript correspondence between Washington and James Laurens, of South Carolina, detailing the sufferings of the army at Valley Forge. Washington's letters bear his autograph, but are supposed to be in the handwriting of Alexander Hamilton.

Mrs. Carter, a colored woman, aged seventy-six years, died in Desmoines, Iowa, on the 26th ult. The mother of this aged woman, who was 112 years years old last July, was present and witnessed the death of her daughter. This remarkable woman, who is still in possession of the faculties of mind and body, was born in the eastern part of Virginia, and was a slave until her seventy-fifth year.

The Rev. Henry Niles Pierce, who has been elected Missionary Bishop of the Episcopal Church for Kansas and the Indian Territory, is about forty-five years of age. He was born in Rhode Island, and graduated at Brown University. He performed missionary labors for several years in Texas and was at one time rector of St. John's church, Mobile. He is said to be a minister of great ability, and is very popular in the missionary region now placed under his episcopal control.

Jonathan Morgan, a lawyer, linguist and mechanician, who constructed the first steamboat ever seen on a New England river, is now living at Portland, Me., having attained the ripe age of ninety-one years. He is very eccentric, and for many years lived alone in a small attic room, which served as office, bedroom and kitchen. He often boasted that his entire expense of living did not exceed fifty dollars a year, and those best acquainted with his frugal habits and mode of living were quite willing to believe him.

Mrs. Harwood died at the manor of Vaudreuil, Province of Quebec, on the 5th inst. She was Louise, eldest daughter of Chartier de Lotbinière, who was elected Speaker of the Lower Canada House of Assembly in 1794. In 1823 Miss Lotbinière married Robert Unwin Harwood, an English merchant, who, in 1858, represented the county of Vaudreuil in the House of Assembly, and in 1860 the Rigaud Division in the Legislative Council, until his death in 1863.

THE PETRIFIED GIANT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

On Friday morning, as Mr. W. C. Newell, of Lafayette, Onondaga county, was digging a well he came across a hard substance which excited his curiosity, and upon examination found it to be the form of a man petrified into stone. I give you the dimensions, as follows, which I took to-day:—Length from head to chin, 21 inches; length of nose from brow, 6 inches; length of mouth, 4 inches; width of shoulders from point to point, 3 feet; length of middle finger, 8 inches; from the point of hip to knee joint, 3 feet; diameter through the leg at the thigh, 13 inches; diameter through calf of leg, 9½ inches; height, 10 feet 3 inches; his foot measures 19½ inches; width across the palm of the hand, 7 inches; diameter through the wrist, 5 inches; diameter across the nostrils, 3½ inches. It is a great curiosity, and thousands are going from Syracuse hourly to see the monster.

The Spanish Revolution—Its Latest Phase—The Situation Critical.

All our latest news from Spain is of a piece. The revolutionary movement progresses, but daylight is not near. It is impossible to doubt that matters must be worse before they can be better in that unhappy land. All immediate hope of "durable tranquillity, of temperate freedom," must now, we fear, be abandoned. Spain stands on the verge of a gulf not dissimilar to that on which stood France on the eve of the outbreak of 1789. There are no doubt points of difference; but it may safely be said that a Spanish republic in 1870 is a much more likely thing than was a French republic in 1792. It is just as certain that a Spanish republic cannot be reached but by a pathway of blood.

It now appears that Valencia, after all, has not given up the struggle. Late advices have it that when the government troops entered the city they were received by the insurgents with volleys of musketry, and that, the fire being returned, the fight commenced more fiercely than ever. The republican leaders Salvochea and Guillen have been killed, and the Regent thanks the army through Prim for its loyalty and services. It is added, however, that the garrison of San Matteo meditated going over in a body to the insurgents. The conspiracy, it is true, was discovered and frustrated, but the great fact remains that the army is not fully satisfied. This news will fly over Spain, and we may expect at any moment to learn that defection has become general. If anything were needed to prove that the present government has been reduced to almost the last extremity it is furnished by the letter which we published yesterday from our special correspondent at Madrid. Our correspondent finds it next to impossible to have any news transmitted by telegraph. Our money has been taken, but our telegrams have been garbled or retained. The extremity of the situation is equally illustrated by the bloodthirsty spirit revealed in Prim's instructions to the Captains General. When terror reigns, when truth is so much dreaded, when the national exchequer is empty and when money cannot be raised on any terms, the end cannot be far off. It is difficult to conceive of a great nation, as Spain at least ought to be, in more wretched circumstances. A great opportunity has been lost; and the absolute failure of Prim, Serrano and their friends, which is still very probable, will have few parallels in the whole range of history.

Although we have given up all hope of any good being done by the present government, we have not given up all hope of the Spanish people. We do not despair of their final success. They have all through behaved well. They were patient under Isabella so long as patience was possible. They trusted the revolutionary leaders. In spite of the republican sentiment with which a large section of the Spanish people are imbued they acquiesced in the regency. They were willing to hope, but hope has been turned to bitter disappointment. Promise has been abundant, but fruit has been nowhere. Patience is now exhausted, and the Spanish people begin to give promise that they mean to think for themselves, and that, in spite of priest or army, they may make the revolution a success. It will not be wonderful if Barcelona, Cadiz, Malaga and the other large cities swell the ranks of revolution, and by giving the army too much to do break it up. The San Matteo affair proves that such a breaking up is no longer an impossibility. If only the people could find a leader—such a man as Cromwell, for example, or Napoleon—Spain might emerge from this revolutionary crisis stronger than she has been for centuries. The defect of the revolution hitherto has been that it has failed to develop men of any calibre. In the strife, which in our judgment is now imminent, this defect may be supplied. The republican party has surely a man to set against Prim.

It is undeniable that the present anti-government movement is republican. We hear nothing of Carlists, nothing of Isabellinos. It has all along been held by a certain class that Spain had no sympathy with republican principles. This opinion was encouraged by the facility with which the government carried all its measures in the Cortes. It is notorious, however, that all the power of the government was put forth to prevent the republican party from having a majority in the Cortes, and that the republican element in the Chambers was no test of the republican strength in the country. Since 1848 the workingmen of the northeast of Spain have become republicans almost to a man; and it was stated recently at the Bâle Workingmen's Congress that the Spanish workingmen's associations could boast of one hundred and twenty-five thousand members. The priests and Napoleon are the two great enemies to a Spanish republic, and both for the most selfish reasons; but it is not impossible that an outburst may take place soon which will imperil both the Church and the empire. Unquestionably Spain has a hard road to travel, but her condition is not yet hopeless.

The Case of the Cuban Privateer.

The Cuba, or Hornet as she was called, has been surrendered to the United States and the Cuban flag hauled down. The United States Marshal boarded her and demanded the surrender. Upon Captain Higgins, of the Cuba, declining to surrender, except to an officer of the United States Navy and under a direct order from the President, Lieutenant Commander Peirson, of the gunboat Frolic, went on board the Cuba and produced the order direct from the President. Captain Higgins gave up his vessel and his sword, and is now a prisoner under the naval authorities. The despatch from Wilmington says the Cuba has been libelled, but we have no details as to the legal proceedings in the case, if there were any, or as to the precise ground on which she was libelled. To libel a vessel is simply to charge her with something against the laws and placing her under the authority of the government libelling her until the case can be tried by the courts in the regular way. But it appears that the flag of the Cuba was hauled down and her captain arrested by an order direct from the President. From this it seems that the Executive has taken the matter out of the hands of the legal authorities. However, the despatch is not clear, and we must wait for further information before forming an opinion in the matter or commenting on the action of the government. The only important fact established is that this Cuban privateer has been seized and is held for a violation of the laws. Whatever may be the legal features of the case hereafter to be developed, or whatever may be the result when a trial takes place, the vessel is prevented from doing any service for the Cubans. While we may condemn the government for its shortsighted policy or timidity with regard to Cuba, we suppose it has acted in this case upon sufficient evidence.

With all our sympathy for the Cubans and wish to see the United States government take a bold and decisive course to secure their independence, we cannot help thinking Captain Higgins and the Cubans have foolishly and prematurely thrown a responsibility upon our government which compels it to act against its wishes in defending its honor and international obligations. We would rather have seen this privateer afloat and doing good service for the Cuban cause; but a great nation like the United States, when forced into such a position, must observe the laws. The Cuban Junta, or agents of the Cuban government here, show little ability. Nor do the crowds of young Cubans in this country show by their acts that ardent patriotism they talk so much about, for instead of loafing away their time here they should be fighting for their country. How truly the poet expresses it when he says,

> Hereditary bondsmen! know ye not,
> Who would be free themselves must strike the blow?

However, these temporary misfortunes may be but as a passing shadow. They may lead the Cubans to renewed energy, and the United States to a more positive policy soon in favor of Cuban independence. Though the Hornet is seized, other vessels with expeditions and supplies are running into Cuban harbors. There is reason to believe the brave Captain Harris, who sailed with the Lilian about the same time the Hornet was at sea, has landed his valuable cargo on the island. The reverses the Cubans may meet with—and great reverses are incident to all such movements—should have the effect only of stimulating them to greater energy and determination.

THE SITUATION IN PARAGUAY.—The news which we publish this morning from our special correspondents in South America corroborates the views we have taken regarding the condition of President Lopez. After suffering almost innumerable defeats he is still in a position to face the enemy. The allies have abandoned the pursuit, and Lopez, safe for the present from molestation, no doubt will improve his chances to strengthen his army by fresh accessions of men and war material.

THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT orders three thousand additional troops to Cuba. Is the government really getting the better of the insurrection at home, or is the Cuban reinforcement story merely a "make believe?"

THE FIRST SNOW STORM.—St. Louis, of all our great cities, carries off this fall the prize of the first snow storm. They had a snow storm there on Tuesday last, continuing from seven in the morning till noon. The old weathercocks say that this early beginning of snow is a sign of a rough winter.

How Napoleon Holds the "Reds"—A French Revolution Postponed.

The French democrats and revolutionary "reds" have, as we are assured by cable telegrams and our special correspondence by mail from Europe, abandoned the idea of their grand legislative oppositionist demonstration in Paris on the 26th instant. The programme of the movement was duly prepared, but has not, it appears, been perfected, for the simple reason that the chief actors did not feel themselves quite "up to" the parts in which they were likely to be cast, the managers becoming convinced at the same time that the play was old-fashioned and not likely to "draw." The fact is it was not popular. The Paris press, so far from "puffing" the enterprise, came out flatly against it, the Avenir National—the only sincere paper, it may be, of the republican organs—pronouncing it "useless, inopportune and susceptible of ending fatally." It was shown, indeed, that it was more than "susceptible," if that is the word, of producing very unpleasant results; for we find that the democratic republican "reds" were assaulted and "very roughly handled" by the populace after the adjournment of a preliminary meeting. The Parisians, in truth, are out of tone with trading agitators and émeutes made to order or undertaken in the interest of foreign government intriguers. They have become commercial, trading and shop-keeping. They invest their money in the funds and savings banks, and find that it pays better in such shape than it would when in the pantaloons pockets of the political "leaders." The Paris Pays, indeed, tells us so in the following words:—"When an émeute is likely to cost something more than a box at the Opera Comique the Parisian keeps aloof; and if the disturbance is likely to interfere with the sale over the counter, and, by frightening the bill discounters, imperil the monthly settlement, he becomes ferocious against the disturber of order. In 1848 the grocers dispersed the bands who perambulated the streets to the tune of the Lampions, and the last riots on the Boulevard owed their repression to the resistance of the proprietors and waiters of the cafés, whose receipts were reduced to zero by the row."

The sales "across the counter" and the "monthly settlement" speak the whole story, particularly "the monthly settlements." Since the establishment of the empire under Napoleon III. the French government has asked six loans from the French people, embracing the period from the year 1854 to 1866–67. The first, in 1854, was for two hundred and fifty millions of francs; in 1855 two loans, amounting in the total to twelve hundred millions, the entire aggregate of the six footing up the enormous sum of two thousand six hundred and ninety millions of francs. The French people supplied the cash so freely that on different occasions the doors of the places of "inscription" had to be closed by the police against persons wishing to invest after the required sum had been obtained. Then, again, we find that in 1868 the total interest payable on French rentes yearly was 343,544,505 francs, and that the holders of scrip numbered 100,095,683.

This is the real secret of how Napoleon, with all his faults and the coup d'état, holds the "reds"—not in personal fetters of steel, as in the days of the Bastile—but by warping French society against them in delicate, wavy threads of gold. The "reds" do very little work and consequently have very little cash to "inscribe" in any useful investment, and just so far the Emperor and the people repudiate them. France has had about enough of revolution. An old Asiatic tiger hunter at Singapore, having been severely wounded in a struggle with one of the animals, gave up tiger hunting immediately after his escape, remarking to his friends, who advised him to continue the exercise, "Tiger hunting is a very fine sport so long as you hunt the tiger, but when the tiger begins to hunt you it is very bad sport indeed." Such is the situation, as it appears to us, in France.

The Late Louisville Commercial Convention—Asking Too Much.

General Walbridge, in his speech on Tuesday, before the Chamber of Commerce at Cincinnati, gave an account of the proceedings of the recent Louisville Convention. He described this Convention as national in its character, embracing delegates from every State in the Union. Among the prominent sentiments which he said prevailed in the Convention was one that the public debt should be paid as it was stipulated when contracted. This, however, may mean anything or nothing. Another was that the South had been impoverished by the rebellion, and that she should be aided by the general government so as to develop her natural resources. Such, he declared, was the unanimous opinion of the Convention, and to this end, he added, it was decidedly in favor of opening a water line communication between the Ohio and the Atlantic, of reconstructing the levees on the Mississippi, of giving aid to the steam lines projected between Southern ports and Europe and of aiding in the construction of another continental railway.

Now, we must respectfully submit that all this is asking a little too much. Desirable as the accomplishment of these various objects may be, to demand it from government now, while laden with the present huge burden of debt, is at least inopportune. If the people of Virginia and Ohio cannot together effect the completion of the canal from Lynchburg across the Alleghanies to the Ohio they will have to wait. If the estates along the Mississippi are not valuable enough to raise loans upon for the building of levees the owners of the estates will also have to wait. Similar patience must be exercised by the projectors of steam lines from Southern ports to Europe, if private enterprise prove unequal to the task of establishing them. And as for extending government aid to another continental railway, we understand that all that is wanted by General Fremont, who is at the head of the Southern Pacific Railway enterprise, is the right of way through the public domain. Doubtless this will be accorded through Arkansas, the Indian country, New Mexico and Arizona, and Texas will make ample donations for the purpose, while the Californians will do their share towards completing the road commenced at San Diego. But it is out of the question to talk of additional grants of government bonds in aid of railways, canals, steam lines and levees. What has been done for the Pacific Railroad must suffice for the present. President Grant has clearly intimated that this is the case, and that our first object should be to lighten instead of increasing the burden of public taxes. We repeat that the Louisville Convention asks too much. The South is getting on very well with its cotton crop of and its sugar and tobacco crops. We rejoice in the returning prosperity of the Southern people, and we believe that the time has come for them to help themselves.

Father Hyacinthe—The Puritans After Him.

The Puritan pastors of Boston had a meeting the other evening in the Meionaon (whatever that may be), to consider the propriety of inviting Father Hyacinthe to the hospitalities of "the Hub." They had prayer, after which the Rev. Gilbert Haven, D. D., explained the object of the meeting, remarking, in conclusion, that "it was not known that Father Hyacinthe had left the Catholic Church;" that "all that they knew was that he had taken a very bold step and had incurred the displeasure of the Pope, and if welcomed here (in Boston) it might lead him further in the good work." Some discussion followed as to the form of the proposed invitation, whether it should be by committee or by letter, and whether on religious or patriotic considerations; but it was at length agreed to appoint a committee of five parsons, one from each of the denominations in the meeting, to confer with Father Hyacinthe, and so a committee of nine was appointed. But we apprehend that this committee will not make much out of Father Hyacinthe. As friends he will receive them kindly, but as heretics he will dismiss them. He believes in the holy Catholic Church; but he wants it to go forward in the light of the nineteenth century, and not backward to the Council of Trent and the dark ages. If the Puritans of Boston can get up and send forward a committee of Catholics to wait upon Father Hyacinthe they may capture him; but a committee of Roundheads will not answer. Upon the whole, however, we think that the best thing the Boston Puritans and our Protestant friends generally can do with Father Hyacinthe is to let him alone. His battle is inside the lines of the Catholic Church, and until this conflict shall have been decided, for him or against him, all Protestant intrusions upon him will be impertinent if not offensive.

Important Discoveries in the Colorado Country.

Among the recent arrivals at Washington we regard as the most important that of Colonel Samuel Adams, in the service of the War Office, from a "prospecting" tour of four years, with a party of eleven men, in the Colorado country. We mean the extensive region on the western flank of the Rocky Mountains drained by the tributaries of the great Colorado of the West—a region from north to south through Colorado Territory, the northwest corner of New Mexico, and into the heart of Arizona, of some seven hundred miles in length, with a width of three or four hundred miles. This region, from 1845, when first crossed by Fremont in the north, to this time, has been crossed at various points by Gunnison, Simpson, Sitgreaves and other government explorers going west in search of a route for a Pacific railroad; but it was reserved for Colonel Adams to explore it from north to south, and with a special eye to the resources of this interesting region.

Where Fremont crossed it in 1845, between latitudes thirty-eight and forty north, he has left upon the map this endorsement:—"Elevated plains, fertile, gently rolling, with fresh water lakes and timber." In the report of Simpson's detour further south, 1849, we have numerous illustrations of ancient ruins, inscriptions, paintings and pottery in the Cañon de Chaco and Cañon de Chelly, tributaries of the Colorado. On the line of Sitgreaves' tour of 1852 in the valley of the Colorado Chiquita, another tributary of the great Colorado, we have the localities marked of numerous ruins, "San Francisco Forest," springs, &c. Colonel Adams from north to south has crossed all these lines of exploration, and discovered an extent and variety of natural resources in the country "prospected" hitherto unknown. He found rich gold mines that can be worked all the year round, and in the central portions of Arizona and New Mexico he found the richest country he has ever seen. He saw there wild wheat, rye, oats and barley growing six feet high, and ruins of ancient cities built of stone, fortifications, canals and abandoned mines. The party also discovered oil wells, tar wells, and salt and coal in abundance, and in one section forests of splendid timber sufficient to supply all the wants of the timberless regions of Southern Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona, which are now supplied from Oregon by way of the Pacific and the Gulf of California and lower Colorado river.

Here, then, on the western flanks of the Rocky Mountain chain we have resources sufficient to make of the Territories of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona rich and prosperous States in agricultural products and manufactures. While, therefore, the lofty tablelands on both sides of the great cañon of the main Colorado for a hundred or hundreds of miles may be worthless, as described by Professor Powell, it is disclosed by Colonel Adams that eastward among the tributaries of the Colorado there is an extensive region which may be pronounced among the richest in the Union in its natural products, with the finest climate in the world. Thus, in the course of the development of this beautiful mountain country, every opening in the chasm of the Colorado torrent may be filled with mills, foundries and factories, and the torrent itself may be made available for transportation to the sea.

Such is the value of the intelligent explorer of unknown lands in these days of the progress and expansion of the civilized races of the earth; and still, within the spacious boundaries of the United States, we have much to learn, leaving Alaska, from the report of General Thomas, as only fit to be left out in the cold.

MAYOR HALL TO HORACE GREELEY.—Read the Mayor's letter elsewhere in these columns. The Mayor has these advantages over his adversary:—He does not lose his temper, and he is always witty, sparkling and entertaining, while Greeley, in his efforts to be serious and impressive, is apt to be dull, or somewhat too free in offensive epithets withal.

What the Canadians Have to Suffer—The Union Still Open to Them.

The people of the New Dominion have been frequently invited to come into the Union and be thus completely reconstructed as free American citizens under the flag of the United States. We have ourselves advised them to this step on many and divers occasions, and have been rejoiced, on account of the Canadians themselves and their worldly future, to hear frequently and from reliable sources that our advices have been favorably received generally in the territory. The complete fruition has, however, been always retarded by some outside foreign event, such as the arrival of Prince Arthur, the tour of the Mohawks to meet him, a plan of some English loan to the Grand Trunk Railroad, or the arrangement of a visit of the entire Anglo-Canadian Cabinet to London, where its members are, for the most part, merely permitted to warm themselves—Canadians can do it after the home cold—in the outside corridors leading to the Foreign Office, Downing street.

This is really to be regretted; for the Canadians may just as well have an American citizen vote, with the fun, and, perhaps, profit of casting it, as be made to take an involuntary part in all our great election contests, Presidential and in New York city and State, without any collateral advantage. They are in this difficult and embarrassing situation just at present. We are about to have "a good time" at our election next month, and just for the reason that we are the "Toronto field battery is ordered out," and "kits" and "provisions" and "guns" and "stores" fit for the use of a fine army are lying about that city for miles. Gunpowder is handled as if it were perfumed snuff; Kingston is in arms, and every young British trumpeter on this side the ocean is busy practising to sound the "advance" and "charge" for the use of the regular troops, tooting out the "retreat" for the locals and volunteers. Two royal gunboats, fully armed and equipped, are running round the lakes; the militia are hurrying off to Goderich, while Prince Arthur has assumed a sort of amphibious and neutral position on the Lower Ottawa.

Here we have a regular Canadian flurry, and all because New York is about to have an election, and that certain Irish-American gentlemen are very anxious to be elected, requiring only a little more cash just "to carry the thing right through." They appear likely to have it, and a good deal of it, too, soon, as they have chartered and armed the gunboat Sunburst—"what's in a name?"—to be despatched to Canada to look for it and carry it back—all in Canadian silver. Much better for the Canadians they were in the "ring" themselves, as they will be some fine morning or other. What ticket will they hold?

THE TENNESSEE SENATORSHIP.—Two ballots were had by the Tennessee Legislature yesterday, neither of which resulted in the selection of a United States Senator. Mr. Johnson remained at the head of the poll, but it was evident that his enemies were determined to prevent his election if they could. The balloting to-day will, we trust, result in the success of the ex-President. He is such a man as the country needs in the United States Senate, and if the Tennessee legislators desire their State represented by a man of prominence, of ability and of integrity they will no longer listen to the clamors of the impracticables who oppose him, but will make Mr. Johnson their choice without delay.

THE PETRIFIED GIANT.—They have found in the neighborhood of Syracuse, according to the Standard of that city of salt, what is supposed to be a petrified giant, a manly figure in stone, over ten feet high. If the report is true the discovery is certainly a wonderful thing, as a work of nature or a work of art. If it is the petrified body of a man, then we may say that around the Syracuse salt works and of the age in which he flourished "there were giants in those days;" but if "the critter" is only a statue cut by some cunning hand from a block of stone the questions recur, who was the sculptor? Where did he come from and what did he get for his job? And is it the effigy of the veritable big Indian, or what? Western New York, however, is famous for wonderful discoveries, such as the dead body of Morgan by Thurlow Weed—"a good enough Morgan till after the election"—and the golden plates of the book of Mormon by Joe Smith. The petrified giant no doubt belongs to this class of discoveries; but as it is a harmless sensation we hope it may live through the allotted period of a nine days' wonder.

OBITUARY.

A Dublin despatch dated yesterday reports the death of this gentleman. He was yet in the prime of life, having been born in November, 1816. Educated at Trinity College, Dublin, he graduated with credit, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1839. In 1857 he was made Queen's Counsel, and in the early part of 1866 was appointed Attorney General for Ireland. During October of the same year he was made Master of the Rolls in Ireland, a position held at the time of his death. For a few months Mr. Walsh was one of the members for the University of Dublin. He wrote and published several works, among which the best known are "Justice of the Peace for Ireland" (1844), "Reports in Chancery, Irish" (1845–49), and "Ireland Sixty Years Ago," (1847).

A FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLAR LIBEL SUIT.

N. D. Morgan, President of the North American Life Insurance Company, has sued Messrs. Sutton, Bowne & Co., as publishers of the Aldine Press, for libel, and lays his damages at $50,000. The article to which exception is taken appears in the October number of the Aldine, and criticises the peculiar plan of registered life policies practised by Mr. Morgan's company.

BURGLARY IN FIFTH AVENUE.

Some time during Tuesday night the residence of Le Grande P. Cannon, No. 311 Fifth avenue, was entered by burglars, it is believed, who accomplished it by working in through one of the windows. They then proceeded up stairs, broke into closets, trunks, drawers, &c., and stole a large amount of valuable furs, clothing, &c., the exact value of which cannot be ascertained, as the family are in the country, and the only occupant of the house was an old man who was left in charge. He can give no satisfactory account of the occurrence, but was in the house at the time. Suspicions point strongly to certain persons who are under the surveillance of the police.

British Advice to Napoleon.

LONDON, Oct. 20, 1869.

The London Times says:—

France, unfortunately, has irreconcilables of a deeper dye than Gambetta and Bancel, whose manifesto is violently attacked by their former associates, while Raspail adheres to his resolution to go to the Legislative Chamber on the 26th inst. So a riot may still be found unavoidable, in which case the authors of the manifesto will have to see what course it is best for them to pursue. France has been brought to this pass through the Emperor's hesitation, not merely in respect to measures, but in the choice of persons to introduce them. The Emperor cannot mean to present himself before the chambers with his old Cabinet. Whatever merits Rouher and Forcade may have, no one can regard them as more than clerks in their master's Cabinet. No one believes they can be raised to the rank of independent and responsible Ministers. It is said the Emperor does not know where to find others. If the situation arises men will be forthcoming. In the meantime any other men are preferable to these. So long as the Emperor is surrounded by the men of yesterday no one can have faith in his good intention for the morrow.

Snow Storm at Denver—Discovery of Supposed Remains of One of Fremont's Exploring Parties—Massacre of Buck's Surveying Party—Capture of a Mail Coach by Apaches and Murder of the Driver and Guard.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct 20, 1869.

Last night snow fell at Cheyenne to the depth of one inch and at Denver to the depth of two inches.

A party of mountaineers discovered some days ago in Southwest Colorado, between the Opal fork of the Rio Grande and the Saquatchie, the bones of six men and forty-six horses, which are supposed to be the remains of a party lost from General Fremont's exploring expedition, of whom nothing has been heard since they started out, twenty years ago.

A report has been received at the department headquarters from Colonel Duncan, who recently commanded the expedition of the Republican river. There is no further doubt that the surveying party of twelve men under Nelson Buck were murdered by the Indians on the Republican river in the latter part of August or early in September.

The following is just received from Santa Fé:—A letter from Apache Pass, dated October 9, reports that about sixty Apaches, led by a chief named Cacliez, attacked a mail coach on the 5th inst., killing the driver, Colonel Stone and four soldiers of the Twenty-first infantry, acting as an escort. They left the bodies of the murdered men naked and horribly mutilated, and carried off the coach and mules. They also captured 300 cattle owned by a man named Scott in the neighborhood. Scott brought the news to Apache Pass, and thereupon Lieutenant Winter and twenty-seven men of the First cavalry started in pursuit and came upon the Indians ninety miles south of Apache Pass Friday forenoon. A fight ensued, in which twelve Indians were killed, the others making their escape. The troops recaptured the mail coach, mules and stock, as well as thirty horses and a large quantity of supplies owned by the Indians.

Adjournment of the Legislature—Arrest of Ex-Revenue Officers for Counterfeiting Tobacco Stamps.

RICHMOND, Oct. 20, 1869.

The Legislature this morning adjourned to meet on the second Tuesday after Congress shall have admitted the State into the Union.

For some time past the authorities at Washington have been apprised of the existence of a gang engaged in the manufacture and sale of counterfeit internal revenue tobacco stamps. A detective was sent here to watch the parties engaged, and to-day the following persons were arrested charged with having in their possession and selling the counterfeit stamps:—Frederick Bannasch, ex-Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue; Captain Thomas W. Roach, ex-detective of the Revenue Department, and Lieutenant John H. Stone, late United States Whiskey Inspector, and at present a special detective. Counterfeit stamps to the amount of $3,000 were seized in the hands of Bannasch. They were sixty pound tobacco stamps, class 32. The United States Commissioner bailed Bannasch and Roach in $10,000, and Stone, against whom the evidence is not so strong, in $5,000 to appear on the 22d inst. It is said the bogus stamps were sent from the manufacturers in New York and are pretty thoroughly circulated in the South.

Great Fire in Cincinnati—Destruction of Lane College, the Young Men's Mercantile Library, and the Chamber of Commerce—Fireman Killed.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 20, 1869.

The College Building is now on fire. The flames on the roof, which is of tin, are thought to extend from end to end. Engines are at work. The building contains the Lane College, Young Men's Mercantile Library, Chamber of Commerce and several stores and offices.

The College Building is a wreck. The rooms above the Mercantile Library and the Chamber of Commerce are burned out entirely. The whole roof and floor above the Chamber of Commerce fell in, taking the floor of the latter to the cellar. That above the Mercantile Library did not fall. A portion of the floor over the reading room was cut by the firemen to let water through. The damage to the building amounted to $40,000; insured in Cincinnati companies. The college loss is $25,000; insured in home companies. The loss of the Mercantile Library is $30,000. The Mercantile Library lost most in three rooms on the third story. The records and valuable English books of Mr. McArthur, the librarian, were all removed safely, but much damage was done to other books on the shelves by water in the main library room. The total loss on the books was $10,000. The insurances on all the above losses are in home companies, except in the Phenix, of Hartford, $5,000; Western, of Buffalo, $5,000; Security and Manhattan, of New York, $5,000 each; Cleveland, of Cleveland, $5,000; Sun, of Cleveland, $2,000. In the fourth story there was a small bookbindery, five dwelling rooms, Appleton's picture framing room, Fleetwood's and Flechwood's lithographing rooms and two or three rooms for storing goods and furniture. Appleton and Fleetwood lost $10,000. Loss of the other parties, $5,000, mostly insured in Cincinnati companies. On the third floor, besides three library rooms, were Bliss' schoolroom, the law schoolroom, and Winkeler's bookbindery. The loss is $5,000. The insurances were not ascertained. The stores occupying all the first floor were damaged but slightly, and that by water, except the portion occupied by J. N. Harris, manufacturer of patent medicines, directly beneath the Chamber of Commerce room, into which the roof and all the floors fell. Mr. Harris loses $5,000; he is fully insured in the Franklin Company of Cincinnati. The total loss is near $75,000. The valuable statuary in the Mercantile Library room was all saved. The Chamber of Commerce and the Mercantile Library occupied all the second floor.

Captain Matt Schweb, of the Phœnix Hook and Ladder Company, was taken out of the wreck of the College Building this evening, at nine o'clock. He, with others, stood at the head of the stairs in the building fighting the fire when the ceiling fell in, enveloping all in smoke and fire. The others escaped, but he was killed. His head and breast were badly burned.

THE BLOOD HORSE ASSOCIATION.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 20, 1869.

There were two races to-day over the Blood Horse Association's course. The weather was rainy and the track heavy, notwithstanding which there was a large attendance. The first race was for the Merchants' Post Stake, two mile heats, entrance $50; purse $1,000; second horse to receive $200.

Babcock's Humboldt	1	1
Buford's Crossland	2	2
Paul's Jackson	3	3

Time, 3:46¼—3:43¼. Crossland was the favorite in the pools.

The race for four year olds, mile heats, for a purse of $300, resulted as follows:—

Franklin's Donovan	3	1	1
McCormick's Sue Morrissey	1	2	3
Richards & Kilgour's John Kilgour	2	3	2

Time, 1:48—1:48½—1:49.

WILLIAMSPORT HORSE FAIR.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 20, 1869.

There was an increased attendance at the Herdick Park races to-day. The ground was in excellent condition and the weather was favorable. The accommodations for visitors are ample. The stands are well arranged and will seat over 2,500 people.

The race for the $1,000 purse was again postponed after the third heat. The race for $5,000, for horses that never beat 2:27, was also postponed at the end of the second heat, the sorrel mare Idol winning both heats.

The race for horses that had never beaten four minutes, for a purse of $500, was won by Fanny Fern in three straight heats.

The race for $1,500, for horses that never beat 2:42, was drawn.

TROTTING AT HARTFORD.

HARTFORD, Oct. 20, 1869.

The race to-day for $2,000 between Lucy and George Wilkes was won by the latter in three straight heats. Time, 2:33—2:31¾—2:33.

THE GOLD RING AND THE GRAND JURY.

Yesterday afternoon Messrs. Jay Gould and James Fisk, Jr., were formally served with writs of subpœna requiring their attendance before the Grand Jury now in session, and, of course, it would be strange to suppose that these gentlemen were so summoned for any other purpose than to give evidence in connection with the recent Wall street panic and fraud operations in gold.

It will be remembered that Judge Ingraham, at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, recently charged the Grand Jury specially on the subject, and it is probable that the affair will now be very thoroughly sifted.

IS REAL SUNNING HIMSELF?

Taking a Ride on a Street Car—A Deputy Sheriff Doing Escort Duty.

A rumor of a startling character was circulated in police circles yesterday that if true may well cause alarm to all law-abiding citizens. It seems that John Real, the condemned murderer of officer Smedick, of the Twenty-first precinct, was escorted from a felon's cell on Monday afternoon and allowed the freedom of the city. A conductor of the Second Avenue Railroad, who has known Real long and intimately, asserts that the convict and his charge entered his car at the corner of Second avenue and Thirty-fourth street; that Real shook hands with him and rode down town. The gentleman to whom the conductor made these statements is entirely reliable and declares his belief in their correctness.

SOCIETE DE BIENFAISANCE BELGE.

A meeting of the Belgian residents of New York was held last evening in the lecture room of the Cooper Institute, for the purpose of organizing a benevolent society for the relief of distressed Belgians. The chair was taken by Mr. C. Mali, who pointed out briefly the motives which had brought them together, and introduced Mr. Ernest Van Bruyssel, the Belgian Consul to the United States, to the meeting.

Mr. Van Bruyssel expressed his regret that he and his countrymen had been compelled by dire necessity to set about forming an exclusive society. He had found, however, that nationality regulated much of the benevolence of Europeans in this city. Belgians in distress therefore fared badly at the hands of French and Germans. So they had to look to themselves. If all the Europeans would unite together and form one powerful organization they would gladly merge into it. Until that was done they should supply the wants of their necessitous brethren as best they could, and he urged his countrymen throughout the Union to generously aid the efforts now being made. While the French, English, German and Swiss immigrants were provided for the destitute Belgian had to depend on accidental individual charity. Every motive, therefore, suggested to them that they should make a grand endeavor to establish a benevolent organization. These views were endorsed by the meeting. Much discussion was created upon the statutes, which were finally approved.

Subscriptions to the amount of $1,500 were taken and a committee formed to watch over the interests of the society. If the genial, sympathetic feeling of the meeting be reciprocated, as was anticipated last evening, the "Société de Bienfaisance Belge" may be looked on as fairly launched on its career of usefulness.

CIRCLE LYRIQUE FRATERNEL.

A ball was given last evening at the Germania Assembly Rooms by this association, organized both for social and benevolent purposes. Its headquarters are in Prince street, where agreeable reunions are held, among the attractive features of the institution being the vocalization of the members. The Circle Lyrique Fraternel is in fact a singing society, though it has likewise in view the aid of the sick and destitute belonging to it. The ball last night, the first held under the auspices of the society, was comparatively successful, the attendance comprising over a hundred couples. The decorations were appropriate and a good band of music contributed to render the terpsichorean festivities very enlivening. A lengthened programme of dancing was agreeably gone through, and the company separated at a late hour, evidently pleased with the first public venture of the association.

FIRE IN EAST EIGHTEENTH STREET.

Several Shanties and Stables Burned.

About half-past six o'clock last night a fire broke out in the junk shop of John Ryan, in rear of No. 430 East Eighteenth street. It was badly burned, involving a loss of $1,000. The fire extended to several stables, occupied by a number of carmen, all of which were destroyed. The horses, however, were saved, with the exception of Ryan's, valued at $150, which was burned, together with his house and stable. Ryan's total loss on building and stock, it is believed, will reach $3,000, upon which there is no insurance. The stable and coal sheds of John Riley adjoining were damaged about $1,000; insured in the Williamsburg and Tradesmen's Insurance companies. Two frame shanties, worth about $200 each, belonging to the estate of Isaac D. Lapham, were slightly damaged.

WASHINGTON.

The Coming Message of the President.

Cuban Recognition to be Strongly Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1869.

Special Meeting of the Cabinet.

There is a good deal of speculation to-night over a special meeting of the Cabinet, which convened this morning about ten o'clock and remained in session until near noon. The fact that a regular Cabinet meeting was held yesterday, at which, of course, all the routine business would naturally be transacted, gives rise to the surmise that something of importance must have been brought to the attention of the President since which required a Cabinet consultation. The members of the Cabinet are unusually reticent about the meeting, and refuse to give any intimation of what was done. There are all sorts of speculation about it; some have it that the meeting was occasioned by a cable despatch from Sickles relative to Cuba, others that it was a telegram from Motley, and still others that it was to consider some important revenue matters. There can be little doubt that business of importance was considered, but guessing is useless under the present circumstances.

Rumored Opposition to the Confirmation of Secretary Robeson—The President Favoring Cuban Recognition.

There is a story going about here to the effect that certain Senators, and particularly Drake, of Missouri, intend to oppose the confirmation of Secretary Robeson on the meeting of Congress. Neither Robeson nor Belknap, it will be remembered, have yet received a Senatorial endorsement, which is necessary to their complete appointment. Grimes' retirement from the Senate leaves the chairmanship of the Naval Committee vacant, and Drake is said to be an eager candidate for the position. Drake is a man of strong likes and dislikes, and is reported to have some personal spite against Vice Admiral Porter. This spite, it is reported, extends to Robeson, whom Drake assumes to be identical with Porter. He believes Porter has great influence over Mr. Robeson, and therefore desires to defeat the latter's confirmation in the hope of getting in some one who will throw Porter overboard altogether. This is one of the alleged reasons. Another is that Congress at its last session cut down materially the estimates for the navy, which economical hint, it is given out, has been disregarded by the department, which has expended the entire appropriation in addition to such sums as were obtained from the sale of war vessels. The cause of this expenditure ought to be satisfactory to inquisitive Senators. The department desired to place its vessels in proper trim for use in case of any difficulty that might spring out of the Cuban complications, and laid out the money to very good purpose. A third third reason assigned for the anti-Robeson movement is the fact that the great State of Pennsylvania has no representative in the Cabinet, while the little democratic region of New Jersey is honored with one. The Keystoners think that after two hard struggles, successfully made, to keep republicanism in the ascendant in their State, they are entitled to a Cabinet recognition in preference to Jersey. On the other hand it is stated that there is precious little vitality in the anti-Robeson movement. The Naval Secretary feels quite easy in his shoes, and troubles his mind with no fears as to his confirmation, Drake to the contrary notwithstanding. On the reassembling of Congress Mr. Robeson and his friend Porter may suddenly loom up into very great importance. Should the President act as some of his friends declare he will regarding Cuba Senators will very probably be in no mood to bother either Robeson or Porter. These friends of Grant say that in his message he will incorporate all that has transpired in Cabinet and diplomatically regarding Cuba, and that he will recommend Congress to sustain the republican cause in the "ever faithful isle," or at least express himself in such unmistakable language on the subject as to show himself in favor of recognizing the struggling patriots. Should Mr. Fish's prediction of a war with Spain then come true, of course the struggle would be mainly on the ocean and Porter would be the man of the hour.

The Fenian Prisoners in Great Britain.

John M. Moriarty, President of the Irish Republican Association of Philadelphia, had an interview with President Grant and Secretary Fish to-day in behalf of the American citizens of Irish birth now in British prisons. Mr. Moriarty stated that these men had been convicted not for expressions or any overt act in England, but for sentiments uttered in the United States; and that as Mr. Gladstone had refused to liberate them he thought it was the duty of this government to insist that the prisoners should be set at liberty. The President remarked that several delegations had called upon him in relation to the same subject. His sympathies were with those prisoners, and, therefore, he should be gratified at their release. He had placed the matter in the hands of Secretary Fish subsequently. The last gentleman informed Mr. Moriarty that he had already exerted his influence to secure the object of his visit and would persevere to that end; and he gave the assurance that the government would adopt every means in its power to protect all American citizens both at home and abroad in all their rights.

Arguments in the Supreme Court.

In the Supreme Court of the United States to-day argument was continued in the case of Joshua Birrell vs. The Propeller Mohawk, the Western Transportation Company claimant, and the case of The President, &c., of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company vs. the Pennsylvania Canal Company, in error to the Circuit Court for the Southern district of New York.

Stolen Bonds of the Credit Foncier of Poland.

The following official notice has just been promulgated:—

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20, 1869.

Mr. de Catacazy, the Minister of Russia, has informed this Department that certain parties are trying to put into circulation at the New York Exchange some bonds of the Crédit Foncier of Poland, which were stolen from the Bank of Warsaw during the late insurrectionary movement in the Polish provinces; that as soon as the Imperial authorities became aware of this robbery they published the numbers of the stolen bonds, and declared them not payable in consequence.

Mr. de Catacazy further states that, being unable to dispose of these bonds in the European markets, the robbers or their accomplices are now trying to find dupes in America; and he disclaims on behalf of the government of Russia all responsibility for any losses which may accrue to citizens of the United States from the purchase of the bonds referred to.

THE TRENTON INTERNAL REVENUE CASE.

United States Marshal Plummer, at Trenton, N. J., yesterday returned a writ of execution, having levied on the property of Messrs. Keeney, Wakeman, Prentice, Gilbert and McLoughlin (deceased), the sureties of ex-Collector Thorne, against whom the government recently obtained a verdict for $100,000, the amount of security in bonds filed by them for the faithful discharge of Thorne's duties as Collector of the Fifth district of New Jersey. The property levied consists of real estate in Jersey City. The sureties attempted to effect a compromise with the government by offering $25,000, which was refused. They then allowed the matter to lie in obeyance, manifesting no disposition to discharge, the claim when the District Attorney obtained a writ of execution as above mentioned. An indictment is pending against Thorne also for criminal neglect in causing the government to lose the tax—two dollars a gallon—on 50,000 gallons of whiskey.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Election of a Representative to the Suez Canal Opening—The Tare on Cotton in Liverpool.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday at the rooms, corner of Cedar and William streets. Some time was lost in hunting up nine members out of the 800 or 900 comprising the Chamber, and when, finally, the nine were secured the President, Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, called the meeting to order. He stated that it was a special meeting for a special object, and asked the Secretary to read the communication on which the call for the meeting was based. Mr. Wilson, the Secretary, then read from a slip of the HERALD of Monday last a copy of a letter sent by order of the Viceroy of Egypt to the editor of the HERALD inviting him to attend the opening of the Suez Canal. A similar letter had been sent to the President of the Chamber, but he could not attend, and he assured the gentlemen that he thought it would be in order for the Chamber to select a member to represent the commerce of this country at the opening of the Suez Canal. He said it would be one of the most important and most interesting events affecting commerce that has ever transpired. The improvements, he said, come so rapidly on us that we can scarcely comprehend them. He then went on to recite some of the events which have affected commerce and awarded "steam and electricity" such complimentary notice as would delight the hearts of certain "progressive" residents of the New World. He then said that Mr. S. B. Ruggles, a member of the Chamber, was at present in Paris, and would, no doubt, be happy to represent the Chamber at the opening of the Suez Canal. On motion, then, Mr. Ruggles was chosen to act as representative of the Chamber, and a vote of thanks, together with the notice of the election of Mr. Ruggles, was ordered to be transmitted to the government by which the invitation was sent to the President of the Chamber.

By unanimous consent of the nine gentlemen present Mr. Maury was permitted to offer a report from the special committee on the subject of a communication from the Chamber of Commerce in Liverpool. The report, which was unanimously adopted, is as follows:—

The committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to consider the communication from the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, recommending tare and draft on cotton purchased in this country, has had the subject under full consideration and cannot recommend any action on the question.

At first sight it would seem that the consumer or the party in England ordering purchases of cotton would get more cotton for his money, but the differences between Liverpool and New York weights are all so closely allowed for, even to the hundredth part of a penny per pound, that this would not be the effect, and no means except a man's own judgment can in either case deal with the question of loss in weight by evaporation, which is an uncertain and often an important percentage. Thus, if the Liverpool proposition were adopted, the condition of the trade would not be improved, and a new series of questions and disputes would probably arise.

It would be practically impossible to bring about the change suggested by the Liverpool Chamber.

The various local associations in all our ports are constantly engaged in devising improved regulations respecting the purchase and sale of cotton, and all such questions may be safely left in their hands.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. MAURY.
HENRY M. TABER.

There being no further business before the Chamber the nine gentlemen adjourned.

THE STATE CANALS.

Convention of Merchants Interested in Reform—Organization of a "Commercial Union."

The convention of delegates from the various Boards of Trade and of individuals throughout the State interested in reforming the canal management and improving the canal trade was held yesterday at the rooms of the Citizens' Association, 813 Broadway, in this city, pursuant to the call made September 17 last by the joint committees of the association, the Chamber of Commerce and the New York Produce Exchange. The Convention was called at ten o'clock A. M., and no persons were admitted except those who presented invitations of the joint committees or who bore credentials from trade organizations.

All the prominent and some of the lesser cities and towns along the line of the canals were represented and the meeting was large and earnest. Mr. Jeremiah P. Robinson was elected President of the Convention and Mr. Joseph F. Daly Secretary. Addresses were made by ex-Mayor Fish, of Rochester, Messrs. Niles, of Buffalo; Duganne, of New York; Lacy, of Albany; Messrs. Nathaniel Sands, James P. Wallace and Edward Hincken; Messrs. Niles, Case and W. H. Barclay, of Buffalo; Mr. Peter Cooper and others. The Convention unanimously resolved that an organization must be formed among those persons interested through the State in the reform of the canal system and trade, which organization should extend along the whole line of the canals, and have for its object the protection of the canals and their trade and the prosecution of corrupt and neglectful canal officers. A committee of six, with the president and secretary, was appointed to prepare and submit a plan of organization. This committee returned after a long session and reported a complete system of secret organization among persons interested in the canal trade. This plan was unanimously adopted by the Convention.

The leading features of the plan are:—A State Central Committee of nine persons, having its headquarters in one of the principal cities of the State, whence as a base of operations its movements against the fraudulent contractors and corrupt officials of the canal ring are to proceed. This committee is vested with power to call conventions and delegates from localities at such times and places as may be proper, in order to decide on any plan of operations in the Legislature or elsewhere. A corps of trusty agents, unknown to each other, are to be set upon short sections of the canals night and day to collect evidence against contractors, officials, thieves, &c., who make daily reports with sworn affidavits, sufficient to base charges and impeachments upon. In every village, town and city of the State on the line of the canals local executive committees are to be established, who employ local detectives and agents to follow the tracks of officials and contractors, to gather proofs, &c., and to forward sworn affidavits to the central committee to be used in prosecutions of the delinquents.

Resolutions were adopted concurring in the memorial presented to the Legislature last year in behalf of the State Canal Convention, recommending that the State Central Committee elected by this Convention be instructed to support the objects of the memorial before the next Legislature, and urging the speedy completion of improvements in the canals, &c.; also the reduction of the rate of tolls and the abolition of the contract repair system in canals, and that it be recommended to the Legislature that the canal debt of this State, now about $9,000,000, shall be funded for a term of eighteen years, and that the tolls shall be reduced to the lowest practicable sum, thus enabling our canal system to present the cheapest possible means of commercial intercourse between the Atlantic seaboard and the States of the great West.

DOMESTIC INFILICITIES IN NEW JERSEY.

Interesting Divorce Suits—Opinions by the Chancellor.

Yesterday in the Court of Chancery at Trenton Chancellor Zabriskie delivered opinions in the cases of Flavell vs. Flavell and Codington vs. Codington.

In the first case the Chancellor said it was a suit by Abraham W. Flavell for a divorce from his wife, the defendant, Charlotte A. Flavell, on the ground of adultery. The ansewer denied the adultery, and also charged the complainant with adultery by way of recrimination and as a defence to the suit. The cause is upon admitting the testimony of George Moore, who was sworn on the part of the complainant, and after the first day's examination either absented or secreted himself, both parties having vainly endeavored to find or procure him. Moore had not signed either his direct or cross-examination, so far as proceeded with. The defendant asked to suppress the testimony of Moore for that reason, and the Chancellor, after an elaborate dissertation on the admissability of certain evidence and the citation of numerous judicial authorities, arrived at the conclusion that Moore's deposition not being signed by him was imperfect and could not be read. The Chancellor ordered a decree for divorce to be entered in favor of Abraham W. Flavell.

The bill in the case of Codington vs. Codington was for a divorce a vinculo for desertion. The defendant (wife) being out of this State was served with a notice to appear and defend the suit, but she failed to do so. The special master reported that the case was not within the jurisdiction of this court, and that the divorce should not be granted. The parties were married in the city of New York, and resided there four years after their marriage, after which they removed to Bergen Point, in this State, in 1858, with the intention of living there. On the 27th of July in that year the defendant deserted her husband and has never since lived with him. The complainant resided at Bergen Point for a month or two after his wife left him and then returned to New York. In this case neither of the parties resided in this State for more than two months after the desertion commenced. The residence of these parties being in the State of New York, neither party, by stepping over to this State with his trunk and taking lodgings for a few weeks, can give to this court jurisdiction in the matter. Even if the requirements of the statutes of the State were strictly complied with, the decree of divorce would be a nullity, and in the State of New York the marriage relation would still exist. The Chancellor held that this case was not within the provisions of the statute, for the first section provides that the parties or one of them shall be inhabitants of the State at the time of the desertion complained of, and the last clause requires that one of them shall have been a resident of the State for three years during which such desertion shall have continued. On these grounds the application for a divorce was denied. A number of other opinions were read, but they were of an uninteresting character. The calendar for this term is unusually large.

FRIGHTFUL CUTTING AFFRAY.

A Steamboat Deck Hand Attacks and Mutilates a Barge Watchman—Anti-Mortem Statement—Arrest of the Would-Be Murderer.

Last night another terrible altercation, unfortunately alike to the deadly quarrels of late that have cast discredit upon the city, took place on the dock at the foot of Warren street between John S. Gormley and John Edge, during which the latter was frightfully cut in the neck with a knife used by the former. The nature of Edge's wounds is such that serious doubts are entertained of his recovery. The particulars gathered at a late hour last night reveal that Edge is a watchman on board the barge Susquehanna, at the above pier, and his assailant is a deck hand employed on board the steamboat Montana, plying hence to Perth Amboy. About seven o'clock in the evening Gormley sauntered down the dock and went on board the barge, when he was ordered off by the watchman, during which unpleasant words passed between them, but at that time no blows were struck, when, in obedience to Edge's commands, Gormley retreated, and when on the dock still persistently abused the former, daring him "to come off and fight." Edge very foolishly did so, when, still further provoked, he struck Gormley, who drew a knife and stabbed him in the left side of the neck, repeating the blow with like terrible effect after the two had clinched and were fighting on the pier. A crowd soon gathered, drawn together by the loud cries, when the wounded man crawled back to the barge, the blood gushing in a large stream from the gashes. He was soon afterward removed to the City Hospital by officer Markey, of the Third precinct, who, hearing of the disturbance, promptly arrested Gormley and one or two friends that were near the scene of blood.

Coroner Flynn was at once notified of the dangerous condition of the wounded man, when he at once repaired to the hospital with his deputy, Dr. Shine, and, after empanneling a jury, the following

was taken:—

My name is John Edge; am twenty-seven years of age. Live on board the barge Susquehannah. I do not know whether I shall die or not; I hope to recover; I am a watchman on board the barge named, now lying at the foot of Warren street; she hails from Newburg. This evening, about seven o'clock, three men came on the dock; three men, the prisoner (Gormley) being one of them, who alone soon after came on board the barge. I ordered him off, but he refused to go. He wanted to fight with me. The other two men then called him and he went off. He then wanted me to come off to the dock and there fight him. I went on the dock and struck the prisoner. He then cut me with a knife in the neck, when I threw him down. At this time he cut me a second time. Finding myself cut I got back to the barge, when I was taken to the hospital. The man here present is the same one that cut me.

The jury after this statement rendered the follow-verdict:—"John Edge came to his wounding on the night of October 20, on the Warren street dock, at the hands of John S. Gormley, with a knife."

The prisoner was then taken to the station house on Chambers street, where he was securely incarcerated. Gormley is but twenty-one years of age, and in his statement says that he was knocked down during the trouble, when he cut some one. He is not an unpleasant looking fellow, and says he was on the dock looking for freight for the steamer on which he is a deck hand. Although not drunk when arrested, he had been drinking. He was very anxious at a later hour in the night to know of the condition of his victim.

The wounds Edge received may prove fatal, and it is feared they will; but there is a chance of his recovery; yet the surgeons at the hospital could not at midnight venture an opinion upon his condition. Gormley will be araigned at the Tombs' Police Court this morning, and the disposition then made of him will depend upon Edge's chances of life. The knife used is a pocket knife, formerly four-bladed, but now has but three. The large blade is badly stained with blood.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 20—6 P. M.

It will be gratifying to the numerous creditors of the Gold Exchange Bank to learn that the process of liquidation has progressed so far as to enable the receiver to pay twenty-five per cent of all claims which have been adjusted, and the following notice has been accordingly issued:—

NEW YORK, Oct. 20, 1869.

The undersigned hereby gives notice to all creditors of the Gold Exchange Bank whose claims have been adjusted that, pursuant to an order this day obtained from the Supreme Court giving express authority to make such payments, he is prepared to pay twenty-five per cent upon the amounts of such adjusted claims on and after the 21st inst. Dealers whose statements have been approved will please hand them in without delay, and upon verification of the same the twenty-five per cent will immediately be paid. G. N. JORDAN, Receiver.

Outside of the Vanderbilt stocks there was no interruption to the dulness which seems to have settled upon Wall street. The money market was abundantly supplied at five to seven per cent, according to the standing of borrowers and the character of collaterals. Prime commercial paper was quoted at nine to twelve per cent discount. In the foreign exchanges there was more activity, and some of the prime bankers advanced their rates a quarter per cent, and all of them an eighth per cent. It seems that the large imports create an urgent inquiry for bills, and although the produce exports are large the bills drawn against them are rapidly absorbed. Heretofore the regular drawers had to compete with the offerings of bond bills as well as of produce bills, but the exports of bonds have been light of late, while a number of coupons have arrived from Europe, which, if not reinvested, must be covered by bills of exchange. The gold market was extremely dull and the price still stood at 130 a 130⅛. The government market was firm at the noon board in consequence of the proposal of the government to purchase two millions of bonds to-day, and the 67's sold quite freely at 118⅛. The offerings at the Sub-Treasury were so large, however—over $8,000,000—that the market became heavy and prices fell off an eighth to a quarter per cent for the leading issues. The bonds purchased by the government were in the lots and at the prices following:—

Southern securities were without special feature and the market dull, except for the Tennessees and the North Carolinas, which absorb any speculative interest there may be in this department of the Stock Exchange.

At the last session of the board the following quotations were made for the Southern State bonds:—Tennessee, ex coupon, 61¼ a 61½; do., new, 54½ a 54¾; Virginia, ex coupon, 50⅝ a 51; do., new, 52½ a 55; Georgia sixes, 84½; do., sixes, small, 90½ bid; North Carolina, ex coupon, 46½ bid; do., new, 40 a 42; do., special tax, 43½ a 44; Missouri sixes, 87⅛ a 87¾; Louisiana sixes, 68 a 68½; do. levee sixes, 63 a 63½; do. do., eights, 83; South Carolina sixes, new, 66½ a 68.

The Union Pacific Railroad earned during the first fifteen days in October $412,024, which are the largest earnings for the same length of time since the road has been in operation.

The record of the stock market is the old one of activity and buoyancy in the Vanderbilt shares, New York Central having sold at 194, Hudson River at 175 and Harlem at 149½. Lake Shore was also a favorite in the afternoon dealings in the Long Room, and many of the "shorts" were constrained into buying, which put the price to 94. The directors are to hold a stated meeting at Cleveland on Friday next, but with what object is not published. Meantime there were reports in circulation to-day that the committee have arranged to issue two millions of ten per cent income bonds, and also paid sixty per cent along with the twenty-five per cent margin required to fulfil the contract for the purchase of Wabash stock. The increased earnings of the St. Paul road created a demand for the stock, which sent the price to 70. Reading was strong and rose to 97 upon the statement that its earnings for the expired nine months of 1869 were $2,500,000, against $1,100,000 in 1868. The Vanderbilt stocks became dull late in the day and the speculative feeling visited the rest of the list. Northwestern common suddenly advanced to 71⅜, as against 70⅛ in the forenoon. Rock Island also came in for a share of attention and sold up to 107⅜. In the miscellaneous list Pacific Mail was very quiet. In the express stocks Adams and American were strong and Wells-Fargo weak. The following were the closing prices of stocks at the last session of the Stock Exchange:—Canton, 51½ a 51¾; Cumberland, 27½ a 27⅞; Western Union, 36⅛ a 36¾; Quicksilver, 12⅛ bid; Mariposa, 8 a 8½; do. preferred, 16⅞ a 17; Pacific Mail, 58⅛ a 58⅜; Boston Water Power, 14⅛ a 14¾; Adams Express, 57 a 58⅛; Wells-Fargo Express, 19⅛ a 20; American Express, 34 a 35; United States Express, 57 a 58⅛; New York Central, 190¾ a 191; Erie, 31⅛ a 31⅜; do. preferred, 53 a 58; Hudson River, 174 a 174½; Harlem, 149½; Reading, 96⅞ a 96⅞; Michigan Central, 123 bid; Lake Shore, 92¼ a 92⅜; Illinois Central, 135 bid; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 97 a 98; Chicago and Northwestern, 71⅛ a 71⅜; do. preferred, 84 a 84¼; Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati, 76 a 78; Rock Island, 107¼ a 107⅜; Milwaukee and St. Paul, 68⅜ a 68½; do. preferred, 81½ a 81⅝; Toledo and Wabash, 65⅞ a 66; Fort Wayne, 84⅞ a 85; Alton and Terre Haute, 32; do. preferred, 57 bid; Ohio and Mississippi, 27 a 27⅛; Delaware and Lackawanna, 110 a 110½; New Jersey Central, 101¼ a 101⅝; Chicago and Alton, 141½ a 144; do. preferred, 142 a 143; Morris and Essex, 88 bid; Hannibal and St. Joseph, 110 a 110½; do. preferred, 110 bid; Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central, 24 a 24¾.

—The wheat market opened steady, with a fair demand, but closed heavy and lower, under a pressure to sell car lots, which were placed as low as $1 45 a $1 47 delivered, prime samples being $1 47 a $1 48 in store. The favorable tenor of the cable news was counteracted by the high rates of freight by steamers (which were fully 2d. per bushel higher than they were two or three days ago) and the pressure to sell car lots. The sales—mostly of car lots—comprised about 160,000 bushels, at $1 13 a $1 18 for rejected spring, $1 28 a $1 39 for Illinois winter; $1 45 a $1 50 for inferior to choice red and amber winter, delivered; $1 47 a $1 48 for do. in store; $1 50 a $1 55 for white Western, closing dull and irregular. For prime No. 2 spring $1 36 was bid and $1 40 asked. Corn was dull and lower to sell to any extent, though the range of prices was about the same. The sales were about 85,000 bushels at $1 a $1 08 for common to choice mixed Western and $1 08 a $1 10 for white and yellow. Rye was quiet. Sales 16,000 bushels at $1 18 a $1 20 for State, in small lots, and $1 07 for Western, at depot. Oats were dull and irregular. Sales 50,000 bushels at 58c. a 63c., with small sales of white State at 63c. a 64c. Barley was scarce and firm, with sales of 10,000 bushels at $1 35 for two-rowed State and $1 50 a $1 57 for Canada West. Of barley malt the sales were 2,000 bushels at $1 70 for Canada West.

FREIGHTS.—The market was less active, but rates were firm and in some cases higher. The chartering business was quiet, but all kinds of vessels were held for full rates. The engagements were:—To Liverpool, 22,500 bushels wheat at 9½d., 1,000 bbls. flour at 2s. 6d., 400 bales cotton at ⅜d., 1,000 bbls. rosin at 2s. 6d. and per steamer 15,000 bushels wheat at 10¼d. and 3,000 bales cotton at ⅜d.; to London 1,000 bbls. flour at 2s. 6d., 1,000 bales hops at 3-16d. and 1,000 bbls. rosin at 3s.; to Bristol, 120 tons heavy goods at 27s. 6d. The charters were:—A bark from Philadelphia to Gibraltar for orders, Spanish ports excluded, with 3,300 bbls petroleum at 5s. 6d. flat; a bark from Philadelphia to a direct port on the Continent, with 2,800 bbls. petroleum on private terms, and a bark from Savannah to Liverpool or Havre, with about 1,700 bales cotton at ⅝d.

GUNNIES were dull and heavy. Bags were quoted 16c. a 16½c. and cloth 22¼c. a 22½c., without sales. Sales 50 bales bags, in Boston, at 16c.

HOPS.—The market was quiet, the demand from all sources continuing light, but holders were indisposed to operate except at full figures. A few small lots were taken by consumers at 15c. a 20c. for new, and 4c. a 9c. for old, according to quality.

HEMP.—We heard of no sales of consequence, the demand being very light. Manila was quoted 14c., gold; jute 4¾c. a 5¼c., do.; Sisal 11½c. a 12c., do., and Tampico 7½c. a 8c., do. in bond.

HAY.—The demand was only moderate, but prices were steady. Shipping was selling at 65c., retail lots at 80c. a $1 10, long rye straw $1 a $1 05 and short do. at 80c. a 85c.

MOLASSES.—The market was quiet, the demand being light, but prices were steady at the quotations published in our last issue. We heard of no sales of consequence.

NAVAL STORES.—Spirits turpentine was scarce and prices advanced materially in consequence, the market closing at 47½c. a 48c. for merchantable and shipping lots; 200 bbls. were sold to arrive at 47c., and early in the day a small lot was sold on the spot at 46c. Rosin was slow of sale, but prices were generally firm. The sales were 250 bbls. pale at $5 a $5 25 a $5 50 and 100 do. No. 1 at $4. We quote:—Strained, $2 20 a $2 30; No. 2, $2 35 a $2 75; No. 1, $3 a $4 25; pale, $4 50 a $5 25; extra do. and window glass, $5 50 a $8 25. Tar was quiet, closing at $2 75 a $2 87½ for Washington and $2 57½ for Wilmington.

OILS.—Linseed was dull and heavy. Small lots were selling at 97c. a $1 in casks and bbls. Other kinds were dull at former prices. No sales of consequence were reported.

PROVISIONS.—Receipts, 145 bbls. pork, 54 packages cut meats and 90 do. lard. The business in pork was light, the sales being confined to small lots, which commanded the prices current yesterday. About 500 bbls., in lots, were sold at $30 75 a $31 for new mess and $34 for city do. 250 bbls. new mess, for January delivery, were sold at $28, seller's option. Dressed hogs were a trifle easier, closing at 13¼c. a 13⅜c. for city. Live hogs were quoted 10⅝c. a 11⅛c., with arrivals of 4,748 head. Beef was moderately dealt in at steady prices, the sales being 50 bbls., at $5 a $12 for plain mess and $12 a $17 for extra do. Tierce beef was inactive and prices were nominal. Beef hams were steady, with sales of 75 bbls. at $18 a $26, including choice brands at $22 a $26. Both cut meats and bacon were quiet, owing to the small stock and the high prices asked; quotations were unchanged. For lard the market was moderately active at former prices, the sales being 500 packages at 16⅞c. a 17⅞ for No. 1 to prime steam and 18⅛c. a 18⅝c. for kettle rendered. Butter and cheese were unchanged.

PETROLEUM.—For crude in bulk the market was more active, but at lower prices; there were sellers at 17⅛c., but no buyers above 17⅛c. 2,700 bbls., deliverable during the first part of November, were sold at 17⅛c. No spot sales were reported. Crude in bbls. was dull and nominal at 25c. The market for refined was quiet, but firm, closing at 33⅛c. a 33¼c. for spot and 33c. for October. The stock is extremely light, which checks business. The sales were 1,000 bbls. on the spot at 33⅛c., and 4,000 do. for the balance of this month at 32⅞c. a 33c., chiefly at the latter price. Naphtha was firm at 11c., at which price there were sold 1,000 bbls. of prime quality. In Philadelphia the market was quiet, but firm, closing at 32⅞c. a 33c. for October. We heard of no sales.

STEARINE.—The demand was slow, and we heard of no important sales. Prices were heavy, at 17c. a 19c. for common to choice in hhds. and tierces.

SEEDS.—Grass were dull and nominal at yesterday's quotations. For linseed the market was dull, at $2 17½, gold, duty paid, at which price the last sale was made.

SUGAR.—The market for raw was moderately active at former prices, the sales, which were chiefly to refiners, being 500 hhds., 11⅝c. a 13c. for Cuba and Porto Rico, and 650 boxes part at 12⅛c. Refined was selling moderately at the following prices:—Hard, 16⅛c.; soft white, 14⅝c. a 15⅛c.; extra C, 14⅝c., and yellow, 13⅝c. a 14⅛c. ANOTHER BROKEN RAIL.

Accident on the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad—Several Persons Injured.

[From the Lynchburg (Va.) Republican, Oct. 19.]

About six o'clock yesterday morning the down mail train of the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad met with an accident, three-quarters of a mile west of Lisbon, which came near being attended with the most tragic consequences. While the train was moving along at its usual rapid speed, there being no suspicion of any danger impending, the ladies' car and the sleeping car were suddenly and violently thrown from the track by the breaking of a rail under the wheels of the ladies' car. The accident happened at a time when the train was on the crest of a steep embankment. One end of the ladies' car was thrown over the verge of the embankment, but was checked by some fortunate chance, and did not make the perilous descent. The sleeping car made one revolution. Strange to say, though seven or eight persons were more or less painfully and severely bruised, no serious injuries were sustained by any of the passengers or railroad hands. The lamps which were burning in the two cars were put out by the concussion, leaving the disordered scene in darkness. The stove in the ladies' car, being one of the new patents, secured to the floor and roof of the car, did not slip from its place, and its doors did not open, thus saving the terror-stricken passengers from the possible additional distress and danger of fire.

The following is a list of the persons whose bruises are most considerable. None of these, even, are considered seriously hurt:—

John Liggan, conductor of the sleeping car, bruised about the face and body.

Mrs. Beattie, of Glade Spring, who was on her way to Richmond.

Judge Biggs, of North Carolina, who was returning home from the Louisville Convention.

The two damaged cars were left near the track where the accident occurred. The passengers were transferred to the other cars, and the train reached the city with only a half hour's detention beyond the schedule time.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE IN THE BOSTON POST OFFICE.—As Mr. E. P. Cotting, a mailing clerk in the Post Office, was engaged in stamping letters at seven o'clock last evening, something contained in one of the letters exploded with a loud report, the powder or other matter burning his right hand and wrist so badly as to require dressing by a physician. The envelope was also badly torn by the explosion, so much so that the name of the party to whom it was addressed was destroyed. Enough was left, however, to show that it was directed to Mrs. S., box 381 Woonsocket, R. I. The superscription appeared to be in a lady's hand writing, and it is conjectured that some jealous or revengeful woman had taken this method to mutilate if not kill the object of her hatred. The murderous missive was dropped into one of the boxes at the Post Office between six and seven o'clock, and hopes are entertained that the guilty party will be discovered.—Boston Herald, Oct. 20.

ITALIAN OPERA.

SEASON OF 1869-70.

Mr. Maretzek has the honor to announce that the First Series of Representations of the Regular Season of Italian Opera will commence on or about

NOVEMBER 1, 1869.

Confident that the general public will receive with pleasure the announcement that the plans are perfected for making the programmes for the forthcoming season conspicuously brilliant, the Director takes pleasure in submitting for approval the following engagements:—

SOPRANOS.

MISS CLARA LOUISA KELLOGG,
recognized in Europe and America as one of the most gifted and successful of the LEADING PRIME DONNE OF THE DAY,
was engaged by Mr. Maurice Strakosch to appear in Paris this season. But, believing that the co-operation of this eminent young American artist would be indispensable to the thorough presentation of several new works that are to be introduced at the Academy, Mr. Maretzek has at a great sacrifice prevailed upon Mr. Maurice Strakosch to yield his right to her valued services and permit her to remain in New York for the present.
MADAME CAROLINA DE BRIOL.
(From the San Carlo, Naples.)
Combining a magnificent voice with dramatic genius of an unexceptionally high order, Madame Briol has, within a very brief period, obtained an exalted reputation throughout Italy, which, it is confidently felt, will be reaffirmed by the critical judgment of the American public.
MISS LOUISE C. TREUER

From Royal Opera, London.
Sig. B. REYNA.
Sig. G. R. ANTONUCCI
Sig. N. BARILI, and
Sig. GEORGIO RONCONI.
SPECIAL NOTICE.
In conclusion, Mr. Maretzek has the extreme satisfaction of announcing that he has completed arrangements with Mr. Max Strakosch for presenting in Opera, for a LIMITED NUMBER OF NIGHTS ONLY,
the illustrious Cantatrice,
MISS CARLOTTA PATTI,
whose peerless vocalization has electrified the most critical audiences of Europe and America, and everywhere created an interest parallel only in the memorable history of two or three singers whose extraordinary talents, like hers, have justly been considered phenomenal.
THE REPERTOIRE
will include most of the favorite standard works of the favorite composers, in addition to which the management intends producing, during the season of 1869-70, the following
NEW OPERAS,
Presented for the first time in America:—
HAMLET,
By Ambroise Thomas.

By Petrella, composer of "Ione."

CUBA.

The steamship Yazoo, from Havana, arrived at Philadelphia yesterday. Her mails were received in this city early this morning.

The Heavy Rains—All Military Operations Suspended—Valmaseda Expected—Arrival of the New Governor—Insurgents Intrenched on the River Cauto—Cholera Decreasing—Scarcity of Animal Food.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 8, 1869.

It has been continuously raining for several days past, flooding the country, rendering the roads impassable and all military operations, of course, impossible. Many of the river channels are so full that a number of soldiers have been drowned in attempting to cross. More than twenty of the wounded brought here after the late fight in Cauto Abajo, in which Major Isquierda commanded the Spaniards, have died in hospital, among them three officers. Another one has undergone amputation of the leg. Preparations were recently made here for the pursuit of the rebel chief Policarpo Rustan, in Guantanamo, but the rains have interfered.

Count Valmaseda is expected here to-day or to-morrow, and much excitement is manifested over the preparations for his reception. There has been a report that he was besieged in Bayamo, but it is not credited.

The new Governor, D. Felix Ferrer, arrived here on the steamer Cuba. He was duly waited upon by the Ayuntamiento and listened to and responded in the usual remarks concerning the national integrity, &c.

The entire bank of the Cauto river is in the possession of the insurgents, who have intrenched themselves there. They are thought to be in strong force and the troops have not seen fit to molest them.

A battalion of volunteers, to be called the "Guias de Valmaseda," is being organized here, the pay of the privates of which is to be thirty dollars per month.

The cholera is gradually diminishing; but there are still some cases, as also of smallpox.

Animal food is very dear here, beef being thirty-five cents a pound. Fish is, however, very plenty, and it constitutes the chief diet of the poorer classes.

Military Operations Interrupted by the Rains—Movements of the Insurgents—Probable Concentration—Alarm of the Outposts—The Innocent Cause—Failure of an Expedition of the Troops—They are Repulsed—A Change in Governorship—Reappearance of the Cholera.

NUEVITAS, Oct. 8, 1869.

We have had very heavy rains of late in this vicinity, which have prevented all military operations. On this account no foraging parties have left Puerto Principe, and the troops and inhabitants of that city have been deprived of eating meat for the past eight days.

During the past week large bodies of insurgents have crossed the railroad line; but their destination and object are not known. They are probably concentrating for some purpose.

On the night of the 29th ult., after a very heavy rain storm several shots were heard along the line outside, shortly afterward followed by a number of volleys. Immediately the whole town was in a state of alarm. The regulars and volunteers ran to their posts, and the cry was raised that the insurgents were attacking the city. It was soon ascertained, however, that all this hubbub was created by a poor old cow, which, upon approaching the line, failed to answer the regular challenge and was fired upon. This alarmed the other outposts, who, with much presence of mind, immediately discharged their pieces at random and hastened to rally.

About the middle of last month a column comprising 1,000 men, and commanded by Colonel Aguilar, left Puerto Principe for the purpose of attacking the plantation Rio Seco, owned and defended by the insurgent chief Correlio Porro. It was absent about three days, when it returned, and nothing has been said as to the result of the expedition. It has leaked out, however, that it was repulsed and compelled to return without accomplishing the object.

On the 29th ult. arrived here, in the Spanish war steamer Vasco Nuñez, the newly appointed Political and Military Governor, Don Julian Amado. It is hoped by the justice-loving inhabitants of this city that he will inaugurate a new era, and that in his official acts he will be guided by his own good judgment and not by the coterie of volunteers which surrounded his predecessor, and which influenced him to many arbitrary and despotic acts. Since the new Governor has arrived quiet has been restored to the hearts of many families which lived in constant dread that some of their members would be arrested, imprisoned and sent off to Havana on any pretext or caprice of the late satrap. This last, Don Federico Mugumza y Lersundi, is only regretted by a few of his satellites, part of whom formed the committee which, after exacting the signatures of many who had received injuries at his hands, went to ask the Captain General to reinstate him. Fortunately their application was not granted. The cholera has reappeared among several of the detachments stationed on the railroad line. All supplies, merchandise, trunks, &c., going to Puerto Principe are carefully examined before being placed on the train, to discover, if possible, something treasonable.

PORTO RICO.

Great Flood in Porto Rico—A Good Part of the City Inundated—Houses Carried off—A Church Edifice Sunk—Exertions of the Authorities.

HAVANA, Oct. 14, 1869.

Dates from Porto Rico to the 3d inst. received here announce that on the 27th ult., between two and three o'clock P. M., after seventy hours of heavy and continuous rain, the river Niguas, a small stream which runs along the north and east of the place, in the extreme outskirts, rose rapidly and threatened the principal street, occupying a considerable part of the city towards the sea. Fortunately the more exposed inhabitants were enabled to abandon their houses, which they were compelled to do very quickly, and escape the danger. Three houses were destroyed and carried off by the flood. The church edifice, situated four blocks from the channel of the river, was nearly taken from its foundations; one of the vestry walls fell into the river, and the others remained standing because they were attached to the chancel, the arches, towers and cupola of which now threaten to fall. The principal street lost all its hard surface, and throughout its whole length now represents the bed of a torrent filled with rocks and debris. The authorities and the young men exerted themselves to their utmost to prevent the loss of life, removing the families on horseback to safe asylums and to the houses of neighbors, who received them with great kindness.

Dealers in the Mystic Numbers Lugged Up for Ignoring Uncle Sam's Share of the Profits.

In the United States District Court at Trenton yesterday, before Judge R. S. Field, two respectable young men named William H. Gallagher and Edward Burgesser were tried on an indictment charging them with having carried on the business of lottery ticket dealers without paying the especial tax. The evidence proved that the violation of the statute was more through neglect than any criminal desire to evade its provisions. The testimony showed that heretofore the defendants paid the tax regularly; that application for license had been regularly filed, and that they had paid the tax on the day of their arrest. The Deputy Collector of the Fifth district, George A. Matthews, testified that the 15th of June was the last day of paying the tax without a penalty being attached. He afterwards went to collect it from Mr. Gallagher, but he was not at home. The defence deemed it unnecessary to produce any witnesses, but Mr. Leon Abbett, the counsel, said that it was admitted on all sides that notice was given by the government authorities that the time for paying the tax was extended to the 20th of July, and that the ticket was sold to Detective Nettleship's stool pigeon the day previous. The defendants paid their tax bill on the 22d of July—the government receiving the full amount of tax from May, 1869, to May, 1870—and yet the defendants were indicted for not paying it. Judge Field mildly charged the jury, who returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy. The Court then imposed a fine of ten dollars.

The Judge remarked that the idea thrown out by the District Attorney that the United States District Court should be subsidiary to the State courts in carrying out the laws of this State could not for a moment be entertained. It was certainly a disgrace to the State of New Jersey that its laws were so openly and flagrantly violated, but the government would not make itself subsidiary to enforcing State laws.

Mrs. Margaret Fritch, William Reynolds and George Burgesser pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging them with a similar offence. Sentence was suspended for the present. The jurors were then discharged till next Tuesday morning, at ten o'clock.

"WHO THREW THAT LAST BRICK?"

The death of Henry Grant, a colored man, at No. 198 Rivington street, was mentioned in yesterday's HERALD. Lydia Griffin, the reputed wife of the deceased, testified before Coroner Keenan that he fell on the pavement and injured himself. The Coroner subsequently heard another version of the affair and directed Drs. Shine and Cushman to make a post mortem examination on the body, which resulted in finding a fracture of the skull and compression of the brain.

Lydia Griffin was recalled and told a different story from that she at first swore to. Lydia, who was not the wife of deceased, now says that she threw a stone at Sam Cummings, also colored, and hit deceased by mistake. Coroner Keenan committed Lydia to prison, and will further investigate the matter of Grant's death.

BROOKLYN CITY.

ST. ANN'S ON THE HEIGHTS.

The Inaugural Ceremonies of the New Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn—Large and Brilliant Congregations—Order of Exercises—The Pastor's Reception—Description of the Edifice.

The opening services of the new Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Ann's, situated on the northeast corner of Clinton and Livingston streets, Brooklyn, in its dedication to the worship of Almighty God, took place yesterday, and were of the most impressive character. From ten o'clock in the morning to and after the hour appointed for the service, the streets and avenues leading to this gorgeous architectural structure were thronged with a living stream of men, women and children, all anxiously hurrying to that point. The congregation that filled every pew in the church, and rested in the aisles and sat on the light parapet around the chancel, was such that seldom come together. There were there hundreds of ladies matchless in beauty and the originality of their elegant toilets, and hundreds of the noted citizens of both Brooklyn and New York, while the clerical force present represented every denomination and sect. The scene before the services began was, indeed, one of exquisite grandeur, a varied and beautiful spectacle. Through the exceedingly handsome tinted windows, rich and geometrical mosaic work, the quivering sunlight streamed in a thousand shafts, reflecting the prismatic hues of the rainbow; and as they fell upon the arrayed seekers for divine truth, whose habiliments struck the eye with equal effect of loveliness, and lighted up ceiling and walls, bringing out to bolder view the brilliant and harmonious colorings with which they are decorated, the inner structure seemed a resplendent monument of architecture.

At half-past eleven o'clock the organ began to peal forth its pleasing and sparkling tones, and the opening hymn by Reder, "I was glad," &c., was given in G. As the last note died away in the aisles beyond the organist began a solemn march, and soon the stately tread of the procession of bishops and clergy was heard. They went with measured tread up the aisle, arrayed in the robes of their holy calling, and, reaching the chancel, assumed their appropriate stalls. There were in the procession Rev. Dr. Noah Hunt Schenck, pastor of the church; the Right Rev. A. N. Littlejohn, Bishop of Long Island; Bishop Potter, of New York; Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio; Bishop Talbot, of Indiana; Dr. Peet, Iowa; Dr. Bancroft, Montreal; Dr. Smith, Flushing; Dr. Mills, Hartford; Dr. Van Kleeck, Flatbush; Drs. D. V. M. Johnson, Alexander Burgess, Jacob W. Diller, Charles H. Hall, John A. Paddock, Samuel Harkins, R. Darius Brewer, William M. Postlethwaite and T. S. Downe, of Brooklyn; Drs. Montgomery, Potter, Washburn and Rev. Professor Johnson, of New York. Then, amid the impressive and becoming silence which had fallen upon the church, the opening anthem, "Holy, holy, holy," by J. M. Loretz, Jr., the organist, was sung. The programme of service was thereafter as follows:—

Morning Prayer to Psalter	Rev. Dr. Peet
"Venite Exultemus," in G	J. R. Thomas

Gospel	Rev. Dr. Washburn
473d Selected Hymn, "Christ is Made the Sure Foundation"	Rev. Dr. Diller

THE INAUGURAL SERMON.

Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio, then delivered the inaugural sermon, taking as his text II. Timothy iii. 5—"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." The sermon was very lengthy, occupying over an hour in its delivery, but was listened to with marked attention. There is but room for a small portion of the discourse. Godliness here is a term for that inward and spiritual grace which is the life and being of all genuine piety before God. There is no objection indicated in the Scriptures to having a form of godliness. It is not said what sort of form, good or bad, there should be. Mind this. Sacraments in their place may be all right, and all the accompaniments right. The revival of old mediæval names and usages having the savor of incense and the romance of dim antiquity are common. Thus the minute reinauguration of cast-off trappings of ritualism which our reformers could not tolerate; gorgeous sacerdotal vestments full of false doctrine in their symbolic meaning. The Bishop, in concluding his discourse said, in addressing the congregation, be careful, brethren, that no attachment to all this handiwork—the form within and without—shall ever beguile you into forgetfulness of what the true temple is, and its infinite importance compared with all the outward forms of its worship; lest you incur the Apostles' rebuke, "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the spirit of God dwelleth in you?" It is that indwelling of the spirit that makes the temple, so that every heart that has it is God's temple, as St. Paul says again, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you?"

The following services then took place:—

Offertory—Voluntary in G major, "Let us Bring One Offering"	J. M. Loretz, Jr
Prayer for Church Militant	Rev. Dr. Van Kleeck
Exhortation to Holy Communion	Rev. Dr. Hall
Address and Confession	Rev. Dr. Paddock
Declaration of Absolution	Bishop of Long Island
What follows to the "Ter Sanctus"	Rev. Prof. Johnson
"Ter Sanctus," in C	G. W. Warren
Consecration of Elements	Bishop of Ohio
276th Hymn, "Jerusalem the Golden."
Administration of Elements	Rev. Drs. Diller and Burgess
Post Communion	Bishop of New York
"Gloria in Excelsis"	Mozart
Benediction	Bishop of Long Island

RECEPTION AT THE PASTOR'S.

Between the hours of three and five o'clock in the afternoon Dr. Schenck had a reception at his elegant house, No. 64 Pierrepont street. There were present some hundred and fifty clergymen, who, together with their families, augmented the number that called upon him to fully three hundred. The interchange of fellowship over a sumptuous entertainment was of the most pleasing and ennobling character.

THE EVENING SERVICE.

At eight o'clock last evening the church was again thronged with the élite of Brooklyn and this city. The number of clergymen present equalled the morning attendance of the "leaders in Christ." The effect produced by the many jets of gas seemed to materially reduce the brilliancy of the dark blue chancel, sky-dotted here and there with stars of gold, but the mouldings and architecture everywhere dazzled beautifully in the flood of light. The programme of the service was:—

Opening Anthem, "Blessed is He That Cometh," in A f	J. M. Loretz, Jr
Evening Prayer to Psalter	Rev. Mr. Paddock
Eighth selection of Psalms	Rev. Dr. Haskins
"Gloria in Excelsis."
First Lesson, Isaiah lv	Rev. Mr. McIlvaine
"Cantate Domine," in A	"Bridgewater"
Second Lesson, Rom. viii	Rev. Mr. Jessup
"Benedic Anima Mea," in A	Church Choir
Creed and Prayers	Rev. Dr. F. Vinton
112th Psalm, "With My Whole Heart," &c	Rev. M. Brewer
Historical Discourse	Bishop of Long Island
268th Hymn, "Sun of My Soul"	Rev. Mr. Postlethwaite
Collects	Rev. Dr. Drowne
Benediction	Bishop of Long Island
Hallelujah Chorus	Handel's "Messiah"

The historical discourse of Bishop Littlejohn was replete with reminiscences of St. Ann's church, from the date of its foundation, its reverses and prosperity, and was listened to with commendable patience by the congregation. It was interesting to a degree.

THE CHIMES.

The first peal of the chime of eight bells in the tower, an Easter offering to the church from one of the liberal members of the congregation, was at sunrise yesterday morning, and their unfamiliar yet pleasing tones awakened the people in the neighborhood by their clear, sweet sounds. At eight o'clock A. M. "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow" was chimed, and at five P. M. "The Evening Hymn" was rung clearly and exquisitely. The chimes were also played at the morning and evening services.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SACRED EDIFICE.

The parish of St. Ann's was organized in the year 1785, and this is the third church which has been built for the congregation. The first was a blue stone edifice on the corner of Sands and Washington streets, fronting on the former. The second was of brick, in the same block, at the corner of Washington and Prospect streets, fronting on Washington street. The congregation has recently occupied the chapel on Clinton street, which adjoins the new church on the north.

The new St. Ann's was commenced in 1867, the corner stone having been laid in June of that year. Both the exterior and the interior of the building have strongly marked characteristics, and command attention by novel and unique architectural features. The exterior is of a combination of Belleville brown stone and white stone from the Ohio quarries, and its ensemble is imposing and dignified, bearing evidence of bold and skilful treatment. The architecture is that known as decorated or middle pointed. The arches are formed of these two kinds of stone alternately. The Ohio stone is also liberally used in broad courses, and in the columns of the doorways. The result is to bring out strongly the contrast of the red and white. The uncommon height of the building contributes greatly to the external effect, but still more to the internal. The perpendicular from the floor to the pitch of the roof is 100 feet. The interior nave and side aisles are expressed on the front façade by gables, the centre one being flanked by two fine towers and spires. The centre entrance door is highly enriched, having buttresses with crocheted pinnacles and traceried gables with a background of diaper ornament. The whole effect of this façade is picturesque and varied, and has an admirable expression of breadth and proportion. The Livingston street side of the church, with its parallel front, has been treated with a good deal of thought and skill. Buttresses divide the sides into bays or parts, strengthening and beautifying the façade. At each end of the bays are gables, with fine pinnacled buttresses flanking them, the gable furthest from Clinton street having an entrance door leading into the church. Towers rise above the ridge and cresting of the roof to the height of thirty-six feet, and, being of perforated stone work, give them a grateful vivacity. The windows of this side, both above and below the line of the galleries, preserve the proportion of the building by treating them with piers and mullions, giving the lower ones an apparent height while it diminishes that of the upper ones. The caps of the columns of the central entrance doors are richly carved in leaves and grapes, mingled with ears of wheat, expressive and suggestive of the elements of the sacrament. Around the arch of the door is worked a very rich conventional ball flower, and a fern leaf clasps the mouldings above the columns, beautifying the whole composition. The traceries of the windows are all of stone, and of an elaborate nature. The lines and figures are geometrical, and have a strong and beautiful expression, combining ideas typical and illustrative of different Christian principles, such as the interlacing of the triangle and trefoil, suggestive of the indivisibility and equality of the Godhead.

The three entrance vestibules are approached by flights of steps on Clinton street. On either side of the centre door are stairs leading to the galleries, extending around the sides and across one end of the church. The body of the edifice has five parallel aisles, dividing the pews into suitable lengths to meet the requirements of the congregation. As one enters the church the chancel is a most striking feature. It is different from the usual plan adopted in Episcopal places of worship, but it is unique in its arrangement. It is raised a few steps above the level of the floor and projects out in circular form, having a light parapet of ornamental ironwork, gilded and decorated. Behind this, against the walls, are arranged stalls for the clergymen officiating at any ceremony. The centre stall is more elaborate than the others, and is designed to be the bishop's seat of honor. The caps and finials of the gables here and the communion table are enriched by exquisite carvings. The credit of the arrangement of the chancel is due to the pastor, whose idea was to place immediately in view of the congregation the whole ceremonies of the church service, exempting it from any mystification or confusion, and he has succeeded. The polished brass lecturns of the chancel are very neat in design and of exquisite workmanship. The galleries are broad and spacious and very comfortable, capable of seating several hundred persons. The several windows beneath the galleries are filled with beautifully stained glass, producing, with the combinations of colors, a rich variety and happy effect. Texts from Holy Writ also enliven the windows, such as "I am the Bread of Life," "I am the Light of the World," and also very prettily worked in with geometrical correctness are such emblems as the chalice, font, I. H. S., the cross and the all-seeing eye. There are also memorial windows in the church, dedicated to the memory of departed friends—one near the chancel to the late Frederick T. Peet, one to Mr. Harry Whitehead and another to the late Rev. Dr. Cutler, formerly pastor of the church. Below each of these are appropriate tablets and texts. The walls of the interior are throughout richly painted in polychrome. The ceiling is bold in conception and execution. It is made very effective by the judicious use of beautiful dark ultramarine blue. The timbers of the roof are also painted in taste, as are the arches and traceries under the clear story. The latter is decorated with a cool, refreshing green, in pleasing contrast with the concentrated color of the more enriched portions of its surface.

On the right side of the chancel are the robing, vestry, Bible class, infants' and music rooms and the rector's study. The basement of the church will be occupied by the Sabbath school connected with the church. It is probably as well fitted for the comfortable accommodation of a large audience as any apartment of the kind in America. The organ gallery, at the west end of the church, rests on carved brackets which spring from the moulded caps of the columns supporting them. The organ is equal in size, beauty and quality of tone to any instrument in either Brooklyn or New York. It has seventy-five stops, viz.:—fourteen in the great organ, eleven in the choir organ, fifteen in the swell organ, six of the pedals, six mechanical or combination and three combination pedals. The church is lighted in an ingenious manner by jets around the caps of the nave columns. The whole of the building is heated with an arrangement of steam pipes, which circulate underneath the windows, and are hid from view by an ornamental wainscoting of wire, which is highly decorated. The ventilation is also of the most improved plan; the turrets and belfries have been made to secure a healthy circulation of the atmosphere, and for the escape of the vitiated air are latteral ducts ingeniously arranged. The entire cost of the church, including the chapel, is about $300,000. Messrs. Renwick & Sands, of New York, were the architects; S. H. Cohn, decorative artist; Messrs. Ellin & Co., sculptors; Henry E. Sharp, stained glass artist; Henry Erben, organ builder, and Lewis W. Leeds engineer for ventilation.

In the earlier ages of the Church the architects and prelates, in the erection of places of worship, strove to perfect a structure which would inspire with awe and veneration all who should enter their portals, thus preparing their minds to receive God's truth by creating a lively emotion of wonder and humility at the majesty and greatness of Him to whom such buildings and inspirations were decorated. Modern church building for a long time had been totally different, but perhaps St. Ann's will inaugurate a new era in such matters. There will be assertions and objections vented by some few about its decorations being too gaudy, but these persons will please recollect that the "old Puritanical and Quaker-like times" have gone by, and "some other fitting color is desired to ornament the House of God with than whitewash."

UNVEILING OF THE LINCOLN STATUE TO-DAY.

The ceremony of unveiling the Lincoln statue at the grand plaza or entrance to Prospect Park will take place to day, and will be an occasion of considerable éclat, should the weather prove fine. The ceremonies will commence at three o'clock in the afternoon. There will be an address by the presiding officer of the War Fund Committee of Kings county, Mr. A. A. Low, which will be followed by the unveiling of the statue by H. K. Brown, the sculptor. Mr. J. B. Wallace, on behalf of the committee, will then present the statue to the Park Commissioners. Mr. James S. T. Stranahan, President of the Board of Commissioners, will respond, after which a national salute will be fired. The orator of the occasion is the Rev. R. S. Storrs, Jr., D. D. The Navy Yard brass band will be in attendance. Seats have been set apart within the enclosure surrounding the statue for invited guests.

NEW JERSEY STATE MILITIA.

Grand Military Parade, Review and Presentation at Newark Yesterday.

Newark has had such an abundance of "military" for the last two days that it can now, like the inimitable Tostee, sing with a vengeance "J'aime le Militaire." Following the Wimbledonian trial of marksmanship on Tuesday—when Sergeant James Parks, of company A, First regiment, carried off, by one point more than any of his twenty-nine competitors, the very splendid and handsomely gotten up gold medal, presented by Major General Runyon—came yesterday the grand brigade drill, review, parade and presentation, which took place on Military Park in the afternoon, in presence of Governor Randolph, General Runyon, Brigadier General Plum and the members of their respective staffs, besides a number of distinguished invited guests, including State Senators Robbins and Little and Judge Guild. After the line was formed shortly before three o'clock. After the troops, consisting of the First battalion, of Hoboken, Major B. Franklin Hart; the Second battalion, of Leonia, Bergen county, Captain J. B. Moore; the Fourth regiment, of Jersey City, Colonel Hiram Van Buskirk; the Hexamer battery, of Hoboken, Captain George Kahlert, with six pieces; together with the First regiment, Colonel James Peckwell; the Second regiment, Colonel J. F. Munn, and the Veteran regiment, Colonel William Ward, of New York, had been put through the manuel of arms, by General Runyon, the order was given for Sergeant Parks to advance.

The Governor then, at the close of a very neatly worded address, in the course of which he spoke of the militia being essential to the welfare and protection of the State, and hoped that such trials as that of the preceding day would be renewed, tendered the Sergeant the golden prize, and, assisted by General Runyon, fastened it on the victor's breast.

The troops then formed for review, and to the inspiriting strains of Reinhard's band of twenty pieces and the veteran regiment drum corps passed the reviewing platform in creditable style. While one or two of the regiments elicited the admiration of the immense assemblage of people that thronged the park, others did not come up to a remarkable standard of excellence. The Fifth (veteran) and the Fourth, of Hudson county, evinced careful training. The review over, the troops then marched through the principal streets of the city, to the admiration of the citizens. Taken altogether the turnout was quite satisfactory, especially when it is considered that a great deal of apathy prevails throughout the State just now on the subject of militia. During the review the horse of the Quartermaster's Sergeant, Harrison battery, became unmanageable and broke through the crowd. A little girl named Kate Lynch, of Prospect street, was seriously injured and two ladies of Kinney street slightly hurt. In the evening Governor Randolph and a host of epauletted and shoulder-strapped gentlemen were hospitably entertained at the residence of General Runyon.

TRIAL OF ANTOINE MAURER.

Strange and Strong Circumstantial Testimony—The Prisoner's Defence—Counter Evidence Against the Charge of Murder.

The trial of Antoine Maurer for the murder of Joachim Fuerter in March last was resumed yesterday morning at the Court House, New City, Rockland county, Judge Tappan and three associate judges presiding. There was a crowded attendance as on the previous day, and an increased interest exhibited in the proceedings, as the defence was presumed to have evidence which would entirely overturn the circumstantial case of the prosecution. The prisoner when brought in showed no change from the calm demeanor and complacent expression that marked his deportment the day previous. He sat at the end of the table occupied by counsel and seemed to take a lively though not an anxious interest in the proceedings. The clothes supposed to belong to the murdered man Fuerter, the hat presumed to be the property of Maurer, and the barrel stave with which the prosecution held that the murder was committed, were placed in a heap on the floor. Mr. Hoffman opened the case for the defence by examining Jacob Straut, a butcher, living in Spring Valley, who stated that on Friday, the 12th of March, as well as he could remember, a man got off the train from New York at Spring Valley and inquired of him the way to the house of a person named Krauss, who kept a lager beer saloon and pedlers' lodging place in the village. A brother of the witness, who was standing by at the time the stranger made his inquiry, pointed out the way to Krauss' house, and thither the supposed pedler wended his way, bearing under his arm a small box. Sunday morning following a dead body was discovered in a field about two hundred yards from Krauss' saloon, and this body the brothers Straus believed, to the best of their judgment, was that of the man who casually accosted them on Friday afternoon. Subsequently the body was identified as that of Joachim Fuerter, a tailor—not a pedler—who worked in Brooklyn and New York, and had a friend in the latter place named Antoine Maurer. None of the evidence for the prosecution disclosed that Maurer was seen in the neighborhood of Spring Valley the day the brothers Straut saw the stranger arrive, nor on the day the dead body was found—that is, from March 12 to March 14. It was proved, however, that Maurer invited Fuerter, a week previous, to come up to Spring Valley and meet him at Krauss' house, where he said he would discharge a debt of eight dollars he owed the tailor. It was also proved that Maurer left a friend's place in Delancey street, where he had been boarding for three days, on the morning of the 9th of March, with fifty cents in his pocket, which he borrowed; said he was going in the country and would bring back to his friend a present of a gold watch, a pair of pants and a pair of gaiters. Fuerter when found had no pants on, neither had he a gold watch he was known to have worn. The hat found covering the face of the deceased was sworn to by a dozen as being the one they saw Maurer wear. Here the testimony grows highly interesting, as showing the force and conclusiveness which circumstantial evidence may reach in some cases, while at the same time it leaves wide room for evasion and for possibilities of an opposite character.

Maurer, the prisoner, was next sworn and asked to explain the evidence against him. As he sat in the witness chair, facing the audience, there was no quailing of the eye, no hesitancy of response to the questions of either counsel. He certainly appeared less uneasy and decidedly more lucid than many of the witnesses who testified against him. Whose clothes are these? he was asked, when shown the garments which the prosecution contended were taken by the prisoner off the dead body of Fuerter. They are mine, he replied, and he proceeded to tell how he bought them in a pawn shop and afterwards disposed of them at an institution of the same sort when it was necessary for him to raise money to keep himself from starving. Then, about the hat, on which so much depended. Of that he disclaimed the ownership, and explained that he had owned a hat somewhat like it, which he traded off in the Bowery for another, mentioning the number of the store. The murder is supposed to have taken place on the night of Saturday, the 13th of March. Where was he from the 9th of March, when he told his friend he was going in the country to the 14th, when Fuerter's body was discovered? The 9th, 10th and 11th he remained in New York, getting drunk on the evening of the last mentioned date and starting on the 12th for Piermont, where he obtained work as a shoemaker from Mr. Leitner, who testified to the fact, and of his remaining there for some weeks after. Here comes in a strange fact, and one of a strongly condemnatory character, if the human memory could always be relied on in the matter of time and dates. On the 12th Maurer asked Leitner if he heard of a murder having been committed in Spring Valley and the body being found half naked. Leitner replied in the negative, as well he might, for the body was only found two days after. Why did he ask the question? Because, said he, the same was asked him that morning by a man he met at No. 4 Delancy street, New York. Why did he promise a gold watch to his friend Schlas, which he expected to get in the country? He said an Irishman at pier No. 3 New York had a watch which he offered for a low price, and by going in the country he expected to raise enough money to purchase it. How did he get the clothes in which he appeared shortly after leaving New York March 9, when it was proved he had to borrow fifty cents to take him, as he stated, in the country? By exchanging, he explained, a twenty franc gold piece he had brought with him from France and preserved unbroken up to that time.

Mr. Shupe, in his cross-examination for the prosecution, failed to shake the integrity of the prisoner's testimony, which, taken as it was and unsupported by the evidence of any other person, left, after all, several points not satisfactorily answered.

After a recess for dinner Mr. Hoffman addressed the jury for the defence in a speech of nearly three hours, in which, with much skill and attractiveness of argument, he took up the long chain of evidence against the accused, and to all appearances left no link unbroken. He especially dwelt on the fact that neither the coat nor pants supposed to be the property of Fuerter had a solitary mark of blood, and yet the shirt was covered with blood stains. He might have gone further and said in truth there were no stains on the vest, and in fact on nothing but the shirt, which would go to prove that Fuerter must have been murdered while in bed and then carried out by two men and left in the fields. Was Maurer one of these two, and did the murder take place in Krauss' house—a disreputable concern by the way?

Mr. Shupe spoke, for the prosecution, a very strong address against the prisoners.

Judge Tappen made a calm, unbiassed summing up, and at ten o'clock the jury retired and had not been heard from past midnight.

COWHIDE AND BULLETS.

An "Affair of (dis) Honor"—Cowhiding of an Anti-Duellist.

In the Newark, N. J., Police Court yesterday forenoon Mr. R. M. Denman, a well-to-do New Orleans merchant, formerly of Newark, was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Watson S. Heddenberg, a Broad street storekeeper. It appears that Heddenberg had used some defamatory remarks regarding Denman's conduct while attending the funeral of the latter's near relative some five or six years ago, and though ready to make a verbal recantation, would not do so in writing.

A demand for satisfaction in accordance with the "code" was not responded to by Heddenberg, and on Tuesday night Denman pounced upon him in the street and administered a severe application of cowhide about the face and shoulders. Heddenberg declares he will cause Denman to smart equally with him through the medium of the courts. Denman was bailed.

Miscellaneous.

RAPID PASSAGES OF OCEAN STEAMERS—To the Editor of the Herald—In your issue of this morning you publish the log of the steamer Pereire, which arrived here on Monday morning, after an extraordinary run of eight days and sixteen hours from Brest.

This you claim to be the fastest transatlantic passage on record.

In November, 1867, the Inman steamship City of Paris arrived at this port from Queenstown in seven days, twenty-three hours and four minutes, having steamed from Fastnet Rock, according to her log as published in the Herald of Saturday, November 30, 1867—a distance of 2726 miles. Assuming the distance from Queenstown harbor to the Rock to be sixty miles—a low estimate—we have a total distance of 2786 miles steamed in 191 hours and 4 minutes. Now, if 2786 miles are steamed in 191 hours and 4 minutes, surely, according to the rule of three, 3053 miles should be steamed in 208 hours. The Pereire having sailed a total of only 3005 miles is of course outsailed by the City of Paris twenty-eight miles.

Apologising for this intrusion, I am, &c.

A MEDICAL WONDER.
HYATT'S LIFE BALSAM.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Gout, in their worst stages, Scrofula, King's Evil, Erysipelas, old ulcers and the worst cases of diseases of the blood, great Debility, Liver Complaint, Kidneys, Salt Rheum, &c., &c., are most certainly cured by this sovereign purifier. It has been tested by the public twenty-one years. It has cured a hundred thousand cases, and never fails when taken as directed. It is a certain curative for Fistula in all curable cases. It cures the foulest old ulcers, even where the bone has become caries.

The Life Balsam does not contain a particle of mercury or any mineral.

Mr. D. Pearsall, now Inspector of State Prison at Trenton N. J., was eighteen years since afflicted with ulcerous eruption of throat, tongue and nose; was treated with mercury until the disease had reduced his palate, nose and face to a mass of ragged flesh that fell off from its own weight, till he was frightful to behold. He was induced by Joseph H. Godwin, Esq., to give the Life Balsam a trial, when in four days healing began, and in a comparatively short time he was healed completely. City references to this case—Brown & Godwin, Broadway, near Fortieth street.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.

From F. B. Conway, Tragedian, Park theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WM. H. HYATT, Esq.:—

DEAR SIR—I feel it a duty both to yourself and also to others who may be afflicted with that distressing disease, chronic rheumatism, to add my testimony in favor of that truly valuable medicine, the Life Balsam. For years I was completely prostrated with rheumatism, in its most aggravated character. I tried to obtain relief from the most eminent medical practitioners both here and in Europe, but in vain, when, fortunately for myself, I tried the Balsam, and its effect was miraculous; in a word, I have never experienced a return of the disease, showing the cure to be radical. In every instance in which I have suggested its use the same result has been recorded. You are at perfect liberty to use this communication in any way you please. Yours most gratefully, F. B. CONWAY.

Some excitement was created in Buenos Ayres by President Sarmiento's veto of the Intervention bill, the veto being comparatively unknown in the politics of that country.

A special Cabinet meeting was held yesterday, and rumor is rife in Washington as to the occasion of it, the usual routine meeting having been held the day before.

There are rumors in Washington of a decided Senatorial opposition to confirming Robeson as Secretary of the Navy. It is held that Pennsylvania deserves a place in the Cabinet and New Jersey does not. Senator Drake, of Missouri, who aspires to the chairmanship of the Committee on Naval Affairs, is personally opposed to Porter, and as a consequence to Robeson.

On the 5th inst. a band of fifty Apaches attacked the Santa Fe mail coach, killing the driver and the guard, consisting of Colonel Stone and four soldiers, and horribly mutilating the bodies. A party of soldiers from Apache Pass were soon after started in pursuit of the marauders, whom they overtook on the afternoon of the 8th, killing twelve Indians and recapturing a large amount of stock and other stolen property.

In Judge Bedford's court yesterday two boys, Michael Kavanagh and Joseph White, were arraigned for stealing a lady's watch on the street. John Wilkins, a boy of sixteen, was called as a witness, but positively refused to take the oath, stating that the young highwaymen's companions had threatened him with personal violence if he testified, and his elder brother had advised him not to do so. No urging could persuade the boy to give his testimony, and finally he was allowed to go home, after promising to testify at the next term.

The Spanish Revolution—Its Latest Phase—The Situation Critical.

All our latest news from Spain is of a piece. The revolutionary movement progresses, but daylight is not near. It is impossible to doubt that matters must be worse before they can be better in that unhappy land. All immediate hope of "durable tranquillity, of temperate freedom," must now, we fear, be abandoned. Spain stands on the verge of a gulf not dissimilar to that on which stood France on the eve of the outbreak of 1789. There are no doubt points of difference; but it may safely be said that a Spanish republic in 1870 is a much more likely thing than was a French republic in 1792. It is just as certain that a Spanish republic cannot be reached but by a pathway of blood.

It now appears that Valencia, after all, has not given up the struggle. Late advices have it that when the government troops entered the city they were received by the insurgents with volleys of musketry, and that, the fire being returned, the fight commenced more fiercely than ever. The republican leaders Salvochea and Guillen have been killed, and the Regent thanks the army through Prim for its loyalty and services. It is added, however, that the garrison of San Matteo meditated going over in a body to the insurgents. The conspiracy, it is true, was discovered and frustrated, but the great fact remains that the army is not fully satisfied. This news will fly over Spain, and we may expect at any moment to learn that defection has become general. If anything were needed to prove that the present government has been reduced to almost the last extremity it is furnished by the letter which we published yesterday from our special correspondent at Madrid. Our correspondent finds it next to impossible to have any news transmitted by telegraph. Our money has been taken, but our telegrams have been garbled or retained. The extremity of the situation is equally illustrated by the bloodthirsty spirit revealed in Prim's instructions to the Captains General. When terror reigns, when truth is so much dreaded, when the national exchequer is empty and when money cannot be raised on any terms, the end cannot be far off. It is difficult to conceive of a great nation, as Spain at least ought to be, in more wretched circumstances. A great opportunity has been lost; and the absolute failure of Prim, Serrano and their friends, which is still very probable, will have few parallels in the whole range of history.

Although we have given up all hope of any good being done by the present government, we have not given up all hope of the Spanish people. We do not despair of their final success. They have all through behaved well. They were patient under Isabella so long as patience was possible. They trusted the revolutionary leaders. In spite of the republican sentiment with which a large section of the Spanish people are imbued they acquiesced in the regency. They were willing to hope, but hope has been turned to bitter disappointment. Promise has been abundant, but fruit has been nowhere. Patience is now exhausted, and the Spanish people begin to give promise that they mean to think for themselves, and that, in spite of priest or army, they may make the revolution a success. It will not be wonderful if Barcelona, Cadiz, Malaga and the other large cities swell the ranks of revolution, and by giving the army too much to do break it up. The San Matteo affair proves that such a breaking up is no longer an impossibility. If only the people could find a leader—such a man as Cromwell, for example, or Napoleon—Spain might emerge from this revolutionary crisis stronger than she has been for centuries. The defect of the revolution hitherto has been that it has failed to develop men of any calibre. In the strife, which in our judgment is now imminent, this defect may be supplied. The republican party has surely a man to set against Prim.

It is undeniable that the present anti-government movement is republican. We hear nothing of Carlists, nothing of Isabellinos. It has all along been held by a certain class that Spain had no sympathy with republican principles. This opinion was encouraged by the facility with which the government carried all its measures in the Cortes. It is notorious, however, that all the power of the government was put forth to prevent the republican party from having a majority in the Cortes, and that the republican element in the Chambers was no test of the republican strength in the country. Since 1848 the workingmen of the northeast of Spain have become republicans almost to a man; and it was stated recently at the Bâle Workingmen's Congress that the Spanish workingmen's associations could boast of one hundred and twenty-five thousand members. The priests and Napoleon are the two great enemies to a Spanish republic, and both for the most selfish reasons; but it is not impossible that an outburst may take place soon which will imperil both the Church and the empire. Unquestionably Spain has a hard road to travel, but her condition is not yet hopeless.

The Case of the Cuban Privateer.

The Cuba, or Hornet as she was called, has been surrendered to the United States and the Cuban flag hauled down. The United States Marshal boarded her and demanded the surrender. Upon Captain Higgins, of the Cuba, declining to surrender, except to an officer of the United States Navy and under a direct order from the President, Lieutenant Commander Peirson, of the gunboat Frolic, went on board the Cuba and produced the order direct from the President. Captain Higgins gave up his vessel and his sword, and is now a prisoner under the naval authorities. The despatch from Wilmington says the Cuba has been libelled, but we have no details as to the legal proceedings in the case, if there were any, or as to the precise ground on which she was libelled. To libel a vessel is simply to charge her with something against the laws and placing her under the authority of the government libelling her until the case can be tried by the courts in the regular way. But it appears that the flag of the Cuba was hauled down and her captain arrested by an order direct from the President. From this it seems that the Executive has taken the matter out of the hands of the legal authorities. However, the despatch is not clear, and we must wait for further information before forming an opinion in the matter or commenting on the action of the government. The only important fact established is that this Cuban privateer has been seized and is held for a violation of the laws. Whatever may be the legal features of the case hereafter to be developed, or whatever may be the result when a trial takes place, the vessel is prevented from doing any service for the Cubans. While we may condemn the government for its shortsighted policy or timidity with regard to Cuba, we suppose it has acted in this case upon sufficient evidence.

With all our sympathy for the Cubans and wish to see the United States government take a bold and decisive course to secure their independence, we cannot help thinking Captain Higgins and the Cubans have foolishly and prematurely thrown a responsibility upon our government which compels it to act against its wishes in defending its honor and international obligations. We would rather have seen this privateer afloat and doing good service for the Cuban cause; but a great nation like the United States, when forced into such a position, must observe the laws. The Cuban Junta, or agents of the Cuban government here, show little ability. Nor do the crowds of young Cubans in this country show by their acts that ardent patriotism they talk so much about, for instead of loafing away their time here they should be fighting for their country. How truly the poet expresses it when he says,

Hereditary bondsmen! know ye not,
Who would be free themselves must strike the blow?

However, these temporary misfortunes may be but as a passing shadow. They may lead the Cubans to renewed energy, and the United States to a more positive policy soon in favor of Cuban independence. Though the Hornet is seized, other vessels with expeditions and supplies are running into Cuban harbors. There is reason to believe the brave Captain Harris, who sailed with the Lilian about the same time the Hornet was at sea, has landed his valuable cargo on the island. The reverses the Cubans may meet with—and great reverses are incident to all such movements—should have the effect only of stimulating them to greater energy and determination.

THE SITUATION IN PARAGUAY.—The news which we publish this morning from our special correspondents in South America corroborates the views we have taken regarding the condition of President Lopez. After suffering almost innumerable defeats he is still in a position to face the enemy. The allies have abandoned the pursuit, and Lopez, safe for the present from molestation, no doubt will improve his chances to strengthen his army by fresh accessions of men and war material.

THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT orders three thousand additional troops to Cuba. Is the government really getting the better of the insurrection at home, or is the Cuban reinforcement story merely a "make believe?"

THE FIRST SNOW STORM.—St. Louis, of all our great cities, carries off this fall the prize of the first snow storm. They had a snow storm there on Tuesday last, continuing from seven in the morning till noon. The old weathercocks say that this early beginning of snow is a sign of a rough winter.

How Napoleon Holds the "Reds"—A French Revolution Postponed.

The French democrats and revolutionary "reds" have, as we are assured by cable telegrams and our special correspondence by mail from Europe, abandoned the idea of their grand legislative oppositionist demonstration in Paris on the 26th instant. The programme of the movement was duly prepared, but has not, it appears, been perfected, for the simple reason that the chief actors did not feel themselves quite "up to" the parts in which they were likely to be cast, the managers becoming convinced at the same time that the play was old-fashioned and not likely to "draw." The fact is it was not popular. The Paris press, so far from "puffing" the enterprise, came out flatly against it, the Avenir National—the only sincere paper, it may be, of the republican organs—pronouncing it "useless, inopportune and susceptible of ending fatally." It was shown, indeed, that it was more than "susceptible," if that is the word, of producing very unpleasant results; for we find that the democratic republican "reds" were assaulted and "very roughly handled" by the populace after the adjournment of a preliminary meeting. The Parisians, in truth, are out of tone with trading agitators and émeutes made to order or undertaken in the interest of foreign government intriguers. They have become commercial, trading and shop-keeping. They invest their money in the funds and savings banks, and find that it pays better in such shape than it would when in the pantaloons pockets of the political "leaders." The Paris Pays, indeed, tells us so in the following words:—"When an émeute is likely to cost something more than a box at the Opera Comique the Parisian keeps aloof; and if the disturbance is likely to interfere with the sale over the counter, and, by frightening the bill discounters, imperil the monthly settlement, he becomes ferocious against the disturber of order. In 1848 the grocers dispersed the bands who perambulated the streets to the tune of the Lampions, and the last riots on the Boulevard owed their repression to the resistance of the proprietors and waiters of the cafés, whose receipts were reduced to zero by the row."

The sales "across the counter" and the "monthly settlement" speak the whole story, particularly "the monthly settlements." Since the establishment of the empire under Napoleon III. the French government has asked six loans from the French people, embracing the period from the year 1854 to 1866-67. The first, in 1854, was for two hundred and fifty millions of francs; in 1855 two loans, amounting in the total to twelve hundred millions, the entire aggregate of the six footing up the enormous sum of two thousand six hundred and ninety millions of francs. The French people supplied the cash so freely that on different occasions the doors of the places of "inscription" had to be closed by the police against persons wishing to invest after the required sum had been obtained. Then, again, we find that in 1868 the total interest payable on French rentes yearly was 343,544,505 francs, and that the holders of scrip numbered 100,095,683.

This is the real secret of how Napoleon, with all his faults and the coup d'état, holds the "reds"—not in personal fetters of steel, as in the days of the Bastile—but by warping French society against them in delicate, wavy threads of gold. The "reds" do very little work and consequently have very little cash to "inscribe" in any useful investment, and just so far the Emperor and the people repudiate them. France has had about enough of revolution. An old Asiatic tiger hunter at Singapore, having been severely wounded in a struggle with one of the animals, gave up tiger hunting immediately after his escape, remarking to his friends, who advised him to continue the exercise, "Tiger hunting is a very fine sport so long as you hunt the tiger, but when the tiger begins to hunt you it is very bad sport indeed." Such is the situation, as it appears to us, in France.

The Late Louisville Commercial Convention—Asking Too Much.

General Walbridge, in his speech on Tuesday, before the Chamber of Commerce at Cincinnati, gave an account of the proceedings of the recent Louisville Convention. He described this Convention as national in its character, embracing delegates from every State in the Union. Among the prominent sentiments which he said prevailed in the Convention was one that the public debt should be paid as it was stipulated when contracted. This, however, may mean anything or nothing. Another was that the South had been impoverished by the rebellion, and that she should be aided by the general government so as to develop her natural resources. Such, he declared, was the unanimous opinion of the Convention, and to this end, he added, it was decidedly in favor of opening a water line communication between the Ohio and the Atlantic, of reconstructing the levees on the Mississippi, of giving aid to the steam lines projected between Southern ports and Europe and of aiding in the construction of another continental railway.

Now, we must respectfully submit that all this is asking a little too much. Desirable as the accomplishment of these various objects may be, to demand it from government now, while laden with the present huge burden of debt, is at least inopportune. If the people of Virginia and Ohio cannot together effect the completion of the canal from Lynchburg across the Alleghanies to the Ohio they will have to wait. If the estates along the Mississippi are not valuable enough to raise loans upon for the building of levees the owners of the estates will also have to wait. Similar patience must be exercised by the projectors of steam lines from Southern ports to Europe, if private enterprise prove unequal to the task of establishing them. And as for extending government aid to another continental railway, we understand that all that is wanted by General Fremont, who is at the head of the Southern Pacific Railway enterprise, is the right of way through the public domain. Doubtless this will be accorded through Arkansas, the Indian country, New Mexico and Arizona, and Texas will make ample donations for the purpose, while the Californians will do their share towards completing the road commenced at San Diego. But it is out of the question to talk of additional grants of government bonds in aid of railways, canals, steam lines and levees. What has been done for the Pacific Railroad must suffice for the present. President Grant has clearly intimated that this is the case, and that our first object should be to lighten instead of increasing the burden of public taxes. We repeat that the Louisville Convention asks too much. The South is getting on very well with its cotton crop of and its sugar and tobacco crops. We rejoice in the returning prosperity of the Southern people, and we believe that the time has come for them to help themselves.

Father Hyacinthe—The Puritans After Him.

The Puritan pastors of Boston had a meeting the other evening in the Meionaon (whatever that may be), to consider the propriety of inviting Father Hyacinthe to the hospitalities of "the Hub." They had prayer, after which the Rev. Gilbert Haven, D. D., explained the object of the meeting, remarking, in conclusion, that "it was not known that Father Hyacinthe had left the Catholic Church;" that "all that they knew was that he had taken a very bold step and had incurred the displeasure of the Pope, and if welcomed here (in Boston) it might lead him further in the good work." Some discussion followed as to the form of the proposed invitation, whether it should be by committee or by letter, and whether on religious or patriotic considerations; but it was at length agreed to appoint a committee of five parsons, one from each of the denominations in the meeting, to confer with Father Hyacinthe, and so a committee of nine was appointed. But we apprehend that this committee will not make much out of Father Hyacinthe. As friends he will receive them kindly, but as heretics he will dismiss them. He believes in the holy Catholic Church; but he wants it to go forward in the light of the nineteenth century, and not backward to the Council of Trent and the dark ages. If the Puritans of Boston can get up and send forward a committee of Catholics to wait upon Father Hyacinthe they may capture him; but a committee of Roundheads will not answer. Upon the whole, however, we think that the best thing the Boston Puritans and our Protestant friends generally can do with Father Hyacinthe is to let him alone. His battle is inside the lines of the Catholic Church, and until this conflict shall have been decided, for him or against him, all Protestant intrusions upon him will be impertinent if not offensive.

Important Discoveries in the Colorado Country.

Among the recent arrivals at Washington we regard as the most important that of Colonel Samuel Adams, in the service of the War Office, from a "prospecting" tour of four years, with a party of eleven men, in the Colorado country. We mean the extensive region on the western flank of the Rocky Mountains drained by the tributaries of the great Colorado of the West—a region from north to south through Colorado Territory, the northwest corner of New Mexico, and into the heart of Arizona, of some seven hundred miles in length, with a width of three or four hundred miles. This region, from 1845, when first crossed by Fremont in the north, to this time, has been crossed at various points by Gunnison, Simpson, Sitgreaves and other government explorers going west in search of a route for a Pacific railroad; but it was reserved for Colonel Adams to explore it from north to south, and with a special eye to the resources of this interesting region.

Where Fremont crossed it in 1845, between latitudes thirty-eight and forty north, he has left upon the map this endorsement:—"Elevated plains, fertile, gently rolling, with fresh water lakes and timber." In the report of Simpson's detour further south, 1849, we have numerous illustrations of ancient ruins, inscriptions, paintings and pottery in the Cañon de Chaco and Cañon de Chelly, tributaries of the Colorado. On the line of Sitgreaves' tour of 1852 in the valley of the Colorado Chiquita, another tributary of the great Colorado, we have the localities marked of numerous ruins, "San Francisco Forest," springs, &c. Colonel Adams from north to south has crossed all these lines of exploration, and discovered an extent and variety of natural resources in the country "prospected" hitherto unknown. He found rich gold mines that can be worked all the year round, and in the central portions of Arizona and New Mexico he found the richest country he has ever seen. He saw there wild wheat, rye, oats and barley growing six feet high, and ruins of ancient cities built of stone, fortifications, canals and abandoned mines. The party also discovered oil wells, tar wells, and salt and coal in abundance, and in one section forests of splendid timber sufficient to supply all the wants of the timberless regions of Southern Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona, which are now supplied from Oregon by way of the Pacific and the Gulf of California and lower Colorado river.

Here, then, on the western flanks of the Rocky Mountain chain we have resources sufficient to make of the Territories of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona rich and prosperous States in agricultural products and manufactures. While, therefore, the lofty tablelands on both sides of the great cañon of the main Colorado for a hundred or hundreds of miles may be worthless, as described by Professor Powell, it is disclosed by Colonel Adams that eastward among the tributaries of the Colorado there is an extensive region which may be pronounced among the richest in the Union in its natural products, with the finest climate in the world. Thus, in the course of the development of this beautiful mountain country, every opening in the chasm of the Colorado torrent may be filled with mills, foundries and factories, and the torrent itself may be made available for transportation to the sea.

Such is the value of the intelligent explorer of unknown lands in these days of the progress and expansion of the civilized races of the earth; and still, within the spacious boundaries of the United States, we have much to learn, leaving Alaska, from the report of General Thomas, as only fit to be left out in the cold.

MAYOR HALL TO HORACE GREELEY.—Read the Mayor's letter elsewhere in these columns. The Mayor has these advantages over his adversary:—He does not lose his temper, and he is always witty, sparkling and entertaining, while Greeley, in his efforts to be serious and impressive, is apt to be dull, or somewhat too free in offensive epithets withal.

What the Canadians Have to Suffer—The Union Still Open to Them.

The people of the New Dominion have been frequently invited to come into the Union and be thus completely reconstructed as free American citizens under the flag of the United States. We have ourselves advised them to this step on many and divers occasions, and have been rejoiced, on account of the Canadians themselves and their worldly future, to hear frequently and from reliable sources that our advices have been favorably received generally in the territory. The complete fruition has, however, been always retarded by some outside foreign event, such as the arrival of Prince Arthur, the tour of the Mohawks to meet him, a plan of some English loan to the Grand Trunk Railroad, or the arrangement of a visit of the entire Anglo-Canadian Cabinet to London, where its members are, for the most part, merely permitted to warm themselves—Canadians can do it after the home cold—in the outside corridors leading to the Foreign Office, Downing street.

This is really to be regretted; for the Canadians may just as well have an American citizen vote, with the fun, and, perhaps, profit of casting it, as be made to take an involuntary part in all our great election contests, Presidential and in New York city and State, without any collateral advantage. They are in this difficult and embarrassing situation just at present. We are about to have "a good time" at our election next month, and just for the reason that we are the "Toronto field battery is ordered out," and "kits" and "provisions" and "guns" and "stores" fit for the use of a fine army are lying about that city for miles. Gunpowder is handled as if it were perfumed snuff; Kingston is in arms, and every young British trumpeter on this side the ocean is busy practising to sound the "advance" and "charge" for the use of the regular troops, tooting out the "retreat" for the locals and volunteers. Two royal gunboats, fully armed and equipped, are running round the lakes; the militia are hurrying off to Goderich, while Prince Arthur has assumed a sort of amphibious and neutral position on the Lower Ottawa.

Here we have a regular Canadian flurry, and all because New York is about to have an election, and that certain Irish-American gentlemen are very anxious to be elected, requiring only a little more cash just "to carry the thing right through." They appear likely to have it, and a good deal of it, too, soon, as they have chartered and armed the gunboat Sunburst—"what's in a name?"—to be despatched to Canada to look for it and carry it back—all in Canadian silver. Much better for the Canadians they were in the "ring" themselves, as they will be some fine morning or other. What ticket will they hold?

THE TENNESSEE SENATORSHIP.—Two ballots were had by the Tennessee Legislature yesterday, neither of which resulted in the selection of a United States Senator. Mr. Johnson remained at the head of the poll, but it was evident that his enemies were determined to prevent his election if they could. The balloting to-day will, we trust, result in the success of the ex-President. He is such a man as the country needs in the United States Senate, and if the Tennessee legislators desire their State represented by a man of prominence, of ability and of integrity they will no longer listen to the clamors of the impracticables who oppose him, but will make Mr. Johnson their choice without delay.

THE PETRIFIED GIANT.—They have found in the neighborhood of Syracuse, according to the Standard of that city of salt, what is supposed to be a petrified giant, a manly figure in stone, over ten feet high. If the report is true the discovery is certainly a wonderful thing, as a work of nature or a work of art. If it is the petrified body of a man, then we may say that around the Syracuse salt works and of the age in which he flourished "there were giants in those days;" but if "the critter" is only a statue cut by some cunning hand from a block of stone the questions recur, who was the sculptor? Where did he come from and what did he get for his job? And is it the effigy of the veritable big Indian, or what? Western New York, however, is famous for wonderful discoveries, such as the dead body of Morgan by Thurlow Weed—"a good enough Morgan till after the election"—and the golden plates of the book of Mormon by Joe Smith. The petrified giant no doubt belongs to this class of discoveries; but as it is a harmless sensation we hope it may live through the allotted period of a nine days' wonder.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Navy Department has promulgated the final sentence in the case of Captain Frank Munroe, which is suspension for three years on full pay, instead of dismissal from the service.

Lieutenant Commander Henry C. Taylor has been detached from the Guard and ordered to the Naval Academy. Assistant Surgeon William G. Farwell has been detached from the Washington Navy Yard and ordered to the Lancaster. Lieutenant Commander Henry Glass has been ordered to equipment duty at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. Lieutenant Commander Francis M. Green has been ordered to the receiving ship Ohio.

The United States steamer Monongahela, which was washed ashore two years ago by the great tidal wave at St. Thomas, arrived at the Navy Yard at Kittery yesterday in tow of the tugs Leyden and Cohasset.

OBITUARY.

A Dublin despatch dated yesterday reports the death of this gentleman. He was yet in the prime of life, having been born in November, 1816. Educated at Trinity College, Dublin, he graduated with credit, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1839. In 1857 he was made Queen's Counsel, and in the early part of 1866 was appointed Attorney General for Ireland. During October of the same year he was made Master of the Rolls in Ireland, a position held at the time of his death. For a few months Mr. Walsh was one of the members for the University of Dublin. He wrote and published several works, among which the best known are "Justice of the Peace for Ireland" (1844), "Reports in Chancery, Irish" (1845-49), and "Ireland Sixty Years Ago," (1847).

A FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLAR LIBEL SUIT.

N. D. Morgan, President of the North American Life Insurance Company, has sued Messrs. Sutton, Bowne & Co., as publishers of the Aldine Press, for libel, and lays his damages at $50,000. The article to which exception is taken appears in the October number of the Aldine, and criticises the peculiar plan of registered life policies practised by Mr. Morgan's company.

BURGLARY IN FIFTH AVENUE.

Some time during Tuesday night the residence of Le Grande P. Cannon, No. 311 Fifth avenue, was entered by burglars, it is believed, who accomplished it by working in through one of the windows. They then proceeded up stairs, broke into closets, trunks, drawers, &c., and stole a large amount of valuable furs, clothing, &c., the exact value of which cannot be ascertained, as the family are in the country, and the only occupant of the house was an old man who was left in charge. He can give no satisfactory account of the occurrence, but was in the house at the time. Suspicions point strongly to certain persons who are under the surveillance of the police.

Mr. Maretzek has the honor to announce that the First Series of Representations of the Regular Season of Italian Opera will commence on or about

Confident that the general public will receive with pleasure the announcement that the plans are perfected for making the programmes for the forthcoming season conspicuously brilliant, the Director takes pleasure in submitting for approval the following engagements:—

SOPRANOS.

MISS CLARA LOUISA KELLOGG,
LEADING PRIME DONNE OF THE DAY,
was engaged by Mr. Maurice Strakosch to appear in Paris this season. But, believing that the co-operation of this eminent young American artist would be indispensable to the thorough presentation of several new works that are to be introduced at the Academy, Mr. Maretzek has at a great sacrifice prevailed upon Mr. Maurice Strakosch to yield his right to her valued services and permit her to remain in New York for the present.
MADAME CAROLINA DE BRIOL.
(From the San Carlo, Naples.)
Combining a magnificent voice with dramatic genius of an unexceptionally high order, Madame Briol has, within a very brief period, obtained an exalted reputation throughout Italy, which, it is confidently felt, will be reaffirmed by the critical judgment of the American public.
MISS LOUISE C. TREUER

SPECIAL NOTICE.
In conclusion, Mr. Maretzek has the extreme satisfaction of announcing that he has completed arrangements with Mr. Max Strakosch for presenting in Opera, for a LIMITED NUMBER OF NIGHTS ONLY,
the illustrious Cantatrice,
MISS CARLOTTA PATTI,
whose peerless vocalization has electrified the most critical audiences of Europe and America, and everywhere created an interest parallel only in the memorable history of two or three singers whose extraordinary talents, like hers, have justly been considered phenomenal.
THE REPERTOIRE
will include most of the favorite standard works of the favorite composers, in addition to which the management intends producing, during the season of 1869-70, the following

CUBA.

The steamship Yazoo, from Havana, arrived at Philadelphia yesterday. Her mails were received in this city early this morning.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 8, 1869.

It has been continuously raining for several days past, flooding the country, rendering the roads impassable and all military operations, of course, impossible. Many of the river channels are so full that a number of soldiers have been drowned in attempting to cross. More than twenty of the wounded brought here after the late fight in Cauto Abajo, in which Major Isquierda commanded the Spaniards, have died in hospital, among them three officers. Another one has undergone amputation of the leg. Preparations were recently made here for the pursuit of the rebel chief Policarpo Rustan, in Guantanamo, but the rains have interfered.

Count Valmaseda is expected here to-day or to-morrow, and much excitement is manifested over the preparations for his reception. There has been a report that he was besieged in Bayamo, but it is not credited.

The new Governor, D. Felix Ferrer, arrived here on the steamer Cuba. He was duly waited upon by the Ayuntamiento and listened to and responded in the usual remarks concerning the national integrity, &c.

The entire bank of the Cauto river is in the possession of the insurgents, who have intrenched themselves there. They are thought to be in strong force and the troops have not seen fit to molest them.

A battalion of volunteers, to be called the "Guias de Valmaseda," is being organized here, the pay of the privates of which is to be thirty dollars per month.

The cholera is gradually diminishing; but there are still some cases, as also of smallpox.

Animal food is very dear here, beef being thirty-five cents a pound. Fish is, however, very plenty, and it constitutes the chief diet of the poorer classes.

Military Operations Interrupted by the Rains—Movements of the Insurgents—Probable Concentration—Alarm of the Outposts—The Innocent Cause—Failure of an Expedition of the Troops—They are Repulsed—A Change in Governorship—Reappearance of the Cholera.

NUEVITAS, Oct. 8, 1869.

We have had very heavy rains of late in this vicinity, which have prevented all military operations. On this account no foraging parties have left Puerto Principe, and the troops and inhabitants of that city have been deprived of eating meat for the past eight days.

During the past week large bodies of insurgents have crossed the railroad line; but their destination and object are not known. They are probably concentrating for some purpose.

On the night of the 29th ult., after a very heavy rain storm, several shots were heard along the line outside, shortly afterward followed by a number of volleys. Immediately the whole town was in a state of alarm. The regulars and volunteers ran to their posts, and the cry was raised that the insurgents were attacking the city. It was soon ascertained, however, that all this hubbub was created by a poor old cow, which, upon approaching the line, failed to answer the regular challenge and was fired upon. This alarmed the other outposts, who, with much presence of mind, immediately discharged their pieces at random and hastened to rally.

About the middle of last month a column comprising 1,000 men, and commanded by Colonel Aguilar, left Puerto Principe for the purpose of attacking the plantation Rio Seco, owned and defended by the insurgent chief Correlio Porro. It was absent about three days, when it returned, and nothing has been said as to the result of the expedition. It has leaked out, however, that it was repulsed and compelled to return without accomplishing the object.

On the 29th ult. arrived here, in the Spanish war steamer Vasco Nuñez, the newly appointed Political and Military Governor, Don Julian Amado. It is hoped by the justice-loving inhabitants of this city that he will inaugurate a new era, and that in his official acts he will be guided by his own good judgment and not by the coterie of volunteers which surrounded his predecessor, and which influenced him to many arbitrary and despotic acts. Since the new Governor has arrived quiet has been restored to the hearts of many families which lived in constant dread that some of their members would be arrested, imprisoned and sent off to Havana on any pretext or caprice of the late satrap. This last, Don Federico Mugumza y Lersundi, is only regretted by a few of his satellites, part of whom formed the committee which, after exacting the signatures of many who had received injuries at his hands, went to ask the Captain General to reinstate him. Fortunately their application was not granted. The cholera has reappeared among several of the detachments stationed on the railroad line. All supplies, merchandise, trunks, &c., going to Puerto Principe are carefully examined before being placed on the train, to discover, if possible, something treasonable.

PORTO RICO.

Great Flood in Porto Rico—A Good Part of the City Inundated—Houses Carried off—A Church Edifice Sunk—Exertions of the Authorities.

HAVANA, Oct. 14, 1869.

Dates from Porto Rico to the 3d inst. received here announce that on the 27th ult., between two and three o'clock P. M., after seventy hours of heavy and continuous rain, the river Niguas, a small stream which runs along the north and east of the place, in the extreme outskirts, rose rapidly and threatened the principal street, occupying a considerable part of the city towards the sea. Fortunately the more exposed inhabitants were enabled to abandon their houses, which they were compelled to do very quickly, and escape the danger. Three houses were destroyed and carried off by the flood. The church edifice, situated four blocks from the channel of the river, was nearly taken from its foundations; one of the vestry walls fell into the river, and the others remained standing because they were attached to the chancel, the arches, towers and cupola of which now threaten to fall. The principal street lost all its hard surface, and throughout its whole length now represents the bed of a torrent filled with rocks and débris. The authorities and the young men exerted themselves to their utmost to prevent the loss of life, removing the families on horseback to safe asylums and to the houses of neighbors, who received them with great kindness.

Dealers in the Mystic Numbers Jugged Up for Ignoring Uncle Sam's Share of the Profits.

In the United States District Court at Trenton yesterday, before Judge R. S. Field, two respectable young men named William H. Callagher and Edward Burgesser were tried on an indictment charging them with having carried on the business of lottery ticket dealers without paying the especial tax. The evidence proved that the violation of the statute was more through neglect than any criminal desire to evade its provisions. The testimony showed that heretofore the defendants paid the tax regularly; that application for license had been regularly filed, and that they had paid the tax on the day of their arrest. The Deputy Collector of the Fifth district, George A. Matthews, testified that the 15th of June was the last day of paying the tax without a penalty being attached. He afterwards went to collect it from Mr. Gallagher, but he was not at home. The defence deemed it unnecessary to produce any witnesses, but Mr. Leon Abbett, the counsel, said that it was admitted on all sides that notice was given by the government authorities that the time for paying the tax was extended to the 20th of July, and that the ticket was sold to Detective Nettleship's stool pigeon the day previous. The defendants paid their tax bill on the 22d of July—the government receiving the full amount of tax from May, 1869, to May, 1870—and yet the defendants were indicted for not paying it. Judge Field mildly charged the jury, who returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy. The Court then imposed a fine of ten dollars.

The Judge remarked that the idea thrown out by the District Attorney that the United States District Court should be subsidiary to the State courts in carrying out the laws of this State could not for a moment be entertained. It was certainly a disgrace to the State of New Jersey that its laws were so openly and flagrantly violated, but the government would not make itself subsidiary to enforcing State laws.

Mrs. Margaret Fritch, William Reynolds and George Burgesser pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging them with a similar offence. Sentence was suspended for the present. The jurors were then discharged till next Tuesday morning, at ten o'clock.

"WHO THREW THAT LAST BRICK?"

The death of Henry Grant, a colored man, at No. 198 Rivington street, was mentioned in yesterday's HERALD. Lydia Griffin, the reputed wife of the deceased, testified before Coroner Keenan that he fell on the pavement and injured himself. The Coroner subsequently heard another version of the affair and directed Drs. Shine and Cushman to make a post mortem examination on the body, which resulted in finding a fracture of the skull and compression of the brain.

Lydia Griffin was recalled and told a different story from that she at first swore to. Lydia, who was not the wife of deceased, now says that she threw a stone at Sam Cummings, also colored, and hit deceased by mistake. Coroner Keenan committed Lydia to prison, and will further investigate the matter of Grant's death.

BROOKLYN CITY.

ST. ANN'S ON THE HEIGHTS.

The Inaugural Ceremonies of the New Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn—Large and Brilliant Congregations—Order of Exercises—The Pastor's Reception—Description of the Edifice.

The opening services of the new Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Ann's, situated on the northeast corner of Clinton and Livingston streets, Brooklyn, in its dedication to the worship of Almighty God, took place yesterday, and were of the most impressive character. From ten o'clock in the morning to and after the hour appointed for the service, the streets and avenues leading to this gorgeous architectural structure were thronged with a living stream of men, women and children, all anxiously hurrying to that point. The congregation that filled every pew in the church, and rested in the aisles and sat on the light parapet around the chancel, was such that seldom come together. There were there hundreds of ladies matchless in beauty and the originality of their elegant toilets, and hundreds of the noted citizens of both Brooklyn and New York, while the clerical force present represented every denomination and sect. The scene before the services began was, indeed, one of exquisite grandeur, a varied and beautiful spectacle. Through the exceedingly handsome tinted windows, rich and geometrical mosaic work, the quivering sunlight streamed in a thousand shafts, reflecting the prismatic hues of the rainbow; and as they fell upon the arrayed seekors for divine truth, whose habiliments struck the eye with equal effect of loveliness, and lighted up ceiling and walls, bringing out to bolder view the brilliant and harmonious colorings with which they are decorated, the inner structure seemed a resplendent monument of architecture.

At half-past eleven o'clock the organ began to peal forth its pleasing and sparkling tones, and the opening hymn by Reder, "I was glad," &c., was given in C. As the last note died away in the aisles beyond the organist began a solemn march, and soon the stately tread of the procession of bishops and clergy was heard. They went with measured tread up the aisle, arrayed in the robes of their holy calling, and, reaching the chancel, assumed their appropriate stalls. There were in the procession Rev. Dr. Noah Hunt Schenck, pastor of the church; the Right Rev. A. N. Littlejohn, Bishop of Long Island; Bishop Potter, of New York; Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio; Bishop Talbot, of Indiana; Dr. Peet, Iowa; Dr. Bancroft, Montreal; Dr. Smith, Flushing; Dr. Mills, Hartford; Dr. Van Kleeck, Flatbush; Drs. THE INAUGURAL SERMON.

Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio, then delivered the inaugural sermon, taking as his text II. Timothy iii. 5—"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." The sermon was very lengthy, occupying over an hour in its delivery, but was listened to with marked attention. There is but room for a small portion of the discourse. Godliness here is a term for that inward and spiritual grace which is the life and being of all genuine piety before God. There is no objection indicated in the Scriptures to having a form of godliness. It is not said what sort of form, good or bad, there should be. Mind this. Sacraments in their place may be all right, and all the accompaniments right. The revival of old medieval names and usages having the savor of incense and the romance of dim antiquity are common. Thus the minute reinauguration of cast-off trappings of ritualism which our reformers could not tolerate: gorgeous sacerdotal vestments full of false doctrine in their symbolic meaning. The Bishop, in concluding his discourse said, in addressing the congregation, be careful, brethren, that no attachment to all this handiwork—the form within and without—shall ever beguile you into forgetfulness of what the true temple is, and its infinite importance compared with all the outward forms of its worship; lest you incur the Apostles' rebuke, "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the spirit of God dwelleth in you?" It is that indwelling of the spirit that makes the temple, so that every heart that has it is God's temple, as St. Paul says again, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you?"

The following services then took place:—

RECEPTION AT THE PASTOR'S.

Between the hours of three and five o'clock in the afternoon Dr. Schenck had a reception at his elegant house, No. 64 Pierrepont street. There were present some hundred and fifty clergymen, who, together with their families, augmented the number that called upon him, to fully three hundred. The interchange of fellowship over a sumptuous entertainment was of the most pleasing and ennobling character.

THE EVENING SERVICE.

At eight o'clock last evening the church was again thronged with the élite of Brooklyn and this city. The number of clergymen present equalled the morning attendance of the "leaders in Christ." The effect produced by the many jets of gas seemed to materially reduce the brilliancy of the dark blue chancel, sky-dotted here and there with stars of gold, but the mouldings and architecture everywhere dazzled beautifully in the flood of light. The programme of the service was:—

Opening Anthem, "Blessed is He That Cometh," in A f.	J. M. Loretz, Jr
Evening Prayer to Psalter	Rev. Mr. Paddock
Eighth selection of Psalms	Rev. Dr. Haskins
"Gloria in Excelsis."
First Lesson, Isaiah iv.	Rev. Mr. McIlvaine
"Cantate Domine," in A	"Bridgewater"
Second Lesson, Rom. viii	Rev. Mr. Jessup
"Benedic Anima Mea," in A	Church Choir
Creed and Prayers	Rev. Dr. F. Vinton
112th Psalm, "With My Whole Heart," &c.	Rev. M. Brewer
Historical Discourse	Bishop of Long Island
265th Hymn, "Sun of My Soul"	Rev. Mr. Postlethwaite
Collects	Rev. Dr. Drowne
Benediction	Bishop of Long Island
Hallelujah Chorus	Handel's "Messiah"

The historical discourse of Bishop Littlejohn was replete with reminiscences of St. Ann's church, from the date of its foundation, its reverses and prosperity, and was listened to with commendable patience by the congregation. It was interesting to a degree.

THE CHIMES.

The first peal of the chime of eight bells in the tower, an Easter offering to the church from one of the liberal members of the congregation, was at sunrise yesterday morning, and their unfamiliar yet pleasing tones awakened the people in the neighborhood by their clear, sweet sounds. At eight o'clock A. M. "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow" was chimed, and at five P. M. "The Evening Hymn" was rung clearly and exquisitely. The chimes were also played at the morning and evening services.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SACRED EDIFICE.

The parish of St. Ann's was organized in the year 1785, and this is the third church which has been built for the congregation. The first was a blue stone edifice on the corner of Sands and Washington streets, fronting on the former. The second was of brick, in the same block, at the corner of Washington and Prospect streets, fronting on Washington street. The congregation has recently occupied the chapel on Clinton street, which adjoins the new church on the north.

The new St. Ann's was commenced in 1867, the corner stone having been laid in June of that year. Both the exterior and the interior of the building have strongly marked characteristics, and command attention by novel and unique architectural features. The exterior is of a combination of Belleville brown stone and white stone from the Ohio quarries, and its ensemble is imposing and dignified, bearing evidence of bold and skilful treatment. The architecture is that known as decorated or middle pointed. The arches are formed of these two kinds of stone alternately. The Ohio stone is also liberally used in broad courses, and in the columns of the doorways. The result is to bring out strongly the contrast of the red and white. The uncommon height of the building contributes greatly to the external effect, but still more to the internal. The perpendicular from the floor to the pitch of the roof is 100 feet. The interior nave and side aisles are expressed on the front façade by gables, the centre one being flanked by two fine towers and spires. The centre entrance door is highly enriched, having buttresses with crocheted pinnacles and traceried gables with a background of diaper ornament. The whole effect of this façade is picturesque and varied, and has an admirable expression of breadth and proportion. The Livingston street side of the church, with its parallel front, has been treated with a good deal of thought and skill. Buttresses divide the sides into bays or parts, strengthening and beautifying the façade. At each end of the bays are gables with fine pinnacled buttresses flanking them, the gable furthest from Clinton street having an entrance door leading into the church. Towers rise above the ridge and cresting of the roof to the height of thirty-six feet, and, being of perforated stone work, give them a grateful vivacity. The windows of this side, both above and below the line of the galleries, preserve the proportion of the building by treating them with piers and mullions, giving the lower ones an apparent height, while it diminishes that of the upper ones. The caps of the columns of the central entrance doors are richly carved in leaves and grapes, mingled with ears of wheat, expressive and suggestive of the elements of the sacrament. Around the arch of the door is worked a very rich conventional ball flower, and a fern leaf clasps the mouldings above the columns, beautifying the whole composition. The traceries of the windows are all of stone, and of an elaborate nature. The lines and figures are geometrical, and have a strong and beautiful expression, combining ideas typical and illustrative of different Christian principles, such as the interlacing of the triangle and trefoil, suggestive of the indivisibility and equality of the Godhead.

The three entrance vestibules are approached by flights of steps on Clinton street. On either side of the centre door are stairs leading to the galleries, extending around the sides and across one end of the church. The body of the edifice has five parallel aisles, dividing the pews into suitable lengths to meet the requirements of the congregation. As one enters the church the chancel is a most striking feature. It is different from the usual plan adopted in Episcopal places of worship, but it is unique in its arrangement. It is raised a few steps above the level of the floor and projects out in circular form, having a light parapet of ornamental ironwork, gilded and decorated. Behind this, against the walls, are arranged stalls for the clergymen officiating at any ceremony. The centre stall is more elaborate than the others, and is designed to be the bishop's seat of honor. The caps and finials of the gables here and the communion table are enriched by exquisite carvings. The credit of the arrangement of the chancel is due to the pastor, whose idea was to place immediately in view of the congregation the whole ceremonies of the church service, exempting it from any mystification or confusion, and he has succeeded. The polished brass lecturns of the chancel are very neat in design and of exquisite workmanship. The galleries are broad and spacious and very comfortable, capable of seating several hundred persons. The several windows beneath the galleries are filled with beautifully stained glass, producing, with the combinations of colors, a rich variety and happy effect. Texts from Holy Writ also enliven the windows, such as "I am the Bread of Life," "I am the Light of the World," and also very prettily worked in with geometrical correctness are such emblems as the chalice, font, I. H. S., the cross and the all-seeing eye. There are also memorial windows in the church, dedicated to the memory of departed friends—one near the chancel to the late Frederick T. Peet, one to Mr. Harry Whitehead and another to the late Rev. Dr. Cutler, formerly pastor of the church. Below each of these are appropriate tablets and texts. The walls of the interior are throughout richly painted in polychrome. The ceiling is bold in conception and execution. It is made very effective by the judicious use of beautiful dark ultramarine blue. The timbers of the roof are also painted in taste, as are the arches and traceries under the clear story. The latter is decorated with a cool, refreshing green, in pleasing contrast with the concentrated color of the more enriched portions of its surface.

On the right side of the chancel are the robing, vestry, Bible class, infants' and music rooms and the rector's study. The basement of the church will be occupied by the Sabbath school connected with the church. It is probably as well fitted for the comfortable accommodation of a large audience as any apartment of the kind in America. The organ gallery, at the west end of the church, rests on carved brackets which spring from the moulded caps of the columns supporting them. The organ is equal in size, beauty and quality of tone to any instrument in either Brooklyn or New York. It has seventy-five stops, viz.:—fourteen in the great organ, eleven in the choir organ, fifteen in the swell organ, six of the pedals, six mechanical or combination and three combination pedals. The church is lighted in an ingenious manner by jets around the caps of the nave columns. The whole of the building is heated with an arrangement of steam pipes, which circulate underneath the windows, and are hid from view by an ornamental wainscoting of wire, which is highly decorated. The ventilation is also of the most improved plan: the turrets and belfries have been made to secure a healthy circulation of the atmosphere, and for the escape of the vitiated air are lateral ducts ingeniously arranged. The entire cost of the church, including the chapel, is about $350,000. Messrs. Renwick & Sands, of New York, were the architects; S. H. Coln, decorative artist; Messrs. Ellin & Co., sculptors; Henry E. Sharp, stained glass artist; Henry Erben, organ builder, and Lewis W. Leeds engineer for ventilation.

In the earlier ages of the Church the architects and prelates, in the erection of places of worship, strove to perfect a structure which would inspire with awe and veneration all who should enter their portals, thus preparing their minds to receive God's truth by creating a lively emotion of wonder and humility at the majesty and greatness of Him to whom such buildings and inspirations were decorated. Modern church building for a long time had been totally different, but perhaps St. Ann's will inaugurate a new era in such matters. There will be assertions and objections vented by some few about its decorations being too gaudy, but these persons will please recollect that the "old Puritanical and Quaker-like times" have gone by, and "some other fitting color is desired to ornament the House of God with than whitewash."

UNVEILING OF THE LINCOLN STATUE TO-DAY.

The ceremony of unveiling the Lincoln statue at the grand plaza or entrance to Prospect Park will take place to-day, and will be an occasion of considerable éclat, should the weather prove fine. The ceremonies will commence at three o'clock in the afternoon. There will be an address by the presiding officer of the War Fund Committee of Kings county, Mr. A. A. Low, which will be followed by the unveiling of the statue by H. K. Brown, the sculptor. Mr. J. B. Wallace, on behalf of the committee, will then present the statue to the Park Commissioners. Mr. James S. T. Stranahan, President of the Board of Commissioners, will respond, after which a national salute will be fired. The orator of the occasion is the Rev. R. S. Storrs, Jr., D. D. The Navy Yard brass band will be in attendance. Seats have been set apart within the enclosure surrounding the statue for invited guests.

NEW JERSEY STATE MILITIA.

Grand Military Parade, Review and Presentation at Newark Yesterday.

Newark has had such an abundance of "military" for the last two days that it can now, like the inimitable Tostee, sing with a vengeance "J'aime le Militaire." Following the Wimbledonian trial of marksmanship on Tuesday—when Sergeant James Parks, of company A, First regiment, carried off, by one point more than any of his twenty-nine competitors, the very splendid and handsomely gotten up gold medal, presented by Major General Runyon—came yesterday the grand brigade drill, review, parade and presentation, which took place on Military Park in the afternoon, in presence of Governor Randolph, General Runyon, Brigadier General Plum and the members of their respective staffs, besides a number of distinguished invited guests, including State Senators Robbins and Little and Judge Guild. The line was formed shortly before three o'clock. After the troops, consisting of the First battalion, of Hoboken, Major B. Franklin Hart; the Second battalion, of Leonia, Bergen county, Captain J. B. Moore; the Fourth regiment, of Jersey City, Colonel Hiram Van Buskirk; the Hexamer battery, of Hoboken, Captain George Kanlert, with six pieces; together with the First regiment, Colonel James Peckwell; the Second regiment, Colonel J. F. Munn, and the Veteran regiment, Colonel William Ward, of New York, had been put through the manuel of arms, by General Runyon, the order was given for Sergeant Parks to advance.

The Governor then, at the close of a very neatly worded address, in the course of which he spoke of the militia being essential to the welfare and protection of the State, and hoped that such trials as that of the preceding day would be renewed, tendered the Sergeant the golden prize, and, assisted by General Runyon, fastened it on the victor's breast.

The troops then formed for review, and to the inspiriting strains of Reinhard's band of twenty pieces and the veteran regiment drum corps passed the reviewing platform in creditable style. While one or two of the regiments elicited the admiration of the immense assemblage of people that thronged the park, others did not come up to a remarkable standard of excellence. The Fifth (veteran) and the Fourth, of Hudson county, evinced careful training. The review over, the troops then marched through the principal streets of the city, to the admiration of the citizens. Taken altogether the turnout was quite satisfactory, especially when it is considered that a great deal of apathy prevails throughout the State just now on the subject of militia. During the review the horse of the Quartermaster's Sergeant, Harrison battery, became unmanageable and broke through the crowd. A little girl named Kate Lynch, of Prospect street, was seriously injured and two ladies of Kinney street slightly hurt. In the evening Governor Randolph and a host of epauletted and shoulder-strapped gentlemen were hospitably entertained at the residence of General Runyon.

TRIAL OF ANTOINE MAURER.

Strange and Strong Circumstantial Testimony—The Prisoner's Defence—Counter Evidence Against the Charge of Murder.

The trial of Antoine Maurer for the murder of Joachim Fuerter in March last was resumed yesterday morning at the Court House, New City, Rockland county, Judge Tappan and three associate judges presiding. There was a crowded attendance as on the previous day, and an increased interest exhibited in the proceedings, as the defence was presumed to have evidence which would entirely overturn the circumstantial case of the prosecution. The prisoner when brought in showed no change from the calm demeanor and complacent expression that marked his deportment the day previous. He sat at the end of the table occupied by counsel and seemed to take a lively though not an anxious interest in the proceedings. The clothes supposed to belong to the murdered man Fuerter, the hat presumed to be the property of Maurer, and the barrel stave with which the prosecution held that the murder was committed, were placed in a heap on the floor. Mr. Hoffman opened the case for the defence by examining Jacob Straut, a butcher, living in Spring Valley, who stated that on Friday, the 12th of March, as well as he could remember, a man got off the train from New York at Spring Valley and inquired of him the way to the house of a person named Krauss, who kept a lager beer saloon and pedlers' lodging place in the village. A brother of the witness, who was standing by at the time the stranger made his inquiry, pointed out the way to Krauss' house, and thither the supposed pedler wended his way, bearing under his arm a small box. Sunday morning following a dead body was discovered in a field about two hundred yards from Krauss' saloon, and this body the brothers Straus believed, to the best of their judgment, was that of the man who casually accosted them on Friday afternoon. Subsequently the body was identified as that of Joachim Fuerter, a tailor—not a pedler—who worked in Brooklyn and New York, and had a friend in the latter place named Antoine Maurer. None of the evidence for the prosecution disclosed that Maurer was seen in the neighborhood of Spring Valley the day the brothers Straut saw the stranger arrive, nor on the day the dead body was found—that is, from March 12 to March 14. It was proved, however, that Maurer invited Fuerter, a week previous, to come up to Spring Valley and meet him at Krauss' house, where he said he would discharge a debt of eight dollars he owed the tailor. It was also proved that Maurer left a friend's place in Delancey street, where he had been boarding for three days, on the morning of the 9th of March, with fifty cents in his pocket, which he borrowed; said he was going in the country and would bring back to his friend a present of a gold watch, a pair of pants and a pair of gaiters. Fuerter when found had no pants on, neither had he a gold watch he was known to have worn. The hat found covering the face of the deceased was sworn to by a dozen as being the one they saw Maurer wear. Here the testimony grows highly interesting, as showing the force and conclusiveness which circumstantial evidence may reach in some cases, while at the same time it leaves wide room for evasion and for possibilities of an opposite character.

Maurer, the prisoner, was next sworn and asked to explain the evidence against him. As he sat in the witness chair, facing the audience, there was no quailing of the eye, no hesitancy of response to the questions of either counsel. He certainly appeared less uneasy and decidedly more lucid than many of the witnesses who testified against him. Whose clothes are these? he was asked, when shown the garments which the prosecution contended were taken by the prisoner off the dead body of Fuerter. They are mine, he replied, and he proceeded to tell how he bought them in a pawn shop and afterwards disposed of them at an institution of the same sort when it was necessary for him to raise money to keep himself from starving. Then, about the hat, on which so much depended. Of that he disclaimed the ownership, and explained that he had owned a hat somewhat like it, which he traded off in the Bowery for another, mentioning the number of the store. The murder is supposed to have taken place on the night of Saturday, the 13th of March. Where was he from the 9th of March, when he told his friend he was going in the country to the 14th, when Fuerter's body was discovered? The 9th, 10th and 11th he remained in New York, getting drunk on the evening of the last mentioned date and starting on the 12th for Piermont, where he obtained work as a shoemaker from Mr. Leitner, who testified to the fact, and of his remaining there for some weeks after. Here comes in a strange fact, and one of a strongly condemnatory character, if the human memory could always be relied on in the matter of time and dates. On the 12th Maurer asked Leitner if he heard of a murder having been committed in Spring Valley and the body being found half naked. Leitner replied in the negative, as well he might, for the body was only found two days after. Why did he ask the question? Because, said he, the same was asked him that morning by a man he met at No. 4 Delancy street, New York. Why did he promise a gold watch to his friend Schias, which he expected to get in the country? He said an Irishman at pier No. 3 New York had a watch which he offered for a low price, and by going in the country he expected to raise enough money to purchase it. How did he get the clothes in which he appeared shortly after leaving New York March 9, when it was proved he had to borrow fifty cents to take him, as he stated, in the country? By exchanging, he explained, a twenty franc gold piece he had brought with him from France and preserved unbroken up to that time.

Mr. Shupe, in his cross-examination for the prosecution, failed to shake the integrity of the prisoner's testimony, which, taken as it was and unsupported by the evidence of any other person, left, after all, several points not satisfactorily answered.

After a recess for dinner Mr. Hoffman addressed the jury for the defence in a speech of nearly three hours, in which, with much skill and attractiveness of argument, he took up the long chain of evidence against the accused, and to all appearances left no link unbroken. He especially dwelt on the fact that neither the coat nor pants supposed to be the property of Fuerter had a solitary mark of blood, and yet the shirt was covered with blood stains. He might have gone further and said in truth there were no stains on the vest, and in fact on nothing but the shirt, which would go to prove that Fuerter must have been murdered while in bed and then carried out by two men and left in the fields. Was Maurer one of these two, and did the murder take place in Krauss' house—a disreputable concern by the way?

Mr. Shupe spoke, for the prosecution, a very strong address against the prisoners.

Judge Tappen made a calm, unbiassed summing up, and at ten o'clock the jury retired and had not been heard from past midnight.

COWHIDE AND BULLETS.

An "Affair of (dis) Honor"—Cowhiding of an Anti-Duellist.

In the Newark, N. J., Police Court yesterday forenoon Mr. R. M. Denman, a well-to-do New Orleans merchant, formerly of Newark, was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Watson S. Heddenberg, a Broad street storekeeper. It appears that Heddenberg had used some defamatory remarks regarding Denman's conduct while attending the funeral of the latter's near relative some five or six years ago, and though ready to make a verbal recantation, would not do so in writing.

A demand for satisfaction in accordance with the "code" was not responded to by Heddenberg, and on Tuesday night Denman pounced upon him in the street and administered a severe application of cowhide about the face and shoulders. Heddenberg declares he will cause Denman to smart equally with him through the medium of the courts. Denman was bailed.

Miscellaneous.

RAPID PASSAGES OF OCEAN STEAMERS—To the Editor of the Herald—In your issue of this morning you publish the log of the steamer Pereire, which arrived here on Monday morning, after an extraordinary run of eight days and sixteen hours from Brest.

This you claim to be the fastest transatlantic passage [on] record.

In November, 1867, the Inman steamship City of Paris arrived at this port from Queenstown in seven days, twenty-three hours and four minutes, having steamed from Fastnet Rock, according to her log as published in the Herald of Saturday, November 30, 1867, a distance of 2726 miles. Assuming the distance from Queenstown harbor to the Rock to be sixty miles—a low estimate—we have a total distance of 2786 miles steamed in 191 hours and 4 minutes. Now, if 2786 miles are steamed in 191 hours and 4 minutes, surely, according to the rule of three, 3023 miles should be steamed in 208 hours. The Pereire having sailed a total of only 3005 miles is of course outsailed by the City of Paris twenty-eight miles. Apologising for this intrusion, I am, &c.

A MEDICAL WONDER.
HYATT'S LIFE BALSAM.
Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Gout, in their worst stages, Scrofula, King's Evil, Erysipelas, old ulcers and the worst cases of diseases of the blood, great Debility, Liver Complaint, Kidneys, Salt Rheum, &c., &c., are most certainly cured by this sovereign purifier. It has been tested by the public twenty-one years. It has cured a hundred thousand cases, and never fails when taken as directed. It is a certain curative for Fistula in all curable cases. It cures the foulest old ulcers, even where the bone has become caries.

The Life Balsam does not contain a particle of mercury or any mineral.

Mr. D. Pearsall, now Inspector of State Prison at Trenton, N. J., was eighteen years since afflicted with ulcerous eruption of throat, tongue and nose; was treated with mercury until the disease had reduced his palate, nose and face to a mass of ragged flesh that fell off from its own weight till he was frightful to behold. He was induced by Joseph I. Godwin, Esq., to give the Life Balsam a trial, when in four days healing began, and in a comparatively short time it was healed completely. City references to this case—Bown & Godwin, Broadway, near Fortieth street.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.
From F. B. Conway, Tragedian, Park theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y.
WM. H. HYATT, Esq.:—
DEAR SIR—I feel it a duty both to yourself and also to others who may be afflicted with that distressing disease, chronic rheumatism, to add my testimony in favor of that truly valuable medicine, the Life Balsam. For years I was completely prostrated with rheumatism, in its most aggravated character. I tried to obtain relief from the most eminent medical practitioners both here and in Europe, but in vain, when, fortunately for myself, I tried the Balsam, and its effect was miraculous; in a word, I have never experienced a return of the disease, showing the cure to be radical. In every instance in which I have suggested its use the same result has been recorded. You are at perfect liberty to use this communication in any way you please. Yours most gratefully,
F. B. CONWAY.

CUBA.

The steamship Yazoo, from Havana, arrived at Philadelphia yesterday. Her mails were received in this city early this morning.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Oct. 8, 1869.

It has been continuously raining for several days past, flooding the country, rendering the roads impassable and all military operations, of course, impossible. Many of the river channels are so full that a number of soldiers have been drowned in attempting to cross. More than twenty of the wounded brought here after the late fight in Cauto Abajo, in which Major Isquierda commanded the Spaniards, have died in hospital, among them three officers. Another one has undergone amputation of the leg. Preparations were recently made here for the pursuit of the rebel chief Policarpo Rustan, in Guantanamo, but the rains have interfered.

Count Valmaseda is expected here to-day or to-morrow, and much excitement is manifested over the preparations for his reception. There has been a report that he was besieged in Bayamo, but it is not credited.

The new Governor, D. Felix Ferrer, arrived here on the steamer Cuba. He was duly waited upon by the Ayuntamiento and listened to and responded in the usual remarks concerning the national integrity, &c.

The entire bank of the Cauto river is in the possession of the insurgents, who have intrenched themselves there. They are thought to be in strong force and the troops have not seen fit to molest them.

A battalion of volunteers, to be called the "Guias de Valmaseda," is being organized here, the pay of the privates of which is to be thirty dollars per month.

The cholera is gradually diminishing; but there are still some cases, as also of smallpox.

Animal food is very dear here, beef being thirty-five cents a pound. Fish is, however, very plenty, and it constitutes the chief diet of the poorer classes.

Military Operations Interrupted by the Rains—Movements of the Insurgents—Probable Concentration—Alarm of the Outposts—The Innocent Cause—Failure of an Expedition of the Troops—They are Repulsed—A Change in Governorship—Reappearance of the Cholera.

NUEVITAS, Oct. 8, 1869.

We have had very heavy rains of late in this vicinity, which have prevented all military operations. On this account no foraging parties have left Puerto Principe, and the troops and inhabitants of that city have been deprived of eating meat for the past eight days.

During the past week large bodies of insurgents have crossed the railroad line; but their destination and object are not known. They are probably concentrating for some purpose.

On the night of the 29th ult., after a very heavy rain storm, several shots were heard along the line outside, shortly afterward followed by a number of volleys. Immediately the whole town was in a state of alarm. The regulars and volunteers ran to their posts, and the cry was raised that the insurgents were attacking the city. It was soon ascertained, however, that all this hubbub was created by a poor old cow, which, upon approaching the line, failed to answer the regular challenge and was fired upon. This alarmed the other outposts, who, with much presence of mind, immediately discharged their pieces at random and hastened to rally.

About the middle of last month a column comprising 1,000 men, and commanded by Colonel Aguilar, left Puerto Principe for the purpose of attacking the plantation Rio Seco, owned and defended by the insurgent chief Correlio Porro. It was absent about three days, when it returned, and nothing has been said as to the result of the expedition. It has leaked out, however, that it was repulsed and compelled to return without accomplishing the object.

On the 29th ult. arrived here, in the Spanish war steamer Vasco Nuñez, the newly appointed Political and Military Governor, Don Julian Amado. It is hoped by the justice-loving inhabitants of this city that he will inaugurate a new era, and that in his official acts he will be guided by his own good judgment and not by the coterie of volunteers which surrounded his predecessor, and which influenced him to many arbitrary and despotic acts. Since the new Governor has arrived quiet has been restored to the hearts of many families which lived in constant dread that some of their members would be arrested, imprisoned and sent off to Havana on any pretext or caprice of the late satrap. This last, Don Federico Mugumza y Lersundi, is only regretted by a few of his satellites, part of whom formed the committee which, after exacting the signatures of many who had received injuries at his hands, went to ask the Captain General to reinstate him. Fortunately their application was not granted. The cholera has reappeared among several of the detachments stationed on the railroad line. All supplies, merchandise, trunks, &c., going to Puerto Principe are carefully examined before being placed on the train, to discover, if possible, something treasonable.

PORTO RICO.

Great Flood in Porto Rico—A Good Part of the City Inundated—Houses Carried off—A Church Edifice Sunk—Exertions of the Authorities.

HAVANA, Oct. 14, 1869.

Dates from Porto Rico to the 3d inst. received here announce that on the 27th ult., between two and three o'clock P. M., after seventy hours of heavy and continuous rain, the river Niguas, a small stream which runs along the north and east of the place, in the extreme outskirts, rose rapidly and threatened the principal street, occupying a considerable part of the city towards the sea. Fortunately the more exposed inhabitants were enabled to abandon their houses, which they were compelled to do very quickly, and escape the danger. Three houses were destroyed and carried off by the flood. The church edifice, situated four blocks from the channel of the river, was nearly taken from its foundations; one of the vestry walls fell into the river, and the others remained standing because they were attached to the chancel, the arches, towers and cupola of which now threaten to fall. The principal street lost all its hard surface, and throughout its whole length now represents the bed of a torrent filled with rocks and débris. The authorities and the young men exerted themselves to their utmost to prevent the loss of life, removing the families on horseback to safe asylums and to the houses of neighbors, who received them with great kindness.

Dealers in the Mystic Numbers Lugged Up for Ignoring Uncle Sam's Share of the Profits.

In the United States District Court at Trenton yesterday, before Judge R. S. Field, two respectable young men named William H. Gallagher and Edward Burgesser were tried on an indictment charging them with having carried on the business of lottery ticket dealers without paying the especial tax. The evidence proved that the violation of the statute was more through neglect than any criminal desire to evade its provisions. The testimony showed that heretofore the defendants paid the tax regularly; that application for license had been regularly filed, and that they had paid the tax on the day of their arrest. The Deputy Collector of the Fifth district, George A. Matthews, testified that the 15th of June was the last day of paying the tax without a penalty being attached. He afterwards went to collect it from Mr. Gallagher, but he was not at home. The defence deemed it unnecessary to produce any witnesses, but Mr. Leon Abbett, the counsel, said that it was admitted on all sides that notice was given by the government authorities that the time for paying the tax was extended to the 20th of July, and that the ticket was sold to Detective Nettleship's stool pigeon the day previous. The defendants paid their tax bill on the 22d of July—the government receiving the full amount of tax from May, 1869, to May, 1870—and yet the defendants were indicted for not paying it. Judge Field mildly charged the jury, who returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy. The Court then imposed a fine of ten dollars.

The Judge remarked that the idea thrown out by the District Attorney that the United States District Court should be subsidiary to the State courts in carrying out the laws of this State could not for a moment be entertained. It was certainly a disgrace to the State of New Jersey that its laws were so openly and flagrantly violated, but the government would not make itself subsidiary to enforcing State laws.

Mrs. Margaret Fritch, William Reynolds and George Burgesser pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging them with a similar offence. Sentence was suspended for the present. The jurors were then discharged till next Tuesday morning, at ten o'clock.

"WHO THREW THAT LAST BRICK?"

The death of Henry Grant, a colored man, at No. 198 Rivington street, was mentioned in yesterday's HERALD. Lydia Griffin, the reputed wife of the deceased, testified before Coroner Keenan that he fell on the pavement and injured himself. The Coroner subsequently heard another version of the affair and directed Drs. Shine and Cushman to make a post mortem examination on the body, which resulted in finding a fracture of the skull and compression of the brain.

Lydia Griffin was recalled and told a different story from that she at first swore to. Lydia, who was not the wife of deceased, now says that she threw a stone at Sam Cummings, also colored, and hit deceased by mistake. Coroner Keenan committed Lydia to prison, and will further investigate the matter of Grant's death.

BROOKLYN CITY.

ST. ANN'S ON THE HEIGHTS.

The Inaugural Ceremonies of the New Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn—Large and Brilliant Congregations—Order of Exercises—The Pastor's Reception—Description of the Edifice.

The opening services of the new Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Ann's, situated on the northeast corner of Clinton and Livingston streets, Brooklyn, in its dedication to the worship of Almighty God, took place yesterday, and were of the most impressive character. From ten o'clock in the morning to and after the hour appointed for the service, the streets and avenues leading to this gorgeous architectural structure were thronged with a living stream of men, women and children, all anxiously hurrying to that point. The congregation that filled every pew in the church, and rested in the aisles and sat on the light parapet around the chancel, was such that seldom come together. There were there hundreds of ladies matchless in beauty and the originality of their elegant toilets, and hundreds of the noted citizens of both Brooklyn and New York, while the clerical force present represented every denomination and sect. The scene before the services began was, indeed, one of exquisite grandeur, a varied and beautiful spectacle. Through the exceedingly handsome tinted windows, rich and geometrical mosaic work, the quivering sunlight streamed in a thousand shafts, reflecting the prismatic hues of the rainbow; and as they fell upon the arrayed seekers for divine truth, whose habiliments struck the eye with equal effect of loveliness, and lighted up ceiling and walls, bringing out to bolder view the brilliant and harmonious colorings with which they are decorated, the inner structure seemed a resplendent monument of architecture.

At half-past eleven o'clock the organ began to peal forth its pleasing and sparkling tones, and the opening hymn by Reder, "I was glad," &c., was given in C. As the last note died away in the aisles beyond the organist began a solemn march, and soon the stately tread of the procession of bishops and clergy was heard. They went with measured tread up the aisle, arrayed in the robes of their holy calling, and, reaching the chancel, assumed their appropriate stalls. There were in the procession Rev. Dr. Noah Hunt Schenck, pastor of the church; the Right Rev. A. N. Littlejohn, Bishop of Long Island; Bishop Potter, of New York; Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio; Bishop Talbot, of Indiana; Dr. Peet, Iowa; Dr. Bancroft, Montreal; Dr. Smith, Flushing; Dr. Mills, Hartford; Dr. Van Kleeck, Flatbush; Drs. D. V. M. Johnson, Alexander Burgess, Jacob W. Diller, Charles H. Hall, John A. Paddock, Samuel Harkins, R. Darius Brewer, William M. Postlethwaite and T. S. Downe, of Brooklyn; Drs. Montgomery, Potter, Washburn and Rev. Professor Johnson, of New York. Then, amid the impressive and becoming silence which had fallen upon the church, the opening anthem, "Holy, holy, holy," by J. M. Loretz, Jr., the organist, was sung. The programme of service was thereafter as follows:—

THE INAUGURAL SERMON.

Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio, then delivered the inaugural sermon, taking as his text II. Timothy iii. 5—"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." The sermon was very lengthy, occupying over an hour in its delivery, but was listened to with marked attention. There is but room for a small portion of the discourse. Godliness here is a term for that inward and spiritual grace which is the life and being of all genuine piety before God. There is no objection indicated in the Scriptures to having a form of godliness. It is not said what sort of form, good or bad, there should be. Mind this. Sacraments in their place may be all right, and all the accompaniments right. The revival of old medieval names and usages having the savor of incense and the romance of dim antiquity are common. Thus the minute reinauguration of cast-off trappings of ritualism which our reformers could not tolerate: gorgeous sacerdotal vestments full of false doctrine in their symbolic meaning. The Bishop, in concluding his discourse said, in addressing the congregation, be careful, brethren, that no attachment to all this handiwork—the form within and without—shall ever beguile you into forgetfulness of what the true temple is, and its infinite importance compared with all the outward forms of its worship; lest you incur the Apostles' rebuke, "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the spirit of God dwelleth in you?" It is that indwelling of the spirit that makes the temple, so that every heart that has it is God's temple, as St. Paul says again, "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you?"

The following services then took place:—

Offertory—Voluntary in G major, "Let us Bring One Offering	J. M. Loretz, Jr
Prayer for Church Militant	Rev. Dr. Van Kleeck

RECEPTION AT THE PASTOR'S.

Between the hours of three and five o'clock in the afternoon Dr. Schenck had a reception at his elegant house, No. 64 Pierrepont street. There were present some hundred and fifty clergymen, who, together with their families, augmented the number that called upon him, to fully three hundred. The interchange of fellowship over a sumptuous entertainment was of the most pleasing and ennobling character.

THE EVENING SERVICE.

At eight o'clock last evening the church was again thronged with the élite of Brooklyn and this city. The number of clergymen present equalled the morning attendance of the "leaders in Christ." The effect produced by the many jets of gas seemed to materially reduce the brilliancy of the dark blue chancel, sky-dotted here and there with stars of gold, but the mouldings and architecture everywhere dazzled beautifully in the flood of light. The programme of the service was:—

Opening Anthem, "Blessed is He That Cometh," in A f	J. M. Loretz, Jr
Evening Prayer to Psalter	Rev. Mr. Paddock
Eighth selection of Psalms	Rev. Dr. Haskins
"Gloria in Excelsis."
First Lesson, Isaiah lv	Rev. Mr. McIlvaine
"Cantate Domine," in A	"Bridgewater"
Second Lesson, Rom. viii	Rev. Mr. Jessup
"Benedic Anima Mea," in A	Church Choir
Creed and Prayers	Rev. Dr. F. Vinton
112th Psalm, "With My Whole Heart," &c	Rev. M. Brewer
Historical Discourse	Bishop of Long Island
268th Hymn, "Sun of My Soul"	Rev. Mr. Postlethwaite
Collects	Rev. Dr. Drowne
Benediction	Bishop of Long Island
Hallelujah Chorus	Handel's "Messiah"

The historical discourse of Bishop Littlejohn was replete with reminiscences of St. Ann's church, from the date of its foundation, its reverses and prosperity, and was listened to with commendable patience by the congregation. It was interesting to a degree.

THE CHIMES.

The first peal of the chime of eight bells in the tower, an Easter offering to the church from one of the liberal members of the congregation, was at sunrise yesterday morning, and their unfamiliar yet pleasing tones awakened the people in the neighborhood by their clear, sweet sounds. At eight o'clock A. M. "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow" was chimed, and at five P. M. "The Evening Hymn" was rung clearly and exquisitely. The chimes were also played at the morning and evening services.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SACRED EDIFICE.

The parish of St. Ann's was organized in the year 1785, and this is the third church which has been built for the congregation. The first was a blue stone edifice on the corner of Sands and Washington streets, fronting on the former. The second was of brick, in the same block, at the corner of Washington and Prospect streets, fronting on Washington street. The congregation has recently occupied the chapel on Clinton street, which adjoins the new church on the north.

The new St. Ann's was commenced in 1867, the corner stone having been laid in June of that year. Both the exterior and the interior of the building have strongly marked characteristics, and command attention by novel and unique architectural features. The exterior is of a combination of Belleville brown stone and white stone from the Ohio quarries, and its ensemble is imposing and dignified, bearing evidence of bold and skilful treatment. The architecture is that known as decorated or middle pointed. The arches are formed of these two kinds of stone alternately. The Ohio stone is also liberally used in broad courses, and in the columns of the doorways. The result is to bring out strongly the contrast of the red and white. The uncommon height of the building contributes greatly to the external effect, but still more to the internal. The perpendicular from the floor to the pitch of the roof is 100 feet. The interior nave and side aisles are expressed on the front façade by gables, the centre one being flanked by two fine towers and spires. The centre entrance door is highly enriched, having buttresses with crocheted pinnacles and tracerled gables with a background of diaper ornament. The whole effect of this façade is picturesque and varied, and has an admirable expression of breadth and proportion. The Livingston street side of the church, with its parallel front, has been treated with a good deal of thought and skill. Buttresses divide the sides into bays or parts, strengthening and beautifying the facade. At each end of the bays are gables with fine pinnacled buttresses flanking them, the gable furthest from Clinton street having an entrance door leading into the church. Towers rise above the ridge and cresting of the roof to the height of thirty-six feet, and, being of perforated stone work, give them a grateful vivacity. The windows of this side, both above and below the line of the galleries, preserve the proportion of the building by treating them with piers and mullions, giving the lower ones an apparent height, while it diminishes that of the upper ones. The caps of the columns of the central entrance doors are richly carved in leaves and grapes, mingled with ears of wheat, expressive and suggestive of the elements of the sacrament. Around the arch of the door is worked a very rich conventional ball flower, and a fern leaf clasps the mouldings above the columns, beautifying the whole composition. The traceries of the windows are all of stone, and of an elaborate nature. The lines and figures are geometrical, and have a strong and beautiful expression, combining ideas typical and illustrative of different Christian principles, such as the interlacing of the triangle and trefoil, suggestive of the indivisibility and equality of the Godhead.

The three entrance vestibules are approached by flights of steps on Clinton street. On either side of the centre door are stairs leading to the galleries, extending around the sides and across one end of the church. The body of the edifice has five parallel aisles, dividing the pews into suitable lengths to meet the requirements of the congregation. As one enters the church the chancel is a most striking feature. It is different from the usual plan adopted in Episcopal places of worship, but it is unique in its arrangement. It is raised a few steps above the level of the floor and projects out in circular form, having a light parapet of ornamental ironwork, gilded and decorated. Behind this, against the walls, are arranged stalls for the clergymen officiating at any ceremony. The centre stall is more elaborate than the others, and is designed to be the bishop's seat of honor. The caps and finials of the gables here and the communion table are enriched by exquisite carvings. The credit of the arrangement of the chancel is due to the pastor, whose idea was to place immediately in view of the congregation the whole ceremonies of the church service, exempting it from any mystification or confusion, and he has succeeded. The polished brass returns of the chancel are very neat in design and of exquisite workmanship. The galleries are broad and spacious and very comfortable, capable of seating several hundred persons. The several windows beneath the galleries are filled with beautifully stained glass, producing, with the combinations of colors, a rich variety and happy effect. Texts from Holy Writ also enliven the windows, such as "I am the Bread of Life," "I am the Light of the World," and also very prettily worked in with geometrical correctness are such emblems as the chalice, font, I. H. S., the cross and the all-seeing eye. There are also memorial windows in the church, dedicated to the memory of departed friends—one near the chancel to the late Frederick T. Peet, one to Mr. Harry Whitehead and another to the late Rev. Dr. Cutler, formerly pastor of the church. Below each of these are appropriate tablets and texts. The walls of the interior are throughout richly painted in polychrome. The ceiling is bold in conception and execution. It is made very effective by the judicious use of beautiful dark ultramarine blue. The timbers of the roof are also painted in taste, as are the arches and traceries under the clear story. The latter is decorated with a cool, refreshing green, in pleasing contrast with the concentrated color of the more enriched portions of its surface.

On the right side of the chancel are the robing, vestry, Bible class, infants' and music rooms and the rector's study. The basement of the church will be occupied by the Sabbath school connected with the church. It is probably as well fitted for the comfortable accommodation of a large audience as any apartment of the kind in America. The organ gallery, at the west end of the church, rests on carved brackets which spring from the moulded caps of the columns supporting them. The organ is equal in size, beauty and quality of tone to any instrument in either Brooklyn or New York. It has seventy-five stops, viz.:—fourteen in the great organ, eleven in the choir organ, fifteen in the swell organ, six of the pedals, six mechanical or combination and three combination pedals. The church is lighted in an ingenious manner by jets around the caps of the nave columns. The whole of the building is heated with an arrangement of steam pipes, which circulate underneath the windows, and are hid from view by an ornamental wainscoting of wire, which is highly decorated. The ventilation is also of the most improved plan: the turrets and belfries have been made to secure a healthy circulation of the atmosphere, and for the escape of the vitiated air are lateral ducts ingeniously arranged. The entire cost of the church, including the chapel, is about $350,000. Messrs. Renwick & Sands, of New York, were the architects; S. H. Cohn, decorative artist; Messrs. Ellin & Co., sculptors; Henry E. Sharp, stained glass artist; Henry Erben, organ builder, and Lewis W. Leeds engineer for ventilation.

In the earlier ages of the Church the architects and prelates, in the erection of places of worship, strove to perfect a structure which would inspire with awe and veneration all who should enter their portals, thus preparing their minds to receive God's truth by creating a lively emotion of wonder and humility at the majesty and greatness of Him to whom such buildings and inspirations were decorated. Modern church building for a long time had been totally different, but perhaps St. Ann's will inaugurate a new era in such matters. There will be assertions and objections vented by some few about its decorations being too gaudy, but these persons will please recollect that the "old Puritanical and Quaker-like times" have gone by, and "some other fitting color is desired to ornament the House of God with than whitewash."

UNVEILING OF THE LINCOLN STATUE TO-DAY.

The ceremony of unveiling the Lincoln statue at the grand plaza or entrance to Prospect Park will take place to-day, and will be an occasion of considerable éclat, should the weather prove fine. The ceremonies will commence at three o'clock in the afternoon. There will be an address by the presiding officer of the War Fund Committee of Kings county, Mr. A. A. Low, which will be followed by the unveiling of the statue by H. K. Brown, the sculptor. Mr. J. B. Wallace, on behalf of the committee, will then present the statue to the Park Commissioners. Mr. James S. T. Stranahan, President of the Board of Commissioners, will respond, after which a national salute will be fired. The orator of the occasion is the Rev. R. S. Storrs, Jr., D. D. The Navy Yard brass band will be in attendance. Seats have been set apart within the enclosure surrounding the statue for invited guests.

NEW JERSEY STATE MILITIA.

Grand Military Parade, Review and Presentation at Newark Yesterday.

Newark has had such an abundance of "military" for the last two days that it can now, like the inimitable Tostee, sing with a vengeance "J'aime le Militaire." Following the Wimbledonian trial of marksmanship on Tuesday—when Sergeant James Parks, of company A, First regiment, carried off, by one point more than any of his twenty-nine competitors, the very splendid and handsomely gotten up gold medal, presented by Major General Runyon—came yesterday the grand brigade drill, review, parade and presentation, which took place on Military Park in the afternoon, in presence of Governor Randolph, General Runyon, Brigadier General Plum and the members of their respective staffs, besides a number of distinguished invited guests, including State Senators Robbins and Little and Judge Guild. The line was formed shortly before three o'clock. After the troops, consisting of the First battalion, of Hoboken, Major B. Franklin Hart; the Second battalion, of Leonia, Bergen county, Captain J. B. Moore; the Fourth regiment, of Jersey City, Colonel Hiram Van Buskirk; the Hexamer battery, of Hoboken, Captain George Kanlert, with six pieces; together with the First regiment, Colonel James Peckwell; the Second regiment, Colonel J. F. Munn, and the Veteran regiment, Colonel William Ward, of New York, had been put through the manuel of arms, by General Runyon, the order was given for Sergeant Parks to advance.

The Governor then, at the close of a very neatly worded address, in the course of which he spoke of the militia being essential to the welfare and protection of the State, and hoped that such trials as that of the preceding day would be renewed, tendered the Sergeant the golden prize, and, assisted by General Runyon, fastened it on the victor's breast.

The troops then formed for review, and to the inspiriting strains of Reinhard's band of twenty pieces and the veteran regiment drum corps passed the reviewing platform in creditable style. While one or two of the regiments elicited the admiration of the immense assemblage of people that thronged the park, others did not come up to a remarkable standard of excellence. The Fifth (veteran) and the Fourth, of Hudson county, evinced careful training. The review over, the troops then marched through the principal streets of the city, to the admiration of the citizens. Taken altogether the turnout was quite satisfactory, especially when it is considered that a great deal of apathy prevails throughout the State just now on the subject of militia. During the review the horse of the Quartermaster's Sergeant, Harrison battery, became unmanageable and broke through the crowd. A little girl named Kate Lynch, of Prospect street, was seriously injured and two ladies of Kinney street slightly hurt. In the evening Governor Randolph and a host of epauletted and shoulder-strapped gentlemen were hospitably entertained at the residence of General Runyon.

TRIAL OF ANTOINE MAURER.

Strange and Strong Circumstantial Testimony—The Prisoner's Defence—Counter Evidence Against the Charge of Murder.

The trial of Antoine Maurer for the murder of Joachim Fuerter in March last was resumed yesterday morning at the Court House, New City, Rockland county, Judge Tappan and three associate judges presiding. There was a crowded attendance as on the previous day, and an increased interest exhibited in the proceedings, as the defence was presumed to have evidence which would entirely overturn the circumstantial case of the prosecution. The prisoner when brought in showed no change from the calm demeanor and complacent expression that marked his deportment the day previous. He sat at the end of the table occupied by counsel and seemed to take a lively though not an anxious interest in the proceedings. The clothes supposed to belong to the murdered man Fuerter, the hat presumed to be the property of Maurer, and the barrel stave with which the prosecution held that the murder was committed, were placed in a heap on the floor. Mr. Hoffman opened the case for the defence by examining Jacob Straut, a butcher, living in Spring Valley, who stated that on Friday, the 12th of March, as well as he could remember, a man got off the train from New York at Spring Valley and inquired of him the way to the house of a person named Krauss, who kept a lager beer saloon and pedlers' lodging place in the village. A brother of the witness, who was standing by at the time the stranger made his inquiry, pointed out the way to Krauss' house, and thither the supposed pedler wended his way, bearing under his arm a small box. Sunday morning following a dead body was discovered in a field about two hundred yards from Krauss' saloon, and this body the brothers Straus believed, to the best of their judgment, was that of the man who casually accosted them on Friday afternoon. Subsequently the body was identified as that of Joachim Fuerter, a tailor—not a pedler—who worked in Brooklyn and New York, and had a friend in the latter place named Antoine Maurer. None of the evidence for the prosecution disclosed that Maurer was seen in the neighborhood of Spring Valley the day the brothers Straut saw the stranger arrive, nor on the day the dead body was found—that is, from March 12 to March 14. It was proved, however, that Maurer invited Fuerter, a week previous, to come up to Spring Valley and meet him at Krauss' house, where he said he would discharge a debt of eight dollars he owed the tailor. It was also proved that Maurer left a friend's place in Delancey street, where he had been boarding for three days, on the morning of the 9th of March, with fifty cents in his pocket, which he borrowed; said he was going in the country and would bring back to his friend a present of a gold watch, a pair of pants and a pair of gaiters. Fuerter when found had no pants on, neither had he a gold watch he was known to have worn. The hat found covering the face of the deceased was sworn to by a dozen as being the one they saw Maurer wear. Here the testimony grows highly interesting, as showing the force and conclusiveness which circumstantial evidence may reach in some cases, while at the same time it leaves wide room for evasion and for possibilities of an opposite character.

Maurer, the prisoner, was next sworn and asked to explain the evidence against him. As he sat in the witness chair, facing the audience, there was no quailing of the eye, no hesitancy of response to the questions of either counsel. He certainly appeared less uneasy and decidedly more lucid than many of the witnesses who testified against him. Whose clothes are these? he was asked, when shown the garments which the prosecution contended were taken by the prisoner off the dead body of Fuerter. They are mine, he replied, and he proceeded to tell how he bought them in a pawn shop and afterwards disposed of them at an institution of the same sort when it was necessary for him to raise money to keep himself from starving. Then, about the hat, on which so much depended. Of that he disclaimed the ownership, and explained that he had owned a hat somewhat like it, which he traded off in the Bowery for another, mentioning the number of the store. The murder is supposed to have taken place on the night of Saturday, the 13th of March. Where was he from the 9th of March, when he told his friend he was going in the country to the 14th, when Fuerter's body was discovered? The 9th, 10th and 11th he remained in New York, getting drunk on the evening of the last mentioned date and starting on the 12th for Piermont, where he obtained work as a shoemaker from Mr. Leitner, who testified to the fact, and of his remaining there for some weeks after. Here comes in a strange fact, and one of a strongly condemnatory character, if the human memory could always be relied on in the matter of time and dates. On the 12th Maurer asked Leitner if he heard of a murder having been committed in Spring Valley and the body being found half naked. Leitner replied in the negative, as well he might, for the body was only found two days after. Why did he ask the question? Because, said he, the same was asked him that morning by a man he met at No. 4 Delancy street, New York. Why did he promise a gold watch to his friend Schlas, which he expected to get in the country? He said an Irishman at pier No. 3 New York had a watch which he offered for a low price, and by going in the country he expected to raise enough money to purchase it. How did he get the clothes in which he appeared shortly after leaving New York March 9, when it was proved he had to borrow fifty cents to take him, as he stated, in the country? By exchanging, he explained, a twenty franc gold piece he had brought with him from France and preserved unbroken up to that time.

Mr. Shupe, in his cross-examination for the prosecution, failed to shake the integrity of the prisoner's testimony, which, taken as it was and unsupported by the evidence of any other person, left, after all, several points not satisfactorily answered.

After a recess for dinner Mr. Hoffman addressed the jury for the defence in a speech of nearly three hours, in which, with much skill and attractiveness of argument, he took up the long chain of evidence against the accused, and to all appearances left no link unbroken. He especially dwelt on the fact that neither the coat nor pants supposed to be the property of Fuerter had a solitary mark of blood, and yet the shirt was covered with blood stains. He might have gone further and said in truth there were no stains on the vest, and in fact on nothing but the shirt, which would go to prove that Fuerter must have been murdered while in bed and then carried out by two men and left in the fields. Was Maurer one of these two, and did the murder take place in Krauss' house—a disreputable concern by the way?

Mr. Shupe spoke, for the prosecution, a very strong address against the prisoners.

Judge Tappen made a calm, unbiassed summing up, and at ten o'clock the jury retired and had not been heard from past midnight.

COWHIDE AND BULLETS.

An "Affair of (dis) Honor"—Cowhiding of an Anti-Duellist.

In the Newark, N. J., Police Court yesterday forenoon Mr. R. M. Denman, a well-to-do New Orleans merchant, formerly of Newark, was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Watson S. Heddenberg, a Broad street storekeeper. It appears that Heddenberg had used some defamatory remarks regarding Denman's conduct while attending the funeral of the latter's near relative some five or six years ago, and though ready to make a verbal recantation, would not do so in writing.

A demand for satisfaction in accordance with the "code" was not responded to by Heddenberg, and on Tuesday night Denman pounced upon him in the street and administered a severe application of cowhide about the face and shoulders. Heddenberg declares he will cause Denman to smart equally with him through the medium of the courts. Denman was bailed.

Miscellaneous.

RAPID PASSAGES OF OCEAN STEAMERS—To the Editor of the Herald—In your issue of this morning you publish the log of the steamer Pereire, which arrived here on Monday morning, after an extraordinary run of eight days and sixteen hours from Brest.

This you claim to be the fastest transatlantic passage on record.

In November, 1867, the Inman steamship City of Paris arrived at this port from Queenstown in seven days, twenty-three hours and four minutes, having steamed from Fastnet Rock, according to her log as published in the Herald of Saturday, November 30, 1867, a distance of 2726 miles. Assuming the distance from Queenstown harbor to the Rock to be sixty miles—a low estimate—we have a total distance of 2786 miles steamed in 191 hours and 4 minutes. Now, if 2786 miles are steamed in 191 hours and 4 minutes, surely, according to the rule of three, 3023 miles should be steamed in 203 hours. The Pereire having sailed a total of only 3005 miles is of course outsailed by the City of Paris twenty-eight miles.

Apologising for this intrusion, I am, &c.

NEW YORK, Oct 19, 1869. AMOR JUSTITIÆ.

Notice to Mariners.

A MEDICAL WONDER.
HYATT'S LIFE BALSAM.
Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Gout, in their worst stages, Scrofula, King's Evil, Erysipelas, old ulcers and the worst cases of diseases of the blood, great Debility, Liver Complaint, Kidneys, Salt Rheum, &c., &c., are most certainly cured by this sovereign purifier. It has been tested by the public twenty-one years. It has cured a hundred thousand cases, and never fails when taken as directed. It is a certain curative for Fistula in all curable cases. It cures the foulest old ulcers, even where the bone has become carious.
The Life Balsam does not contain a particle of mercury or any mineral.
Mr. D. Pearsall, now Inspector of State Prison at Trenton, N. J., was eighteen years since afflicted with ulcerous eruption of throat, tongue and nose; was treated with mercury until the disease had reduced his palate, nose and face to a mass of ragged flesh that fell off from its own weight till he was frightful to behold. He was induced by Joseph I. Godwin, Esq., to give the Life Balsam a trial, when in four days healing began, and in a comparatively short time he was healed completely. City references to this case—Bown & Godwin, Broadway, near Fortieth street.
CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.
From F. B. Conway, Tragedian, Park theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y.
WM. H. HYATT, Esq.:—
DEAR SIR—I feel it a duty both to yourself and also to others who may be afflicted with that distressing disease, chronic rheumatism, to add my testimony in favor of that truly valuable medicine, the Life Balsam. For years I was completely prostrated with rheumatism, in its most aggravated character. I tried to obtain relief from the most eminent medical practitioners both here and in Europe, but in vain, when, fortunately for myself, I tried the Balsam, and its effect was miraculous; in a word, I have never experienced a return of the disease, showing the cure to be radical. In every instance in which I have suggested its use the same result has been recorded. You are at perfect liberty to use this communication in any way you please. Yours most gratefully,
F. B. CONWAY.

POLITICAL.

The State Nominations—The Presidency for 1872.

Republican Ratification Meeting at the Cooper Institute.

The Party of Progress Triumphant.

Addresses by Judge Pierrepont, General Hawley and E. Delafield Smith.

A grand ratification meeting was held last evening at the Cooper Institute, under the auspices of the Republican General Committees, for the purpose of ratifying the State nominations. There was a large attendance, including a full representation of ladies, and the proceedings were marked by great enthusiasm. The hall was handsomely adorned with appropriate decorations, the pillars being ornamented with stars, while conspicuous among all was the national banner. Outside a brilliant pyrotechnic display was given, while inside a band of music contributed not a little to enliven the proceedings.

ADDRESS BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY PIERREPONT.

Shortly after eight o'clock District Attorney EDWARDS PIERREPONT presided, and, having called the meeting to order, delivered the following address:—

There can be but two political parties in this country. One or the other of these parties will rule. No third party of any considerable importance can arise. When the country was much smaller a third party was very difficult to organize; now, the vastness of the country and the complicated machinery of a canvass make a third political power impossible. Dissatisfaction will exist and ideas will prevail quite out of harmony with either of the great political divisions; but the expense and difficulty of new organization is such as to discourage and utterly defeat any and all attempts at third party combinations. Every true patriot, and every sagacious statesman, and every selfish politician will find himself acting with one of the two great political parties which now exist. No third party has ever been formed in this country which did not tend to injure the party of its own friends. In 1836 General Harrison and Francis Granger ran against Martin Van Buren and Richard M. Johnson. Hugh L. White, of Tennessee, and John Tyler, of Virginia, ran as third party candidates and defeated their friends and elected their enemies. In 1844 Polk and Dallas ran against Clay and Frelinghuysen. Birney came in as a third party man and defeated his friend Clay and elected his especial enemy Polk. In 1848 Taylor and Fillmore ran against General Cass and Butler, of Kentucky. Martin Van Buren and Charles Francis Adams ran on a third party ticket, and Van Buren had the pleasure of seeing his lifelong democratic friend, General Cass, defeated by a whig. (Applause.) In 1852 Pierce and King ran against General Scott and Graham. John P. Hale ran as a third candidate, and aided in defeating his friend, General Scott. In 1856 Buchanan and Breckinridge ran against Fremont and Dayton. Fillmore and Donaldson ran on the third party ticket and ruined their own friends. In 1860 Bell and Everett ran as the third party candidates, and thus helped to elect Lincoln and Hamlin, who were not their political friends. The last attempt to form a third party was that of Andrew Johnson's, but so abortive was the effort that no candidate was put in the field. (Laughter and applause.) We have done with third parties. (Loud cheers.) Two great parties will continue to represent the opposing sentiments of the American people. One will be on the side of progress, advanced ideas and active moral sentiments. The other conservative, slow, always thinking that the nation is going too fast, halting and believing that any social or moral views not entertained by Abraham and the patriarchs dangerous and unsound. (Applause.) Political parties go to decay, individuals grow old, but the nation is yet young; her youth may remain for a thousand years. She is as fresh and as full of sturdy life and glorious hope and bounding blood as when the morning dawned on the Fourth of July in 1776. The maimed and the halt and the blind cannot lead this great young people. The party of progress will be the party of victory. The party of courage will be the party of power. (Cheers.) For long years the democratic party was the party of progress and of success; they thought the nation had grown old with themselves, and when the war came they halted and wavered and ceased to march to the beat of the nation's heart; they straggled, faltered, were routed and can never rally again to victory. Then parties changed front. The progressive portion of the democratic party came out for the war, and the republicans became the party of advanced ideas, in harmony with the age, and the democratic leaders became the Bourbons of old time. (Cheers.) When the democratic platform of 1864 declared the war a failure and drove so many good men from its ranks, when the overwhelming election of Lincoln repudiated that assertion, and when Grant proved the war a glorious success, could any but the blind fail to see that the people would make the hero of that success the President of the nation? (Applause.) They made him President when he was forty-seven years old, and when he is fifty-one they will make him President again. The sunrise to-morrow is scarce more certain. Great difficulties beset every new administration. In the case of General Grant the difficulties were multiplied by the closing events of the war. When he came to form his Cabinet seven men only could have place. Seven hundred were disappointed. (Laughter.) The same was more eminently true of all the other offices. Of course great apathy and some fault-finding followed this great disappointment. But the people are recovering from that, as the elections in Ohio and Pennsylvania show. A far greater disappointment and a far greater apathy followed the first election of Lincoln, and in the autumn which followed his first inauguration he could have received the electoral vote of but very few States. No man since General Jackson has ever had the confidence of the people so fully as General Grant; you had a test of that a few days ago, when it was insinuated that he favored the gold speculators; even the World newspaper (not suspected of being over kind to General Grant) came out and denounced the foul slander. No one believed a word of it—the people knew that the brave and honest General whom they had chosen would connive at no wrong. General Grant will grow stronger each year, and when the national convention is held (only two and a half years distant) he will have no rival in it. The younger portion of the democratic party will then vote for him. (Loud cheers.) If you watch the developments in Washington this winter you will see efforts made to seduce General Sherman from his loyalty to General Grant with the tempting lure of a suggested Presidency, but it will avail nothing. Sherman is a gallant soldier, an able general, a man of genius and of sense, and he cannot be led astray. The people believe in and trust the President. He fairly represents their will. No rival can displace him. He goes about among the people and learns their wants. I hope he will continue to go about. It is the only way to learn. A judge who sits only in bank, never mingles with the people and only reads law will lose all sense of justice in a few years. If at the end of his present term General Grant should tell the people that he was weary of office and wanted to go out to his farm in Missouri and raise colts the people would tell him that he had no right to go—that he could not go—that his term, like that of General Washington's and General Jackson's, was eight years. If there is a full fair vote the candidates you have selected will be chosen this fall. No better men ever ran upon a State ticket. All are good men. Mr. Greeley, long so eminent and so well known by the people, gives great strength to the ticket. If you go into the canvass with half the zeal of last fall you will stand proudly with the great States of Pennsylvania and Ohio in this victory of a party wherein alone resides the freshness, and vigor, and hope and progress of the nation. (Cheers.)

Colonel VAN BUREN then read a list of vice presidents and secretaries, which was accepted, after which Mr. John H. White read a series of voluminous resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

General HAWLEY, ex-Governor of Connecticut, was next introduced to the meeting. He commenced with a eulogy on General Grant and the republican party, and said the former was doing all in his power to give the country peace. The party had carried Ohio and Pennsylvania by the sheer force of the respect which the people were compelled to accord to General Grant's administration. (Applause.) The speaker then proceeded to pitch into the democratic party for the course pursued by them during and since the war. He showed how the democratic party had pledged themselves to the carrying out of the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution while they joined issue with the republican party on two points only, namely, policy and the debt. In regard to the nigger question the republican party only desired to return to the original policy of the government. The speaker dwelt at considerable length on this subject, contending that the idea that this was solely a white man's government was spawned by secession. (Applause.) The black man paid and the black man fought, and Jefferson said that any man that paid and fought had a right to vote. The black never abused his freedom, sought to be intelligent and desired a permanent interest in the community, and there was no reason why he should not be allowed to vote. It was impolitic to keep any class degraded. Under all the circumstances he trusted that colored people would receive the rights they so fully deserved. The speaker next alluded to the national debt and submitted that it should be paid to the last cent in order that the national honor might be redeemed.

Senator FITCH, from Nevada, also addressed the meeting, reviewing the present aspect of affairs. He denounced the democratic party and contended that the republican party was the only one of progress. It pointed to revenues increased, property enlarged, labor ennobled in the public service, to a peace conquered and maintained, and a flag respected on land and sea. He concluded by calling on the Empire State to support the present administration by its course of action in the coming campaign.

General J. L. SWIFT followed, and touched briefly upon the subject previously alluded to.

ADDRESS BY MR. E. DELAFIELD SMITH.

Mr. E. DELAFIELD SMITH next addressed the meeting. He said:—One year ago you met in this hall as you meet to-night. From early evening to midnight's solemn hour one name inspired your songs, your speeches and your cheers. The hopes of that day were realized. The predictions of that hour were fulfilled. A leaf from the history of Washington was copied to form a page in the biography of Grant. The General became the President. The echoes of your acclamations hardly yet have died away. On the 4th of March he heard them renewed at the east front of the Capitol, and they followed his footsteps to the portals of the White House. You promised that the hearts of the people should warm the cold halls of that dreary mansion and give sunshine to its shadows. Were you not sincere? Have you elevated your favorite beyond the reach of your sympathies? If you have, it were better for his happiness that he still wore the graceful plume of a military hero and not the thorny cap of a political chieftain. (Applause.) Our fathers reversed the maxims of Europe, where for centuries the masses of mankind have been reduced to subjects and to serfs and monarchs have reigned by "right divine." In America the ruler is the servant and the people the sovereign. But while we rightly glory in the change let us beware lest the one be treated as a slave and the other practise the capricious tyranny which belongs to kings. While in foreign countries too much deference may be paid to official position in the United States a public man is fortunate who is not disparaged and traduced, however upright, laborious or successful. We pour upon the candidate the oil of adulation, as if to make hotter the fires of reproach with which we surround the official when once seated upon the height to which our own arms have borne him. Truth and fair play are the boast of one nation and the glory of all. It is surely just to assume that where a man serves his country in field or council, and is advanced to higher official trust, he does not lose either the rights of manhood or the sensibilities of human nature. It was to the immortal honor of the men of the American Revolution that after marching with their chief against Briton and Tory, they subsequently stood by him with equal constancy when the sun of peace had bred in his pathway a swarm of slimy detractors. The pride of a nation is said to be its great men. The glory of a people is to honor and exalt them. Who marvels that the name of the great Napoleon is dear to France, Frederic to Prussia, Wellington to Britain, Emmet to Ireland, Garibaldi to Italy, Washington to the country he wrested from tyranny, or Grant to the nation he saved from destruction? The muse of history will embalm the memory of democrats and whigs of other days—the first for their fidelity to Andrew Jackson, the last for their devotion to Henry Clay. I hazard the prediction that in spite of the howlings and the growlings of the few the true republicans and the patriotic people of the United States will be equally faithful to the President of their choice.

The lessening column of the public debt represents the diminishing stature of his enemies; while a rebuilded public credit rises, day by day, a monument to his name. All political organizations in the Southern States pretend to honor his fame and to belong to his party—an unanswerable evidence of his popular strength. So at the North. In the midst of the personal disappointments, the general apathy and the local dissensions which characterize the first year of a Presidential term, his political friends stand erect and triumphant in the great States of Iowa, Pennsylvania and Ohio. For thirty years the flag of the nation has never been so respected abroad, so supreme at home. The conflict of international law involved in our claims against England on the one hand, and in our sympathies with Cuba on the other, shall yet, under a wise and masterly diplomacy, directed by him who presided at the conferences of Appomattox, produce indemnity from the one and freedom to the other.

While the hero of our triumphant armies is prolonging in peace the public services which commenced in war, he is abused by a partizan press and maligned by disloyal organizations. So we read in Irving's "Life of Washington," "His military and political character was attacked with equal violence, and it was averred that he was totally destitute of merit either as a soldier or a statesman." Referring to one of the journals in which those assaults appeared the father of his country said, "I despise all personal attacks upon myself, but there has never been an act of the government which that paper has not abused." In spite of a blind opposition the people adhered to Washington to the end of the eight years of his Presidency, and they will stand by Grant to the close of a double term. The charges against him are, in substance, as follows:—First—That he has one distant relative in Mississippi and another in New York, connected by ties of marriage, not of blood, one of whom is running for Governor, with a prospect of defeat through the influence of his administration, and the other of whom tried his hand in the perilous navigation of Wall street, where he and a speculating crew in the same boat were upset by an adverse wind from Washington. Secondly—That, emulating the cultured manners of the earlier Presidents, when a pair of partridges are sent to him by one of his fellow citizens as a mark of respect and regard he accepts them like a gentleman, instead of rudely returning them, in imitation of modern fastidiousness, with a message branding the giver as unworthy of confidence. Thirdly—That he often absents himself from the capital and mingles among the people to ascertain their wants and sentiments for himself, instead of receiving everything at second hand from self-constituted political advisers, thus again copying President Washington, who took slow stages through the South, through the middle States and through New England, at a time when travel involved an absence of months, where days only are now required to perform the same journeys. Fourthly—That in making appointments to office he has not (as has been well said) revived the miracle of the five loaves and two fishes, and given fifty offices to 5,000 applicants. He has moreover committed the crime of preferring his friends to his enemies—republicans to democrats. Commiserating his traducers, under his flag we are still marshalled in the State of New York, and "on this line" we will fight it out. The key note of his administration was sounded in that manly inaugural address, amid the answering plaudits of his countrymen, which declared the eternal unity of the republic and the equal political rights of the humblest of its citizens.

It was ancient democratic doctrine, often proclaimed in Tammany Hall, that the blessings of representative government, like the dews of heaven, should be equally shared by the poor and the rich, the weak and the strong. The still older laws of chivalry commended the helpless to the magnanimity of manhood. The democrat of to-day points with scorn to a race of American citizens, and seeks to mount from their prostrate forms upon the heights of political power. The bent bodies of miserable negroes are now the caryatides of that democratic "temple of liberty" whose entablatures were anciently supported on pillars hewn out of the eternal rock of humanity and justice. Assume that the black man is weaker and less fortunate than his democratic assailant. Will not a generous spirit give him a helping hand the more for that? Did he not guide our Union captains through Virginia morasses and Carolina swamps to safety and to victory? Social distinctions are one thing, political inequality is another. If the first be a private right, the last is a public wrong. The black man is a citizen of the United States. The fifteenth amendment rightfully forbids his disfranchisement. The Chinese are not citizens; for their naturalization the laws make no provision. The question is not complicated, as the democracy of California have absurdly proclaimed. Men of New York, the people of the nation at large believe that last autumn your great State ought to have been recorded for the Union leader and his patriotic associates. Let our vote this year discourage all attempts to overwhelm or count it down.

Your State ticket is headed by a name of national reputation, of cosmopolitan fame. It was a glory to fight "mit Sigel." It will be an honor to vote for him. The organizing and working republican democracy of our city are rejoicing in the leadership of Daniel D. Conover. The generous and vigorous men of the State at large, unrestrained by party ties, are rallying to a banner which bears many good names, but one pre-eminent—a synonyme for honor and honesty, for justice and courage, for industry and intellect—I allude to Horace Greeley. (Applause.

Although there were repeated calls for Major Haggarty to speak the lateness of the hour prevented any further orations, and the meeting then adjourned.

TAMMANY SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

Proceedings in the Great "Cut and Dried" Conventions Yesterday—The Beauty of Harmony and Discipline—Tweed, Genet, Creamer, Norton and Bradley.

The Tammany Senatorial Conventions were held at noon yesterday, and the usual matter of form was indulged in, and the Senators, as usual, were "much astonished at the distinguished and unexpected honors thrust upon them."

The Fourth Senatorial District Convention assembled at noon in the court room corner of Pearl and Centre streets. The sidewalks, and even the stairs leading to the hall, were densely crowded with people apparently deeply interested in the proceedings. Precisely at twelve o'clock Judge Shandley, of the Seventh ward, called the delegates to order, and at his suggestion Judge Hogan, of the First ward, was called upon to preside. After an expression of thanks from the President, Mr. Michael Shandley, of the Seventh ward, and Colonel Michael C. Murphy, of the Fifth, were selected as secretaries. After calling the roll ex-Congressman Morgan Jones, of the Sixth ward, moved that Wm. M. Tweed, of the Seventh ward, be by acclamation declared the nominee of the Convention for State Senator. This proposition was the signal for an outburst of cheering, and was declared adopted. Marshal Tooker, of the Thirteenth ward, then rose and moved that a committee, formed by the selection of one delegate from each ward represented in the Convention, be appointed for the purpose of waiting on the candidate and requesting him to appear in the hall. This was adopted and a recess of ten minutes ordered, during which time the delegates indulged in a magnificent lunch on the floor above, and the appointed committee retired. Shortly after the Marshal and his associates returned, accompanied by the object of their search, whose appearance was greeted with enthusiastic cheering. He was formally introduced by the Marshal to the President, who in a few well-chosen words notified him of his nomination and offered him his congratulations.

Mr. TWEED then came forward on the platform and spoke as follows, the greatest attention being paid to his remarks:—Mr. President and gentlemen of the Convention, I am at present the representative of the Fourth district in the Senate of the State of New York, and come before you proudly, boldly, with my record. Here I see gathered together men of all stations in the business community—men of professional acquirements, artisans, and those, the source of our nation's greatness, and her great dependence, its honest workingmen. (Cheers.) Two years ago you conferred upon me the honor I to-day again am offered. The first action evidenced your condence in my pledges to serve you faithfully, and to-day's action tells me that you stamp my conduct as a Senator with approval. I again accept the trust. (Loud cheers.) I renew my pledges of fidelity, and assure you that my time, energetic efforts and influence shall be devoted to caring for your interests, the interests of my native city, with a view to her continued advancement in commercial greatness, and to the carrying out of the glorious principles and projects of the mighty party to which we belong. (Cheers.) I am not an ingrate. I thank you for my political prosperity. I see before me my old neighbors, my friends, rejoicing in my good fortune and gladdened by the success which has crowned my humble efforts. These same friends were the friends of my early days and early efforts—the tried friends of the days of my adversity—and here, as the opportunity is afforded me I give expression to my feelings of gratitude and pledge you all that whatever is at my command is yours, and if I have not what you would I will give you the next best thing—my hearty endeavors to secure it. Again, Mr. President and gentlemen, I thank you and frankly say that I am overcome with the emotions which swell my grateful heart. (Great cheering.)

As soon as Mr. Tweed concluded the Convention adjourned.

The Fifth District Convention met at the Adriatic Hotel, corner of Hudson and Barrow streets. James Watson, of the Sixteenth ward, acted as chairman, and John Houtaling, of the Ninth ward, as secretary. On motion of Thomas Levy, of the Fifteenth ward, Mr. Michael Norton was unanimously declared the nominee of the Convention. A committee of one from each ward in the district was appointed to wait upon that gentleman and notify him of his nomination. The convention then adjourned sine die.

In the Sixth Senatorial District Tammany Hall Nominating Convention, held at Humboldt Hall, No. 92 avenue C, Mr. Thomas J. Creamer was nominated.

The Tammany Hall Convention to nominate a candidate for State Senator from the Seventh Senatorial district, met at the corner of Second avenue and Thirty-second street and nominated John J. Bradley by acclamation.

The Eighth District Senatorial Convention met at No. 783 Eighth avenue, for the purpose of placing a candidate in nomination to represent the district in the Senate. William Hitchman acted as chairman, and Messrs. Greene and Seebach as secretaries. The Convention was called to order by Judge Connolly. The Judge then moved that Henry W. Genet be declared the choice of the Convention. The motion was carried by acclamation. A committee of three was appointed to notify Mr. Genet of his nomination. When that gentleman presented himself, and in a few remarks returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him. The Convention then adjourned sine die.

THE TAMMANY JUDICIARY NOMINATIONS—MR. JAMES C. SPENCER.

Among the nominations made by the Tammany Judiciary Convention on Thursday night last appears the name of James C. Spencer for the coming vacancy on the bench of the Superior Court. The selection thus made is a most admirable one and shows that Tammany in its nominations of candidates for the judiciary has not been influenced, as charged against it, by a desire to put none but "political judges" on the bench. Mr. Spencer has never been what is known as a politician, but has, from his admission to the bar to this moment, devoted all his time and energies to his profession. Mr. Spencer is a native of Franklin county, in this State, and the son of the late Judge James B. Spencer, who was a member of the State and national legislatures, serving his district in either legislature for several years. Mr. Spencer, the subject of this brief sketch, entered upon the practice of the law, in the year 1850, in the courts of his native county. In 1854 he removed to Ogdensburg, St. Lawrence county, and there entered into partnership with Judge W. C. Brown, forming the firm of Brown & Spencer, which for ten years and upwards occupied a high position and prosecuted a profitable practice in the courts of northern New York. In 1857 President Buchanan appointed Mr. Spencer United States Attorney for the Northern district of New York, in which office he succeeded ex-Judge Samuel B. Garvin, the present District Attorney in this city. In 1864, just after the McClellan Presidential campaign, in which Mr. Spencer took a very active part in the interest of "Little Mac," he removed to New York, and at once and with great application and industry entered upon the practice of his profession, attaining great success therein. He soon after entered into partnership with Mr. Charles A. Rapallo, and at the completion of the HERALD Building and its occupation by the HERALD the new firm of Rapallo & Spencer rented spacious offices therein, where they soon acquired an extensive and profitable practice.

The firm of Rapallo & Spencer, though lately dissolved, has been familiar to the public from the professional connection it had with some of the gigantic railroad causes celebres which occupied so much of the attention of the courts for two years past. Since the dissolution of the partnership Mr. Spencer devoted all his time and attention and professional talents to his individual business and his own benefit, but he has lately associated with him, to meet the requirements of a rapidly increasing practice, ex-Judge Flanders, of Franklin county, and Mr. James B. Metcalf, one of his former partners.

Mr. Spencer, besides his high qualifications for the office for which he has been nominated, has many claims upon the democracy of the city and State, and it is pleasing to see in this instance that political leaders are not always ungrateful, but will sometimes recognize and reward the talents and qualities which, from time to time, shed a lustre upon the cause and principles they represent.

DEMOCRATIC UNION SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

In pursuance of the call of the Democratic Union General Committee (Smith Ely branch) Senatorial nominating conventions were held in the several Senatorial districts last evening, with the following result:—

Fourth District—James Bagley.
Fifth District—Ignatius Flynn.
Sixth District—Thomas J. Creamer.
Seventh District—Adjourned.
Eighth District—Henry W. Genet.

Reign of Harmony—The Nominations—Preventive Against Fraud.

The General Committee of the Constitutional Union democracy met last evening at Masonic Hall, Mr. D. B. Northrup being in the chair. Mr. Marcus Hanlon, chairman of the Committee on Candidates, reported that there was unity of action between their association, the Roosevelt wing and the faction of Mozart; that all the candidates had been seen personally and had accepted the nominations, and that they were strong, earnest men, who would fight to the last inch against Tammany, tribe sachems, Big Injun and all. (Cheers.) He then proceeded to read the nominations, which were as follows:—

Supervisor—Jacob Cohen.
Surrogate—Gideon J. Tucker.
Coroner—Nelson W. Young.
District Attorney—Samuel G. Courtney.
Recorder—Abraham D. Russell.
Justice Marine Court—Thomas W. Kearney.
Justice Supreme Court—T. W. Clerke.
Justice Superior Court—M. T. McMahon, long term.
Justice Superior Court—Charles Goepp, long term.
Justice Superior Court—S. C. Read, short term.
Justice Common Pleas—John Linn.

The nominations were received with immense cheering, and after the uproar, the three cheers and a tiger had subsided Mr. Sloan announced that the Constitutional Union democrats would make no nominations for Members of Assembly, but would accept those made by the Workingmen's Association, and would work for them as for their own. (Cheers.)

The acceptance of the report was then moved, seconded and adopted.

NELSON W. YOUNG spoke and appealed to his hearers "as a workingman." He stated that he received the nomination of all the political organizations except one, and that one he could have had, but as a man of honor he would not take, and could easily be elected without it. He further stated that when he first entered the contest he was warned by his friends that he (Mr. Young) not being a man of wealth it would be impossible for him to succeed, but he would say this, that one man stepped forward and pledged both his influence and money, and that friend was the workingmen's candidate, Jacob Cohen.

Mr. JACOB COHEN, who was received with rapturous applause, was the next speaker, and after thanking the audience for their welcome pledged himself as their candidate until sundown the day of election.

Colonel SLOAN made a somewhat grandiloquent speech, in which he announced the return of Andrew Johnson to the Senate, which was received with great applause.

Mr. MARCUS HANLON read the following resolution:—

Resolved, That the chairman of the Executive Committee of this organization have power to engage whatever clerical help he deems necessary to canvass and take from the books of the Registrars the names of all the legally registered voters, as taken by them and to be taken on the 29th and 30th inst., and to compare such lists with the records in the archives of this association.

He explained that the committee had received information of dead soldiers' papers, to the number of 1,600, in the hands of a certain soldiers' agency, at the bottom of Broadway, which were to be feloniously and traitorously used on the 2d of November, and he desired, by checking the lists, to prevent any such fraud. This motion was recorded and adopted without comment.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE UNION LEAGUE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Union League of America was held yesterday at the St. Nicholas Hotel. There was a good attendance of members. Governor Newell, of New Jersey, presided, in the absence of Governor Geary. The Secretary, Mr. Baker, of New York, read a report of the arrangements for the elections in Mississippi and Texas. Some important arrangements for the election in New York State were reported: and the victories in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa were alluded to with gratification. Various measures in aid of the elections about to transpire were adopted, and the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chair. Movements are on foot looking to a thorough revival and reorganization of the Union League.

NINETEENTH WARD CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION.

Nominations for Senator and Assemblyman.

Masonic Hall, in East Eighty-sixth street, between Lexington and Third avenues, was filled last evening by an earnest body of men who met to take decisive steps to promote the objects for which the Nineteenth Ward Citizens' Association was formed—that is, to exert all possible means to procure additional lines of travel toward the upper end of the island. The meeting was called to order by John Foley, the chairman, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Upon taking the chair Mr. Foley made a brief address, in which he earnestly counselled the members to continue their efforts to secure additional means of transportation and public travel for the 100,000 people living in the vicinity of the Nineteenth ward. He spoke in flattering terms of the commendable manner in which Alderman Farley had furthered their interests by extending the stage lines.

Mr. HENRY H. MORANGE then offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, that the thanks of the Nineteenth Ward Citizens' Association be and they are hereby tendered to Alderman Terence Farley for his prompt action in extending the route of the Fifth avenue line of stages, and thereby increasing the accommodation of the citizens of this district, and that we hail his energetic efforts in our behalf as an earnest of his future conduct to promote and protect the interests and welfare of his constituency.

Mr. B. F. MCCABE then introduced the following resolutions, which were also unanimously adopted:—

Whereas we, the citizens of the Twelfth and Nineteenth wards, deem it best to nominate honest and reliable men to represent our interests in the Legislature; therefore be it

Resolved, That we nominate for Senator of the Eighth district Myer Stern, and for Member of Assembly William H. McCarthy.

Mr. STERN, the new candidate, then came forward and addressed the meeting. He thanked the members for their nomination, and said that, being no politician, he would rely upon the endeavors of the association for his election. The questions relating to the extension of lines of travel he believed would be agitated with success. Commodore Vanderbilt and his son had made their promises that the Madison Avenue Railroad should be laid and opened as soon as the obstructions were removed in that thoroughfare, between Forty-second and Forty-sixth streets. This work would be commenced on Monday next, as the assurance of Mr. William H. Vanderbilt went, and he had no doubt that all present would make their next New Year's calls in the Madison avenue street cars to Seventy-ninth street, and they should assist to secure an extension of Mr. Vanderbilt's charter so that the road might terminate at the Harlem river. He advocated the immediate cutting through of an east side boulevard, and called for all the improvements which had built up and so wonderfully increased the value of property on the west side. Mr. Stern, upon sitting down, was loudly applauded.

WILLIAM H. MCCARTHY, the candidate for member of Assembly, then made a brief address, expressing thanks for the nomination.

A motion was made, seconded and adopted appointing a committee of twenty-five to wait on the Street Commissioner and ask for the speedy removal of the obstructions in Madison avenue.

Mr. FOLEY made some closing remarks, in which he said that the association had already accomplished much in securing the extension of the stages and the expectant Madison avenue cars. The members also must make efforts to reduce the levies and assessments and other jobs of politicians. If the present condition of moneyed affairs in the city continued a vigilance committee would stand at the portals of the City Hall.

MISCELLANEOUS MEETINGS.

The Democratic Union Assembly Convention for the Thirteenth district met last evening at No. 202 Eight avenue, Mr. Thomas G. Harrison in the chair. Mr. Ashael R. Herrick was unanimously nominated for Assembly from that district, after which the meeting adjourned.

A meeting of the friends of Mr. Michael Norton was held last night at Culkin's, No. 12 Greenwich avenue, for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of that gentleman as candidate for Senator from the Fifth Senatorial district. The meeting was organized by calling J. Walker Fowler to the chair, and appointing James Graham secretary. Speeches were made by Messrs. Fowler, McGivenny, James Glisson, James Barker, Alderman Hamson, John Carey, Alderman Culkin, Senator Norton and others. The meeting was largely attended.

At a meeting of the [illegible] Order of Sons of Herrmann, of the Fourth ward, [illegible] Chatham street, yesterday evening, Mr. F. Green presiding, the following resolutions were adopted:—

That we endorse the nomination of Mr. Jacob Cohen for the office of Supervisor.

That we know the gentleman to be an honorable and trustworthy man, who will use every effort to benefit the workingmen.

That we earnestly recommend to all brethren of this Order to vote for Mr. Jacob Cohen at the coming election.

Mr. Roswell D. Hatch is the Assembly candidate of the democratic electors of the Nineteenth Assembly district opposed to the Tammany ring and Tammany ticket. His name, as connected with the Mozart nomination for the Superior Court, was used and published without his knowledge or consent.

A mass meeting of the workingmen of the Ninth ward was held last evening, at Jackson Hall, corner of Greenwich avenue and Horatio streets, under the auspices of the Jackson Independent Democratic Association. The meeting was largely attended by the voters of the Fifth Assembly district. Addresses were delivered by the President, Mr. B. A. Leonard; Mr. P. Rafferty, Mr. J. Hoey, Mr. James D. McClellan, Mr. Denis Riorden, Captain Walsh, Mr. Rodgers, Mr. Tierney and Mr. McCormick. After resolving to support Mr. Ignatius Flynn for Senator and Captain James D. McClelland for Assembly, in the Ninth Assembly district, the meeting adjourned.

The Constitutional Democracy had an enthusiastic meeting last evening at Dodworth Hall, No. 806 Broadway. Captain Samuel C. Sloan, in the chair, opened the meeting with appropriate remarks, in which he spoke of the unanimous endorsement of Marcus Hanlon by the Fifteenth ward and the Seventh Assembly district for candidate for General Assembly. M. J. McKenna, secretary of the meeting, made an eloquent speech in favor of the nominee, Marcus Hanlon, for Assemblyman of the Seventh district. He was followed by Thomas W. Kearney, whose remarks were to the same effect as above. Marcus Hanlon, candidate for Assemblyman in the Seventh district, was then called forth, also Jacob Cohen, candidate for Supervisor, and after pertinent remarks and much applause the meeting was adjourned.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Tammany democracy of the Nineteenth ward last evening, at the corner of Eighty-second street and Third avenue, for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of Walter Roche for Supervisor. The meeting was called to order by Owen Rooney, who, in a few remarks, stated the object of the meeting. He was followed by Mr. Dennis Burns, who spoke at some length, eulogizing all the Tammany candidates, and Mr. Roche in particular. The following resolution was offered and unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That we, the democracy of the Nineteenth ward, here assembled, do pledge our hearty support to secure the re-election of Mr. Walter Roche, and that we recognize in him a gentleman who has ably discharged the duties of Supervisor with honor to the city and credit to those who sent him there, and we honor him as a man whose political character is without a blemish.

The meeting adjourned with cheers for Tammany and Mr. Roche.

The Citizens' Reform Movement.

A call has been promulgated, signed by Messrs. J. M. Seabury, Henry Harteau, J. Barnard, G. C. Halstead, J. Cosgrove and other well known citizens, addressed to the ward reform associations of Kings county, requesting them to appoint three delegates each, to meet at Phenix Hall this evening for the purpose of forming a "general committee. They propose that this committee shall have full charge of all questions and matters affecting the interests of the city and county at large." This is deemed by the more rational men in the central organization as the only manner of their arriving at anything akin to practical reformatory influence upon the great field of political mismanagement in this county. The reformers are not able, however, to cope successfully with the great power wielded by the dominant party manipulators this year, whatever they may expect in the future.

Supervisor Little Nominated for Mayor.

Alderman Armfield, who was nominated by the Republican City Convention for Mayor, having declined, the delegates reassembled last night, at the rooms of the Republican General Committee in Washington street, and unanimously nominated Supervisor William M. Little.

The Convention then adjourned.

Second Assembly District Republican Convention.

Mr. Albert Ammerman received the nomination last night as the republican candidate for Assembly in the Second district.

MAYOR HALL ON HORACE GREELEY.

Horace Greeley in the editorial columns of the Tribune having published yesterday a ferocious letter addressed "To Samuel J. Tilden, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee," on democratic election frauds in this city, and having included Mayor Hall in his general indictment against the democratic leaders, the Mayor has sent us the following as his reply:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

In a letter signed by Horace Greeley, addressed to S. J. Tilden, and published editorially in the Tribune, I find the following extract:—

On the principle that "the receiver is as bad as the thief," you are as deeply implicated in them to-day as though your name were Tweed, O'Brien, or Oakey Hall.

By the word "them" is meant grammatically "election frauds." Will any one blame me if I "steal" a moment from a "busy life" and indulge in some "recollections," and perhaps a personality or two upon this Tribune gage?

When Horace and I were whigs together, years ago, at caucuses held "to raise money"—generally held as they should be at the houses of rich men, and assisted (as they always ought to be, and to Horace's great delight) by nice suppers—I have heard rougher suggestions about the use of that money from this cleanly shaved Pharisee of a politician (H. G.) than I ever heard at any democratic caucus. Greeley would call the use of it now and then "pipe-laying."

But of late years I note that he calls it, whenever urging radicals towards work, "scrutinizing the registry." His ally, Theodore Allen, is almost nightly meeting with Greeley, and the "Comptroller's" friends may be relied upon to fully interpret Greeley's new phrase. When interpreted it will bear Greeley's repeating.

It is really amusing for some of Greeley's former whig audiences (some now republicans and others democrats) to observe reflected in the Tribune the pious rolling of his eyes over the editorial inkstand whenever he writes about the misdeeds of political adversaries touching poll appliances; for they remember Greeley's former expressions which proved the similarity between railroad building and electioneering. "Some men," quoth Horace, "survey the routes, others do the grading; some bury ties or clamp rails; a few run the locomotive afterwards; but the people who dig the ditches and get blackened at the outset are not remembered." "So," quoth Horace, "we leaders who raise the capital for the ditch diggers don't need to know what kind of soil they put their picks into whenever we finally ride within the cars into the successful depot."

From my knowledge of Horace Greeley (and I have studied him for years as Dr. Carnochan would study a case of morbid anatomy) I share the belief of thousands in his own party that if he wanted to help a railroad grant at Albany, to enjoy the interest of an Irish fund well invested, to share the profits of a Congressional land grant, or to elect himself to a "paying" office (like Comptroller), there is no rough election chance he wouldn't take if he thought his ditch digging could be covered up by the successful running of the cars.

The hypocrisy of this man Greeley approaches sublimity. The late charcoal sketcher Neal (would that he had lived to sketch H. G.'s) wrote a clever essay on the sublimity of impudence. The editor of the Tribune fully answers the descriptions. Some years ago I furnished to all the libraries of the world a pamphlet called "Horace Greeley Decently Dissected," and in its pages I showed how one by one his Tom Pinch adorers fell away from their Pecksniff, and students of morbid anatomy who wish to consult the pamphlet in any of the libraries will find how the sublimity of H. G.'s hypocrisy and impudence was unmistakably demonstrated.

It is possible that his vanity so leads him to believe in himself that he is convinced he possesses the power to shrive himself daily, and thus to realize the Byronic idea of a "deformed transformed." A man who so supremely believes in himself as Greeley does cannot very well believe in any other man nor accept any alien criticism. What, therefore, you will ask, is the use of answering H. G.? Why Why simply to expose him. The prophet Mathias was, years ago, tried for the mere object of exposing his impostures. You must keep on arraigning this "profit"-seeking philosopher at the bar of public opinion for the purpose of saving people from accepting his self-delusions. I will engage to prove Horace Greeley a monomaniac before any commission of lunatico inquirendo, [illegible] St. Lawrence radicals. His inconsistencies during the war; his vituperations of men of all creeds and politics for a quarter of a century back; his forgiving the enemy of yesterday, or abusing the friend of last week whenever he wished thereby to gain a point; his everyday antics before the Fourth avenue barber shop; his smirk of satisfaction when he steps on or off the stage wherever "ladies are present," at a lecture or "fair opening;" his ungrateful treatment of John Schoolcraft, Weed, McElrath and a dozen others who befriended his poverty; his particularity in searching after odd Catharine street costumes, whereby he attracts as much public notice as the corset man on Broadway; his greed for office, whether it be Congress or Register, delegate or Senator, railway director or Comptroller—all of these well known and widely appreciated (eccentricities his little circle call them) Greeleyisms can only be explained upon the vanity, monomania hypothesis. "Do talk about me," said the spinster in one of Brougham's comedies. "How beautiful you are," would come a chorus, and then how she simpered and made friends with everybody. "You are an old humbug," would exclaim some courageous young belle. Then the spinster quitted the charmed circle and the looking glass to throw an old shoe at Miss Courageousness, precisely as H. G. quits his immediate circle of toadies to throw one of his old boots at any one who ever dared to expose him. And when a man who is an "old charlatan" undertakes to puff himself as Horace Greeley does in his recent prospectus of his "busy life" book that fills a Tribune column of leaded type it is the duty of everybody to cast his pebble at the philosopher's glass house. I now end this epistle by challenging Horace Greeley, as candidate for Comptroller, to meet me as a political stumper next week in any rural portion of the State he may select and discuss for three hours on a side the issues of the day, and I will promise to please the radicals who might attend even more than I would hope to gratify the democracy.

MURDER TRIAL IN QUEENS COUNTY.

Burke, the Murderer of Cane, Arraigned Before the Court of Oyer and Terminer—The Testimony Yesterday.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon David Burke, the alleged murder of Thomas Cane, during the great petroleum fire at Hunter's Point on the night of the 25th of October, 1868, was arraigned before the Queens County Court of Oyer and Terminer, Justice Barnard presiding. The case was reviewed in the HERALD of Monday and the principal facts connected with it presented, so that recapitulation is unnecessary. Considerable difficulty was experienced in procuring an unprejudiced jury, some having previously formed opinions concerning the case, and others having conscientious scruples against finding a verdict where the penalty was death. Finally the panel was filled and the case proceeded.

District Attorney Downing opened for the people. The first witness called for the prosecution was Dr. Dembler, of Hunter's Point. He said he knew Cane; he attended him on the night of the 25th of October; he had a pistol shot wound about an inch below the left shoulder blade; the ball passed through the seventh rib and lodged in the ninth vertebra; his injuries were sufficient to cause death; I recognize the bullet which I took from the wound; I also recognize the pistol. The next witness was Richard Cornell, previously in the employ of Rockfellers, Andrews & Co. He said he was at the fire; he helped remove some naphtha; no oil was saved; he saw no shooting going on. James D. Comstock was the next witness called. He was formerly foreman in the oil works of Warren & Bros.; be was present on the night of the fire; saved some naphtha. Thomas Quinn was the next witness examined, and testified substantially as follows:—I reside at Fifty-ninth street, New York; I was at Hunter's Point on the night of the fire; saw the explosion; I saw Burke, the prisoner, go into a shed where the oil was on fire; I told him not to go in there and pushed him out; I met Cane; I saw Burke coming up with a barrel of oil; he said "Young man, give me a lift and I will pay you;" Cane asked him where he was going with the oil; he said "Go to h—ll you son of a b—h;" Cane asked him if he was mad; Burke pulled a pistol and fired a shot into the ground; I told him to put it up, as it was dangerous; he told me to go on with the oil and he would follow me; I heard a second report of the pistol and went back; I saw Cane lying in the street; I asked him who shot him; Burke was standing about ten feet from him; Cane pointed to Burke and intimated that he (Burke) had shot him; I caught hold of the prisoner and a scuffle ensued; I knocked him down and called for some one to take the revolver from him; he was taken to the station house; Mrs. Cane was there at the time. Edward Brown, of Hunter's Point, testified that Cane had told him that he had been shot by a man with a soldier's cap on; Burke wore a navy cap on the night of the murder. The case will be continued to-day, and probably will be concluded. The defence will be conducted by John H. Anthon.

PERE HYACINTHE.

Movements of the Great Carmelite Monk Yesterday—He is Photographed—Interview of a Canadian Priest With the Pere—Sectarian Views of the Monk's Position.

Father Hyacinthe yesterday managed to escape the importunities of the curious and the impertinence of the Bohemian tribe by leaving the hotel at an early hour of the morning and taking a walk in company with his young interpreter. About noon he proceeded to Brady's gallery, where he had a fine imperial photograph taken. When the picture was being taken he was dressed in a plain suit of black, and held in his hand the "Breviary," which seems to be his vade mecum wherever he goes. The Boston delegation did not call upon him during the day, probably being aware of his absence from the hotel.

After having been shown the proof of the photograph, with which he expressed himself satisfied, he proceeded to Brooklyn, where he remained with a gentleman whom he had formerly known in Paris, and returned to the hotel at four o'clock.

Several cards were on his table, but he did not deign to answer any one of them until his eye had rested on a small slip of crumpled paper on which a name was hastily scrawled. He picked it up, and, on reading the superscription, ordered the gentleman who had sent it up to be shown to his room at once.

Who this honored individual was the good Father refused to make known, but it was ascertained that he was a priest who had come all the way from Montreal expressly to see Father Hyacinthe.

He remained closeted in the room with the monk for over an hour, but although many stories were afloat in the hotel as to what the object of his visit was, nothing definite was learned on the subject. Some affected to believe that the visitor came to tell the Carmelite that the French priests in Canada approved of his course and would stand by him, while others as stoutly asserted that he must have come as an exhorter to deter Father Hyacinthe from the way he had laid down for his future conduct and action.

In the afternoon one of the Boston delegation had a long interview with him, which lasted almost two hours. What was really said at the meeting of the clergymen is a mystery, although Father Hyacinthe, while refusing to give any information on the subject of its details, gave his friends to understand that he declined all invitations of a public reception of any kind.

He paid a visit to Mr. Darling, one of the proprietors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, at his residence in Twenty-third street, in the evening, and retired about ten o'clock.

THE INDIFFERENCE OF THE CATHOLICS WITH REGARD TO THE PERE.

The utter indifference of the Catholics to the reverend gentleman's presence in the city is one of the most remarkable features of his visit. It has become quite a subject of remark among the guests and the hundreds who make it a point to drop into the vestibule of the hotel every evening with the hope of catching a glimpse of the distinguished clergyman. It was generally supposed when the intelligence of his departure for this country was announced that his arrival here would create considerable of a stir among them; but so far there has been no visible sign that they care a pin's point about him or his movements one way or the other. Even the priests, who, people believed, would give their congregations a piece of their mind on the subject of the stranger at some one of the daily morning services, have, with one or two exceptions, manifested no concern in the matter, and are apparently as indifferent to Father Hyacinthe's "position" as though there were no such person in existence.

WHAT A CATHOLIC PRIEST THINKS OF HIM.

One of the exceptions to this general rule, however, happens to be one of the best known and one of the most eloquent preachers in this city, and in commenting yesterday upon the fuss that was being made over Father Hyacinthe he said:—"I have been in France and I know that an eloquent preacher there often has his head turned by the popularity which he wins. He is flattered and fêted and glorified, and everybody tries to make him believe that he is the greatest orator that ever breathed the breath of life, and all that sort of thing. Now, a preacher is as much a human being as any other man, and is it surprising that once in a while we witness the sad spectacle of a good man rising so high in the popular esteem that he becomes dizzy with his own greatness and falls to the earth?"

FATHER HYACINTHE SINCERE, BUT VAIN.

"Do you," inquired the gentleman to whom these remarks were addressed, "do you intend to say that Father Hyacinthe is one of that class?"

"I do. I honestly believe that he is sincere, that he means well; in fact, that he is a good Catholic at heart and desires all good to the Church, at the same time that he does not even dream of joining the Protestants. But it is my conviction that his popularity as a preacher, the universal esteem in which he was held in Paris, the attentions and honors that were paid to him proved too much for his vanity. He became strong in the belief that [illegible] great; that he [illegible] him was true; that he was able [illegible] man could know, and was, [illegible] any other reasonable judge of his own acts as anybody else could. [illegible] being so it was quite consistent for him to refuse obedience to his superior when he was requested to do a certain thing; for wasn't he Père Hyacinthe, and how could Brother Dominick know better than he what was right or what was wrong?"

WHAT HE WAS FORBIDDEN TO DO.

"And allow me here to remark that I do not think that the people in this country are well acquainted with the real merits of the difficulty which has caused Father Hyacinthe to give up his monastery. His superior did not take exceptions to his sermons delivered in the church, but he forbade him to preach before political or semi-political bodies on subjects which had more regard to outside questions than the subject of religion itself. Do you remember the outcry that some of the New York papers made against certain clergymen in this city who made it a practice during the war to drag political subjects into their so-called sermons? Well, supposing a Catholic priest here to-day should 'talk politics' during his sermon, and his bishop should tell him to confine himself to his legitimate sphere and he should refuse to obey. What then? Would he not have broken his vows of obedience to his lawfully constituted superior, and wouldn't every good Catholic applaud the bishop for meting out a severe sentence to the guilty one? The question of disobedience is the one which is to be considered in Father Hyacinthe's case, and not whether he regards the spirit of the nineteenth century in a different light from his colleagues."

HE WILL NOT BE EXCOMMUNICATED FOR WHAT HE HAS DONE.

"Do you not think his inveighing against the expected action of the Ecumenical Council in regard to certain matters will be looked upon as an act deserving excommunication?"

"I certainly do not. You or I or anybody who chooses can, with perfect propriety, discuss the questions which we believe are to come up before the Council, and find fault with them if we choose; that does not make us criminal. We would be simply finding fault with the Council's deciding a certain way before we know how it will decide. Did you hear Archbishop McCloskey's address in the Cathedral to his flock the Sunday before he left for Europe? What did he say about all the talk of what the Council was going to do? He said that it was all conjecture and that even he himself did not know what it would do. Isn't it very foolish, therefore, for Father Hyacinthe or anybody else to waste so much breath in condemning a something that is not yet in existence?"

HE WILL BE EXCOMMUNICATED IF HE OPPOSES THE COUNCIL'S DECISION.

"But, supposing," remarked the priest's interlocutor, "supposing Father Hyacinthe should not like the decisions of the Council when they shall have been made valid by due and regular canonical process, and should continue to refuse obedience to them?"

"In that case, sir, he would deserve excommunication, as would any Catholic who would presume to declare not worthy of belief any article which the assembled wisdom and piety of the Church should have declared an article of faith; and just so sure as Father Hyacinthe does this thing he will be excommunicated."

WHILE THERE'S LIFE THERE'S HOPE.

I trust, however, that he will not be so rash as to incur such an awful penalty. In doing what he has done he has been very imprudent, to say the least, and for him to stand against the decisions of the Council when made will be placing himself outside the pale of the Church entirely."

The name of the reverend gentleman with whom the above conversation was held cannot be given, owing to the fact that he was not aware, when he engaged in it, that the "talk" was intended for publication.

The State Nominations—The Presidency for 1872.

Republican Ratification Meeting at the Cooper Institute.

The Party of Progress Triumphant.

Addresses by Judge Pierrepont, General Hawley and E. Delafield Smith.

A grand ratification meeting was held last evening at the Cooper Institute, under the auspices of the Republican General Committees, for the purpose of ratifying the State nominations. There was a large attendance, including a full representation of ladies, and the proceedings were marked by great enthusiasm. The hall was handsomely adorned with appropriate decorations, the pillars being ornamented with stars, while conspicuous among all was the national banner. Outside a brilliant pyrotechnic display was given, while inside a band of music contributed not a little to enliven the proceedings.

ADDRESS BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY PIERREPONT.

Shortly after eight o'clock District Attorney EDWARDS PIERREPONT presided, and, having called the meeting to order, delivered the following address:—

There can be but two political parties in this country. One or the other of these parties will rule. No third party of any considerable importance can arise. When the country was much smaller a third party was very difficult to organize; now, the vastness of the country and the complicated machinery of a canvass make a third political power impossible. Dissatisfaction will exist and ideas will prevail quite out of harmony with either of the great political divisions; but the expense and difficulty of new organization is such as to discourage and utterly defeat any and all attempts at third party combinations. Every true patriot, and every sagacious statesman, and every selfish politician will find himself acting with one of the two great political parties which now exist. No third party has ever been formed in this country which did not tend to injure the party of its own friends. In 1836 General Harrison and Francis Granger ran against Martin Van Buren and Richard M. Johnson. Hugh L. White, of Tennessee, and John Tyler, of Virginia, ran as third party candidates and defeated their friends and elected their enemies. In 1844 Polk and Dallas ran against Clay and Frelinghuysen. Birney came in as a third party man and defeated his friend Clay and elected his especial enemy Polk. In 1848 Taylor and Fillmore ran against General Cass and Butler, of Kentucky. Martin Van Buren and Charles Francis Adams ran on a third party ticket, and Van Buren had the pleasure of seeing his lifelong democratic friend, General Cass, defeated by a whig. (Applause.) In 1852 Pierce and King ran against General Scott and Graham. John P. Hale ran as a third candidate, and aided in defeating his friend, General Scott. In 1856 Buchanan and Breckinridge ran against Fremont and Dayton. Fillmore and Donaldson ran on the third party ticket and ruined their own friends. In 1860 Bell and Everett ran as the third party candidates, and thus helped to elect Lincoln and Hamlin, who were not their political friends. The last attempt to form a third party was that of Andrew Johnson's, but so abortive was the effort that no candidate was put in the field. (Laughter and applause.) We have done with third parties. (Loud cheers.) Two great parties will continue to represent the opposing sentiments of the American people. One will be on the side of progress, advanced ideas and active moral sentiments. The other conservative, slow, always thinking that the nation is going too fast, halting and believing that any social or moral views not entertained by Abraham and the patriarchs dangerous and unsound. (Applause.) Political parties go to decay, individuals grow old, but the nation is yet young; her youth may remain for a thousand years. She is as fresh and as full of sturdy life and glorious hope and bounding blood as when the morning dawned on the Fourth of July in 1776. The maimed and the halt and the blind cannot lead this great young people. The party of progress will be the party of victory. The party of courage will be the party of power. (Cheers.) For long years the democratic party was the party of progress and of success; they thought the nation had grown old with themselves, and when the war came they halted and wavered and ceased to march to the beat of the nation's heart; they straggled, faltered, were routed and can never rally again to victory. Then parties changed front. The progressive portion of the democratic party came out for the war, and the republicans became the party of advanced ideas, in harmony with the age, and the democratic leaders became the Bourbons of old time. (Cheers.) When the democratic platform of 1864 declared the war a failure and drove so many good men from its ranks, when the overwhelming election of Lincoln repudiated that assertion, and when Grant proved the war a glorious success, could any but the blind fail to see that the people would make the hero of that success the President of the nation? (Applause.) They made him President when he was forty-seven years old, and when he is fifty-one they will make him President again. The sunrise to-morrow is scarce more certain. Great difficulties beset every new administration. In the case of General Grant the difficulties were multiplied by the closing events of the war. When he came to form his Cabinet seven men only could have place. Seven hundred were disappointed. (Laughter.) The same was more eminently true of all the other offices. Of course great apathy and some fault-finding followed this great disappointment. But the people are recovering from that, as the elections in Ohio and Pennsylvania show. A far greater disappointment and a far greater apathy followed the first election of Lincoln, and in the autumn which followed his first inauguration he could have received the electoral vote of but very few States. No man since General Jackson has ever had the confidence of the people so fully as General Grant; you had a test of that a few days ago, when it was insinuated that he favored the gold speculators; even the World newspaper (not suspected of being over kind to General Grant) came out and denounced the foul slander. No one believed a word of it—the people knew that the brave and honest General whom they had chosen would connive at no wrong. General Grant will grow stronger each year, and when the national convention is held (only two and a half years distant) he will have no rival in it. The younger portion of the democratic party will then vote for him. (Loud cheers.) If you watch the developments in Washington this winter you will see efforts made to seduce General Sherman from his loyalty to General Grant with the tempting lure of a suggested Presidency, but it will avail nothing. Sherman is a gallant soldier, an able general, a man of genius and of sense, and he cannot be led astray. The people believe in and trust the President. He fairly represents their will. No rival can displace him. He goes about among the people and learns their wants. I hope he will continue to go about. It is the only way to learn. A judge who sits only in bank, never mingles with the people and only reads law will lose all sense of justice in a few years. If at the end of his present term General Grant should tell the people that he was weary of office and wanted to go out to his farm in Missouri and raise colts the people would tell him that he had no right to go—that he could not go—that his term, like that of General Washington's and General Jackson's, was eight years. If there is a full fair vote the candidates you have selected will be chosen this fall. No better men ever ran upon a State ticket. All are good men. Mr. Greeley, long so eminent and so well known by the people, gives great strength to the ticket. If you go into the canvass with half the zeal of last fall you will stand proudly with the great States of Pennsylvania and Ohio in this victory of a party wherein alone resides the freshness, and vigor, and hope and progress of the nation. (Cheers.)

Colonel VAN BUREN then read a list of vice presidents and secretaries, which was accepted, after which Mr. John H. White read a series of voluminous resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

General HAWLEY, ex-Governor of Connecticut, was next introduced to the meeting. He commenced with a eulogy on General Grant and the republican party, and said the former was doing all in his power to give the country peace. The party had carried Ohio and Pennsylvania by the sheer force of the respect which the people were compelled to accord to General Grant's administration. (Applause.) The speaker then proceeded to pitch into the democratic party for the course pursued by them during and since the war. He showed how the democratic party had pledged themselves to the carrying out of the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution while they joined issue with the republican party on two points only, namely, policy and the debt. In regard to the nigger question the republican party only desired to return to the original policy of the government. The speaker dwelt at considerable length on this subject, contending that the idea that this was solely a white man's government was spawned by secession. (Applause.) The black man paid and the black man fought, and Jefferson said that any man that paid and fought had a right to vote. The black never abused his freedom, sought to be intelligent and desired a permanent interest in the community, and there was no reason why he should not be allowed to vote. It was impolitic to keep any class degraded. Under all the circumstances he trusted that colored people would receive the rights they so fully deserved. The speaker next alluded to the national debt and submitted that it should be paid to the last cent in order that the national honor might be redeemed.

Senator FITCH, from Nevada, also addressed the meeting, reviewing the present aspect of affairs. He denounced the democratic party and contended that the republican party was the only one of progress. It pointed to revenues increased, property enlarged, labor ennobled in the public service, to a peace conquered and maintained, and a flag respected on land and sea. He concluded by calling on the Empire State to support the present administration by its course of action in the coming campaign.

General J. L. SWIFT followed, and touched briefly upon the subject previously alluded to.

ADDRESS BY MR. E. DELAFIELD SMITH.

Mr. E. DELAFIELD SMITH next addressed the meeting. He said:—One year ago you met in this hall as you meet to-night. From early evening to midnight's solemn hour one name inspired your songs, your speeches and your cheers. The hopes of that day were realized. The predictions of that hour were fulfilled. A leaf from the history of Washington was copied to form a page in the biography of Grant. The General became the President. The echoes of your acclamations hardly yet have died away. On the 4th of March he heard them renewed at the east front of the Capitol, and they followed his footsteps to the portals of the White House. You promised that the hearts of the people should warm the cold halls of that dreary mansion and give sunshine to its shadows. Were you not sincere? Have you elevated your favorite beyond the reach of your sympathies? If you have, it were better for his happiness that he still wore the graceful plume of a military hero and not the thorny cap of a political chieftain. (Applause.) Our fathers reversed the maxims of Europe, where for centuries the masses of mankind have been reduced to subjects and to serfs and monarchs have reigned by "right divine." In America the ruler is the servant and the people the sovereign. But while we rightly glory in the change let us beware lest the one be treated as a slave and the other practise the capricious tyranny which belongs to kings. While in foreign countries too much deference may be paid to official position in the United States a public man is fortunate who is not disparaged and traduced, however upright, laborious or successful. We pour upon the candidate the oil of adulation, as if to make hotter the fires of reproach with which we surround the official when once seated upon the height to which our own arms have borne him. Truth and fair play are the boast of one nation and the glory of all. It is surely just to assume that where a man serves his country in field or council and is advanced to higher official trust, he does not lose either the rights of manhood or the sensibilities of human nature. It was to the immortal honor of the men of the American Revolution that after marching with their chief against Briton and tory, they subsequently stood by him with equal constancy when the sun of peace had bred in his pathway a swarm of slimy detractors. The pride of a nation is said to be its great men. The glory of a people is to honor and exalt them. Who marvels that the name of the great Napoleon is dear to France, Frederic to Prussia, Wellington to Britain, Emmet to Ireland, Garibaldi to Italy, Washington to the country he wrested from tyranny, or Grant to the nation he saved from destruction? The muse of history will embalm the memory of democrats and whigs of other days—the first for their fidelity to Andrew Jackson, the last for their devotion to Henry Clay. I hazard the prediction that in spite of the howlings and the growlings of the few the true republicans and the patriotic people of the United States will be equally faithful to the President of their choice.

The lessening column of the public debt represents the diminishing stature of his enemies; while a rebuilded public credit rises, day by day, a monument to his name. All political organizations in the Southern States pretend to honor his fame and to belong to his party—an unanswerable evidence of his popular strength. So at the North. In the midst of the personal disappointments, the general apathy and the local dissensions which characterize the first year of a Presidential term, his political friends stand erect and triumphant in the great States of Iowa, Pennsylvania and Ohio. For thirty years the flag of the nation has never been so respected abroad, so supreme at home. The conflict of international law involved in our claims against England on the one hand, and in our sympathies with Cuba on the other, shall yet, under a wise and masterly diplomacy, directed by him who presided at the conferences of Appomattox, produce indemnity from the one and freedom to the other.

While the hero of our triumphant armies is prolonging in peace the public services which commenced in war, he is abused by a partizan press and maligned by disloyal organizations. So we read in Irving's "Life of Washington," "His military and political character was attacked with equal violence, and it was averred that he was totally destitute of merit either as a soldier or a statesman." Referring to one of the journals in which those assaults appeared the father of his country said, "I despise all personal attacks upon myself, but there has never been an act of the government which that paper has not abused." In spite of a blind opposition the people adhered to Washington to the end of the eight years of his Presidency, and they will stand by Grant to the close of a double term. The charges against him are, in substance, as follows:—First—That he has one distant relative in Mississippi and another in New York, connected by ties of marriage, not of blood, one of whom is running for Governor, with a prospect of defeat through the influence of his administration, and the other of whom tried his hand in the perilous navigation of Wall street, where he and a speculating crew in the same boat were upset by an adverse wind from Washington. Secondly—That, emulating the cultured manners of the earlier Presidents, when a pair of partridges are sent to him by one of his fellow citizens as a mark of respect and regard he accepts them like a gentleman, instead of rudely returning them, in imitation of modern fastidiousness, with a message branding the giver as unworthy of confidence. Thirdly—That he often absents himself from the capital and mingles among the people to ascertain their wants and sentiments for himself, instead of receiving everything at second hand from self-constituted political advisers, thus again copying President Washington, who took slow stages through the South, through the middle States and through New England, at a time when travel involved an absence of months, where days only are now required to perform the same journeys. Fourthly—That in making appointments to office he has not (as has been well said) revived the miracle of the five loaves and two fishes, and given fifty offices to 5,000 applicants. He has moreover committed the crime of preferring his friends to his enemies—republicans to democrats. Commiserating his traducers, under his flag we are still marshalled in the State of New York, and "on this line" we will fight it out. The key note of his administration was sounded in that manly inaugural address, amid the answering plaudits of his countrymen, which declared the eternal unity of the republic and the equal political rights of the humblest of its citizens.

It was ancient democratic doctrine, often proclaimed in Tammany Hall, that the blessings of representative government, like the dews of heaven, should be equally shared by the poor and the rich, the weak and the strong. The still older laws of chivalry commended the helpless to the magnanimity of manhood. The democrat of to-day points with scorn to a race of American citizens, and seeks to mount from their prostrate forms upon the heights of political power. The bent bodies of miserable negroes are now the caryatides of that democratic "temple of liberty" whose entablatures were anciently supported on pillars hewn out of the eternal rock of humanity and justice. Assume that the black man is weaker and less fortunate than his democratic assailant. Will not a generous spirit give him a helping hand the more for that? Did he not guide our Union captains through Virginia morasses and Carolina swamps to safety and to victory? Social distinctions are one thing, political inequality is another. If the first be a private right, the last is a public wrong. The black man is a citizen of the United States. The fifteenth amendment rightfully forbids his disfranchisement. The Chinese are not citizens; for their naturalization the laws make no provision. The question is not complicated, as the democracy of California have absurdly proclaimed. Men of New York, the people of the nation at large believe that last autumn your great State ought to have been recorded for the Union leader and his patriotic associates. Let our vote this year discourage all attempts to overwhelm or count it down.

Your State ticket is headed by a name of national reputation, of cosmopolitan fame. It was a glory to fight "mit Sigel." It will be an honor to vote for him. The organizing and working republican democracy of our city are rejoicing in the leadership of Daniel D. Conover. The generous and vigorous men of the State at large, unrestrained by party ties, are rallying to a banner which bears many good names, but one pre-eminent—a synonyme for honor and honesty, for justice and courage, for industry and intellect—I allude to Horace Greeley. (Applause.)

Although there were repeated calls for Major Haggarty to speak the lateness of the hour prevented any further orations, and the meeting then adjourned.

TAMMANY SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

Proceedings in the Great "Cut and Dried" Conventions Yesterday—The Beauty of Harmony and Discipline—Tweed, Genet, Creamer, Norton and Bradley.

The Tammany Senatorial Conventions were held at noon yesterday, and the usual matter of form was indulged in, and the Senators, as usual, were "much astonished at the distinguished and unexpected honors thrust upon them."

The Fourth Senatorial District Convention assembled at noon in the court room corner of Pearl and Centre streets. The sidewalks, and even the stairs leading to the hall, were densely crowded with people apparently deeply interested in the proceedings. Precisely at twelve o'clock Judge Shandley, of the Seventh ward, called the delegates to order, and at his suggestion Judge Hogan, of the First ward, was called upon to preside. After an expression of thanks from the President, Mr. Michael Shandley, of the Seventh ward, and Colonel Michael C. Murphy, of the Fifth, were selected as secretaries. After calling the roll ex-Congressman Morgan Jones, of the Sixth ward, moved that Wm. M. Tweed, of the Seventh ward, be by acclamation declared the nominee of the Convention for State Senator. This proposition was the signal for an outburst of cheering, and was declared adopted. Marshal Tooker, of the Thirteenth ward, then rose and moved that a committee, formed by the selection of one delegate from each ward represented in the Convention, be appointed for the purpose of waiting on the candidate and requesting him to appear in the hall. This was adopted and a recess of ten minutes ordered, during which time the delegates indulged in a magnificent lunch on the floor above, and the appointed committee retired. Shortly after the Marshal and his associates returned, accompanied by the object of their search, whose appearance was greeted with enthusiastic cheering. He was formally introduced by the Marshal to the President, who in a few well-chosen words notified him of his nomination and offered him his congratulations.

Mr. TWEED then came forward on the platform and spoke as follows, the greatest attention being paid to his remarks:—Mr. President and gentlemen of the Convention, I am at present the representative of the Fourth district in the Senate of the State of New York, and come before you proudly, boldly, with my record. Here I see gathered together men of all stations in the business community—men of professional acquirements, artisans, and those, the source of our nation's greatness, and her great dependence, its honest workingmen. (Cheers.) Two years ago you conferred upon me the honor I to-day again am offered. The first action evidenced your confidence in my pledges to serve you faithfully, and to-day's action tells me that you stamp my conduct as a Senator with approval. I again accept the trust. (Loud cheers.) I renew my pledges of fidelity, and assure you that my time, energetic efforts and influence shall be devoted to caring for your interests, the interests of my native city, with a view to her continued advancement in commercial greatness, and to the carrying out of the glorious principles and projects of the mighty party to which we belong. (Cheers.) I am not an ingrate. I thank you for my political prosperity. I see before me my old neighbors, my friends, rejoicing in my good fortune and gladdened by the success which has crowned my humble efforts. These same friends were the friends of my early days and early efforts—the tried friends of the days of my adversity—and here, as the opportunity is afforded me I give expression to my feelings of gratitude and pledge you all that whatever is at my command is yours, and if I have not what you would I will give you the next best thing—my hearty endeavors to secure it. Again, Mr. President and gentlemen, I thank you and frankly say that I am overcome with the emotions which swell my grateful heart. (Great cheering.)

As soon as Mr. Tweed concluded the Convention adjourned.

The Fifth District Convention met at the Adriatic Hotel, corner of Hudson and Barrow streets. James Watson, of the Sixteenth ward, acted as chairman, and John Houtaling, of the Ninth ward, as secretary. On motion of Thomas Levy, of the Fifteenth ward, Mr. Michael Norton was unanimously declared the nominee of the Convention. A committee of one from each ward in the district was appointed to wait upon that gentleman and notify him of his nomination. The convention then adjourned sine die.

In the Sixth Senatorial District Tammany Hall Nominating Convention, held at Humboldt Hall, No. 92 avenue C, Mr. Thomas J. Creamer was nominated.

The Tammany Hall Convention to nominate a candidate for State Senator from the Seventh Senatorial district, met at the corner of Second avenue and Thirty-second street and nominated John J. Bradley by acclamation.

The Eighth District Senatorial Convention met at No. 783 Eighth avenue, for the purpose of placing a candidate in nomination to represent the district in the Senate. William Hitchman acted as chairman, and Messrs. Greene and Seebach as secretaries. The Convention was called to order by Judge Connolly. The Judge then moved that Henry W. Genet be declared the choice of the Convention. The motion was carried by acclamation. A committee of three was appointed to notify Mr. Genet of his nomination, when that gentleman presented himself, and in a few remarks returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him. The Convention then adjourned sine die.

THE TAMMANY JUDICIARY NOMINATIONS—MR. JAMES C. SPENCER.

Among the nominations made by the Tammany Judiciary Convention on Thursday night last appears the name of James C. Spencer for the coming vacancy on the bench of the Superior Court. The selection thus made is a most admirable one and shows that Tammany in its nominations of candidates for the judiciary has not been influenced, as charged against it, by a desire to put none but "political judges" on the bench. Mr. Spencer has never been what is known as a politician, but has, from his admission to the bar to this moment, devoted all his time and energies to his profession. Mr. Spencer is a native of Franklin county, in this State, and the son of the late Judge James B. Spencer, who was a member of the State and national legislatures, serving his district in either legislature for several years. Mr. Spencer, the subject of this brief sketch, entered upon the practice of the law, in the year 1850, in the courts of his native county. In 1854 he removed to Ogdensburg, St. Lawrence county, and there entered into partnership with Judge W. C. Brown, forming the firm of Brown & Spencer, which for ten years and upwards occupied a high position and prosecuted a profitable practice in the courts of northern New York. In 1857 President Buchanan appointed Mr. Spencer United States Attorney for the Northern district of New York, in which office he succeeded ex-Judge Samuel B. Garvin, the present District Attorney in this city. In 1864, just after the McClellan Presidential campaign, in which Mr. Spencer took a very active part in the interest of "Little Mac," he removed to New York, and at once and with great application and industry entered upon the practice of his profession, attaining great success therein. He soon after entered into partnership with Mr. Charles A. Rapallo, and at the completion of the HERALD Building and its occupation by the HERALD the new firm of Rapallo & Spencer rented spacious offices therein, where they soon acquired an extensive and profitable practice.

The firm of Rapallo & Spencer, though lately dissolved, has been familiar to the public from the professional connection it had with some of the gigantic railroad causes celebres which occupied so much of the attention of the courts for two years past. Since the dissolution of the partnership Mr. Spencer devoted all his time and attention and professional talents to his individual business and his own benefit, but he has lately associated with him, to meet the requirements of a rapidly increasing practice, ex-Judge Flanders, of Franklin county, and Mr. James B. Metcalf, one of his former partners.

Mr. Spencer, besides his high qualifications for the office for which he has been nominated, has many claims upon the democracy of the city and State, and it is pleasing to see in this instance that political leaders are not always ungrateful, but will sometimes recognize and reward the talents and qualities which, from time to time, shed a lustre upon the cause and principles they represent.

DEMOCRATIC UNION SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

In pursuance of the call of the Democratic Union General Committee (Smith Ely branch) Senatorial nominating conventions were held in the several Senatorial districts last evening, with the following result:—

Fourth District—James Bagley.
Fifth District—Ignatius Flynn.
Sixth District—Thomas J. Creamer.
Seventh District—Adjourned.
Eighth District—Henry W. Genet.

Reign of Harmony—The Nominations—Preventive Against Fraud.

The General Committee of the Constitutional Union democracy met last evening at Masonic Hall, Mr. D. B. Northrup being in the chair. Mr. Marcus Hanlon, chairman of the Committee on Candidates, reported that there was unity of action between their association, the Roosevelt wing and the faction of Mozart; that all the candidates had been seen personally and had accepted the nominations, and that they were strong, earnest men, who would fight to the last inch against Tammany, tribe sachems, Big Injun and all. (Cheers.) He then proceeded to read the nominations, which were as follows:—

Supervisor—Jacob Cohen.
Surrogate—Gideon J. Tucker.
Coroner—Nelson W. Young.
District Attorney—Samuel C. Courtney.
Recorder—Abraham D. Russell.
Justice Marine Court—Thomas W. Kearney.
Justice Supreme Court—T. W. Clerke.
Justice Superior Court—M. T. McMahon, long term.
Justice Superior Court—Charles Goepp, long term.
Justice Superior Court—S. C. Read, short term.
Justice Common Pleas—John Linn.

The nominations were received with immense cheering, and after the uproar, the three cheers and a tiger had subsided Mr. Sloan announced that the Constitutional Union democrats would make no nominations for Members of Assembly, but would accept those made by the Workingmen's Association, and would work for them as for their own. (Cheers.)

The acceptance of the report was then moved, seconded and adopted.

NELSON W. YOUNG spoke and appealed to his hearers "as a workingman." He stated that he received the nomination of all the political organizations except one, and that one he could have had, but as a man of honor he would not take, and could easily be elected without it. He further stated that when he first entered the contest he was warned by his friends that he (Mr. Young) not being a man of wealth it would be impossible for him to succeed, but he would say this, that one man stepped forward and pledged both his influence and money, and that friend was the workingmen's candidate, Jacob Cohen.

Mr. JACOB COHEN, who was received with rapturous applause, was the next speaker, and after thanking the audience for their welcome pledged himself as their candidate until sundown the day of election.

Colonel SLOAN made a somewhat grandiloquent speech, in which he announced the return of Andrew Johnson to the Senate, which was received with great applause.

Mr. MARCUS HANLON read the following resolution:—

> Resolved, That the chairman of the Executive Committee of this organization have power to engage whatever clerical help he deems necessary to canvass and take from the books of the Registrars the names of all the legally registered voters, as taken by them and to be taken on the 29th and 30th inst., and to compare such lists with the records in the archives of this association.

He explained that the committee had received information of dead soldiers' papers, to the number of 1,000, in the hands of a certain soldiers' agency, at the bottom of Broadway, which were to be feloniously and traitorously used on the 2d of November, and he desired, by checking the lists, to prevent any such fraud. This motion was recorded and adopted without comment.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE UNION LEAGUE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Union League of America was held yesterday at the St. Nicholas Hotel. There was a good attendance of members. Governor Newell, of New Jersey, presided, in the absence of Governor Geary. The Secretary, Mr. Baker, of New York, read a report of the arrangements for the elections in Mississippi and Texas. Some important arrangements for the election in New York State were reported: and the victories in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa were alluded to with gratification. Various measures in aid of the elections about to transpire were adopted, and the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chair. Movements are on foot looking to a thorough revival and reorganization of the Union League.

NINETEENTH WARD CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION.

Nominations for Senator and Assemblyman.

Masonic Hall, in East Eighty-sixth street, between Lexington and Third avenues, was filled last evening by an earnest body of men who met to take decisive steps to promote the objects for which the Nineteenth Ward Citizens' Association was formed—that is, to exert all possible means to procure additional lines of travel toward the upper end of the island. The meeting was called to order by John Foley, the chairman, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Upon taking the chair Mr. Foley made a brief address, in which he earnestly counselled the members to continue their efforts to secure additional means of transportation and public travel for the 100,000 people living in the vicinity of the Nineteenth ward. He spoke in flattering terms of the commendable manner in which Alderman Farley had furthered their interests by extending the stage lines.

Mr. HENRY H. MORANGE then offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:—

> Resolved, that the thanks of the Nineteenth Ward Citizens' Association be and they are hereby tendered to Alderman Terence Farley for his prompt action in extending the route of the Fifth avenue line of stages, and thereby increasing the accommodation of the citizens of this district, and that we hail his energetic efforts in our behalf as an earnest of his future conduct to promote and protect the interests and welfare of his constituency.

Mr. B. F. MCCABE then introduced the following resolutions, which were also unanimously adopted:—

> Whereas we, the citizens of the Twelfth and Nineteenth wards, deem it best to nominate honest and reliable men to represent our interests in the Legislature; therefore be it
> Resolved, That we nominate for Senator of the Eighth district Myer Stern, and for Member of Assembly William H. McCarthy.

Mr. STERN, the new candidate, then came forward and addressed the meeting. He thanked the members for their nomination, and said that, being no politician, he would rely upon the endeavors of the association for his election. The questions relating to the extension of lines of travel he believed would be agitated with success. Commodore Vanderbilt and his son had made their promises that the Madison Avenue Railroad should be laid and opened as soon as the obstructions were removed in that thoroughfare, between Forty-second and Forty-sixth streets. This work would be commenced on Monday next, as the assurance of Mr. William H. Vanderbilt went, and he had no doubt that all present would make their next New Year's calls in the Madison avenue street cars to Seventy-ninth street, and they should assist to secure an extension of Mr. Vanderbilt's charter so that the road might terminate at the Harlem river. He advocated the immediate cutting through of an east side boulevard, and called for all the improvements which had built up and so wonderfully increased the value of property on the west side. Mr. Stern, upon sitting down, was loudly applauded.

WILLIAM H. MCCARTHY, the candidate for member of Assembly, then made a brief address, expressing thanks for the nomination.

A motion was made, seconded and adopted appointing a committee of twenty-five to wait on the Street Commissioner and ask for the speedy removal of the obstructions in Madison avenue.

Mr. FOLEY made some closing remarks, in which he said that the association had already accomplished much in securing the extension of the stages and the expectant Madison avenue cars. The members also must make efforts to reduce the levies and assessments and other jobs of politicians. If the present condition of moneyed affairs in the city continued a vigilance committee would stand at the portals of the City Hall.

MISCELLANEOUS MEETINGS.

The Democratic Union Assembly Convention for the Thirteenth district met last evening at No. 282 Eighth avenue, Mr. Thomas G. Harrison in the chair. Mr. Ashael R. Herrick was unanimously nominated for Assembly from that district, after which the meeting adjourned.

A meeting of the friends of Mr. Michael Norton was held last night at Culkin's, No. 12 Greenwich avenue, for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of that gentleman as candidate for Senator from the Fifth Senatorial district. The meeting was organized by calling J. Walker Fowler to the chair, and appointing James Graham secretary. Speeches were made by Messrs. Fowler, McGivenny, James Glison, James Barker, Alderman Hamson, John Carey, Alderman Culkin, Senator Norton and others. The meeting was largely attended.

At a meeting of the Order of Sons of Herrmann, of the Fourth ward, [illegible] Chatham street, yesterday evening, Mr. F. Green presiding, the following resolutions were adopted:—

> That we endorse the nomination of Mr. Jacob Cohen for the office of Supervisor.
> That we know the gentleman to be an honorable and trustworthy man, who will use every effort to benefit the workingmen.
> That we earnestly recommend to all brethren of this Order to vote for Mr. Jacob Cohen at the coming election.

Mr. Roswell D. Hatch is the Assembly candidate of the democratic electors of the Nineteenth Assembly district opposed to the Tammany ring and Tammany ticket. His name, as connected with the Mozart nomination for the Superior Court, was used and published without his knowledge or consent.

A mass meeting of the workingmen of the Ninth ward was held last evening, at Jackson Hall, corner of Greenwich avenue and Horatio streets, under the auspices of the Jackson Independent Democratic Association. The meeting was largely attended by the voters of the Fifth Assembly district. Addresses were delivered by the President, Mr. B. A. Leonard; Mr. P. Rafferty, Mr. J. Hoey, Mr. James D. McClellan, Mr. Denis Riorden, Captain Walsh, Mr. Rodgers, Mr. Tierney and Mr. McCormick. After resolving to support Mr. Ignatius Flynn for Senator and Captain James D. McClelland for Assembly, in the Ninth Assembly district, the meeting adjourned.

The Constitutional Democracy had an enthusiastic meeting last evening at Dodworth Hall, No. 806 Broadway. Captain Samuel C. Sloan, in the chair, opened the meeting with appropriate remarks, in which he spoke of the unanimous endorsement of Marcus Hanlon by the Fifteenth ward and the Seventh Assembly district for candidate for General Assembly. M. J. McKenna, secretary of the meeting, made an eloquent speech in favor of the nominee, Marcus Hanlon, for Assemblyman of the Seventh district. He was followed by Thomas W. Kearney, whose remarks were to the same effect as above. Marcus Hanlon, candidate for Assemblyman in the Seventh district, was then called forth, also Jacob Cohen, candidate for Supervisor, and after pertinent remarks and much applause the meeting was adjourned.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Tammany democracy of the Nineteenth ward last evening, at the corner of Eighty-second street and Third avenue, for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of Walter Roche for Supervisor. The meeting was called to order by Owen Rooney, who, in a few remarks, stated the object of the meeting. He was followed by Mr. Dennis Burns, who spoke at some length, eulogizing all the Tammany candidates, and Mr. Roche in particular. The following resolution was offered and unanimously adopted:—

> Resolved, That we, the democracy of the Nineteenth ward, here assembled, do pledge our hearty support to secure the re-election of Mr. Walter Roche, and that we recognize in him a gentleman who has ably discharged the duties of Supervisor with honor to the city and credit to those who sent him there, and we honor him as a man whose political character is without a blemish.

The meeting adjourned with cheers for Tammany and Mr. Roche.

The Citizens' Reform Movement.

A call has been promulgated, signed by Messrs. J. M. Seabury, Henry Hartean, J. Barnard, G. C. Halstead, J. Cosgrove and other well known citizens, addressed to the ward reform associations of Kings county, requesting them to appoint three delegates each, to meet at Phenix Hall this evening for the purpose of forming a "general committee. They propose that this committee shall have full charge of all questions and matters affecting the interests of the city and county at large." This is deemed by the more rational men in the central organization as the only manner of their arriving at anything akin to practical reformatory influence upon the great field of political mismanagement in this county. The reformers are not able, however, to cope successfully with the great power wielded by the dominant party manipulators this year, whatever they may expect in the future.

Supervisor Little Nominated for Mayor.

Alderman Armfield, who was nominated by the Republican City Convention for Mayor, having declined, the delegates reassembled last night, at the rooms of the Republican General Committee in Washington street, and unanimously nominated Supervisor William M. Little.

The Convention then adjourned.

Second Assembly District Republican Convention.

Mr. Albert Ammerman received the nomination last night as the republican candidate for Assembly in the Second district.

MAYOR HALL ON HORACE GREELEY.

Horace Greeley in the editorial columns of the Tribune having published yesterday a ferocious letter addressed "To Samuel J. Tilden, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee," on democratic election frauds in this city, and having included Mayor Hall in his general indictment against the democratic leaders, the Mayor has sent us the following as his reply:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

In a letter signed by Horace Greeley, addressed to S. J. Tilden, and published editorially in the Tribune, I find the following extract:—

> On the principle that "the receiver is as bad as the thief," you are as deeply implicated in them to-day as though your name were Tweed, O'Brien, or Oakey Hall.

By the word "them" is meant grammatically "election frauds." Will any one blame me if I "steal" a moment from a "busy life" and indulge in some "recollections," and perhaps a personality or two upon this Tribune gage?

When Horace and I were whigs together, years ago, at caucuses held "to raise money"—generally held as they should be at the houses of rich men, and assisted (as they always ought to be, and to Horace's great delight) by nice suppers—I have heard rougher suggestions about the use of that money from this cleanly shaved Pharisee of a politician (H. G.) than I ever heard at any democratic caucus. Greeley would call the use of it now and then "pipe-laying."

But of late years I note that he calls it, whenever urging radicals towards work, "scrutinizing the registry." His ally, Theodore Allen, is almost nightly meeting with Greeley, and the "Comptroller's" friends may be relied upon to fully interpret Greeley's new phrase. When interpreted it will bear Greeley's repeating.

It is really amusing for some of Greeley's former whig audiences (some now republicans and others democrats) to observe reflected in the Tribune the pious rolling of his eyes over the editorial inkstand whenever he writes about the misdeeds of political adversaries touching poll appliances; for they remember Greeley's former expressions which proved the similarity between railroad building and electioneering. "Some men," quoth Horace, "survey the routes, others do the grading; some bury ties or clamp rails; a few run the locomotive afterwards; but the people who dig the ditches and get blackened at the outset are not remembered." "So," quoth Horace, "we leaders who raise the capital for the ditch diggers don't need to know what kind of soil they put their picks into whenever we finally ride within the cars into the successful depot."

From my knowledge of Horace Greeley (and I have studied him for years as Dr. Carnochan would study a case of morbid anatomy) I share the belief of thousands in his own party that if he wanted to help a railroad grant at Albany, to enjoy the interest of an Irish fund well invested, to share the profits of a Congressional land grant, or to elect himself to a "paying" office (like Comptroller), there is no rough election chance he wouldn't take if he thought his ditch digging could be covered up by the successful running of the cars.

The hypocrisy of this man Greeley approaches sublimity. The late charcoal sketcher Neal (would that he had lived to sketch H. G.'s) wrote a clever essay on the sublimity of impudence. The editor of the Tribune fully answers the descriptions. Some years ago I furnished to all the libraries of the world a pamphlet called "Horace Greeley Decently Dissected," and in its pages I showed how one by one his Tom Pinch adorers fell away from their Pecksniff, and students of morbid anatomy who wish to consult the pamphlet in any of the libraries will find how the sublimity of H. G.'s hypocrisy and impudence was unmistakably demonstrated.

It is possible that his vanity so leads him to believe in himself that he is convinced he possesses the power to shrive himself daily, and thus to realize the Byronic idea of a "deformed transformed." A man who so supremely believes in himself as Greeley does cannot very well believe in any other man nor accept any alien criticism. What, therefore, you will ask, is the use of answering H. G.? Why? Why simply to expose him. The prophet Mathias was, years ago, tried for the mere object of exposing his impostures. You must keep on arraigning this "profit"-seeking philosopher at the bar of public opinion for the purpose of saving people from accepting his self-delusions. I will engage to prove Horace Greeley a monomaniac before any commission of lunatico inquirendo, his inconsistencies during the war, [illegible] of St. Lawrence radicals, his vituperations of men of all creeds and politics for a quarter of a century back; his forgiving the enemy of yesterday or abusing the friend of last week whenever he wished thereby to gain a point; his everyday antics before the Fourth avenue barber shop; his smirk of satisfaction when he steps on or off the stage wherever "ladies are present," at a lecture or "fair opening;" his ungrateful treatment of John Schoolcraft, Weed, McElrath and a dozen others who befriended his poverty; his particularity in searching after odd Catharine street costumes, whereby he attracts as much public notice as the corset man on Broadway; his greed for office, whether it be Congress or Register, delegate or Senator, railway director or Comptroller—all of these well known and widely appreciated (eccentricities his little circle call them) Greeleyisms can only be explained upon the vanity, monomania hypothesis. "Do talk about me," said the spinster in one of Brougham's comedies. "How beautiful you are," would come a chorus, and then how she simpered and made friends with everybody. "You are an old humbug," would exclaim some courageous young belle. Then the spinster quitted the charmed circle and the looking glass to throw an old shoe at Miss Courageousness, precisely as H. G. quits his immediate circle of toadies to throw one of his old boots at any one who ever dared to expose him. And when a man who is an "old charlatan" undertakes to puff himself as Horace Greeley does in his recent prospectus of his "busy life" book that fills a Tribune column of leaded type it is the duty of everybody to cast his pebble at the philosopher's glass house. I now end this epistle by challenging Horace Greeley, as candidate for Comptroller, to meet me as a political stumper next week in any rural portion of the State he may select and discuss for three hours on a side the issues of the day, and I will promise to please the radicals who might attend even more than I would hope to gratify the democracy.

A. OAKEY HALL.

MURDER TRIAL IN QUEENS COUNTY.

Burke, the Murderer of Cane, Arraigned Before the Court of Oyer and Terminer—The Testimony Yesterday.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon David Burke, the alleged murder of Thomas Cane, during the great petroleum fire at Hunter's Point on the night of the 25th of October, 1868, was arraigned before the Queens County Court of Oyer and Terminer, Justice Barnard presiding. The case was reviewed in the HERALD of Monday and the principal facts connected with it presented, so that recapitulation is unnecessary. Considerable difficulty was experienced in procuring an unprejudiced jury, some having previously formed opinions concerning the case, and others having conscientious scruples against finding a verdict where the penalty was death. Finally the panel was filled and the case proceeded.

District Attorney Downing opened for the people. The first witness called for the prosecution was Dr. Dembler, of Hunter's Point. He said he knew Cane; he attended him on the night of the 25th of October; he had a pistol shot wound about an inch below the left shoulder blade; the ball passed through the seventh rib and lodged in the ninth vertebræ; his injuries were sufficient to cause death; I recognize the bullet which I took from the wound; I also recognize the pistol. The next witness was Richard Cornell, previously in the employ of Rockfellers, Andrews & Co. He said he was at the fire; he helped remove some naphtha; no oil was saved; he saw no shooting going on. James D. Comstock was the next witness called. He was formerly foreman in the oil works of Warren & Bros.; he was present on the night of the fire; saved some naphtha. Thomas Quinn was the next witness examined, and testified substantially as follows:—I reside at Fifty-ninth street, New York; I was at Hunter's Point on the night of the fire; saw the explosion; I saw Burke, the prisoner, go into a shed where the oil was on fire; I told him not to go in there and pushed him out; I met Cane; I saw Burke coming up with a barrel of oil; he said "Young man, give me a lift and I will pay you;" Cane asked him where he was going with the oil; he said "Go to h—ll you son of a b—h;" Cane asked him if he was mad; Burke pulled a pistol and fired a shot into the ground; I told him to put it up, as it was dangerous; he told me to go on with the oil and he would follow me; I heard a second report of the pistol and went back; I saw Cane lying in the street; I asked him who shot him; Burke was standing about ten feet from him; Cane pointed to Burke and intimated that he (Burke) had shot him; I caught hold of the prisoner and a scuffle ensued; I knocked him down and called for some one to take the revolver from him; he was taken to the station house; Mrs. Cane was there at the time. Edward Brown, of Hunter's Point, testified that Cane had told him that he had been shot by a man with a soldier's cap on; Burke wore a navy cap on the night of the murder. The case will be continued to-day, and probably will be concluded. The defence will be conducted by John H. Anthon.

PERE HYACINTHE.

Movements of the Great Carmelite Monk Yesterday—He is Photographed—Interview of a Canadian Priest With the Pere—Sectarian Views of the Monk's Position.

Father Hyacinthe yesterday managed to escape the importunities of the curious and the impertinence of the Bohemian tribe by leaving the hotel at an early hour of the morning and taking a walk in company with his young interpreter. About noon he proceeded to Brady's gallery, where he had a fine imperial photograph taken. When the picture was being taken he was dressed in a plain suit of black, and held in his hand the "Breviary," which seems to be his vade mecum wherever he goes. The Boston delegation did not call upon him during the day, probably being aware of his absence from the hotel.

After having been shown the proof of the photograph, with which he expressed himself satisfied, he proceeded to Brooklyn, where he remained with a gentleman whom he had formerly known in Paris, and returned to the hotel at four o'clock.

Several cards were on his table, but he did not deign to answer any one of them until his eye had rested on a small slip of crumpled paper on which a name was hastily scrawled. He picked it up, and, on reading the superscription, ordered the gentleman who had sent it up to be shown to his room at once.

Who this honored individual was the good Father refused to make known, but it was ascertained that he was a priest who had come all the way from Montreal expressly to see Father Hyacinthe.

He remained closeted in the room with the monk for over an hour, but although many stories were afloat in the hotel as to what the object of his visit was, nothing definite was learned on the subject. Some affected to believe that the visitor came to tell the Carmelite that the French priests in Canada approved of his course and would stand by him, while others as stoutly asserted that he must have come as an exhorter to deter Father Hyacinthe from the way he had laid down for his future conduct and action.

In the afternoon one of the Boston delegation had a long interview with him, which lasted almost two hours. What was really said at the meeting of the clergymen is a mystery, although Father Hyacinthe, while refusing to give any information on the subject of its details, gave his friends to understand that he declined all invitations of a public reception of any kind.

He paid a visit to Mr. Darling, one of the proprietors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, at his residence in Twenty-third street, in the evening, and retired about ten o'clock.

THE INDIFFERENCE OF THE CATHOLICS WITH REGARD TO THE PERE.

The utter indifference of the Catholics to the reverend gentleman's presence in the city is one of the most remarkable features of his visit. It has become quite a subject of remark among the guests and the hundreds who make it a point to drop into the vestibule of the hotel every evening with the hope of catching a glimpse of the distinguished clergyman. It was generally supposed when the intelligence of his departure for this country was announced that his arrival here would create considerable of a stir among them; but so far there has been no visible sign that they care a pin's point about him or his movements one way or the other. Even the priests, who, people believed, would give their congregations a piece of their mind on the subject of the stranger at some one of the daily morning services, have, with one or two exceptions, manifested no concern in the matter, and are apparently as indifferent to Father Hyacinthe's "position" as though there were no such person in existence.

WHAT A CATHOLIC PRIEST THINKS OF HIM.

One of the exceptions to this general rule, however, happens to be one of the best known and one of the most eloquent preachers in this city, and in commenting yesterday upon the fuss that was being made over Father Hyacinthe he said:—"I have been in France and I know that an eloquent preacher there often has his head turned by the popularity which he wins. He is flattered and fêted and glorified, and everybody tries to make him believe that he is the greatest orator that ever breathed the breath of life, and all that sort of thing. Now, a preacher is as much a human being as any other man, and is it surprising that once in a while we witness the sad spectacle of a good man rising so high in the popular esteem that he becomes dizzy with his own greatness and falls to the earth?"

FATHER HYACINTHE SINCERE, BUT VAIN.

"Do you," inquired the gentleman to whom these remarks were addressed, "do you intend to say that Father Hyacinthe is one of that class?"

"I do. I honestly believe that he is sincere, that he means well; in fact, that he is a good Catholic at heart and desires all good to the Church, at the same time that he does not even dream of joining the Protestants. But it is my conviction that his popularity as a preacher, the universal esteem in which he was held in Paris, the attentions and honors that were paid to him proved too much for his vanity. He became strong in the belief that what was said of him was true; that he was great; that he knew as much as any able man could know, and was, as any other reasonable man, a good judge of his own acts as anybody else could be; being so it was quite consistent for him to refuse obedience to his superior when he was requested to do a certain thing; for wasn't he Père Hyacinthe, and how could Brother Dominick know better than he what was right or what was wrong?"

WHAT HE WAS FORBIDDEN TO DO.

"And allow me here to remark that I do not think that the people in this country are well acquainted with the real merits of the difficulty which has caused Father Hyacinthe to give up his monastery. His superior did not take exceptions to his sermons delivered in the church, but he forbade him to preach before political or semi-political bodies on subjects which had more regard to outside questions than the subject of religion itself. Do you remember the outcry that some of the New York papers made against certain clergymen in this city who made it a practice during the war to drag political subjects into their so-called sermons? Well, supposing a Catholic priest here to-day should 'talk politics' during his sermon, and his bishop should tell him to confine himself to his legitimate sphere and he should refuse to obey. What then? Would he not have broken his vows of obedience to his lawfully constituted superior, and wouldn't every good Catholic applaud the bishop for meting out a severe sentence to the guilty one? The question of disobedience is the one which is to be considered in Father Hyacinthe's case, and not whether he regards the spirit of the nineteenth century in a different light from his colleagues."

HE WILL NOT BE EXCOMMUNICATED FOR WHAT HE HAS DONE.

"Do you not think his inveighing against the expected action of the Ecumenical Council in regard to certain matters will be looked upon as an act deserving excommunication?"

"I certainly do not. You or I or anybody who chooses can, with perfect propriety, discuss the questions which we believe are to come up before the Council, and find fault with them if we choose; that does not make us criminal. We would be simply finding fault with the Council's deciding a certain way before we know how it will decide. Did you hear Archbishop McCloskey's address in the Cathedral to his flock the Sunday before he left for Europe? What did he say about all the talk of what the Council was going to do? He said that it was all conjecture and that even he himself did not know what it would do. Isn't it very foolish, therefore, for Father Hyacinthe or anybody else to waste so much breath in condemning a something that is not yet in existence?"

HE WILL BE EXCOMMUNICATED IF HE OPPOSES THE COUNCIL'S DECISION.

"But, supposing," remarked the priest's interlocutor, "supposing Father Hyacinthe should not like the decisions of the Council when they shall have been made valid by due and regular canonical process, and should continue to refuse obedience to them?"

"In that case, sir, he would deserve excommunication, as would any Catholic who would presume to declare not worthy of belief any article which the assembled wisdom and piety of the Church should have declared an article of faith; and just so sure as Father Hyacinthe does this thing he will be excommunicated."

WHILE THERE'S LIFE THERE'S HOPE.

I trust, however, that he will not be so rash as to incur such an awful penalty. In doing what he has done he has been very imprudent, to say the least, and for him to stand against the decisions of the Council when made will be placing himself outside the pale of the Church entirely."

The name of the reverend gentleman with whom the above conversation was held cannot be given, owing to the fact that he was not aware, when he engaged in it, that the "talk" was intended for publication.

DEPARTURE OF CATHOLIC BISHOPS FOR ROME.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20, 1869.

A large crowd of persons thronged the wharves of the steamship company this afternoon to witness the departure of the Catholic bishops who left for Rome. Archbishop Spaulding was escorted from his residence to the steamer by a large procession, and two large steamers, densely crowded, escorted the Bremen steamer down the river to the bay. The following are among her passengers:—Most Rev. Martin J. Spaulding, Archbishop of Baltimore; Bishops Wood, of Philadelphia; McGill, of Richmond; Domenere, of Pittsburg; Mullin, of Erie; James Gibbons, Vicar Apostolic of North Carolina; James M. O'Gorman, Vicar Apostolic of Nebraska; Rev. Charles O'Connor, Vice Rector of the American College at Rome, and several priests, together with Messrs. Benjamin Kelley, and Corrigan, students from the college at Rome.

TORONTO, Oct. 20, 1869.

Bishop Lynch left to-day for Rome, to attend the Ecumenical Council. Previous to his departure he was presented with several complimentary addresses and a purse containing $2,600.

THE POSITION OF LOPEZ.

The steamship South America, Captain Tinklepaugh, from Rio Janeiro the 23d ult., arrived at this port yesterday afternoon. She brings mails up to date of sailing.

THE PARAGUAYAN WAR.

Prospects of the War—Enormous Expenses—Lopez and His Position—Provision Made for His Retreat—The Provisional Government and Its Embarrassments.

[From the Anglo-Brazilian Times, Sept. 23.]

The termination of the war still appears as far off as ever, Lopez having escaped, with men and cannon, to the mountains, where, it is said by well informed persons, he can command abundance of food, and is likely to be materially aided by the Indians, for whose organization he three months ago made provision.

Thus the heavy expenses of this never-ending war must still go on, and will probably increase with the carrying on of operations 150 miles inland, amid the great Cordilleras of Paraguay; for if the Comte d'Eu with all his energy, found it a most arduous task, though aided by the railway, to supply his troops before Ascurra, what difficulties must he not encounter in the new campaign!

The provisional government also brings with it a heavy cost, and every man, woman and child of the pauperized and starving refugees who have collected around the capital has to be supported at the allied cost, for other resource there is none, no industry existing, and no crops being possible for many months. As over 100,000 such helpless persons threw themselves, in August alone, according to official statements, upon the allied humanity, about $109,000 a day has to be distributed in rations, and thus the monthly war expenditure of Brazil has reached £1,500,000.

How this great outlay is to be met no one can say. The treasury has long been in a chronic state of exhaustion, and for some time all the gold and exchange taken by the government has been purchased with treasury bills, until the mass of these in circulation has already risen to the enormous sum of $85,000,000.

No one, it is said, views the financial difficulties of the country with more alarm than the Minister of Finance himself, who, the tears standing in his eyes, laments among his colleagues the impossibility of amelioration while this exhaustive war continues. And, we may ask, what is to be the end if Lopez is to be driven, each time at the cost of millions, from each of the multitude of mountain and forest dens the nature of the country and the apparently inexhaustible devotion of the people facilitate to him?

Even had the Minister of Finance only to deal with the closing of the accounts of a terminated war he might well shrink from the herculean task; what then is to be the case if this spending of four times the annual revenue is still to go on for unprofitable, nay ruinous warfare?

The Abandonment of the Pursuit of Lopez—He is Let Alone—Number of Followers Around Him.

[From the Anglo-Brazilian Times, Sept. 23.]

From the seat of war we learn of no further engagement since that of the 21st of August, when the Argentines cut up a force of 403 Paraguayans twenty miles beyond Caraguatay. After this action the pursuit of Lopez's forces was abandoned in consequence of the horses being exhausted in traversing the flooded and muddy terrain, and of the troops being without food, and the different army corps reunited at Caraguatay to recruit.

As Lopez had succeeded in escaping with forces variously estimated at from 2,000 to 5,000 men and ten to twenty cannon, and was believed to have gone northward to the department of Izidro, in which cattle are still abundant, and the Indians are supposed to be friendly to him, a corps was about to be sent to Rosario to act from that place, and another corps was going to Villa Rica.

Some of the authorities have sent in their adhesion to the provisional government, among whom, it is reported, the Villa Rica ones are numbered, and over 100,000 Paraguayans, chiefly women, children and old men, have come in. Unfortunately, they being utterly destitute and the provisional government being entirely without means, they have to be supported by the allies.

URUGUAY.

Arrival of Refugees from the Seat of War—Their Condition—Business Affairs—M[illegible]

[illegible], Sept. 14, 1869.

The Guale[illegible] arrived on Sunday evening, bringing [illegible] number of wounded from Paraguay, who arrived in the most pitiable condition. We have nothing later from the seat of war, and the allies seem to have stopped short in their pursuit of Lopez. The State of Asuncion is quite shocking for want of sanitary measures. We hear news of Lopez having shot the Swedish savant Everhard Monck, without any cause assigned.

In Buenos Ayres every one is preparing for the census, which is to begin to-morrow, the day being for that day declared a public holiday.

Money rules at 8 to 12 per cent. Exchange on England is weaker and may be quoted at 48s. 7d. National bonds look upward, as many people are buying now to sell after the dividend of 30th instant. Argentine Bank shares rose to 7 premium, but there was a sale to-day of 50 shares at 6. There are no transactions in gas or bolsa shares, but we note a sale of $5,000 of the roads and bridges stock at 62½. Dry goods merchants note a remarkable improvement and much activity, owing to the number of buyers from the upper provinces. In produce there is much demand for sheepskins. The Americans now buy as well as the French, and good skins are worth up to $150 per dozen. The price of fat sheep is also much advanced. Some animals, preserved whole and packed in ice, will be sent to England, per next steamer for London, on the 17th inst. We have had heavy rains, which will be of great benefit to the camps.

The most important news of a commercial character is the arrangement concluded between Baron Mana and the Montevidean government. The government has assumed the whole Mana currency in circulation, amounting to $5,650,000, receiving in payment of same an equivalent amount of bonds and other securities. The balance of assets coming to the bank after this arrangement amounted to nearly nine millions. So satisfactory a result surprised everybody. The government ordering the burning of all the securities given out by Mana has caused some uneasiness among the commercial public. It is said the Baron will wind up the Montevidean house and fix his headquarters in Buenos Ayres.

THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

Industrial Improvements—The Veto Power and How Interpreted—Affairs in the Interior—Big Colonization Scheme—Information About Lopez—News from Uruguay.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 12, 1869.

The question as to whether the national or provincial government was to have the honor of constructing a port for Buenos Ayres was finally settled in the Provincial House of Representatives, on the 3d inst. After some discussion the project was carried by 21 votes against 5, which authorizes the executive power to construct docks, warehouses and such works as may be deemed necessary for bettering the import and export trades in our port. The executive power is also authorized to appropriate for this object the funds and resources of the province. The works are to be commenced within twelve months. The settlement of this project has given general satisfaction. As things now stand, leaving out of consideration the dangers which vessels run in the outer roads, it costs more to load or unload a cargo than its carriage to or from England.

On the same day as the port project was settled a great sensation was created by the message of the President vetoing the bill on intervention. The conduct of the President in this affair, as well as in many others, by the by, is criticised most severely by the opposition papers. The independent way of thinking and acting which Sarmiento learned during his stay in the United States is quite at variance with all South American notions of good government. So that the vetoing of a bill passed by Congress and other similar actions of President Sarmiento, which appear to us most reasonable and constitutional, are explained by them as preliminaries towards gaining absolute power. The Republica, which is the leading opposition paper here, openly accuses Sarmiento in nearly every issue of aiming at that power which so many despots have enjoyed in this country, and calls upon all good citizens to stand against it now instead of leaving it till it is too late. But the worst of it is that all good citizens are so contented with the government of "The Schoolmaster," and so confiding in his patriotism and nobleness, that they don't care to listen to the Republica's call to arms.

The national executive power has recently promulgated the law of Congress, declaring all the materials introduced to this country for the construction of railways, tramways, &c., free from all import duties. A letter of General Taboada, published in the Eco of Cordoba, would lead us to infer that he is not likely to create any more disturbances. This triumph of Sarmiento over one of the most powerful chiefs of the provinces shows federalism is a reality in the republic, and not only a sham, as before; and that the time has now passed for our provincial governors to lay siege to our capital on any pretext that might have suggested itself to them. The curse of all the South American republics has been this petty chieftainship and their remarkable instinct for making war one upon the other, just as we see it in Mexico at present. And if we have at last succeeded in throwing this curse off from our fair country we may look on to a prosperity unequalled even in the history of the United States.

A most extensive scheme of colonization was lately presented to Congress by Messrs. B. Rulrich and J. Ballot Gurnay. These gentlemen engage to introduce, at their own expense, 20,000 families of agriculturists, each family averaging five persons, in the course of eight years, and settle them in the Gran Chaco. Each family on its arrival will be supplied with materials for constructing a house, farming implements, seed, four bullocks, two cows and provisions for a year; these things to be advanced to the colonists as loans payable within five years. The families will establish themselves on an area of 800 square leagues, having for its limits the northern extremity of Santa Fé as far as the Rio Vermejo. In return for the advantages which will accrue to the republic from the success of this enterprise the undertakers ask of the government 200 square leagues of the above mentioned 800, and a payment of seventy-five dollars for each family, which must be paid after the arrival of each immigrant ship. And, in order to do away with any misapprehension as to the seriousness of their proposal, they offer to deposit a guarantee of $50,000 in public funds. Very little is actually known of the Gran Chaco, more than that it is a vast tract of land, well covered with woods. Many say that it also contains an abundance of mineral wealth. Should this project succeed it will create a new province and add immensely to the wealth of the nation.

The news from Paraguay that has reached here since the departure of the last packet is not of much importance. A letter, dated Asuncion, August 28, gives an account of a small skirmish which took place between the allies and the rear guard of Lopez's retreating columns, in which the allies succeeded in killing to a man a small force of Paraguayans which had charge of some wagons loaded with ammunition and Madame Lynch's baggage. The commanding officer was Colonel Thompson, who alone succeeded in escaping to the neighboring woods; but was obliged by hunger to deliver himself up to the Brazilians. Lopez has made his escape to the Sierra Aldama, where he is said to be again fortifying himself. His true strength and resources, of course, are not known. The allies say he has no more than 2,000 men, but that these are picked, being "The President's Life Guard." He has also fifteen field pieces with a good supply of ammunition.

The allies have come to a standstill at Caraguatay, which is some 100 miles from Asuncion, quite unable to proceed any further, owing to the bogs and morasses on the way. Nevertheless Count d'Eu seems very desirous to close the campaign as soon as possible. He has sent down here for more horses in order to make sure of his game.

The private letters which come down from Paraguay give the saddest pictures imaginable of the misery of those who have been confined in the mountains by Lopez, who are seen by the thousands, emaciated and naked, coming from their mountain prisons in search of something to sustain life. But what particularly strikes us in the sad picture is the description of the prisoners which were lately taken by the allies. The greater part of them are mere boys, many not being over eight years of age. And when we are told that these mere children are covered with wounds, which they received while fighting like young tigers against the enemies of their country, we cannot but reflect upon the awful power which Lopez had and has still over his people.

The site for the Cordova Exhibition has been selected, and the plan of the building drawn up by Major Rickard, had been approved. The materials will be exported from the States. The time for its opening has been finally fixed for November, 1870. The national government, by decree of the 25th of August, has ratified the regulations drawn up by the committee of directors, all particulars concerning which may be had by consulting Dr. Don Manuel Garcia, the Argentine Minister at Washington.

The chief news from the neighboring republic of Uraguay is the settlement of the money question between Baron Mauá and the government, the basis of which are that the Mauá Bank pay the government in public funds valued at the price of amortization. The total emission to be redeemed is $5,000,000, which will leave about $900,000 in securities to be returned to the bank by the government.

There has been no improvement in trade here since the departure of the last mail. Imports continue dull and freights unchanged. The money market is also about the same. Good paper can easily be discounted at from eight to twelve per cent. The late speculations in the bond market have quieted down, but the public securities remain steady at about 61½ a 62.

The business of mutton tallow is increasing so rapidly as to indicate that the estancieros intend to melt down nearly all their sheep. The sales for the fortnight exceed 5,000 pipes, and hundreds will be killing much more largely in a month or two. Sheep skins are also rising, as the Americans have lately become buyers.

ST. DOMINGO

Feeling Regarding the United States—The Question of Annexation—An Appeal.

ST. DOMINGO, Oct. 8, 1869.

President Grant and the NEW YORK HERALD have each had their special agent in this field expressly to study and learn for the benefit of their respective constituents the fitness of this island for the manifest destiny of annexation. The HERALD is likely to come out first in this race for information, for it has had a triple set of agents on its Antilles staff, and the errors or losses of any one of the members will surely be corrected on a general comparing of notes.

The summary of Dominican ripeness for annexation can be given in these words, "ready and eager;" but behind this all but universal desire to enter the Union lingers a painful fear that Congress might refuse to receive the State of St. Domingo. If the Dominicans should have presented their country at the door only to be refused admission the popular reaction against those who had promoted the proffer would be tremendous. Baez and his party would be swept out of power, and the black majority would be strongly tempted to leave behind them their cherished landmark of "equality of races before the law" and join the Cacos of Hayti in asserting that it belongs to the negroes alone to govern this island. That feeling is dying out everywhere and nothing could rekindle this old antagonism of race except the misfortune of being ignominiously rejected after having been persuaded to solicit admission into the Union. This view of our position seems entirely ignored in the United States. The press cannot understand and accept this true and simple explanation of the reticence of Baez and his Cabinet on the question of annexation; but it is the true and only obstacle. The agents of the HERALD have traversed the island from end to end and this fact met them everywhere. High and low, black and white made no secret of their desire for annexation; but one and all said the invitation must come from the United States.

If Congress and the Washington Cabinet desire this island they have but to say so, and it is theirs on their own terms. Congress has but to pass an act authorizing the President to receive and protect the State of St. Domingo whenever a majority of two-thirds of her adult population shall declare, by public and open vote, the desire of the Dominicans to be so received, and shall present a State constitution in accordance with the constitution of the United States, and the thing is done. This is the sure and simple way. It turns the dark clouds of possible rejection into the sunshine of perfect confidence. The Union is strong and can afford to be generous. The world understands the position and national status of the Washington Cabinet, and graciousness will become its strength better than pride. The strong brother, conscious of the power of his vigorous manhood, should not say to his infant sister:—"There is a priceless treasure on that surf-bound rock of the ocean. I cannot take the labor and risk of going for it. I am so rich and strong that I can live very well without it; but you, my little sister, need it very much. Throw yourself, therefore, in the breakers, and if you bring it to me I will give you a share of it." The poor little sister hesitates and lovingly appeals to the generosity of her strong elder brother. "We are the children of one mother, only I am yet a feeble child and you have grown to be a giant, yet our common mother, pure and gentle Freedom, touched both our infant brows with a like unction of baptism—the blood of our fathers; blood freely given that you and I, the strong giant and his feeble sister, might not wear the chains of slavery; that we and our children's children might go on ennobling our stature and ever making broader and more beautiful our mother's house, your American system and mine also. Give me your hand, therefore, my brother; lend me your brave arm and generous will, and let us win this island treasure in union, and once safely within the stronghold of the American system you shall dispose of it at your own will."

The inexperienced child would be overwhelmed and lost in this surf, which is but a pleasant excitement to the vigorous and practised strength of her powerful brother; but will that giant brother, who is "rich enough without it," put out his hand to bring the island treasure into a safe haven? Or will he insist that the weak, inexpert sister shall brave all the perils of bringing it to him, and then meet, perhaps, the fatal humiliation of being told the gift is not wanted and that closer family ties will not be admitted?

We know here that Samaná was twice refused at Washington, that Cuba has had the rivets of her chains kept firm in Spanish keeping for twenty years by United States assistance; that even royal Denmark could not get the St. Thomas sale ratified, and that imperial Russia had to lavish golden persuasions to make her cession of Alaska binding. How, then, can St. Domingo, who has no royal or imperial godfathers to protect her, who must rely entirely and implicitly upon the will of a yet silent Congress, be sure that she will not be abandoned in the breakers in her hour of supreme need?

There is but one answer; there can be but one remedy. The generosity of the Union must be in proportion to its power. It must say, "Fear not, my little sister, you are ours and we will protect you. Here is your place by the side of your elder sisters, come and take it." Let Congress say that word, and without hesitation and without conditions St. Domingo will instantly, joyfully raise the flag and set a bright sentinel star in the constellation of the United States.

CENTRAL ASIA.

The Russian Advance—Native Princes in Prison—Fighting in Bokhara.

CALCUTTA, India, August 30, 1869.

The news of the latest discussion in the British Parliament about the Russian advance in Central Asia towards India has roused the Indian press from one end of the country to the other for a general onslaught upon the unhappy orators who took part in the debate. The worst of the matter is that the suggestion of Mr. Grant Duff that the Ameer of Afghanistan "has two hands," implying that, while accepting a subsidy from the Indian government, he takes bribes also from the Russians, will be certainly reported to the accused himself, and will probably result in his acting as Mr. Duff has supposed he would. The Indian government have already given him sixty lacs of rupees ($300,000), and the dissensions in his kingdom will probably now afford him an excuse for demanding more.

The two younger brothers of Ismail Khan have arrived at Lahore, and are confined in the fort. They are described as being mere children, and the government will have to appoint some one to carry on their education.

Sirdar Ismail Khan himself has not been heard of since his escape, but he is believed to be in hiding somewhere between Khorrum and Cabul. He will probably be heard from only too soon.

The Shah of Persia has agreed to receive Sirdar Ishank Khan on condition that he makes no further attempt against the Ameer.

In Bokhara there has again been fighting between the King and his son, the Ameer Toorajan, at Charjoce; but the King has for once been victorious. His son is followed by all the fanatical inhabitants of the cities, and especially of Bokhara itself, and his avowed object is to drive the Russians from every corner of the country and to prevent the King having any dealings with them, diplomatically or otherwise. In the last martial dispute between the King and his son the former had to call in the Russians to protect him, and it is not impossible that he may ultimately have to do so again. The country people are reported to care little whether they are governed by the Russians or a King under Russian influence, or by the Ameer; they are only anxious for quiet and order.

THE AMERICAN BIBLE UNION.

Twentieth Anniversary—Interesting Proceedings.

The American Bible Union, an incorporated association, organized to effect a reform in the faulty translation of the Holy Scriptures, and to aid in the dissemination of the Bible throughout the world, held the first meeting of its twentieth annual session yesterday and last evening in the Mariners' Temple Baptist church, corner of Henry and Oliver streets.

The morning session was called to order at half-past ten o'clock, and in the absence of the president, Dr. Armitage, the chair was occupied by Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, the vice president. After the usual devotional exercises and the approval of the report of the Committee on Order of Business the election of officers for the ensuing year was proceeded with, which resulted in the re-election of the present board, consisting of Rev. T. Armitage, D. D., President; Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, Vice President; Eleazer Parmly, Treasurer; H. F. Smith, Secretary, and J. T. Smith, Auditor.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. W. H. WYCKOFF to amend the constitution by making the Executive Committee consist of forty-two instead of twenty-seven members, for the purpose of adding lay members, instead of confining the committee exclusively to the clergy. After some debate the amendment was adopted.

The report of the Treasurer, Mr. G. B. Brass, was read, and showed disbursements to the extent of $61,715, and receipts amounting to $58,363. Among the leading expenses the item of officers' salaries reached $5,589; salaries and expenses of agents, $9,727; the Bible House account, $6,419; grants and donations, $9,134; revision of English Scriptures, $7,691, and translation of Chinese Scriptures $2,059. Among the receipts were a bequest from the late Harvey Edwards, of Fayetteville, N. Y., of $400, and one-half of their respective estates, upon the deaths of their widows, from John Naylor, of Halifax, N. S.; Moses Allen, of Northville, Mich., and W. E. McIntosh, of Philadelphia.

The following resolution was then offered by W. H. WYCKOFF, and adopted:—

Resolved, That a secretary for the American Bible Union be appointed at the South, to locate in a place to be hereafter named, as previous to the war, there[illegible] that a connection with the South be k[illegible]

[illegible] Yeamans was elected for the office thus created.

The Secretary's report was read, reviewing the objects of the Union and its operations for the past year. The report quoted a statement of Dean Alford, of the English Church, that more than a thousand faulty translations were to be found in the Epistles alone and that the entire New Testament abounded with errors and imperfect renderings. Between 1525 and 1611 there had been seven translations or revisions of the English Bible, whereas since the latter date no revision has been made. The Union has recently issued a pamphlet entitled "Revision of the English Scriptures." A Chinese press has been established in San Francisco for biblical purposes, Bible primers have been largely circulated through the South, the Spanish Testament is receiving a large circulation in Spain, the Book of Exodus has been revised by Dr. Harckott, and the books of Judges and Ruth have been revised by Dr. Buss. The retranslation of the Psalms is being pressed forward, and rapid progress is making in the Chinese translations of the New Testament.

This report concluded the business of the day. In the evening, after the customary devotional exercises, a number of interesting addresses were delivered. The business session of the Union will be resumed this morning at ten o'clock.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Oct. 12.]

A terrible tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon in the southwestern part of the city, by which one life has already been sacrificed and another undoubtedly will be before the lapse of many hours. The scene of the affair was the residence of Francis Boraheimer, at Page and Webster streets. A young girl named Anna Wagner has resided with the family for some time. A man named Anthony Knette has also been employed by Mr. Boraheimer, in helping to take care of and hold possession of the lands occupied by him. Knette, it appears, formed an attachment for Miss Wagner some time ago, and desired to marry her. His feelings were not reciprocated and his offer was rejected. Miss Wagner's time with the family would have expired to-day, and she expected to have returned this morning to her father and sisters, who live on Garden street, between Sixth and Seventh, below Harrison. Her mother is dead. Yesterday she and Miss Boraheimer came to the city together and returned between three and four o'clock. During their absence, as was afterwards ascertained, Knette went to a trunk belonging to Mr. Boraheimer and took from it a loaded revolver. At about four o'clock Miss Wagner commenced packing up her clothing. Knette sat for a time on a pile of lumber near the house. He afterwards stepped to the door and called Miss Wagner out, telling her he wished to speak to her. Soon afterward Mrs. Boraheimer heard a noise, and on looking out saw Knette with a pistol in one hand while he had hold of the girl with the other. She said to the girl, "Don't be frightened, Anna; he won't shoot." Knette, on hearing this, turned, in a wild manner, toward Mrs. Boraheimer, and with coarse language threatened injury to her. Anna by this time relieved herself and started to run toward a neighboring house, but Knette quickly followed her and fired, and on nearly overtaking her fired three shots, each one of which took effect on the head. Two of the shots entered the left side of the head, back of the ear, and the left cheek. Two of the balls passed through the head. The unfortunate girl did not fall until after the third shot was fired. Knette, on seeing that his fiendish purpose was accomplished, placed the pistol to his head and shot himself in the forehead. Information was soon sent to the Coroner's office that the shooting had taken place and that both parties were dead. On the arrival of the men from the Coroner's office it was found that both were living. Knette was sent to the County Hospital. Miss Wagner lingered until about a quarter before eight o'clock, when she expired. It is said that Knette had, in the presence of others, threatened revenge some time ago, when Miss Wagner first refused to marry him. At a late hour last night Knette was still living, but his recovery was regarded as impossible.

[From the San Francisco Call, Oct. 12.]

Antone R. Knette, the murderer, and probably suicide, is a native of Boston, Mass., aged about thirty-five years, and by occupation a laborer. Anna Wagner, his victim, is a native of Williamsburg, N. Y., seventeen years of age, and of rather prepossessing appearance. The doctor made an examination and discovered that Miss Wagner had been wounded in the head on the left side, just above the ear, the ball entering a little behind her ear, and escaping near the temple. She had received another wound under the chin, the ball ranging upward. At six o'clock in the evening, when our reporter left, the young girl's brain was slowly oozing from the wounds in the left side of her head, and it was not expected that she would live through the night. Knette was found to have shot himself near the forehead. The ball passed through the cerebrum, inflicting a wound that will prove fatal. When Knette was picked up, by his side was found the weapon—a silver-mounted Colt's five-shooter—with which he had done the bloody work.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad vs. Harris, Error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia—Aldrich et al. vs. The Ætna Insurance Company, Error to the New York Court of Appeals.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1869.

No. 164.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company vs. Ellen T. Harris, Administratrix, &c.—This is a writ of error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. In July, 1865, John O. Harris, the intestate of the defendant in error, brought suit in the Supreme Court of the District against the railroad company to recover damages for injuries sustained by him in consequence of a collision between two trains of the road, on one of which he was a passenger, near Mannington, West Va., in October, 1864. The company pleaded to the jurisdiction of the court, claiming not to be liable to suit in the District and demurred to the plaintiff's replication to the plea. The demurrer was sustained at special term, but upon appeal to the general term the judgment was reversed and the company were directed to answer, which they did, pleading the general issue. The trial resulted in favor of Harris for the sum of $882 50. Appeal was again taken to the general term of the court, where the judgment was affirmed. The present writ of error was then sued out, the company contending that the legal entity or person, which exists by force of law, can have no existence beyond the limit of the State or sovereignty which brings it into life and endues it with its facilities and powers. And it is submitted that if a corporation can have no legal existence out of the boundaries of the sovereignty by which it is created and must dwell in the place of its creation, then their corporation cannot by possibility be an inhabitant of this District unless it can be shown that it has been incorporated by a law of Congress operating within the District. The only relation sustained to the District by the company is such as certain acts of Congress have permitted, those acts reciting the fact that the corporation was created by the Legislature of Maryland. It is insisted that it is not enough that the corporation shall be able to hold property in the District and control it by the acts of an agent, nor is it enough that it shall possess certain privileges and powers within the District which it may exercise by an agent. All this may be done as well on the theory that it is a non-resident as upon the theory that it is a resident. The stockholders and president and directors of the corporation cannot hold a corporate meeting outside the State of Maryland; and it is impossible that a corporation can be found within the District which is not, as such, capable in law of holding within the District a meeting of its officers and corporators. The defendant in error argues that under the judiciary act of 1789 the court of the District has cognizance of all cases, in law and equity, between parties, both or either of which shall be resident or found within it. The word "person" includes a corporation, an artificial person, such as the company in this case. The language of the charter of the company is recited to show that the company was a resident corporation, and found within the District at the time of the service of process. The charter granted by Maryland authorizes the construction of a road having two termini outside the boundaries of the State and beyond its jurisdiction. In execution of a general intention the company, immediately after obtaining their charter, applied to Congress and to the State of Virginia for authority to carry into effect the original purpose—the extension of the road within their separate jurisdictions. The acts of Congress and the statutes of Virginia show their assent, and the corporation accepted the privilege granted. The corporation within this District is in the exercise of a franchise by the assent of the sovereign power; a franchise which could exist if the charter of the company should be repealed by the State of Maryland; a franchise of which the sovereign power of that district cannot deprive it, unless by quo warranto or scire facias. The company may sue here by equity. It may sue here as a habitat. It may exercise here all the powers, franchises and privileges that it may within the State of Maryland. Being a habitat the company is estopped from denying its actual presence as an ideal person. The corporate powers conferred by the act of Congress by implication necessarily confer the correlative rights of suing and being sued. If it has the right to hold property, the right of defending and protecting its property by suit is but an incident to the right of ownership. The case is heard here on the question of jurisdiction reserved by an exception taken by the company to the ruling below. The answer, on the merits, was that the injuries to the plaintiff were not in consequence of any want of care or skill on the part of the road, its officers, agents or employés, but were owing to an inevitable accident, caused by the extraordinary pressure of government business upon the road in order to supply General Sheridan with requisite troops, munitions and materials of war in order to enable him to carry on what was known as his Valley campaign in the fall of 1864. Messrs. Bradley and Buchanan for plaintiff in error; T. J. D. Fuller and W. D. Davidge for defendant in error.

No. 165.—George Moltingly vs. John W. Nye, John C. Harkness and Others.—This is another appeal from the Supreme Court of the District. The appeal grows out of a bill in chancery filed by the appellant as a judgment creditor of Nye, one of the defendants, to declare fraudulent and void a voluntary conveyance made by Nye to Harkness, a trustee for the benefit of Nye's wife and children, who are made defendants, while he was largely indebted at the time to complainant. The complainant and defendant had many transactions for the loan of money to the defendant, and to secure the payment of which the defendant made several assignments of various claims he had against Congress for services performed, the defendant contending that those assignments were made in payment and satisfaction of the indebtedness, and the complainant denying it. A further defence of usury to the original indebtedness was set up in answer. Judgment below was for the defendants. It is insisted here that the defence of usury is purely personal and is not available to persons occupying the position of bona fide purchasers, for value, nor to heirs, sureties, devisees and representatives. The case upon the other points turns upon questions of fact, to be decided by the evidence in the case. W. S. Cox and S. L. Phillips for appellant, Joseph H. Bradley for appellee.

No. 159.—William Aldrich et al. vs. the Etna Insurance Company. Error to the New York Court of Appeals.—The plaintiffs in error in February, 1856, conveyed to one Jacobs the whole of the schooner Stella, and he, on the same day, executed a mortgage on her to secure part of the purchase money. She was, at the time of the mortgage, and before, a regularly enrolled and licensed vessel, and was at the same time, and up to the time of commencement of suit, engaged in business and commerce between ports and places in different States and Territories of the United States, upon the Western lakes and waters connecting them. At the date of the mortgage the schooner was lying in port, at Chicago, where her owner resided. On the 1st of March, 1856, she was insured by the defendant in error, at the request of Jacobs, and his promissory note was taken for the premium; and on the 22d of March permission was given to the assured to assign to the plaintiffs in error the policy of insurance, and it was endorsed on the policy that the assignment was made to secure, in case of loss of the schooner by any of the perils insured, the amount of the mortgage. In December of the same year the schooner, being at the port of Buffalo, was attached at the suit of the defendant in error as the property of Jacobs, a non-resident, to recover the amount of the premium note made for the insurance. Upon this statement of facts the Insurance Company claimed that the mortgage of the plaintiffs in error could not be set up as against the attachment, but was void as against it, and that they were entitled to judgment, declaring the lien of the attachment to be paramount to that of the mortgage; and upon the facts as stated an amicable suit was instituted under the statute, which was tried in the Superior Court of Buffalo, and resulted in favor of the company, sustaining their attachment lien. Upon appeal to the General Term of the Court the judgment was affirmed; and again an appeal to the Court of Appeals, the State courts appearing to have concurred in the view that the schooner was a domestic vessel belonging within the limits of the State of Illinois, and subject to her statutes, which were made to control the decision. The plaintiffs in error insist here that a mortgage executed to secure a part of the purchase money of an enrolled and licensed vessel under the laws of the United States and duly recorded according to act of Congress, is valid as against the creditors of the owner or subsequent grantees, without reference to State laws or limits. Such a vessel is a vessel of the United States and is subject exclusively to the laws of Congress. An enrolled American vessel does not belong to any State but to the territory of the United States, and is within the federal regulations of commerce under the constitution. Submitted in the printed points of Robert Rae, for plaintiffs in error; no appearance for defendant in error.

The following paragraph is furnished by Judge Paschal as a correction of the misstatement of the subject recently published in the case of Texas vs. George Peabody & Co., filed by Judge Paschal.

The facts charged are that in 1862 the Military Board of Texas appointed John M. Swisher to sell 300 of the Texas Indemnity bonds in Europe; that Droege & Co. were employed by Swisher to effect the sale; that 149 of these bonds were offered to George Peabody & Co., who detached the coupons and sent them to New York for redemption, concealing the fact that the bonds were not endorsed by the Governor of Texas; that these coupons were cashed by the Assistant Treasurer at New York on presentation by Dabney, Morgan & Co., whereupon George Peabody & Co. purchased the 149 bonds, but afterwards enjoined the money in the hands of Droege & Co., on the ground that the circular of Mr. Chase had given notice that these unendorsed bonds would not be paid; that in October, 1866, the bonds were redeemed and the money paid to Dabney, Morgan & Co. for George Peabody & Co.; that all the parties had notice of the necessity of the endorsement and of the rebel purposes for which the bonds were being used. The remaining 151 bonds are still in the hands of Droege & Co. The amount involved is $350,000 in gold. George Peabody & Co., Dabney, Morgan & Co. and Droege & Co. are made parties. The motion for process will be heard on Friday.

SOUTHWESTERN TRAGEDIES.

Bloody Affray on a Race Course—Two Men Killed and Three Wounded.

A bloody affray occurred at the race course near Berryville, Ala., on the 25th ult., of which the following extract from a private letter is an account:—

In Berryville about one o'clock on the 25th ult. a difficulty occurred between Elisha Bobo and Pleasant Farmer, in which Farmer attempted to shoot Bobo, but was prevented. Some of the parties then made a horse race and repaired to the tracks, two miles west of town, to run. After they arrived at the ground and cavilled some time, Abner H. Clayton and a man named Barger started to the other end of the tracks. After walking some fifty yards they turned and walked back to the crowd. Pleasant Farmer was standing there with his revolver in his hand, wanting to bet on the race. Clayton remarked that he had $100 in greenbacks that he would bet on the race, and immediately added that he would bet Farmer his rifle gun, which he held in his hand, against his navy. Farmer said "All right, put it up," and stood throwing his around in his hand by the handle. Clayton then cocked his gun and presented it to Farmer's breast, telling him to put up his pistol or he would blow his d——d heart out, saying that "was not the first time that pistol had been waved over him." Farmer then commenced returning his pistol into the scabbard.

About this time Bobo made some remarks to Jim Farmer, a son of Pleasant Farmer. Clayton then turned and said to Jim Farmer, "Have you got a pistol?" Jim was standing with a pistol in his right hand, but laying by his left side, in the crook of his left arm, and made no reply. Clayton thereupon presented his gun and said, "If you have a pistol show it, and I will blow your d——d heart out." Jim then patted his pistol with his left hand and said, "Here it is; you can see it." Clayton then snapped at Jim's breast, and immediately after Jim fired at him. When they first commenced firing they were within eight or ten feet of each other. After Jim fired the first shot he rushed upon Clayton and caught him with his left hand, and continued firing till Clayton fell. Clayton was shot once through the head and once through the body, either of them being a mortal wound. So soon as the first shot was fired the firing became general. Bobo was shot in the back, supposed to be by Ky Danley, and fell at the same time Clayton fell. Just in the act of falling, Bobo shot Pleas. Farmer in the left shoulder with eighteen buckshot, inflicting a dreadful wound, though he was still living when last heard from. Bobo was shot at the point of the left shoulder with a Remington ball. It came out about two inches above the right nipple. When he fell he caught on his hand and was lying with his head thrown back, apparently dying, when Jim Farmer turned upon him and said, "damn you, I'll finish you," and, placing his pistol against his left temple, shot him through the head.

In the meantime old man Barger was accidentally shot through the hand, losing one finger, and another man, whose name I do not remember, was slightly wounded in the back accidentally.

Clayton and Bobo were carried back to Berryville and buried, the latter with Masonic honors, as he was a member of the fraternity.

Ky Danley fled and went to Missouri, where he was arrested and placed in jail, in Galena, Stone county, Mo.

James Farmer and Thomas Farmer, another son of Pleas, were arrested. On the examination, Thos. Farmer was released, there being no proof against him. James Farmer was bound for his appearance at Circuit Court, in the sum of $600, for the murder of Bobo.

Sanguinary Battle in Tennessee—Several Persons Killed and Wounded.

[From the Memphis Avalanche, Oct. 16.]

On last Sunday night, in Lincoln county, in this State, was perpetrated one of those deeds of blood, the recital of which makes the hair stand on end. The tragedy originated, as many of them do, in women. The history of the event is peculiar. Two men, named Baugh and Holloway, belonging in Lincoln county, near Elk river, went into Alabama some months ago and took away a good looking, loose young woman named Pye. She lived in the neighborhood of Scrouge Church, in northern Alabama, and had been, in company with two others, great favorites with a circle of young scamps. Baugh and Holloway lured away Miss Pye from these young fellows, and brought her into the Pea Ridge section, where they trotted her round. The young fools of Scrouge Church cross roads were much incensed at the taking away of their favorite girl and vowed vengeance.

Three months passed and the affair was beginning to wear out of their minds, when the two men who had spirited away the woman Pye made their appearance again in the neighborhood of Scrouge Church. The young fellows became aware of the fact, and turning out in great force after dark they scoured the country and captured the two obnoxious chaps in a wood and whipped them severely and let them go. Of course this led to the cultivation of bad blood. Baugh and Holloway made the best of their way to Pea Ridge, and, placing themselves under the care of the girl Pye, she nursed them until their sores were healed over and they were again fit to go on the "warpath." They proceeded to the south bank of Elk river and commenced firing into the house of a person named Bledsoe, whose sons had taken part in the whipping. They peppered the house pretty freely and made things lively there for a time. Old Bledsoe returned the fire and compelled the besiegers to retreat. Finding they could do but little in that direction, they gave up the idea of inflicting punishment just then, but concluded to await another opportunity. On their way back they unfortunately encountered one of Bledsoe's men, and they immediately commenced operations upon him. Putting their pistols to his bosom, they compelled him to go on his knees and repeat after them the following formula:—

"I'm a lousy dog; I beg your pardon for taking part in the whipping in Daby's room; I have no claim to the girl Pye; she is too good for such as I; I promise never to have anything to do with her; I'm a mean cur and a son of a ——."

After this they let him go home. Some days afterwards both Baugh and Holloway got into company with a still hunter, a fellow who was acting as United States Revenue agent. They visited several places and drank freely, and in the night time, while riding through the woods shouting and cursing they found themselves in the neighborhood of Scrouge church and surrounded by a crowd of bushwhackers, who commenced firing on them. They returned the fire and for a few minutes the dark woods rang with the sound of cracking rifles and of human voices raised high in blasphemy. The firing lasted as long as there was ammunition, and when it was over it was found that Baugh and Holloway were shot—actually riddled with bullets—their horses pretty liberally perforated also, and the three United States men who were with them had their clothing holed, but escaped with whole hides. Besides these casualties there were four of the attacking party hurt by bullets also.

Another Desperate Fight in Tennessee—Two Men Killed.

[From the same paper.]

Civilized man is said to be a noble savage. It is true the instincts of eating and fighting are carried along, no matter how high he goes in civilization, and of course there were savage instincts held in common by the Hottentot and humanitarian, by the Dirt Eaters of South America and the Dry-as-Dusts of Boston, and by consequence by the whiskey drinking population of our remote villages.

An event that occurred at La Grange last Saturday illustrates the truth of this. Two gentlemen, named respectively Witherspoon and King, cherished a grudge and an ill feeling some months' growth in their bosoms, and they met on the above-named day, in the above named little town, as we are informed. Mean whiskey, of which there seems to be no lack anywhere, fanned the flames which glared in the rival breasts. They met at a barroom, and with that sinister leer upon each lip that tells at once of scorn, hate and bloody passion, they asked each other to drink, both thinking that the other would refuse, and thus furnish a pretext for beginning the scene. Neither refused; both drank. They drank again, and for a little time things appeared even to the predetermined pair that perhaps there would be no fight this time. They were, however, mistaken in that, for words of bitterness and recrimination came thick and fast from their maudlin mouths, and the fight began. It is represented as terrific. Both men drew their pistols simultaneously and fired on the instant. Witherspoon escaped unhurt, while King was shot through the stomach. Pistols were cocked again, and again King was shot through the arm, his own pistol missing fire. He, however, prepared his weapon and made a hasty attempt to fire it off, but it missed. He then slung it away and made a rush at Witherspoon. The latter stepped outside and fired again, but missed King and struck a young man named Branchford in the leg. King continued to advance upon Witherspoon, and, having forced him into a store, he knocked him down, wrenched the pistol from his hand and beat him over the face with it till his nose was broken in, the teeth all battered down his throat and his eyes gouged out. In fact, his face was a perfect jelly, and he was considered dead. By this time King was so far gone from the effect of his wounds that he fell back and fainted on the door, and Witherspoon lay like a corpse. The physicians say that both men must necessarily die from the fearful wounds they received.

DEPARTURE OF BISHOPS FOR ROME.

Bishops Ryan, of Buffalo, and McQuade, of Rochester, sailed in the Russia yesterday on their way to Rome. Father Hecker, of this city, accompanies them. The Tripoli, which sails to-day, will take out Archbishop Allemany, of San Francisco; Bishop O'Connell, of Marysville, Cal.; Bishop Williams, of Boston, and Fathers Quinn and Farrelly, of this city. Archbishop Allemany has been the guest of the Jesuit Fathers in Sixteenth street during the past few days. Among the prelates who will sail this week are Archbishop Kenrick, of St. Louis, and Bishop McGill, of Richmond. The bishops who sailed yesterday were escorted to the Cunard docks by Father McNulty, of Paterson; Father Cody, of Hackensack, and many other clergymen.

STATUE OF THE LATE HON. WILLIAM PITT FESSENDEN.—A proposition to erect a statue to the memory of the late Senator Fessenden has been broached. The Portland Press says there are thousands of men in Maine who will esteem it a privilege to contribute to a fund for that purpose, and the State, speaking through its Senators and Representatives, will not hesitate to appropriate sufficient to embody the sanction of the Commonwealth and enable all her sons and daughters, of every sect and creed and party, to feel that they have added their mite to an object so grand and praiseworthy.

THE ERIE STRIKE.

Work Resumed in the Shops—Nothing Accomplished by the Movement—Misguided Action—The Men Regretting Their Haste—Some of Them Out in the Cold—Full Details of the Affair.

The strike among the employés of the Erie Railroad machine shops terminated yesterday, the men signifying a desire to return to work. The movement seems to have been an ill-judged and hasty demonstration for the purpose of exhibiting the power of a labor union and carrying out a threat made some time ago to strike in the event of a certain contingency. The contingency was presented, but from causes wholly beyond the power of the company to control, and the union quit work in the shops without waiting to ascertain the reason for the trouble of which they complained, or making any effort to discover if the company was endeavoring to act in good faith. The strike has resulted in no good whatever except to illustrate the excesses into which salutary reforms are very apt to diverge, and has done much to lessen public sympathy with labor unions and their coercive measures.

THE STRIKERS

consisted only of machinists, blacksmiths and helpers, the boiler makers, foundrymen, car builders, carpenters and laborers not engaging in the movement at all. The three former classes in the shops at Jersey City, Port Jervis, Susquehanna, Buffalo and Dunkirk formed a union, called the Machinists' Protective Association, and which has been in existence a long time. Having a large and well regulated organization the society thought itself strong enough to acquaint the company of its existence, and in September gave notice through a committee to the directors that unless the men in the Port Jervis, Susquehanna and Buffalo shops were paid off on or before the 15th of each month they would strike. The committee was informed that their request would be complied with, and in the words of the secretary of the association, returned to their houses highly gratified with the result of the interview. There are many conflicting statements as to the exact manner in which the strike occurred, and for the purpose of ascertaining the opinions of both sides in the matter a HERALD reporter yesterday visited the headquarters and scene of action of some of the hostile parties. At the railroad shops in Jersey City everything seemed to be running along in the usual manner, with no indications of there being any dissatisfaction, and on finding the master machinist the reporter elicited the following

EXPLANATION OF THE STRIKE.

REPORTER—I have come to ascertain the facts in relation to the strike.

OFFICIAL—Ah! Very glad to see you. The affair has been very badly misrepresented. The strike didn't amount to much, and all the men are anxious to resume work. All have gone to work here except about forty, whom we will not take back.

REPORTER—How did the affair originate?

OFFICIAL—There was some misunderstanding about pay day, and the Machinists' Union gave notice that if all the employés were not paid off by the 15th they would strike. The men at Buffalo and Susquehanna were paid off on the 12th and 13th and the paymaster was on his way to Port Jervis to pay the men there, but was detained by the freshet. The Port Jervis men didn't wait to find out what was the matter, but quit work, and the members of the union in all the other shops of the road struck also as soon as they heard of the movement.

REPORTER—Did all the men in the shops strike?

OFFICIAL—No; only the machinists, blacksmiths and helpers. The carpenters, car builders, foundrymen, boiler makers and laborers had nothing to do with it. The Port Jervis machinists went off at half cock, and the machinists in the other shops, notwithstanding that they had been already paid, struck simply because the rules of their union required them to co-operate with any strike made by detached branches of the association.

REPORTER—Then Port Jervis was the only place where there was cause for complaint?

OFFICIAL—Precisely; and if those men had not been in such a hurry to parade themselves and had taken the trouble to make inquiry in the proper quarter they would have found that their pay was coming all right.

REPORTER—What is the present condition of affairs?

OFFICIAL—At Susquehanna, Buffalo and Dunkirk the men have all resumed work. Port Jervis still holds out, demanding a guarantee that the men shall be paid on a regularly appointed day. Here, in Jersey City, nearly all the men have gone to work again, and all of them would go if we would take them back. There were about forty of the leaders in the affair whom we have paid off up to the 15th, and with whom we will have nothing to do.

REPORTER—What is the intention of the company in the matter?

OFFICIAL—We intend to exclude the ringleaders in this strike from our shops, and if any other similar attempt is made the principals will be treated in a like manner. The strike was wholly without reason, and when men display such a headstrong and unjustifiable course we shall make no concessions nor compromises whatever. If the Port Jervis men go to work again the company will take care of them; but it is not to be intimidated by any combinations of workmen nor forced by strikes to grant favors.

REPORTER—Then you think the affair about ended?

OFFICIAL—Yes. The Port Jervis men are the only ones holding out, and I understand a large number of them are already willing to resume work. If they choose to stay out they can do so. Their places can be easily filled by other men, and their obstinacy is only making trouble for themselves.

THE MACHINIST'S STORY.

From the office of the master machinist our reporter proceeded to the shops and interrogated one of the leaders in the strike, with the following result:—

REPORTER—How are you getting along with your strike?

MACHINIST—It's about over now, I guess. Most all the men have gone to work.

REPORTER—What did you strike for?

MACHINIST—Well, you see our Union notified the directors that if all the shops were not paid off by the 15th of October we should strike. The Port Jervis men were not paid off, and when they struck the rest of our Union had to go with them.

REPORTER—How about the men being generally paid off before the 12th of each month, as some of the company's officers say has been done?

MACHINIST—It's not so. The men in the Port Jervis shops have never got their money before the 20th of the month. They didn't get their pay for August until the 28th of September, and in the preceding six months we never got our pay for one month until the 25th or 26th of the next. Here in Jersey City we were paid off on the 12th, but the others were not.

REPORTER—What do you think will be the result of the strike?

MACHINIST—Not much good to anybody. The Union don't hang together well enough, and now that nearly all the men have gone back to work there ain't any show at all for those who commenced and carried on the fight.

REPORTER—Do you regret that the strike was made?

MACHINIST—Yes. As it has turned out—the Port Jervis men were a little too hasty. They kicked up a muss when there was really no need for it, and have exasperated the company so that I expect that we will have to wait awhile before we get the evils complained of removed. We all want a regular pay-day, but the Union has been demoralized by its failure to hold out, and we must now take our chances for the best we can get. If the Port Jervis men had kept cool and waited a little I expect we could have got a first rate arrangement out of the company; but now we have showed our hand and our game is up, for the present, anyhow.

AT HEADQUARTERS,

in the Opera House, in Twenty-third street, the officials seemed to regard the affair as entirely settled. The interview with the Superintendent of the Erie road was short and sweet, and gave very little additional information, as will be seen by the following colloquy:—

REPORTER—Mr. Superintendent, have you anything new relating to the strike for the HERALD?

SUPERINTENDENT (very sneeringly)—No, sir; its all over and the men gone to work. If the newspapers would let our matters alone we would have a great deal less trouble.

REPORTER—Well, sir, if you make news, you must expect the papers to publish it; and if injustice has been done, now is your chance to correct the matter. Do you think the Port Jervis men will resume work immediately?

SUPERINTENDENT—Yes. The strike is played out. But what's the use of the papers meddling with it? They only make fools of the men, and incite just such movements in every department of business.

REPORTER—Well, I've nothing to do with that question; I am only in search of facts. Is there anything new whatever concerning the strike?

SUPERINTENDENT—Nothing except what I've told you. The men found their strike was a failure and are going to work again. Most of them will be taken back, but the leaders will not be employed again. We are disposed to deal fairly with our employés, and will do for them the best we can, but we are not to be dictated to by anybody.

BUFFALO MEN STILL OUT.

Somewhat different from the above is the statement made in the following despatch received last night:—

BUFFALO, Oct. 20, 1869.

The despatch from New York this morning stating that the Buffalo workmen had resumed work on the Erie Railway is not true. They have no idea of resuming until a regular pay day is guaranteed.

SOUTH AMERICA.

THE POSITION OF LOPEZ.

The Allied Army Abandons the Pursuit.

Affairs in the Argentine Republic.

The steamship South America, Captain Tinklepaugh, from Rio Janeiro the 23d ult., arrived at this port yesterday afternoon. She brings mails up to date of sailing.

THE PARAGUAYAN WAR.

Prospects of the War—Enormous Expenses—Lopez and His Position—Provision Made for His Retreat—The Provisional Government and Its Embarrassments.

[From the Anglo-Brazilian Times, Sept. 23.]

The termination of the war still appears as far off as ever, Lopez having escaped, with men and cannon, to the mountains, where, it is said by well informed persons, he can command abundance of food, and is likely to be materially aided by the Indians, for whose organization he three months ago made provision.

Thus the heavy expenses of this never-ending war must still go on, and will probably increase with the carrying on of operations 150 miles inland, amid the great Cordilleras of Paraguay; for if the Comte d'Eu with all his energy, found it a most arduous task, though aided by the railway, to supply his troops before Ascurra, what difficulties must he not encounter in the new campaign!

The provisional government also brings with it a heavy cost, and every man, woman and child of the pauperized and starving refugees who have collected around the capital has to be supported at the allied cost, for other resource there is none, no industry existing, and no crops being possible for many months. As over 100,000 such helpless persons threw themselves, in August alone, according to official statements, upon the allied humanity, about $109,000 a day has to be distributed in rations, and thus the monthly war expenditure of Brazil has reached £1,500,000.

How this great outlay is to be met no one can say. The treasury has long been in a chronic state of exhaustion, and for some time all the gold and exchange taken by the government has been purchased with treasury bills, until the mass of these in circulation has already risen to the enormous sum of $55,000,000.

No one, it is said, views the financial difficulties of the country with more alarm than the Minister of Finance himself, who, the tears standing in his eyes, laments among his colleagues the impossibility of amelioration while this exhaustive war continues. And, we may ask, what is to be the end if Lopez is to be driven, each time at the cost of millions, from each of the multitude of mountain and forest dens the nature of the country and the apparently inexhaustible devotion of the people facilitate to him?

Even had the Minister of Finance only to deal with the closing of the accounts of a terminated war he might well shrink from the herculean task; what then is to be the case if this spending of four times the annual revenue is still to go on for unprofitable, nay ruinous warfare?

The Abandonment of the Pursuit of Lopez—He is Let Alone—Number of Followers Around Him.

[From the Anglo-Brazilian Times, Sept. 23.]

From the seat of war we learn of no further engagement since that of the 21st of August, when the Argentines cut up a force of 403 Paraguayans twenty miles beyond Caraguatay. After this action the pursuit of Lopez's forces was abandoned in consequence of the horses being exhausted in traversing the flooded and muddy terrain, and of the troops being without food, and the different army corps reunited at Caraguatay to recruit.

As Lopez had succeeded in escaping with forces variously estimated at from 2,000 to 5,000 men and ten to twenty cannon, and was believed to have gone northward to the department of Izidro, in which cattle are still abundant, and the Indians are supposed to be friendly to him, a corps was about to be sent to Rosario to act from that place, and another corps was going to Villa Rica.

Some of the authorities have sent in their adhesion to the provisional government, among whom, it is reported, the Villa Rica ones are numbered, and over 100,000 Paraguayans, chiefly women, children and old men, have come in. Unfortunately, they being utterly destitute and the provisional government being entirely without means, they have to be supported by the allies.

URUGUAY.

Arrival of Refugees from the Seat of War—Their Condition—Business Affairs—[illegible]

Mo[illegible]video, Sept. 14, 1869.

The Guale[illegible] arrived on Sunday evening, bringing [illegible] number of wounded from Paraguay, who arrived in the most pitiable condition. We have nothing later from the seat of war, and the allies seem to have stopped short in their pursuit of Lopez. The State of Asuncion is quite shocking for want of sanitary measures. We hear news of Lopez having shot the Swedish savant Everhard Monck, without any cause assigned.

In Buenos Ayres every one is preparing for the census, which is to begin to-morrow, the day being for that day declared a public holiday.

Money rules at 8 to 12 per cent. Exchange on England is weaker and may be quoted at 48s. 7d. National bonds look upward, as many people are buying now to sell after the dividend of 30th instant. Argentine Bank shares rose to 7 premium, but there was a sale to-day of 50 shares at 6. There are no transactions in gas or bolsa shares, but we note a sale of $5,000 of the roads and bridges stock at 62½. Dry goods merchants note a remarkable improvement and much activity, owing to the number of buyers from the upper provinces. In produce there is much demand for sheepskins. The Americans now buy as well as the French, and good skins are worth up to $150 per dozen. The price of fat sheep is also much advanced. Some animals, preserved whole and packed in ice, will be sent to England, per next steamer for London, on the 17th inst. We have had heavy rains, which will be of great benefit to the camps.

The most important news of a commercial character is the arrangement concluded between Baron Maua and the Montevidean government. The government has assumed the whole Maua currency in circulation, amounting to $5,600,000, receiving in payment of same an equivalent amount of bonds and other securities. The balance of assets coming to the bank after this arrangement amounted to nearly nine millions. So satisfactory a result surprised everybody. The government ordering the burning of all the securities given out by Maua has caused some uneasiness among the commercial public. It is said the Baron will wind up the Montevidean house and fix his headquarters in Buenos Ayres.

THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

Industrial Improvements—The Veto Power and How Interpreted—Affairs in the Interior—Big Colonization Scheme—Information About Lopez—News from Uruguay.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 12, 1869.

The question as to whether the national or provincial government was to have the honor of constructing a port for Buenos Ayres was finally settled in the Provincial House of Representatives, on the 3d inst. After some discussion the project was carried by 21 votes against 5, which authorizes the executive power to construct docks, warehouses and such works as may be deemed necessary for bettering the import and export trades in our port. The executive power is also authorized to appropriate for this object the funds and resources of the province. The works are to be commenced within twelve months. The settlement of this project has given general satisfaction. As things now stand, leaving out of consideration the dangers which vessels run in the outer roads, it costs more to load or unload a cargo than its carriage to or from England.

On the same day as the port project was settled a great sensation was created by the message of the President vetoing the bill on intervention. The conduct of the President in this affair, as well as in many others, by the by, is criticised most severely by the opposition papers. The independent way of thinking and acting which Sarmiento learned during his stay in the United States is quite at variance with all South American notions of good government. So that the vetoing of a bill passed by Congress and other similar actions of President Sarmiento, which appear to us most reasonable and constitutional, are explained by them as preliminaries towards gaining absolute power. The Republica, which is the leading opposition paper here, openly accuses Sarmiento in nearly every issue of aiming at that power which so many despots have enjoyed in this country, and calls upon all good citizens to stand against it now instead of leaving it till it is too late. But the worst of it is that all good citizens are so contented with the government of "The Schoolmaster," and so confiding in his patriotism and nobleness, that they don't care to listen to the Republica's call to arms.

The national executive power has recently promulgated the law of Congress, declaring all the materials introduced to this country for the construction of railways, tramways, &c., free from all import duties. A letter of General Taboada, published in the Eco of Cordoba, would lead us to infer that he is not likely to create any more disturbances. This triumph of Sarmiento over one of the most powerful chiefs of the provinces shows federalism is a reality in the republic, and not only a sham, as before; and that the time has now passed for our provincial governors to lay siege to our capital on any pretext that might have suggested itself to them. The curse of all the South American republics has been this petty chieftainship and their remarkable instinct for making war one upon the other, just as we see it in Mexico at present. And if we have at last succeeded in throwing this curse off from our fair country we may look on to a prosperity unequalled even in the history of the United States.

A most extensive scheme of colonization was lately presented to Congress by Messrs. B. Rulrich and J. Ballot Garnay. These gentlemen engage to introduce, at their own expense, 20,000 families of agriculturists, each family averaging five persons, in the course of eight years, and settle them in the Gran Chaco. Each family on its arrival will be supplied with materials for constructing a house, farming implements, seed, four bullocks, two cows and provisions for a year; these things to be advanced to the colonists as loans payable within five years. The families will establish themselves on an area of 600 square leagues, having for its limits the northern extremity of Santa Fé as far as the Rio Vermejo. In return for the advantages which will accrue to the republic from the success of this enterprise the undertakers ask of the government 200 square leagues of the above mentioned 600, and a payment of seventy-five dollars for each family, which must be paid after the arrival of each immigrant ship. And, in order to do away with any misapprehension as to the seriousness of their proposal, they offer to deposit a guarantee of $50,000 in public funds. Very little is actually known of the Gran Chaco, more than that it is a vast tract of land, well covered with woods. Many say that it also contains an abundance of mineral wealth. Should this project succeed it will create a new province and add immensely to the wealth of the nation.

The news from Paraguay that has reached here since the departure of the last packet is not of much importance. A letter, dated Asuncion, August 28, gives an account of a small skirmish which took place between the allies and the rear guard of Lopez's retreating columns, in which the allies succeeded in killing to a man a small force of Paraguayans which had charge of some wagons loaded with ammunition and Madame Lynch's baggage. The commanding officer was Colonel Thompson, who alone succeeded in escaping to the neighboring woods; but was obliged by hunger to deliver himself up to the Brazilians. Lopez has made his escape to the Sierra Aldaum, where he is said to be again fortifying himself. His true strength and resources, of course, are not known. The allies say he has no more than 2,000 men, but that these are picked, being "The President's Life Guard." He has also fifteen field pieces with a good supply of ammunition.

The allies have come to a standstill at Caraguatay, which is some 100 miles from Asuncion, quite unable to proceed any further, owing to the bogs and morasses on the way. Nevertheless Count d'Eu seems very desirous to close the campaign as soon as possible. He has sent down here for more horses in order to make sure of his game.

The private letters which come down from Paraguay give the saddest pictures imaginable of the misery of those who have been confined in the mountains by Lopez, who are seen by the thousands, emaciated and naked, coming from their mountain prisons in search of something to sustain life. But what particularly strikes us in the sad picture is the description of the prisoners which were lately taken by the allies. The greater part of them are mere boys, many not being over eight years of age. And when we are told that these mere children are covered with wounds, which they received while fighting like young tigers against the enemies of their country, we cannot but reflect upon the awful power which Lopez had and has still over his people.

The site for the Cordova Exhibition has been selected, and the plan of the building drawn up by Major Rickard, had been approved. The materials will be exported from the States. The time for its opening has been finally fixed for November, 1870. The national government, by decree of the 25th of August, has ratified the regulations drawn up by the committee of directors, all particulars concerning which may be had by consulting Dr. Don Manuel Garcia, the Argentine Minister at Washington.

The chief news from the neighboring republic of Uruguay is the settlement of the money question between Baron Maua and the government, the basis of which are that the Maua Bank pay the government in public funds valued at the price of amortization. The total emission to be redeemed is $5,000,000, which will leave about $900,000 in securities to be returned to the bank by the government.

There has been no improvement in trade here since the departure of the last mail. Imports continue dull and freights unchanged. The money market is also about the same. Good paper can easily be discounted at from eight to twelve per cent. The late speculations in the bond market have quieted down, but the public securities remain steady at about 61½ a 62.

The business of mutton tallow is increasing so rapidly as to indicate that the estancieros intend to melt down nearly all their sheep. The sales for the fortnight exceed 5,000 pipes, and hundreds will be killing much more largely in a month or two. Sheep skins are also rising, as the Americans have lately become buyers.

ST. DOMINGO.

Feeling Regarding the United States—The Question of Annexation—An Appeal.

ST. DOMINGO, Oct. 8, 1869.

President Grant and the NEW YORK HERALD have each had their special agent in this field expressly to study and learn for the benefit of their respective constituents the fitness of this island for the manifest destiny of annexation. The HERALD is likely to come out first in this race for information, for it has had a triple set of agents on its Antilles staff, and the errors or losses of any one of the members will surely be corrected on a general comparing of notes.

The summary of Dominican ripeness for annexation can be given in these words, "ready and eager;" but behind this all but universal desire to enter the Union lingers a painful fear that Congress might refuse to receive the State of St. Domingo. If the Dominicans should have presented their country at the door only to be refused admission the popular reaction against those who had promoted the proffer would be tremendous. Baez and his party would be swept out of power, and the black majority would be strongly tempted to leave behind them their cherished landmark of "equality of races before the law" and join the Cacos of Hayti in asserting that it belongs to the negroes alone to govern this island. That feeling is dying out everywhere and nothing could rekindle this old antagonism of race except the misfortune of being ignominiously rejected after having been persuaded to solicit admission into the Union. This view of our position seems entirely ignored in the United States. The press cannot understand and accept this true and simple explanation of the reticence of Baez and his Cabinet on the question of annexation; but it is the true and only obstacle. The agents of the HERALD have traversed the island from end to end and this fact met them everywhere. High and low, black and white made no secret of their desire for annexation; but one and all said the invitation must come from the United States.

If Congress and the Washington Cabinet desire this island they have but to say so, and it is theirs on their own terms. Congress has but to pass an act authorizing the President to receive and protect the State of St. Domingo whenever a majority of two-thirds of her adult population shall declare, by public and open vote, the desire of the Dominicans to be so received, and shall present a State constitution in accordance with the constitution of the United States, and the thing is done. This is the sure and simple way. It turns the dark clouds of possible rejection into the sunshine of perfect confidence. The Union is strong and can afford to be generous. The world understands the position and national status of the Washington Cabinet, and graciousness will become its strength better than pride. The strong brother, conscious of the power of his vigorous manhood, should not say to his infant sister:—"There is a priceless treasure on that surf-bound rock of the ocean. I cannot take the labor and risk of going for it. I am so rich and strong that I can live very well without it; but you, my little sister, need it very much. Throw yourself, therefore, in the breakers, and if you bring it to me I will give you a share of it." The poor little sister hesitates and lovingly appeals to the generosity of her strong elder brother. "We are the children of one mother, only I am yet a feeble child and you have grown to be a giant, yet our common mother, pure and gentle Freedom, touched both our infant brows with a like unction of baptism—the blood of our fathers; blood freely given that you and I, the strong giant and his feeble sister, might not wear the chains of slavery; that we and our children's children might go on ennobling our stature and ever making broader and more beautiful our mother's house, your American system and mine also. Give me your hand, therefore, my brother; lend me your brave arm and generous will, and let us win this island treasure in union, and once safely within the stronghold of the American system you shall dispose of it at your own will."

The inexperienced child would be overwhelmed and lost in this surf, which is but a pleasant excitement to the vigorous and practised strength of her powerful brother; but will that giant brother, who is "rich enough without it," put out his hand to bring the island treasure into a safe haven? Or will he insist that the weak, inexpert sister shall brave all the perils of bringing it to him, and then meet, perhaps, the fatal humiliation of being told the gift is not wanted and that closer family ties will not be admitted?

We know here that Samaná was twice refused at Washington, that Cuba has had the rivets of her chains kept firm in Spanish keeping for twenty years by United States assistance; that even royal Denmark could not get the St. Thomas sale ratified, and that imperial Russia had to lavish golden persuasions to make her cession of Alaska binding. How, then, can St. Domingo, who has no royal or imperial godfathers to protect her, who must rely entirely and implicitly upon the will of a yet silent Congress, be sure that she will not be abandoned in the breakers in her hour of supreme need?

There is but one answer; there can be but one remedy. The generosity of the Union must be in proportion to its power. It must say, "Fear not, my little sister, you are ours and we will protect you. Here is your place by the side of your elder sisters, come and take it." Let Congress say that word, and without hesitation and without conditions St. Domingo will instantly, joyfully raise the flag and set a bright sentinel star in the constellation of the United States.

CENTRAL ASIA.

The Russian Advance—Native Princes in Prison—Fighting in Bokhara.

CALCUTTA, India, August 30, 1869.

The news of the latest discussion in the British Parliament about the Russian advance in Central Asia towards India has roused the Indian press from one end of the country to the other for a general onslaught upon the unhappy orators who took part in the debate. The worst of the matter is that the suggestion of Mr. Grant Duff that the Ameer of Afghanistan "has two hands," implying that, while accepting a subsidy from the Indian government, he takes bribes also from the Russians, will be certainly reported to the accused himself, and will probably result in his acting as Mr. Duff has supposed he would. The Indian government have already given him sixty lacs of rupees ($300,000), and the dissensions in his kingdom will probably now afford him an excuse for demanding more.

The two younger brothers of Ismail Khan have arrived at Lahore, and are confined in the fort. They are described as being mere children, and the government will have to appoint some one to carry on their education.

Sirdar Ismail Khan himself has not been heard of since his escape, but he is believed to be in hiding somewhere between Khorrum and Cabul. He will probably be heard from only too soon.

The Shah of Persia has agreed to receive Sirdar Ishank Khan on condition that he makes no further attempt against the Ameer.

In Bokhara there has again been fighting between the King and his son, the Ameer Toorajan, at Charjoce; but the King has for once been victorious. His son is followed by all the fanatical inhabitants of the cities, and especially of Bokhara itself, and his avowed object is to drive the Russians from every corner of the country and to prevent the King having any dealings with them, diplomatically or otherwise. In the last martial dispute between the King and his son the former had to call in the Russians to protect him, and it is not impossible that he may ultimately have to do so again. The country people are reported to care little whether they are governed by the Russians or a King under Russian influence, or by the Ameer; they are only anxious for quiet and order.

THE AMERICAN BIBLE UNION.

Twentieth Anniversary—Interesting Proceedings.

The American Bible Union, an incorporated association, organized to effect a reform in the faulty translation of the Holy Scriptures, and to aid in the dissemination of the Bible throughout the world, held the first meeting of its twentieth annual session yesterday and last evening in the Mariners' Temple Baptist church, corner of Henry and Oliver streets.

The morning session was called to order at half-past ten o'clock, and in the absence of the president, Dr. Armitage, the chair was occupied by Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, the vice president. After the usual devotional exercises and the approval of the report of the Committee on Order of Business the election of officers for the ensuing year was proceeded with, which resulted in the re-election of the present board, consisting of Rev. T. Armitage, D. D., President; Rev. Thomas D. Anderson, Vice President; Eleazer Parmly, Treasurer; H. F. Smith, Secretary, and J. T. Smith, Auditor.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. W. H. WYCKOFF to amend the constitution by making the Executive Committee consist of forty-two instead of twenty-seven members, for the purpose of adding lay members, instead of confining the committee exclusively to the clergy. After some debate the amendment was adopted.

The report of the Treasurer, Mr. G. B. Brass, was read, and showed disbursements to the extent of $61,715, and receipts amounting to $58,363. Among the leading expenses the item of officers' salaries reached $5,589; salaries and expenses of agents, $9,727; the Bible House account, $6,419; grants and donations, $9,134; revision of English Scriptures, $7,691, and translation of Chinese Scriptures $2,059. Among the receipts were a bequest from the late Harvey Edwards, of Fayetteville, N. Y., of $400, and one-half of their respective estates, upon the deaths of their widows, from John Naylor, of Halifax, N. S.; Moses Allen, of Northville, Mich., and W. E. McIntosh, of Philadelphia.

The following resolution was then offered by W. H. WYCKOFF, and adopted:—

Resolved, That a secretary for the American Bible Union be appointed at the South, to locate in a place to be hereafter named, as previous to the war there [illegible] connection it is deemed advantageous [illegible] with the South be [illegible]

[illegible] Teamans was elected for the office thus created.

The Secretary's report was read, reviewing the objects of the Union and its operations for the past year. The report quoted a statement of Dean Alford, of the English Church, that more than a thousand faulty translations were to be found in the Epistles alone and that the entire New Testament abounded with errors and imperfect renderings. Between 1525 and 1611 there had been seven translations or revisions of the English Bible, whereas since the latter date no revision has been made. The Union has recently issued a pamphlet entitled "Revision of the English Scriptures." A Chinese press has been established in San Francisco for biblical purposes, Bible primers have been largely circulated through the South, the Spanish Testament is receiving a large circulation in Spain, the Book of Exodus has been revised by Dr. Harckott, and the books of Judges and Ruth have been revised by Dr. Bliss. The retranslation of the Psalms is being pressed forward, and rapid progress is making in the Chinese translations of the New Testament.

This report concluded the business of the day. In the evening, after the customary devotional exercises, a number of interesting addresses were delivered. The business session of the Union will be resumed this morning at ten o'clock.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, Oct. 12.]

A terrible tragedy occurred yesterday afternoon in the southwestern part of the city, by which one life has already been sacrificed and another undoubtedly will be before the lapse of many hours. The scene of the affair was the residence of Francis Borahelmer, at Page and Webster streets. A young girl named Anna Wagner has resided with the family for some time. A man named Anthony Knette has also been employed by Mr. Borahelmer, in helping to take care of and hold possession of the lands occupied by him. Knette, it appears, formed an attachment for Miss Wagner some time ago, and desired to marry her. His feelings were not reciprocated and his offer was rejected. Miss Wagner's time with the family would have expired to-day, and she expected to have returned this morning to her father and sisters, who live on Garden street, between Sixth and Seventh, below Harrison. Her mother is dead. Yesterday she and Miss Borahelmer came to the city together and returned between three and four o'clock. During their absence, as was afterwards ascertained, Knette went to a trunk belonging to Mr. Borahelmer and took from it a loaded revolver. At about four o'clock Miss Wagner commenced packing up her clothing. Knette sat for a time on a pile of lumber near the house. He afterwards stepped to the door and called Miss Wagner out, telling her he wished to speak to her. Soon afterward Mrs. Borahelmer heard a noise, and on looking out saw Knette with a pistol in one hand while he had hold of the girl with the other. She said to the girl, "Don't be frightened, Anna; he won't shoot." Knette, on hearing this, turned, in a wild manner, toward Mrs. Borahelmer, and with coarse language threatened injury to her. Anna by this time relieved herself and started to run toward a neighboring house, but Knette quickly followed her and fired, and on nearly overtaking her fired three shots, each one of which took effect on the head. Two of the shots entered the left side of the head, back of the ear, and the left cheek. Two of the balls passed through the head. The unfortunate girl did not fall until after the third shot was fired. Knette, on seeing that his fiendish purpose was accomplished, placed the pistol to his head and shot himself in the forehead. Information was soon sent to the Coroner's office that the shooting had taken place and that both parties were dead. On the arrival of the men from the Coroner's office it was found that both were living. Knette was sent to the County Hospital. Miss Wagner lingered until about a quarter before eight o'clock, when she expired. It is said that Knette had, in the presence of others, threatened revenge some time ago, when Miss Wagner first refused to marry him. At a late hour last night Knette was still living, but his recovery was regarded as impossible.

[From the San Francisco Call, Oct. 12.]

Antone R. Knette, the murderer, and probably suicide, is a native of Boston, Mass., aged about thirty-five years, and by occupation a laborer. Anna Wagner, his victim, is a native of Williamsburg, N. Y., seventeen years of age, and of rather prepossessing appearance. The doctor made an examination and discovered that Miss Wagner had been wounded in the head on the left side, just above the ear, the ball entering a little behind her ear, and escaping near the temple. She had received another wound under the chin, the ball ranging upward. At six o'clock in the evening, when our reporter left, the young girl's brain was slowly oozing from the wounds in the left side of her head, and it was not expected that she would live through the night. Knette was found to have shot himself near the forehead. The ball passed through the cerebrum, inflicting a wound that will prove fatal. When Knette was picked up, by his side was found the weapon—a silver-mounted Colt's five-shooter—with which he had done the bloody work.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad vs. Harris, Error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia—Aldrich et al. vs. The Ætna Insurance Company, Error to the New York Court of Appeals.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1869.

No. 164.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company vs. Ellen T. Harris, Administratrix, &c.—This is a writ of error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. In July, 1865, John O. Harris, the intestate of the defendant in error, brought suit in the Supreme Court of the District against the railroad company to recover damages for injuries sustained by him in consequence of a collision between two trains of the road, on one of which he was a passenger, near Mannington, West Va., in October, 1864. The company pleaded to the jurisdiction of the court, claiming not to be liable to suit in the District and demurred to the plaintiff's replication to the plea. The demurrer was sustained at special term, but upon appeal to the general term the judgment was reversed and the company were directed to answer, which they did, pleading the general issue. The trial resulted in favor of Harris for the sum of $882 50. Appeal was again taken to the general term of the court, where the judgment was affirmed. The present writ of error was then sued out, the company contending that the legal entity or person, which exists by force of law, can have no existence beyond the limit of the State or sovereignty which brings it into life and endues it with its facilities and powers. And it is submitted that if a corporation can have no legal existence out of the boundaries of the sovereignty by which it is created and must dwell in the place of its creation, then their corporation cannot by possibility be an inhabitant of this District unless it can be shown that it has been incorporated by a law of Congress operating within the District. The only relation sustained to the District by the company is such as certain acts of Congress have permitted, those acts reciting the fact that the corporation was created by the Legislature of Maryland. It is insisted that it is not enough that the corporation shall be able to hold property in the District and control it by the acts of an agent, nor is it enough that it shall possess certain privileges and powers within the District which it may exercise by an agent. All this may be done as well on the theory that it is a non-resident as upon the theory that it is a resident. The stockholders and president and directors of the corporation cannot hold a corporate meeting outside the State of Maryland; and it is impossible that a corporation can be found within the District which is not, as such, capable in law of holding within the District a meeting of its officers and corporators. The defendant in error argues that under the judiciary act of 1789 the court of the District has cognizance of all cases, in law and equity, between parties, both or either of which shall be resident or found within it. The word "person" includes a corporation, an artificial person, such as the company in this case. The language of the charter of the company is recited to show that the company was a resident corporation, and found within the District at the time of the service of process. The charter granted by Maryland authorizes the construction of a road having two termini outside the boundaries of the State and beyond its jurisdiction. In execution of a general intention the company, immediately after obtaining their charter, applied to Congress and to the State of Virginia for authority to carry into effect the original purpose—the extension of the road within their separate jurisdictions. The acts of Congress and the statutes of Virginia show their assent, and the corporation accepted the privilege granted. The corporation within this District is in the exercise of a franchise by the assent of the sovereign power; a franchise which could exist if the charter of the company should be repealed by the State of Maryland; a franchise of which the sovereign power of that district cannot deprive it, unless by quo warranto or scire facias. The company may sue here by equity. It may sue here as a habitant. It may exercise here all the powers, franchises and privileges that it may within the State of Maryland. Being a habitat the company is estopped from denying its actual presence as an ideal person. The corporate powers conferred by the act of Congress by implication necessarily confer the correlative rights of suing and being sued. If it has the right to hold property, the right of defending and protecting its property by suit is but an incident to the right of ownership. The case is heard here on the question of jurisdiction reserved by an exception taken by the company to the ruling below. The answer, on the merits, was that the injuries to the plaintiff were not in consequence of any want of care or skill on the part of the road, its officers, agents or employés, but were owing to an inevitable accident, caused by the extraordinary pressure of government business upon the road in order to supply General Sheridan with requisite troops, munitions and materials of war in order to enable him to carry [illegible] was known as his Valley campaign in the fall of 1864. Messrs. Bradley and Buchanan for plaintiff in error; T. J. D. Fuller and W. D. Davidge for defendant in error.

No. 165.—George Mottingly vs. John W. Nye, John C. Harkness and Others.—This is another appeal from the Supreme Court of the District. The appeal grows out of a bill in chancery filed by the appellant as a judgment creditor of Nye, one of the defendants, to declare fraudulent and void a voluntary conveyance made by Nye to Harkness, a trustee for the benefit of Nye's wife and children, who are made defendants, while he was largely indebted at the time to complainant. The complainant and defendant had many transactions for the loan of money to the defendant, and to secure the payment of which the defendant made several assignments of various claims he had against Congress for services performed, the defendant contending that those assignments were made in payment and satisfaction of the indebtedness, and the complainant denying it. A further defence of usury to the original indebtedness was set up in answer. Judgment below was for the defendants. It is insisted here that the defence of usury is purely personal and is not available to persons occupying the position of bona fide purchasers, for value, nor to heirs, sureties, devisees and representatives. The case upon the other points turns upon questions of fact, to be decided by the evidence in the case. W. S. Cox and S. L. Phillips for appellant, Joseph H. Bradley for appellee.

No. 159.—William Aldrich et al. vs. the Etna Insurance Company. Error to the New York Court of Appeals.—The plaintiffs in error in February, 1856, conveyed to one Jacobs the whole of the schooner Stella, and he, on the same day, executed a mortgage on her to secure part of the purchase money. She was, at the time of the mortgage, and before, a regularly enrolled and licensed vessel, and was at the same time, and up to the time of commencement of suit, engaged in business and commerce between ports and places in different States and Territories of the United States, upon the Western lakes and waters connecting them. At the date of the mortgage the schooner was lying in port, at Chicago, where her owner resided. On the 1st of March, 1856, she was insured by the defendant in error, at the request of Jacobs, and his promissory note was taken for the premium; and on the 22d of March permission was given to the assured to assign to the plaintiffs in error the policy of insurance, and it was endorsed on the policy that the assignment was made to secure, in case of loss of the schooner by any of the perils insured, the amount of the mortgage. In December of the same year the schooner, being at the port of Buffalo, was attached at the suit of the defendant in error as the property of Jacobs, a non-resident, to recover the amount of the premium note made for the insurance. Upon this statement of facts the Insurance Company claimed that the mortgage of the plaintiffs in error could not be set up as against the attachment, but was void as against it, and that they were entitled to judgment, declaring the lien of the attachment to be paramount to that of the mortgage; and upon the facts as stated an amicable suit was instituted under the statute, which was tried in the Superior Court of Buffalo, and resulted in favor of the company, sustaining their attachment lien. Upon appeal to the General Term of the Court the judgment was affirmed; and again an appeal to the Court of Appeals, the State courts appearing to have concurred in the view that the schooner was a domestic vessel belonging within the limits of the State of Illinois, and subject to her statutes, which were made to control the decision. The plaintiffs in error insist here that a mortgage executed to secure a part of the purchase money of an enrolled and licensed vessel under the laws of the United States and duly recorded according to act of Congress, is valid as against the creditors of the owner or subsequent grantees, without reference to State laws or limits. Such a vessel is a vessel of the United States and is subject exclusively to the laws of Congress. An enrolled American vessel does not belong to any State but to the territory of the United States, and is within the federal regulations of commerce under the constitution. Submitted in the printed points of Robert Rae, for plaintiffs in error; no appearance for defendant in error.

The following paragraph is furnished by Judge Paschal as a correction of the misstatement of the subject recently published in the case of Texas vs. George Peabody & Co., filed by Judge Paschal.

The facts charged are that in 1862 the Military Board of Texas appointed John M. Swisher to sell 300 of the Texas Indemnity bonds in Europe; that Droege & Co. were employed by Swisher to effect the sale; that 149 of these bonds were offered to George Peabody & Co., who detached the coupons and sent them to New York for redemption, concealing the fact that the bonds were not endorsed by the Governor of Texas; that these coupons were cashed by the Assistant Treasurer at New York on presentation by Dabney, Morgan & Co., whereupon George Peabody & Co. purchased the 149 bonds, but afterwards enjoined the money in the hands of Droege & Co., on the ground that the circular of Mr. Chase had given notice that these unendorsed bonds would not be paid; that in October, 1866, the bonds were redeemed and the money paid to Dabney, Morgan & Co. for George Peabody & Co.; that all the parties had notice of the necessity of the endorsement and of the rebel purposes for which the bonds were being used. The remaining 151 bonds are still in the hands of Droege & Co. The amount involved is $350,000 in gold. George Peabody & Co., Dabney, Morgan & Co. and Droege & Co. are made parties. The motion for process will be heard on Friday.

SOUTHWESTERN TRAGEDIES.

Bloody Affray on a Race Course—Two Men Killed and Three Wounded.

A bloody affray occurred at the race course near Berryville, Ala., on the 25th ult., of which the following extract from a private letter is an account:—

In Berryville about one o'clock on the 25th ult. a difficulty occurred between Elisha Bobo and Pleasant Farmer, in which Farmer attempted to shoot Bobo, but was prevented. Some of the parties then made a horse race and repaired to the tracks, two miles west of town, to run. After they arrived at the ground and cavilled some time, Abner H. Clayton and a man named Barger started to the other end of the tracks. After walking some fifty yards they turned and walked back to the crowd. Pleasant Farmer was standing there with his revolver in his hand, wanting to bet on the race. Clayton remarked that he had $100 in greenbacks that he would bet on the race, and immediately added that he would bet Farmer his rifle gun, which he held in his hand, against his navy. Farmer said "All right, put it up," and stood throwing his around in his hand by the handle. Clayton then cocked his gun and presented it to Farmer's breast, telling him to put up his pistol or he would blow his d——d heart out, saying that "was not the first time that pistol had been waved over him." Farmer then commenced returning his pistol into the scabbard.

About this time Bobo made some remarks to Jim Farmer, a son of Pleasant Farmer. Clayton then turned and said to Jim Farmer, "Have you got a pistol?" Jim was standing with a pistol in his right hand, but laying by his left side, in the crook of his left arm, and made no reply. Clayton thereupon presented his gun and said, "If you have a pistol show it, and I will blow your d——d heart out." Jim then patted his pistol with his left hand and said, "Here it is; you can see it." Clayton then snapped at Jim's breast, and immediately after Jim fired at him. When they first commenced firing they were within eight or ten feet of each other. After Jim fired the first shot he rushed upon Clayton and caught him with his left hand, and continued firing till Clayton fell. Clayton was shot once through the head and once through the body, either of them being a mortal wound. So soon as the first shot was fired the firing became general. Bobo was shot in the back, supposed to be by Ky Danley, and fell at the same time Clayton fell. Just in the act of falling, Bobo shot Pleas. Farmer in the left shoulder with eighteen buckshot, inflicting a dreadful wound, though he was still living when last heard from. Bobo was shot at the point of the left shoulder with a Remington ball. It came out about two inches above the right nipple. When he fell he caught on his hand and was lying with his head thrown back, apparently dying, when Jim Farmer turned upon him and said, "damn you, I'll finish you," and, placing his pistol against his left temple, shot him through the head.

In the meantime old man Barger was accidentally shot through the hand, losing one finger, and another man, whose name I do not remember, was slightly wounded in the back accidentally.

Clayton and Bobo were carried back to Berryville and buried, the latter with Masonic honors, as he was a member of the fraternity.

Ky Danley fled and went to Missouri, where he was arrested and placed in jail, in Galena, Stone county, Mo.

James Farmer and Thomas Farmer, another son of Pleas, were arrested. On the examination, Thos. Farmer was released, there being no proof against him. James Farmer was bound for his appearance at Circuit Court, in the sum of $600, for the murder of Bobo.

Sanguinary Battle in Tennessee—Several Persons Killed and Wounded.

[From the Memphis Avalanche, Oct. 16.]

On last Sunday night, in Lincoln county, in this State, was perpetrated one of those deeds of blood, the recital of which makes the hair stand on end. The tragedy originated, as many of them do, in women. The history of the event is peculiar. Two men, named Baugh and Holloway, belonging in Lincoln county, near Elk river, went into Alabama some months ago and took away a good looking, loose young woman named Pye. She lived in the neighborhood of Scrouge Church, in northern Alabama, and had been, in company with two others, great favorites with a circle of young scamps. Baugh and Holloway lured away Miss Pye from these young fellows, and brought her into the Pea Ridge section, where they trotted her round. The young fools of Scrouge Church cross roads were much incensed at the taking away of their favorite girl and vowed vengeance.

Three months passed and the affair was beginning to wear out of their minds, when the two men who had spirited away the woman Pye made their appearance again in the neighborhood of Scrouge Church. The young fellows became aware of the fact, and turning out in great force after dark they scoured the country and captured the two obnoxious chaps in a wood and whipped them severely and let them go. Of course this led to the cultivation of bad blood. Baugh and Holloway made the best of their way to Pea Ridge, and, placing themselves under the care of the girl Pye, she nursed them until their sores were healed over and they were again fit to go on the "warpath." They proceeded to the south bank of Elk river and commenced firing into the house of a person named Bledsoe, whose sons had taken part in the whipping. They peppered the house pretty freely and made things lively there for a time. Old Bledsoe returned the fire and compelled the besiegers to retreat. Finding they could do but little in that direction, they gave up the idea of inflicting punishment just then, but concluded to await another opportunity. On their way back they unfortunately encountered one of Bledsoe's men, and they immediately commenced operations upon him. Putting their pistols to his bosom, they compelled him to go on his knees and repeat after them the following formula:—

"I'm a lousy dog; I beg your pardon for taking part in the whipping in Daby's room; I have no claim to the girl Pye; she is too good for such as I; I promise never to have anything to do with her; I'm a mean cur and a son of a ——."

After this they let him go home. Some days afterwards both Baugh and Holloway got into company with a still hunter, a fellow who was acting as United States Revenue agent. They visited several places and drank freely, and in the night time, while riding through the woods shouting and cursing they found themselves in the neighborhood of Scrouge church and surrounded by a crowd of bushwhackers, who commenced firing on them. They returned the fire and for a few minutes the dark woods rang with the sound of cracking rifles and of human voices raised high in blasphemy. The firing lasted as long as there was ammunition, and when it was over it was found that Baugh and Holloway were shot—actually riddled with bullets—their horses pretty liberally perforated also, and the three United States men who were with them had their clothing holed, but escaped with whole hides. Besides these casualties there were four of the attacking party hurt by bullets also.

Another Desperate Fight in Tennessee—Two Men Killed.

[From the same paper.]

Civilized man is said to be a noble savage. It is true the instincts of eating and fighting are carried along, no matter how high he goes in civilization, and of course there were savage instincts held in common by the Hottentot and humanitarian, by the Dirt Eaters of South America and the Dry-as-Dusts of Boston, and by consequence by the whiskey drinking population of our remote villages.

An event that occurred at La Grange last Saturday illustrates the truth of this. Two gentlemen, named respectively Witherspoon and King, cherished a grudge and an ill feeling some months' growth in their bosoms, and they met on the above-named day, in the above named little town, as we are informed. Mean whiskey, of which there seems to be no lack anywhere, fanned the flames which glared in the rival breasts. They met at a barroom, and with that sinister leer upon each lip that tells at once of scorn, hate and bloody passion, they asked each other to drink, both thinking that the other would refuse, and thus furnish a pretext for beginning the scene. Neither refused; both drank. They drank again, and for a little time things appeared even to the predetermined pair that perhaps there would be no fight this time. They were, however, mistaken in that, for words of bitterness and recrimination came thick and fast from their maudlin mouths, and the fight began. It is represented as terrific. Both men drew their pistols simultaneously and fired on the instant. Witherspoon escaped unhurt, while King was shot through the stomach. Pistols were cocked again, and again King was shot through the arm, his own pistol missing fire. He, however, prepared his weapon and made a hasty attempt to fire it off, but it missed. He then slung it away and made a rush at Witherspoon. The latter stepped outside and fired again, but missed King and struck a young man named Branchford in the leg. King continued to advance upon Witherspoon, and, having forced him into a store, he knocked him down, wrenched the pistol from his hand and beat him over the face with it till his nose was broken in, the teeth all battered down his throat and his eyes gouged out. In fact, his face was a perfect jelly, and he was considered dead. By this time King was so far gone from the effect of his wounds that he fell back and fainted on the door, and Witherspoon lay like a corpse. The physicians say that both men must necessarily die from the fearful wounds they received.

DEPARTURE OF BISHOPS FOR ROME.

Bishops Ryan, of Buffalo, and McQuade, of Rochester, sailed in the Russia yesterday on their way to Rome. Father Hecker, of this city, accompanies them. The Tripoli, which sails to-day, will take out Archbishop Allemany, of San Francisco; Bishop O'Connell, of Marysville, Cal.; Bishop Williams, of Boston, and Fathers Quinn and Farrelly, of this city. Archbishop Allemany has been the guest of the Jesuit Fathers in Sixteenth street during the past few days. Among the prelates who will sail this week are Archbishop Kenrick, of St. Louis, and Bishop McGill, of Richmond. The bishops who sailed yesterday were escorted to the Cunard docks by Father McNulty, of Paterson; Father Cody, of Hackensack, and many other clergymen.

STATUE OF THE LATE HON. WILLIAM PITT FESSENDEN.—A proposition to erect a statue to the memory of the late Senator Fessenden has been broached. The Portland Press says there are thousands of men in Maine who will esteem it a privilege to contribute to a fund for that purpose, and the State, speaking through its Senators and Representatives, will not hesitate to appropriate sufficient to embody the sanction of the Commonwealth and enable all her sons and daughters, of every sect and creed and party, to feel that they have added their mite to an object so grand and praiseworthy.

THE ERIE STRIKE.

Work Resumed in the Shops—Nothing Accomplished by the Movement—Misguided Action—The Men Regretting Their Haste—Some of Them Out in the Cold—Full Details of the Affair.

The strike among the employés of the Erie Railroad machine shops terminated yesterday, the men signifying a desire to return to work. The movement seems to have been an ill-judged and hasty demonstration for the purpose of exhibiting the power of a labor union and carrying out a threat made some time ago to strike in the event of a certain contingency. The contingency was presented, but from causes wholly beyond the power of the company to control, and the union quit work in the shops without waiting to ascertain the reason for the trouble of which they complained, or making any effort to discover if the company was endeavoring to act in good faith. The strike has resulted in no good whatever except to illustrate the excesses into which salutary reforms are very apt to diverge, and has done much to lessen public sympathy with labor unions and their coercive measures.

THE STRIKERS

consisted only of machinists, blacksmiths and helpers, the boiler makers, foundrymen, car builders, carpenters and laborers not engaging in the movement at all. The three former classes in the shops at Jersey City, Port Jervis, Susquehanna, Buffalo and Dunkirk formed a union, called the Machinists' Protective Association, and which has been in existence a long time. Having a large and well regulated organization the society thought itself strong enough to acquaint the company of its existence, and in September gave notice through a committee to the directors that unless the men in the Port Jervis, Susquehanna and Buffalo shops were paid off on or before the 15th of each month they would strike. The committee was informed that their request would be complied with, and in the words of the secretary of the association, returned to their houses hugely gratified with the result of the interview. There are many conflicting statements as to the exact manner in which the strike occurred, and for the purpose of ascertaining the opinions of both sides in the matter a HERALD reporter yesterday visited the headquarters and scene of action of some of the hostile parties. At the railroad shops in Jersey City everything seemed to be running along in the usual manner, with no indications of there being any dissatisfaction, and on finding the master machinist the reporter elicited the following

EXPLANATION OF THE STRIKE.

REPORTER—I have come to ascertain the facts in relation to the strike.

OFFICIAL—Ah! Very glad to see you. The affair has been very badly misrepresented. The strike didn't amount to much, and all the men are anxious to resume work. All have gone to work here except about forty, whom we will not take back.

REPORTER—How did the affair originate?

OFFICIAL—There was some misunderstanding about pay day, and the Machinists' Union gave notice that if all the employés were not paid off by the 15th they would strike. The men at Buffalo and Susquehanna were paid off on the 12th and 13th and the paymaster was on his way to Port Jervis to pay the men there, but was detained by the freshet. The Port Jervis men didn't wait to find out what was the matter, but quit work, and the members of the union in all the other shops of the road struck also as soon as they heard of the movement.

REPORTER—Did all the men in the shops strike?

OFFICIAL—No; only the machinists, blacksmiths and helpers. The carpenters, car builders, foundrymen, boiler makers and laborers had nothing to do with it. The Port Jervis machinists went off at half cock, and the machinists in the other shops, notwithstanding that they had been already paid, struck simply because the rules of their union required them to co-operate with any strike made by detached branches of the association.

REPORTER—Then Port Jervis was the only place where there was cause for complaint?

OFFICIAL—Precisely; and if those men had not been in such a hurry to parade themselves and had taken the trouble to make inquiry in the proper quarter they would have found that their pay was coming all right.

REPORTER—What is the present condition of affairs?

OFFICIAL—At Susquehanna, Buffalo and Dunkirk the men have all resumed work. Port Jervis still holds out, demanding a guarantee that the men shall be paid on a regularly appointed day. Here, in Jersey City, nearly all the men have gone to work again, and all of them would go if we would take them back. There were about forty of the leaders in the affair whom we have paid off up to the 15th, and with whom we will have nothing to do.

REPORTER—What is the intention of the company in the matter?

OFFICIAL—We intend to exclude the ringleaders in this strike from our shops, and if any other similar attempt is made the principals will be treated in a like manner. The strike was wholly without reason, and when men display such a headstrong and unjustifiable course we shall make no concessions nor compromises whatever. If the Port Jervis men go to work again the company will take care of them; but it is not to be intimidated by any combinations of workmen nor forced by strikes to grant favors.

REPORTER—Then you think the affair about ended?

OFFICIAL—Yes. The Port Jervis men are the only ones holding out, and I understand a large number of them are already willing to resume work. If they choose to stay out they can do so. Their places can be easily filled by other men, and their obstinacy is only making trouble for themselves.

THE MACHINIST'S STORY.

From the office of the master machinist our reporter proceeded to the shops and interrogated one of the leaders in the strike, with the following result:—

REPORTER—How are you getting along with your strike?

MACHINIST—It's about over now, I guess. Most all the men have gone to work.

REPORTER—What did you strike for?

MACHINIST—Well, you see our Union notified the directors that if all the shops were not paid off by the 15th of October we should strike. The Port Jervis men were not paid off, and when they struck the rest of our Union had to go with them.

REPORTER—How about the men being generally paid off before the 12th of each month, as some of the company's officers say has been done?

MACHINIST—It's not so. The men in the Port Jervis shops have never got their money before the 20th of the month. They didn't get their pay for August until the 28th of September, and in the preceding six months we never got our pay for one month until the 25th or 26th of the next. Here in Jersey City we were paid off on the 12th, but the others were not.

REPORTER—What do you think will be the result of the strike?

MACHINIST—Not much good to anybody. The Union don't hang together well enough, and now that nearly all the men have gone back to work there ain't any show at all for those who commenced and carried on the fight.

REPORTER—Do you regret that the strike was made?

MACHINIST—Yes. As it has turned out—the Port Jervis men were a little too hasty. They kicked up a muss when there was really no need for it, and have exasperated the company so that I expect that we will have to wait awhile before we get the evils complained of removed. We all want a regular pay-day, but the Union has been demoralized by its failure to hold out, and we must now take our chances for the best we can get. If the Port Jervis men had kept cool and waited a little I expect we could have got a first rate arrangement out of the company; but now we have showed our hand and our game is up, for the present, anyhow.

AT HEADQUARTERS,

in the Opera House, in Twenty-third street, the officials seemed to regard the affair as entirely settled. The interview with the Superintendent of the Erie road was short and sweet, and gave very little additional information, as will be seen by the following colloquy:—

REPORTER—Mr. Superintendent, have you anything new relating to the strike for the HERALD?

SUPERINTENDENT (very sneeringly)—No, sir; its all over and the men gone to work. If the newspapers would let our matters alone we would have a great deal less trouble.

REPORTER—Well, sir, if you make news, you must expect the papers to publish it; and if injustice has been done, now is your chance to correct the matter. Do you think the Port Jervis men will resume work immediately?

SUPERINTENDENT—Yes. The strike is played out. But what's the use of the papers meddling with it? They only make fools of the men, and incite just such movements in every department of business.

REPORTER—Well, I've nothing to do with that question; I am only in search of facts. Is there anything new whatever concerning the strike?

SUPERINTENDENT—Nothing except what I've told you. The men found their strike was a failure and are going to work again. Most of them will be taken back, but the leaders will not be employed again. We are disposed to deal fairly with our employés, and will do for them the best we can, but we are not to be dictated to by anybody.

BUFFALO MEN STILL OUT.

Somewhat different from the above is the statement made in the following despatch received last night:—

BUFFALO, Oct. 20, 1869.

The despatch from New York this morning stating that the Buffalo workmen had resumed work on the Erie Railway is not true. They have no idea of resuming until a regular pay day is guaranteed.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE COURTS.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

Non-Attendance of the Grand Jury—Further Adjournment.

Judge Benedict opened the court yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, but owing to the absence of a number of the Grand Jury no business was transacted. A new panel was ordered for to-day, and the delinquent jurors, among whom was James Fisk, Jr., were ordered to show cause on Saturday next why they should not be punished for contempt.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

The Raid on the Lottery Dealers.

Before Commissioner Shields.

In addition to those already mentioned the following lottery dealers were arrested on the charge of carrying on the business without payment of the special tax provided by the statute, viz.:—Walter Rowe, 140 Greenwich street; Henry Wood, No. 2 Park row, and H. J. Emerson, 206 Broadway. The accused were held under $500 bail to await examination next Wednesday.

The Archer Case—The Case on Behalf of the Defendants.

The United States vs. Charles Archer and Washington Archer.—The hearing of this case, in which the defendants are charged with making false revenue returns, was resumed yesterday afternoon, Mr. Purdy, Assistant District Attorney, appearing on behalf of the government and Mr. McMahon for the defendants.

James Buell, President of the Importers' and Traders' Bank, testified that he had always considered the defendants as financially sound and of good mercantile standing. James O'Donnell, merchant, deposed that he was acquainted with the defendants for some years, and had ever regarded them with confidence; he would be willing to give them $20,000 worth of goods on their own note at six months. Robert Francis also testified as to the character and reputation of the defendants; he had had transactions with them, and they always maintained a good character.

Mr. McMahon, counsel for the defendants, then moved to dismiss the complaint. He cited the charge made against his clients, contending that the evidence had unmistakably demonstrated their entire innocence even of intent to make any false return. The prosecution must prove, first, that the defendants made false returns, and, secondly, that they were made with intent to defraud. Though the returns might be false, yet if the revenue was not defrauded no crime had been committed. Counsel alluded at some length to the evidence of Connolly, the defendants' bookkeeper, and submitted that it was altogether biassed on account of his being discharged by the defendants. Counsel then proceeded to enter minutely into the details of the several revenue returns made by the defendants and contended that they had actually returned $85,000 more than was required by statute. Connolly's evidence went to show that one of the defendants had required him to make certain deductions when giving in the returns. Now, he (counsel) submitted that the conversation testified to by Connolly was entirely consistent with the innocence of the defendants. After citing various legal authorities bearing upon the point counsel went on to argue that so far from making any fraudulent return the defendants had paid over and above what they were required to do as prescribed by law. Having reviewed the evidence adduced in the case, commenting strongly upon the fact that Connolly, the principal witness for the prosecution, had when under examination expressed himself as being biassed against the defendants for being discharged. The figures themselves showed that the defendants had paid $300 tax more than they were entitled to. In fine, counsel adverted to the testimony as to the character of the defendants and moved for a dismissal of the charge.

Mr. Purdy resisted the motion, submitting that it was the duty of the prosecution to make the most minute investigation into the charges preferred. He admitted that the evidence of Connolly was biassed to some extent, but said that the government had other witnesses to substantiate the complaint. He had not gone into the figures, but he contended that there was ground for the detention of the defendants.

Commissioner Shields announced that he would render his decision to-morrow.

Charge of Perjury.

Before Commissioner Stilwell.

The United States vs. Mathew Reichert.—The defendant was charged with committing perjury. A warrant was issued about a fortnight ago for the arrest of the defendant on a charge of perjury, and he was taken into custody yesterday and brought before Commissioner Stilwell. The evidence for the government showed that Reichert had deposed before Commissioner Osborn that he had not been a bondsman in any other case, except one in which he attempted to become surety for a friend. He was held in $2,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART I.

Action for the Loss of a Limb on Board the Yacht Rambler.

Before Judge Ingraham.

William Meier vs. Henry Fearing, Francis Skiddy and Sheppard Gandy.—On the 4th day of July, 1865, the plaintiff was a seaman in the employ of the defendants on board the yacht Rambler, and, by the direction of the defendants, was engaged in loading a gun on board the yacht. The complainant alleges that solely through the negligence, carelessness and unskilfulness of the defendants, and without any fault or negligence on the part of the plaintiff, said gun exploded and shattered the plaintiff's right hand in such a manner that he lost it completely and sustained damage thereby to the extent of $10,000. The defendants deny the allegations in the complaint and contend that the accident happened through the negligence of the plaintiff himself.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Close of the Argument in the Gold Cases—The Papers Submitted.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Smith vs. Cox, &c., &c.—Mr. David Dudley Field commenced his argument in reply to that of Messrs. Seward and Marbury at ten o'clock yesterday morning, travelling very nearly over the same ground covered by Mr. Dudley Field, Jr., on Tuesday, and closing at eleven o'clock, when Judge Cardozo took the papers and reserved his decision.

The Baldwin Will Case.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Sampson et al. vs. Cecilia F. Wood.—This case was again up before the court yesterday, when Mr. Winter, on behalf of the defendant, read her affidavit, which consisted simply of denials of the allegations contained in the affidavits of Root and Spingarn. Counsel on both sides announced that the papers were now all in, and the argument was, therefore, set down for ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Interesting Case Under the Bankrupt Act.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Worth vs. The Bank of North Carolina.—The plaintiff in this action obtained an attachment against the property of the defendant in this State, and afterwards the defendant went into bankruptcy. An application is now made to set aside that attachment, on the ground that it was issued within four months preceding the commencement of proceedings in bankruptcy, the person having possession of the property refusing to give it up without an order from the Court. It appears that the plaintiff had also obtained a judgment in the action, and the assignee now makes a motion to set aside this judgment and attachment on various grounds of irregularity. Plaintiff claims that the proceedings in bankruptcy are irregular, chiefly on the ground that a meeting of directors was not called pursuant to the Bankrupt act, and seeks to restrain the making of this motion to set aside the attachment and get possession of the property of the bankrupt.

Decision reserved.

Decisions Rendered.

By Judge Cardozo.

Hornyard vs. Brand.—Motion granted.

Seeley vs. Lent et al.—Same.

Akin et al. vs. Scholt et al.—Same.

McDermott vs. Feidler.—Allowance of five dollars per cent granted.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.

The Coal Hole Accident.

Before Judge Friedman.

Calvin H. Haywood vs. Ovington Benedict.—The particulars of this case appeared in the Herald of Tuesday, wherein it was shown that the plaintiff fell through a coal hole owned by the defendant and sustained serious bodily harm, as he alleges.

Judge Freedman, in charging the jury, remarked that it had been repeatedly held by the General Term of this court, and it was therefore his duty to charge them, as it was their duty to accept it as the law of this case, that a coal hole, such as the defendant admits to exist upon said premises, whether covered or uncovered, is an infringement of the public highway, and, therefore, a public nuisance. Being a public nuisance, the defendant is not absolved from liability by reason of the fact that he did not make, create or construct it. By continuing it, by using it, he became an insurer of the safety of all persons who passed by his premises, and is liable for all injuries to an individual so passing resulting from the street or highway being thereby rendered less safe for its appropriate use, provided there is no negligence on the part of the person so injured. The defendant was bound, at his peril, to keep the highway on which the nuisance was situated as safe as it would have been if the nuisance were not there. It is therefore immaterial whether the defendant had the cover over the coal hole fastened or not.

The jury, after about half an hour's absence, returned into court with a verdict of $350 on behalf of the plaintiff.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Naturalization Notice.

Thursday and Friday being the two last days for naturalization, Judge McCunn will sit in the above court room in the evening, from seven to nine o'clock, for the convenience of those who cannot attend during the day.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Grand Larcenies—Alleged Highway Robbery by Youths—A Boy Committed for Contempt of Court and Subsequently Released.

Before Gunning S. Bedford, Jr., City Judge.

At the opening of the court yesterday James Thompson, who pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree a few days since, was sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year.

James Smith, who was charged with burglariously entering the premises of John J. Shafer, No. 113 Allen street, on the 3d inst., pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree, and was sent to the Penitentiary for six months.

Henry Borwin, charged with stealing nineteen pairs of pantaloons on the 12th inst., the property of John Suchner, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny. He was sent to the State Prison for two years.

Johanna Wentbart was placed on trial charged with stealing $125 in money and a watch, on the 21st of September, from Michael Farley, who swore that he met her in the Bowery. The accused told a different story, stating that Farley promised to marry her, gave her a ring and had a picture taken. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

Michael Kavanagh and Joseph White (boys) were charged with robbery in the first degree. Mrs. E. S. Keys testified that while she was passing through Thirty-second street, on the 12th inst., a boy sprang upon her and grabbed her chain. She pursued him and would have caught him had it not been that two boys held her arms.

A little girl named Julia Schultz stated that she was looking out of a window when she saw Kavanagh seize the lady's chain and run away, and that White was one of the boys who detained Mrs. Keys when she endeavored to capture Kavanagh. She positively identified the prisoners.

John Wilkins was then called as a witness by District Attorney Hutchings, but the boy obstinately refused to take the necessary oath. The prosecuting officer and Judge Bedford examined him at length, finally eliciting the fact that young companies of the prisoners threatened personal violence if he appeared as a witness, and that his brother, Klaus Wilkins, residing in Eighth avenue, told him that he must not swear in that case. The Judge endeavored to persuade him to consent to be sworn, cautioning him that if he persisted in refusing to do so it would be his duty to lock him up for contempt of Court. The boy, who had reached the age of sixteen years, was immovable, and the Judge was compelled to have a juror withdrawn until the obstinate witness would give his testimony. This course was pursued and the prisoners were remanded for trial. Mr. Howe, their counsel, offered to take the boy's statement instead of his sworn testimony, but the Judge deemed it proper to maintain the dignity of the court. The witness was then placed in custody. At a later period of the afternoon the brother of the boy was brought before Judge Bedford, who cautioned him as to his statutory rights and also informed him that if it were true that he instructed the youth to refuse to testify in court he would send the matter before the Grand Jury and have him indicted for tampering with a witness. After considerable discussion the Court permitted the elder brother (who was thirty years old) and the youthful obstinate witness to go home, they having promised to appear next term and testify under oath when the case was called up for trial.

John Manchester was charged with robbing John Buckley in a saloon, on the 21st of September, of the sum of twenty-one dollars. The evidence was so conflicting and unsatisfactory that Mr. Hutchings virtually abandoned the case and the jury acquitted the accused.

Oscar Wilson, who was indicted for petty larceny from the person in stealing a watch from Henry Houssing, on the 5th inst., was tried and declared not guilty. The testimony for the prosecution was weak and only circumstantial, and the accused having proven an excellent character, the jury promptly rendered a verdict of acquittal.

A Child Run Over.—Yesterday, at nine o'clock A. M., James Crooksbank, of No. 226 East Broadway, aged nine years, was knocked down, corner of Grand and Suffolk streets, by a dirt cart and severely injured.

Excise Trials.—There were but two cases of excise violations heard yesterday, both of which were dismissed. They were William Kannagrossen, No. 134 Broadway, and John Barnhardt, No. 14 avenue D, for selling on Sunday. The complainants did not appear.

Severe Run Over Accident.—Last night John B. Arthur, Secretary of the Columbia Insurance Company, was knocked down and run over, at the corner of Cortlandt street and Broadway, by an express wagon driven by Louis Demars. His injuries are of a serious nature.

Naturalization.—Judge McCunn announces that, to accommodate mechanics and other persons engaged in business during the regular court hours, he will sit, for the purpose of naturalizing persons, from seven to nine o'clock P. M., on Thursday and Friday, in the General Term room of the Superior Court, in the New City Hall.

Death of an Actress.—For some days past Mrs. Crocker, an actress, has been lying ill at Maillard's Hotel, No. 619 Broadway. Yesterday she was taken suddenly ill and died soon afterwards. She was attended by a physician, but the cause of death not being clear Coroner Schirmer was notified to hold an inquest. Deceased, it is said, had recently returned from California.

Butcher Cart Accident.—While driving rapidly on Second avenue yesterday morning Andrew Miller, of No. 256 Second avenue, was thrown from his butcher's cart at the corner of Eighteenth street and that avenue. His head struck the pavement, and he was conveyed to his residence in an insensible condition. Fears are entertained that his injuries may prove fatal.

Painters Severely Injured.—Two painters employed on the rear house of No. 619 East Twelfth street—Francis Burke, of 100th street, between Eighth and Ninth avenue, and Thomas Whalen, of No. 22 West Eighteenth street—fell yesterday from a scaffold and were both very seriously injured. Mr. Whalen was conveyed to his home and his companion to Bellevue Hospital.

Arrest of a Fugitive.—Last evening officer Crook, of the Broadway squad, arrested, on a warrant issued by a justice in Green county, on complaint of Marcus Lipman, of 262 Sixth avenue, a man named Louis Levin, who is charged in the warrant with grand larceny and forgery. He was locked up at the Central office, and will to-day be sent to Greene county.

Railroad Accident.—Yesterday morning Nathaniel Skinner, aged forty-five years, dwelling in 123d street, near Seventh avenue, was struck by the twenty minutes past eight train of the Hudson River Railroad, bound south. The accident occurred at the corner of Fourth avenue and Eleventh street. Skinner was very severely injured and taken to his home, where a physician was called to attend him.

Police Trials.—For some weeks most of the commissioners, in trying complaints against members of the force, have neglected to endorse their recommendation of penalties, believing that their publication tends to demoralize the force. Commissioner Brennan takes the opposite view, and at the trials yesterday inflicted pretty heavy fines in some aggravated cases of neglect of duty and violations of the rules on the part of members of the force. There was not a single case of interest to the public heard.

Accidents Yesterday.—Michael McIntyre broke a thigh at the City Hospital grounds. Alonzo Schoonmaker was knocked down by car No. 97, corner of 116th street and Third avenue, and badly injured. Robert Wainwright, of No. 18 Thomas street, was knocked down by a truck driven by Thomas Reid, and so severely injured that he had to be removed to Bellevue Hospital. Frank Green, of No. 335 East Twenty-eighth street, while intoxicated, fell and fractured his skull. He was sent to Bellevue Hospital.

Board of Fire Commissioners.—The Board held their usual weekly meeting yesterday, General Shaler in the chair. A letter was sent to H. Gaylord, treasurer of the Avondale Relief Fund, transmitting a check for $1,022 25 as the contribution of the members of the department toward the fund. Fifteen firms and places of business were reported as keeping kerosene below the standard. Resolutions of regret for the death, while on duty, of James Whalen, foreman of Engine Company No. 6, and of condolence with his family, were adopted.

The Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum.—Two performances will be given to-day in the Academy of Music for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, several distinguished performers having kindly volunteered their assistance. The object itself will doubtless command attention, from the fact that it has hitherto most successfully appealed to its many large-hearted patrons. The new asylum will be erected in Madison avenue, at a cost of $200,000, and it is fondly hoped that the proceeds of the entertainments to be given this afternoon and evening will aid materially this most charitable cause.

Competition of Fire Escapes at the American Institute.—A competitive trial of fire escapes was fixed to take place at the American Institute at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Messrs. W. B. Harrison and Captain Carr were the judges appointed by the managers of the Institute to test their comparative merits. The competing escapes were limited to two in number—one of them by Messrs. Weidling & Seymour and the other belonging to Messrs. Perry & Watson. That of Messrs. Perry & Watson was the first to be tried, horses being harnessed to the escape and drawn up in front of an adjoining four story building, when, after being adjusted, a man succeeded in reaching the top of the building in three and one quarter minutes from the time of the horses being unharnessed. This escape claims the advantage of enabling those engaged in extinguishing fires to work at a safe distance from the heated walls. The judges then proceeded to test the escape of Messrs. Weidling & Seymour, when it was discovered that one of the rollers was broken, and as it was impossible to test its efficiency at the time leave was granted to the owners to get their escape into working order and to send notice to the judges, who will then make their decision and report to the managers of the Institute.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday, all the members present with the exception of Henry Smith and Crane. After the usual routine business, on recommendation of Superintendent Harris, the permits for slaughtering at Nos. 610 West Forty-seventh street and 622 West Forty-eighth street were revoked, the inspector reporting that the business was conducted in an offensive manner. The sewer excavation corner of Seventy-fourth street and Second avenue was reported in a dangerous condition, and the Superintendent instructed to take the usual action.

The usual report of tests of kerosene oils made by the chemists—sixteen in number—showed seven below the standard of both tests, eight below the flashing test standard alone and one up to both standards and in compliance with the law. The Superintendent states that the only test is the one given in the act of the English Parliament, which pronounces all oils dangerous that gives off vapors below 100 degrees Fahrenheit, and the law compels dealers to mark all such oils dangerous. Dr. Smith offered a proposition compelling the rendering of fat only on premises were the animals are killed. It was opposed by counsel of the Board and not acted upon. The New York rendering companies granted an amended permit to carry on their business at the foot of Thirty-eighth street, North river, until next May. The counsel announced that Mr. H. A. Burr, living on the corner of Cliff and Frankfort streets, had made complaints against the officers of the Board for partiality in enforcing the orders. He was invited to appear before the Board on Wednesday next and make his complaints officially. The invitation was extended to all others who may have complaints to make.

THE WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Association was held yesterday afternoon at 49 East Twenty-third street. The elegant rooms of the Bureau were filled with an audience of magnificently attired men and women. The women, as was natural at a woman's suffrage meeting, were in the majority.

Those shining lights of the Bureau, Miss Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Stanton, were absent from the meeting, as they are at present impressing the necessity of the Revolution in the status of woman upon the minds of the good people of Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Phelps was called to the chair, which position she accepted with becoming dignity and overpowering grace.

Mr. J. W. Ward, of San Francisco, was introduced to the meeting and delivered himself of a lengthy dissertion on the "social evil." His remarks had every merit except that of originality, but were nevertheless applauded by the chaste sisters present. He was followed by Mr. Peck, of the New Haven Journal and Courier, the gist of whose remarks was that he had been asked by Miss Anthony to speak, but that he was utterly unprepared so to do. He proceeded to advise them to agitate until they obtained the prize for which they were striving. A great deal had been done in this world by persistent talking, and he hoped they would continue in the good work they had begun.

Mrs. Blake introduced a resolution in favor of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution, but in consequence of her remarks receiving very little applause she wisely determined to leave the vote on the question until the next meeting, and subsided for the present.

Mrs. Wilbour then read a lecture on the question of women's suffrage. The lecture was received with the applause it merited, and the meeting adjourned.

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE AT THE GRAMERCY PARK HOTEL.

Soon after six o'clock on Tuesday evening a very melancholy affair, resulting in the death of one Timothy C. Allyn, a wealthy gentleman engaged in the fire insurance business at No. 50 William street, occurred at the Gramercy Park Hotel. On Saturday last Mr. Allyn took a drive in the Park and while there some one recklessly drove against his carriage, crushing and nearly ruining it and injuring him severely. Since that time Mr. Allyn has been confined to his room, and the accident has seemed to annoy him very much, aside from the pain and inconvenience it caused him.

At the time named on Tuesday evening Mrs. Allyn went down to her dinner, leaving her husband alone in the room. Shortly before seven o'clock she returned, and, on opening the door of the room, was horrified to see her husband lying on his back on the floor, with blood over his face and on the floor where he lay. Mrs. Allyn screamed for help, which soon arrived, and upon examining the body life was found to be extinct; a pistol shot wound in the centre of the forehead was to be seen.

Mr. Allyn had long kept a pistol in his bureau drawer as a protection from thieves and burglars, and from the fact that the drawer was open and blood on the clothing inside, it is presumed that Mr. Allyn examined the weapon, and while doing so it exploded, thus driving a bullet into his brain. Almost instant death must have been the result. Coroner Rollins, on being notified, held an inquest on the body, and the jury returned a verdict of death from accidental shooting. Mr. Allyn was forty years of age and a native of Connecticut. He has left a widow and one son, about fourteen years of age.

FATAL RESULT OF A FRACAS.

Yesterday morning Coroner Keenan received information that Patrick McGinness, a man seventy-six years of age, was lying dead at No. 540 Ninth avenue from the effects of injuries received at the hands of Joseph R. James, living at 538 same avenue. On making inquiries at the Twentieth precinct station house it was learned that deceased and James were drinking together late on Monday afternoon, and while thus engaged a difficulty occurred between them which resulted in James striking deceased and knocking him down. It was not thought at first that McGinness was much injured, as such seemed not to be the intent of James in striking him. The relatives and friends of McGinness did not think the matter of sufficient importance to have James arrested; but they were greatly astonished at the death of the injured man, which occurred at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon. At eight o'clock that evening the occurrence for the first time was brought to the attention of Sergeant Murphy, then in command of the Twentieth precinct police station, who immediately despatched officer Armstrong to arrest James and gain all information possible relating to the matter. The officer also took charge of Mary James, mother of the prisoner; Alexander Mooney, 542 Ninth avenue; Mrs. Wheeler, 540 Ninth avenue, and Isabella McGinness, widow of deceased, all of whom are said to be important witnesses.

Wooster Beach, M. D., made a post mortem examination on the body and found that rupture of the intestines, the result of violence, was the cause of death. The nature of the violence will be shown during the progress of the investigation.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Statistics of Attendance at the Schools During the Past Month—An Opinion as is an Opinion—Apportionment of the School Fund for 1870—That "Special Order of Business."

The Commissioners of Common Schools in the city of New York met last evening in stated session. The Commissioners were all present with one exception, and as it had been announced that a bundle of yellow tissue paper, which had been presented at the last meeting, containing a great many words and figures and emanating indirectly from the Citizens' Association (Mr. Sands), would be made the special order of businesss at this meeting, there was present a large and respectable outside delegation. The contents of the yellow tissue had been printed in document form and made a book of only twenty-three pages. The subject matter of the document purported to be the result of a thorough examination into the whole public school system, with a view of ascertaining in what way a reduction of expenditures may be effected, without impairing the efficiency of the schools, made by a special committee of five, which was appointed September 15 and reported October 6, 1869. As the committee made "the thorough examination into the whole public school system," and took just three weeks to make the examination and construct the report, and as by the report it was made to appear that the screws of economy could be so applied as to squeeze some $800,000 or more out of the column of expenditures for the coming year, the matter, of course, was regarded as of more than ordinary importance, and had the effect, therefore, of attracting (as the dramatic critics would say) a large and intelligent audience to the meeting of the Board. Mr. R. L. Larremore, the urbane presiding officer of the Board, was in the chair, and with his accustomed celerity and skill announced the titles of the documents presented and their reference to the appropriate committees. Among the communications was a report from the City Superintendent, Mr. S. S. Randall, in relation to the attendance at the schools under the direction of the Board. The report of the superintendent shows as follows:—

On September 29 there were present in the male grammar schools 15,653; in the female grammar schools, 14,312; in the primary departments and schools, 57,259—making an aggregate of 87,234. The whole number of pupils on registers on the 1st inst. was 101,047, showing about thirteen and a half per cent of absentees. Present in colored schools, 836; number on register, 1,168; showing twenty-six per cent of absentees.

Average attendance during September:—Male grammar schools, 14,066; female grammar schools, 13,851; primary departments and schools, 52,852; aggregate, 80,879. Same month last year, 79,016.

Number of classes at present, 1,769. Number of teachers, exclusive of principals, 1,947; of which number 195 are not required to attend regularly. About 22½ per cent were absent from duty—306 on account of sickness and 174 from other causes. Number of days lost by absence of teachers during the month, 1,478⅜, or 3¾ per cent of the whole number of days of service during the month.

Number of pupils pursuing the supplementary course in the male grammar schools, 593, nearly all in second grade; female grammar schools, 576 in first grade and 874 in second grade; making a total of 1,848. Number previously returned, 1,351; showing an increase of pupils in the two grades of 497.

In the evening schools, previous to the opening, there were registered 5,764 males and 2,593 females. Many who registered did not appear on the first night, yet the attendance on that night was 7,631 in male schools and in the female schools 3,401, making a total of 11,032. In the colored schools there were 135 pupils on the opening night.

Average attendance for the two weeks ending Friday, the 15th inst., was—Males, 7,437; females, 3,554; teachers in male schools, 138; in female schools, 111.

The report was received and ordered to be printed as a document. A communication was received from the counsel to the Board in regard to the question of the legal residence of pupils attending the public schools. The opinion was a marvellous one, showing a great deal of patience on the part of the counsel, as well as legal acumen, erudition and research, and apparently a firm belief in the patience of those to whom the communication was addressed. It covered some two or three score pages of "legal cap" and exhausted dictionaries, legal authorities, reports of litigations and other interesting and entertaining works, in which the words "domicile" or "residence" could be found. Mr. Davenport, the venerable auditor of the Board, who officiated as clerk, struggled manfully through page after page of the document until from some of the Christian gentlemen present came interrogative sighs of "How long, O Lord, how long?" while some, not quite so Christianly, made use of the same expression with the first "how long" omitted.

Commissioner Wood then arose, and, stroking his snowy beard, as if not at all wearied or worried, moved that the reading of details be dispensed with, so that the actual opinion of the counsel could be arrived at immediately. The motion was unanimously carried, and the opinion was found to be strictly in accordance with the resolution offered by Commissioner Bell early in September, declaring the residence of the pupil to be where the father or mother or legally constituted guardian of the child resided.

The communication was, on motion, referred to the Committee on Bylaws and ordered to be printed in document form. Several matters of no extraordinary importance were then introduced and referred to the proper committees, after which the President declared the "special order of business" in order, whereupon Mr. Sands offered a resolution, which was adopted, and by which the "special order" was cut up into small slices and each slice referred to some of the standing committees of the Board.

Commissioner Smyth then offered a resolution directing the clerk to notify the principals of the schools to furnish the number of children attending the schools who are not residents of this city. This gave rise to a little discussion as to whether Mr. Smyth meant residents in accordance with the opinion of counsel or in the acceptation of the bylaws of the Board. Mr. Smyth thought there was but one residence, and that was, of course, the legal residence.

Commissioner Wood suggested that it would be well for the resolution to be laid over until Mr. Smyth's committee on bylaws should report on the opinion of the counsel and the Board knew exactly what its own laws were, and with that object he moved to lay the resolution on the table. Thereupon another little debate on the question of "residence" sprang up, in which Messrs. Smyth, Bell and Sands took part. The President did not enforce the parliamentary law allowing no debate on a motion to lay on the table, thinking, no doubt, that it would be safer to let the gentlemen have their "say" at once. Mr. Smyth finally withdrew his resolution and the business proceeded.

A communication in regard to the apportionment of the school fund for 1870 was received and referred to the Finance Committee. The communication shows as follows:—

Amount from the State	$422,217
Amount from the city and county	422,217
One-twentieth of one per cent on the taxable property of the city and county of New York, which is $964,100,597	482,050
Ten dollars on each pupil of the whole number taught, as per official reports, during the year ending October 1, 1869 ($215,573)	2,185,730
Total fund	$3,512,214

The report of the auditing committee on the accounts of the clerk from September 3 to October 7 was offered, and shows as follows:—

Receipts—Balance with City Chamberlain	$37,587
Deposited since by Comptroller	305,000
Total	$342,587

Warrants outstanding	22,849
Paid	$270,687
Total payments	$283,493

After some further unimportant routine business the meeting adjourned.

THE FREE COLLEGE.

Meeting of the Trustees—Appointment of Professors.

The Board of Education, as trustees of the College of the City of New York, met yesterday afternoon at the hall of the Board of Education, with the President, Mr. R. L. Larremore, in the chair. After some routine business had been transacted a report was received from the Committee on Bylaws in regard to altering the rules so as to provide two professors for the ancient languages and literature—one for Latin and the other for Greek. The report was adopted, after which a report was received from the Executive Committee nominating Charles H. Hirberman, Ph. D., for professor of Latin language and literature, and Jesse Ames Spencer, D. D., for professor of the Greek language and literature. The report of the committee was adopted, and the gentlemen named elected to the respective positions. Professor Jean Roemer, LL. D., was named as senior professor in the college, to act as president in case of the absence of the president, after which the meeting adjourned.

EVANGELICAL CONVENTION.

In response to the invitation of the General Synod of the Reformed Church, issued some months ago, a large number of delegates from various evangelical churches met in the Reformed church on Washington square at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Dr. Matthews was elected temporary chairman. On taking his seat the venerable chairman made a short address, in the course of which he extended a cordial welcome to all assembled, and stated the object of the Convention to be to effect a union between all Christians of whatever denomination, and to adopt whatever measures might seem wise and proper to effect this purpose. Furthermore, that every person coming to the church on this occasion should leave his distinctive religious character as a denominational churchman outside and be simply a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Upon the conclusion of Dr. Matthews' remarks a prayer meeting was held, during the progress of which the Rev. Richard Newton, D. D., of Philadelphia, arrived, and was invited to take the chair by the Rev. Dr. Matthews, who introduced Dr. Newton in a few words highly complimentary to the gentleman.

Among the clergymen present were the Rev. Drs. Hutton, Booth, Dewitt, Crosby, Smith and Adams.

The Convention will commence its regular business session this morning at half-past nine o'clock.

REAL ESTATE MATTERS.

The market in this city and vicinity continues animated both in respect to inquiry and transactions. Suburban lots are still the feature. The following sales were made at auction yesterday:—

PERSONAL MOVEMENTS.

Ex-President Johnson, on Wednesday evening next, is expected to hold forth in the great wigwam of Tammany, to the great delight of "the great unwashed, unterrified democracy" of this city. The very short-skirted ballet girls and professional acrobats attached to that institution have been notified that their services will not be required on that particular evening to enhance the performances.

Charles Sumner's private secretary is the son of Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Father Hecker, one of the most popular of the Paulist Fathers, left in the steamer yesterday to attend the great Council at Rome.

Ex-Senator Murphy has purchased the two blocks bounded by Madison and Fourth avenues and Sixty-eighth and Seventieth streets for $512,500.

John Swanson, of Stockholm, Sweden, has bought twenty square miles of land in Missouri for a Swedish colony, and has several thousand people engaged to come there.

It has been suggested that young Kitts, of Baltimore (aged 107), who has petitioned the Council for fees due since the Revolutionary War, should put the sum into bank, for use when he grows old.

Queen Isabella has purchased a property at Bonneuil, in the north of France, for $5,000, for the use of Soeur Patroncinio and twenty-five other Sisters of Charity. Mr. Marfori acts as major domo.

At Montana, Iowa, a few days ago, Judge Chase stopped his court and halted a lawyer in the middle of his argument to marry a couple who swept up before him and could not wait till the court adjourned.

Colonel John S. Thrasher has purchased the Galveston (Texas) Civilian, and will henceforward conduct that old and reliable journal. There is no journalist in the country who surpasses Colonel Thrasher in decision of character, variety of culture and breadth of understanding.

Mr. E. G. Asay, of Chicago, has in his library one peculiar treasure—the original manuscript correspondence between Washington and James Laurens, of South Carolina, detailing the sufferings of the army at Valley Forge. Washington's letters bear his autograph, but are supposed to be in the handwriting of Alexander Hamilton.

Mrs. Carter, a colored woman, aged seventy-six years, died in Desmoines, Iowa, on the 26th ult. The mother of this aged woman, who was 112 years years old last July, was present and witnessed the death of her daughter. This remarkable woman, who is still in possession of the faculties of mind and body, was born in the eastern part of Virginia, and was a slave until her seventy-fifth year.

The Rev. Henry Niles Pierce, who has been elected Missionary Bishop of the Episcopal Church for Kansas and the Indian Territory, is about forty-five years of age. He was born in Rhode Island, and graduated at Brown University. He performed missionary labors for several years in Texas and was at one time rector of St. John's church, Mobile. He is said to be a minister of great ability, and is very popular in the missionary region now placed under his episcopal control.

Jonathan Morgan, a lawyer, linguist and mechanician, who constructed the first steamboat ever seen on a New England river, is now living at Portland, Me., having attained the ripe age of ninety-one years. He is very eccentric, and for many years lived alone in a small attic room, which served as office, bedroom and kitchen. He often boasted that his entire expense of living did not exceed fifty dollars a year, and those best acquainted with his frugal habits and mode of living were quite willing to believe him.

Mrs. Harwood died at the manor of Vaudreuil, Province of Quebec, on the 5th inst. She was Louise, eldest daughter of Chartier de Lotbinière, who was elected Speaker of the Lower Canada House of Assembly in 1794. In 1823 Miss Lotbinière married Robert Unwin Harwood, an English merchant, who, in 1858, represented the county of Vaudreuil in the House of Assembly, and in 1860 the Rigaud Division in the Legislative Council, until his death in 1863.

THE PETRIFIED GIANT.

To the Editor of the Herald:—

On Friday morning, as Mr. W. C. Newell, of Lafayette, Onondaga county, was digging a well he came across a hard substance which excited his curiosity, and upon examination found it to be the form of a man petrified into stone. I give you the dimensions, as follows, which I took to-day:—Length from head to chin, 21 inches; length of nose from brow, 6 inches; length of mouth, 4 inches; width of shoulders from point to point, 3 feet; length of middle finger, 8 inches; from the point of hip to knee joint, 3 feet; diameter through the leg at the thigh, 13 inches; diameter through calf of leg, 9½ inches; height, 10 feet 3 inches; his foot measures 19½ inches; width across the palm of the hand, 7 inches; diameter through the wrist, 5 inches; diameter across the nostrils, 3½ inches. It is a great curiosity, and thousands are going from Syracuse hourly to see the monster.

THE COURTS.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

Non-Attendance of the Grand Jury—Further Adjournment.

Judge Benedict opened the court yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, but owing to the absence of a number of the Grand Jury no business was transacted. A new panel was ordered for to-day, and the delinquent jurors, among whom was James Fisk, Jr., were ordered to show cause on Saturday next why they should not be punished for contempt.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

The Raid on the Lottery Dealers.

Before Commissioner Shields.

In addition to those already mentioned the following lottery dealers were arrested on the charge of carrying on the business without payment of the special tax provided by the statute, viz.:—Walter Rowe, 140 Greenwich street; Henry Wood, No. 2 Park row, and H. J. Emerson, 206 Broadway. The accused were held under $500 bail to await examination next Wednesday.

The Archer Case—The Case on Behalf of the Defendants.

The United States vs. Charles Archer and Washington Archer.—The hearing of this case, in which the defendants are charged with making false revenue returns, was resumed yesterday afternoon, Mr. Purdy, Assistant District Attorney, appearing on behalf of the government and Mr. McMahon for the defendants.

James Buell, President of the Importers' and Traders' Bank, testified that he had always considered the defendants as financially sound and of good mercantile standing. James O'Donnell, merchant, deposed that he was acquainted with the defendants for some years, and had ever regarded them with confidence; he would be willing to give them $20,000 worth of goods on their own note at six months. Robert Francis also testified as to the character and reputation of the defendants; he had had transactions with them, and they always maintained a good character.

Mr. McMahon, counsel for the defendants, then moved to dismiss the complaint. He cited the charge made against his clients, contending that the evidence had unmistakably demonstrated their entire innocence even of intent to make any false return. The prosecution must prove, first, that the defendants made false returns, and, secondly, that they were made with intent to defraud. Though the returns might be false, yet if the revenue was not defrauded no crime had been committed. Counsel alluded at some length to the evidence of Connolly, the defendants' bookkeeper, and submitted that it was altogether biassed on account of his being discharged by the defendants. Counsel then proceeded to enter minutely into the details of the several revenue returns made by the defendants and contended that they had actually returned $85,000 more than was required by statute. Connolly's evidence went to show that one of the defendants had required him to make certain deductions when giving in the returns. Now, he (counsel) submitted that the conversation testified to by Connolly was entirely consistent with the innocence of the defendants. After citing various legal authorities bearing upon the point counsel went on to argue that so far from making any fraudulent return the defendants had paid over and above what they were required to do as prescribed by law. Having reviewed the evidence adduced in the case, commenting strongly upon the fact that Connolly, the principal witness for the prosecution, had when under examination expressed himself as being biassed against the defendants for being discharged. The figures themselves showed that the defendants had paid $300 tax more than they were entitled to. In fine, counsel adverted to the testimony as to the character of the defendants and moved for a dismissal of the charge.

Mr. Purdy resisted the motion, submitting that it was the duty of the prosecution to make the most minute investigation into the charges preferred. He admitted that the evidence of Connolly was biassed to some extent, but said that the government had other witnesses to substantiate the complaint. He had not gone into the figures, but he contended that there was ground for the detention of the defendants.

Commissioner Shields announced that he would render his decision to-morrow.

Charge of Perjury.

Before Commissioner Stilwell.

The United States vs. Mathew Reichert.—The defendant was charged with committing perjury. A warrant was issued about a fortnight ago for the arrest of the defendant on a charge of perjury, and he was taken into custody yesterday and brought before Commissioner Stilwell. The evidence for the government showed that Reichert had deposed before Commissioner Osborn that he had not been a bondsman in any other case, except one in which he attempted to become surety for a friend. He was held in $2,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART I.

Action for the Loss of a Limb on Board the Yacht Rambler.

Before Judge Ingraham.

William Meier vs. Henry Fearing, Francis Skiddy and Sheppard Gandy.—On the 4th day of July, 1865, the plaintiff was a seaman in the employ of the defendants on board the yacht Rambler, and, by the direction of the defendants, was engaged in loading a gun on board the yacht. The complainant alleges that solely through the negligence, carelessness and unskilfulness of the defendants, and without any fault or negligence on the part of the plaintiff, said gun exploded and shattered the plaintiff's right hand in such a manner that he lost it completely and sustained damage thereby to the extent of $10,000. The defendants deny the allegations in the complaint and contend that the accident happened through the negligence of the plaintiff himself.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Close of the Argument in the Gold Cases—The Papers Submitted.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Smith vs. Cox, &c., &c.—Mr. David Dudley Field commenced his argument in reply to that of Messrs. Seward and Marbury at ten o'clock yesterday morning, travelling very nearly over the same ground covered by Mr. Dudley Field, Jr., on Tuesday, and closing at eleven o'clock, when Judge Cardozo took the papers and reserved his decision.

The Baldwin Will Case.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Sampson et al. vs. Cecilia F. Wood.—This case was again up before the court yesterday, when Mr. Winter, on behalf of the defendant, read her affidavit, which consisted simply of denials of the allegations contained in the affidavits of Root and Spingarn. Counsel on both sides announced that the papers were now all in, and the argument was, therefore, set down for ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Interesting Case Under the Bankrupt Act.

Before Judge Cardozo.

Worth vs. The Bank of North Carolina.—The plaintiff in this action obtained an attachment against the property of the defendant in this State, and afterwards the defendant went into bankruptcy. An application is now made to set aside that attachment, on the ground that it was issued within four months preceding the commencement of proceedings in bankruptcy, the person having possession of the property refusing to give it up without an order from the Court. It appears that the plaintiff had also obtained a judgment in the action, and the assignee now makes a motion to set aside this judgment and attachment on various grounds of irregularity. Plaintiff claims that the proceedings in bankruptcy are irregular, chiefly on the ground that a meeting of directors was not called pursuant to the Bankrupt act, and seeks to restrain the making of this motion to set aside the attachment and get possession of the property of the bankrupt.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II.

The Coal Hole Accident.

Before Judge Friedman.

Calvin H. Haywood vs. Ovington Benedict.—The particulars of this case appeared in the HERALD of Tuesday, wherein it was shown that the plaintiff fell through a coal hole owned by the defendant and sustained serious bodily harm, as he alleges.

Judge Freedman, in charging the jury, remarked that it had been repeatedly held by the General Term of this court, and it was therefore his duty to charge them, as it was their duty to accept it as the law of this case, that a coal hole, such as the defendant admits to exist upon said premises, whether covered or uncovered, is an infringement of the public highway, and, therefore, a public nuisance. Being a public nuisance, the defendant is not absolved from liability by reason of the fact that he did not make, create or construct it. By continuing it, by using it, he became an insurer of the safety of all persons who passed by his premises, and is liable for all injuries to an individual so passing resulting from the street or highway being thereby rendered less safe for its appropriate use, provided there is no negligence on the part of the person so injured. The defendant was bound, at his peril, to keep the highway on which the nuisance was situated as safe as it would have been if the nuisance were not there. It is therefore immaterial whether the defendant had the cover over the coal hole fastened or not.

The jury, after about half an hour's absence, returned into court with a verdict of $350 on behalf of the plaintiff.

SUPERIOR COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Naturalization Notice.

Thursday and Friday being the two last days for naturalization, Judge McCunn will sit in the above court room in the evening, from seven to nine o'clock, for the convenience of those who cannot attend during the day.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Grand Larcenies—Alleged Highway Robbery by Youths—A Boy Committed for Contempt of Court and Subsequently Released.

Before Gunning S. Bedford, Jr., City Judge.

At the opening of the court yesterday James Thompson, who pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree a few days since, was sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year.

James Smith, who was charged with burglariously entering the premises of John J. Shafer, No. 113 Allen street, on the 3d inst., pleaded guilty to an attempt at burglary in the third degree, and was sent to the Penitentiary for six months.

Henry Borwin, charged with stealing nineteen pairs of pantaloons on the 12th inst., the property of John Suchner, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny. He was sent to the State Prison for two years.

Johanna Wenthart was placed on trial charged with stealing $125 in money and a watch, on the 21st of September, from Michael Farley, who swore that he met her in the Bowery. The accused told a different story, stating that Farley promised to marry her, gave her a ring and had a picture taken. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty.

Michael Kavanagh and Joseph White (boys) were charged with robbery in the first degree. Mrs. E. S. Keys testified that while she was passing through Thirty-second street, on the 12th inst., a boy sprang upon her and grabbed her chain. She pursued him and would have caught him had it not been that two boys held her arms.

A little girl named Julia Schultz stated that she was looking out of a window when she saw Kavanagh seize the lady's chain and run away, and that White was one of the boys who detained Mrs. Keys when she endeavored to capture Kavanagh. She positively identified the prisoners.

John Wilkins was then called as a witness by District Attorney Hutchings, but the boy obstinately refused to take the necessary oath. The prosecuting officer and Judge Bedford examined him at length, finally eliciting the fact that young companies of the prisoners threatened personal violence if he appeared as a witness, and that his brother, Klaus Wilkins, residing in Eighth avenue, told him that he must not swear in that case. The Judge endeavored to persuade him to consent to be sworn, cautioning him that if he persisted in refusing to do so it would be his duty to lock him up for contempt of Court. The boy, who had reached the age of sixteen years, was immovable, and the Judge was compelled to have a juror withdrawn until the obstinate witness would give his testimony. This course was pursued and the prisoners were remanded for trial. Mr. Howe, their counsel, offered to take the boy's statement instead of his sworn testimony, but the Judge deemed it proper to maintain the dignity of the court. The witness was then placed in custody. At a later period of the afternoon the brother of the boy was brought before Judge Bedford, who cautioned him as to his statutory rights and also informed him that if it were true that he instructed the youth to refuse to testify in court he would send the matter before the Grand Jury and have him indicted for tampering with a witness. After considerable discussion the Court permitted the elder brother (who was thirty years old) and the youthful obstinate witness to go home, they having promised to appear next term and testify under oath when the case was called up for trial.

John Manchester was charged with robbing John Buckley in a saloon, on the 21st of September, of the sum of twenty-one dollars. The evidence was so conflicting and unsatisfactory that Mr. Hutchings virtually abandoned the case and the jury acquitted the accused.

Oscar Wilson, who was indicted for petty larceny from the person in stealing a watch from Henry Houssing, on the 5th inst., was tried and declared not guilty. The testimony for the prosecution was weak and only circumstantial, and the accused having proven an excellent character, the jury promptly rendered a verdict of acquittal.

A CHILD RUN OVER.—Yesterday, at nine o'clock A. M., James Crooksbank, of No. 226 East Broadway, aged nine years, was knocked down, corner of Grand and Suffolk streets, by a dirt cart and severely injured.

EXCISE TRIALS.—There were but two cases of excise violations heard yesterday, both of which were dismissed. They were William Kannagrossen, No. 134 Broadway, and John Barnhardt, No. 14 avenue D, for selling on Sunday. The complainants did not appear.

SEVERE RUN OVER ACCIDENT.—Last night John B. Arthur, Secretary of the Columbia Insurance Company, was knocked down and run over, at the corner of Cortlandt street and Broadway, by an express wagon driven by Louis Demars. His injuries are of a serious nature.

NATURALIZATION.—Judge McCunn announces that, to accommodate mechanics and other persons engaged in business during the regular court hours, he will sit, for the purpose of naturalizing persons, from seven to nine o'clock P. M., on Thursday and Friday, in the General Term room of the Superior Court, in the New City Hall.

DEATH OF AN ACTRESS.—For some days past Mrs. Crocker, an actress, has been lying ill at Maillard's Hotel, No. 619 Broadway. Yesterday she was taken suddenly ill and died soon afterwards. She was attended by a physician, but the cause of death not being clear Coroner Schirmer was notified to hold an inquest. Deceased, it is said, had recently returned from California.

BUTCHER CART ACCIDENT.—While driving rapidly on Second avenue yesterday morning Andrew Miller, of No. 256 Second avenue, was thrown from his butcher's cart at the corner of Eighteenth street and that avenue. His head struck the pavement, and he was conveyed to his residence in an insensible condition. Fears are entertained that his injuries may prove fatal.

PAINTERS SEVERELY INJURED.—Two painters employed on the rear house of No. 619 East Twelfth street—Francis Burke, of 100th street, between Eighth and Ninth avenue, and Thomas Whalen, of No. 22 West Eighteenth street—fell yesterday from a scaffold and were both very seriously injured. Mr. Whalen was conveyed to his home and his companion to Bellevue Hospital.

ARREST OF A FUGITIVE.—Last evening officer Crook, of the Broadway squad, arrested, on a warrant issued by a justice in Green county, on complaint of Marcus Lipman, of 262 Sixth avenue, a man named Louis Levin, who is charged in the warrant with grand larceny and forgery. He was locked up at the Central office, and will to-day be sent to Greene county.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning Nathaniel Skinner, aged forty-five years, dwelling in 123d street, near Seventh avenue, was struck by the twenty minutes past eight train of the Hudson River Railroad, bound south. The accident occurred at the corner of Fourth avenue and Eleventh street. Skinner was very severely injured and taken to his home, where a physician was called to attend him.

POLICE TRIALS.—For some weeks most of the commissioners, in trying complaints against members of the force, have neglected to endorse their recommendation of penalties, believing that their publication tends to demoralize the force. Commissioner Brennan takes the opposite view, and at the trials yesterday inflicted pretty heavy fines in some aggravated cases of neglect of duty and violations of the rules on the part of members of the force. There was not a single case of interest to the public heard.

ACCIDENTS YESTERDAY.—Michael McIntyre broke a thigh at the City Hospital grounds. Alonzo Schoonmaker was knocked down by car No. 97, corner of 116th street and Third avenue, and badly injured. Robert Wainwright, of No. 18 Thomas street, was knocked down by a truck driven by Thomas Reid, and so severely injured that he had to be removed to Bellevue Hospital. Frank Green, of No. 335 East Twenty-eighth street, while intoxicated, fell and fractured his skull. He was sent to Bellevue Hospital.

BOARD OF FIRE COMMISSIONERS.—The Board held their usual weekly meeting yesterday, General Shaler in the chair. A letter was sent to H. Gaylord, treasurer of the Avondale Relief Fund, transmitting a check for $1,022 25 as the contribution of the members of the department toward the fund. Fifteen firms and places of business were reported as keeping kerosene below the standard. Resolutions of regret for the death, while on duty, of James Whalen, foreman of Engine Company No. 6, and of condolence with his family, were adopted.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC ORPHAN ASYLUM.—Two performances will be given to-day in the Academy of Music for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, several distinguished performers having kindly volunteered their assistance. The object itself will doubtless command attention, from the fact that it has hitherto most successfully appealed to its many large-hearted patrons. The new asylum will be erected in Madison avenue, at a cost of $200,000, and it is fondly hoped that the proceeds of the entertainments to be given this afternoon and evening will aid materially this most charitable cause.

COMPETITION OF FIRE ESCAPES AT THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE.—A competitive trial of fire escapes was fixed to take place at the American Institute at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Messrs. W. B. Harrison and Captain Carr were the judges appointed by the managers of the Institute to test their comparative merits. The competing escapes were limited to two in number—one of them by Messrs. Weidling & Seymour and the other belonging to Messrs. Perry & Watson. That of Messrs. Perry & Watson was the first to be tried, horses being harnessed to the escape and drawn up in front of an adjoining four story building, when, after being adjusted, a man succeeded in reaching the top of the building in three and one quarter minutes from the time of the horses being unharnessed. This escape claims the advantage of enabling those engaged in extinguishing fires to work at a safe distance from the heated walls. The judges then proceeded to test the escape of Messrs. Weidling & Seymour, when it was discovered that one of the rollers was broken, and as it was impossible to test its efficiency at the time leave was granted to the owners to get their escape into working order and to send notice to the judges, who will then make their decision and report to the managers of the Institute.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday, all the members present with the exception of Henry Smith and Crane. After the usual routine business, on recommendation of Superintendent Harris, the permits for slaughtering at Nos. 610 West Forty-seventh street and 622 West Forty-eighth street were revoked, the inspector reporting that the business was conducted in an offensive manner. The sewer excavation corner of Seventy-fourth street and Second avenue was reported in a dangerous condition, and the Superintendent instructed to take the usual action.

The usual report of tests of kerosene oils made by the chemists—sixteen in number—showed seven below the standard of both tests, eight below the flashing test standard alone and one up to both standards and in compliance with the law. The Superintendent states that the only test is the one given in the act of the English Parliament, which pronounces all oils dangerous that gives off vapors below 100 degrees Fahrenheit, and the law compels dealers to mark all such oils dangerous. Dr. Smith offered a proposition compelling the rendering of fat only on premises were the animals are killed. It was opposed by counsel of the Board and not acted upon. The New York rendering companies granted an amended permit to carry on their business at the foot of Thirty-eighth street, North river, until next May. The counsel announced that Mr. H. A. Burr, living on the corner of Cliff and Frankfort streets, had made complaints against the officers of the Board for partiality in enforcing the orders. He was invited to appear before the Board on Wednesday next and make his complaints officially. The invitation was extended to all others who may have complaints to make.

THE WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Association was held yesterday afternoon at 49 East Twenty-third street. The elegant rooms of the Bureau were filled with an audience of magnificently attired men and women. The women, as was natural at a woman's suffrage meeting, were in the majority.

Those shining lights of the Bureau, Miss Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Stanton, were absent from the meeting, as they are at present impressing the necessity of the Revolution in the status of woman upon the minds of the good people of Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Phelps was called to the chair, which position she accepted with becoming dignity and overpowering grace.

Mr. J. W. WARD, of San Francisco, was introduced to the meeting and delivered himself of a lengthy dissertion on the "social evil." His remarks had every merit except that of originality, but were nevertheless applauded by the chaste sisters present. He was followed by Mr. Peck, of the New Haven Journal and Courier, the gist of whose remarks was that he had been asked by Miss Anthony to speak, but that he was utterly unprepared so to do. He proceeded to advise them to agitate until they obtained the prize for which they were striving. A great deal had been done in this world by persistent talking, and he hoped they would continue in the good work they had begun.

Mrs. BLAKE introduced a resolution in favor of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution, but in consequence of her remarks receiving very little applause she wisely determined to leave the vote on the question until the next meeting, and subsided for the present.

Mrs. WILBOUR then read a lecture on the question of women's suffrage. The lecture was received with the applause it merited, and the meeting adjourned.

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE AT THE GRAMERCY PARK HOTEL.

Soon after six o'clock on Tuesday evening a very melancholy affair, resulting in the death of one Timothy C. Allyn, a wealthy gentleman engaged in the fire insurance business at No. 50 William street, occurred at the Gramercy Park Hotel. On Saturday last Mr. Allyn took a drive in the Park and while there some one recklessly drove against his carriage, crushing and nearly ruining it and injuring him severely. Since that time Mr. Allyn has been confined to his room, and the accident has seemed to annoy him very much, aside from the pain and inconvenience it caused him.

At the time named on Tuesday evening Mrs. Allyn went down to her dinner, leaving her husband alone in the room. Shortly before seven o'clock she returned, and, on opening the door of the room, was horrified to see her husband lying on his back on the floor, with blood over his face and on the floor where he lay. Mrs. Allyn screamed for help, which soon arrived, and upon examining the body life was found to be extinct; a pistol shot wound in the centre of the forehead was to be seen.

Mr. Allyn had long kept a pistol in his bureau drawer as a protection from thieves and burglars, and from the fact that the drawer was open and blood on the clothing inside, it is presumed that Mr. Allyn examined the weapon, and while doing so it exploded, thus driving a bullet into his brain. Almost instant death must have been the result. Coroner Rollins, on being notified, held an inquest on the body, and the jury returned a verdict of death from accidental shooting. Mr. Allyn was forty years of age and a native of Connecticut. He has left a widow and one son, about fourteen years of age.

FATAL RESULT OF A FRACAS.

Yesterday morning Coroner Keenan received information that Patrick McGinness, a man seventy-six years of age, was lying dead at No. 540 Ninth avenue from the effects of injuries received at the hands of Joseph R. James, living at 538 same avenue. On making inquiries at the Twentieth precinct station house it was learned that deceased and James were drinking together late on Monday afternoon, and while thus engaged a difficulty occurred between them which resulted in James striking deceased and knocking him down. It was not thought at first that McGinness was much injured, as such seemed not to be the intent of James in striking him. The relatives and friends of McGinness did not think the matter of sufficient importance to have James arrested; but they were greatly astonished at the death of the injured man, which occurred at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon. At eight o'clock that evening the occurrence for the first time was brought to the attention of Sergeant Murphy, then in command of the Twentieth precinct police station, who immediately despatched officer Armstrong to arrest James and gain all information possible relating to the matter. The officer also took charge of Mary James, mother of the prisoner; Alexander Mooney, 542 Ninth avenue; Mrs. Wheeler, 540 Ninth avenue, and Isabella McGinness, widow of deceased, all of whom are said to be important witnesses.

Wooster Beach, M. D., made a post mortem examination on the body and found that rupture of the intestines, the result of violence, was the cause of death. The nature of the violence will be shown during the progress of the investigation.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Statistics of Attendance at the Schools During the Past Month—An Opinion as is an Opinion—Apportionment of the School Fund for 1870—That "Special Order of Business."

The Commissioners of Common Schools in the city of New York met last evening in stated session. The Commissioners were all present with one exception, and as it had been announced that a bundle of yellow tissue paper, which had been presented at the last meeting, containing a great many words and figures and emanating indirectly from the Citizens' Association (Mr. Sands), would be made the special order of business at this meeting, there was present a large and respectable outside delegation. The contents of the yellow tissue had been printed in document form and made a book of only twenty-three pages. The subject matter of the document purported to be the result of a thorough examination into the whole public school system, with a view of ascertaining in what way a reduction of expenditures may be effected, without impairing the efficiency of the schools, made by a special committee of five, which was appointed September 15 and reported October 6, 1869. As the committee made "the thorough examination into the whole public school system," and took just three weeks to make the examination and construct the report, and as by the report it was made to appear that the screws of economy could be so applied as to squeeze some $800,000 or more out of the column of expenditures for the coming year, the matter, of course, was regarded as of more than ordinary importance, and had the effect, therefore, of attracting (as the dramatic critics would say) a large and intelligent audience to the meeting of the Board. Mr. R. L. Larremore, the urbane presiding officer of the Board, was in the chair, and with his accustomed celerity and skill announced the titles of the documents presented and their reference to the appropriate committees. Among the communications was a report from the City Superintendent, Mr. S. S. Randall, in relation to the attendance at the schools under the direction of the Board. The report of the superintendent shows as follows:—

On September 29 there were present in the male grammar schools 15,663; in the female grammar schools, 14,312; in the primary departments and schools, 57,259—making an aggregate of 87,234. The whole number of pupils on registers on the 1st inst. was 101,047, showing about thirteen and a half per cent of absentees. Present in colored schools, 836; number on register, 1,168; showing twenty-six per cent of absentees.

Average attendance during September:—Male grammar schools, 14,066; female grammar schools, 13,851; primary departments and schools, 52,352; aggregate, 80,279. Same month last year, 79,016.

Number of classes at present, 1,769. Number of teachers, exclusive of principals, 1,947; of which number 195 are not required to attend regularly. About 22½ per cent were absent from duty—306 on account of sickness and 174 from other causes. Number of days lost by absence of teachers during the month, 1,478½, or 3½ per cent of the whole number of days of service during the month.

Number of pupils pursuing the supplementary course in the male grammar schools, 393, nearly all in second grade; female grammar schools, 576 in first grade and 874 in second grade; making a total of 1,848. Number previously returned, 1,351; showing an increase of pupils in the two grades of 497.

In the evening schools, previous to the opening, there were registered 5,764 males and 2,598 females. Many who registered did not appear on the first night, yet the attendance on that night was 7,631 in male schools and in the female schools 3,401, making a total of 11,032. In the colored schools there were 135 pupils on the opening night.

Average attendance for the two weeks ending Friday, the 15th inst., was—Males, 7,437; females, 3,554; teachers in male schools, 138; in female schools, 111.

The report was received and ordered to be printed as a document. A communication was received from the counsel to the Board in regard to the question of the legal residence of pupils attending the public schools. The opinion was a marvellous one, showing a great deal of patience on the part of the counsel, as well as legal acumen, erudition and research, and apparently a firm belief in the patience of those to whom the communication was addressed. It covered some two or three score pages of "legal cap" and exhausted dictionaries, legal authorities, reports of litigations and other interesting and entertaining works, in which the words "domicile" or "residence" could be found. Mr. Davenport, the venerable auditor of the Board, who officiated as clerk, struggled manfully through page after page of the document until from some of the Christian gentlemen present came interrogative sighs of "How long, O Lord, how long?" while some, not quite so Christianly, made use of the same expression with the first "how long" omitted.

Commissioner Wood then arose, and, stroking his snowy beard, as if not at all wearied or worried, moved that the reading of details be dispensed with, so that the actual opinion of the counsel could be arrived at immediately. The motion was unanimously carried, and the opinion was found to be strictly in accordance with the resolution offered by Commissioner Bell early in September, declaring the residence of the pupil to be where the father or mother or legally constituted guardian of the child resided.

The communication was, on motion, referred to the Committee on Bylaws and ordered to be printed in document form. Several matters of no extraordinary importance were then introduced and referred to the proper committees, after which the President declared the "special order of business" in order, whereupon Mr. SANDS offered a resolution, which was adopted, and by which the "special order" was cut up into small slices and each slice referred to some of the standing committees of the Board.

Commissioner SMYTH then offered a resolution directing the clerk to notify the principals of the schools to furnish the number of children attending the schools who are not residents of this city. This gave rise to a little discussion as to whether Mr. Smyth meant residents in accordance with the opinion of counsel or in the acceptation of the bylaws of the Board. Mr. Smyth thought there was but one residence, and that was, of course, the legal residence.

Commissioner WOOD suggested that it would be well for the resolution to be laid over until Mr. Smyth's committee on bylaws should report on the opinion of the counsel and the Board knew exactly what its own laws were, and with that object he moved to lay the resolution on the table. Thereupon another little debate on the question of "residence" sprang up, in which Messrs. Smyth, Bell and Sands took part. The President did not enforce the parliamentary law allowing no debate on a motion to lay on the table, thinking, no doubt, that it would be safer to let the gentlemen have their "say" at once. Mr. Smyth finally withdrew his resolution and the business proceeded.

A communication in regard to the apportionment of the school fund for 1870 was received and referred to the Finance Committee. The communication shows as follows:—

Amount from the State	$422,217
Amount from the city and county	422,217
One-twentieth of one per cent on the taxable property of the city and county of New York, which is $964,100,597	482,050
Ten dollars on each pupil of the whole number taught, as per official reports, during the year ending October 1, 1869 ($215,573)	2,185,730
Total fund	$3,512,214

The report of the auditing committee on the accounts of the clerk from September 3 to October 7 was offered, and shows as follows:—

THE FREE COLLEGE.

Meeting of the Trustees—Appointment of Professors.

The Board of Education, as trustees of the College of the City of New York, met yesterday afternoon at the hall of the Board of Education, with the President, Mr. R. L. Larremore, in the chair. After some routine business had been transacted a report was received from the Committee on Bylaws in regard to altering the rules so as to provide two professors for the ancient languages and literature—one for Latin and the other for Greek. The report was adopted, after which a report was received from the Executive Committee nominating Charles H. Hirberman, Ph. D., for professor of Latin language and literature, and Jesse Ames Spencer, D. D., for professor of the Greek language and literature. The report of the committee was adopted, and the gentlemen named elected to the respective positions. Professor Jean Roemer, LL. D., was named as senior professor in the college, to act as president in case of the absence of the president, after which the meeting adjourned.

EVANGELICAL CONVENTION.

In response to the invitation of the General Synod of the Reformed Church, issued some months ago, a large number of delegates from various evangelical churches met in the Reformed church on Washington square at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Dr. Matthews was elected temporary chairman. On taking his seat the venerable chairman made a short address, in the course of which he extended a cordial welcome to all assembled, and stated the object of the Convention to be to effect a union between all Christians of whatever denomination, and to adopt whatever measures might seem wise and proper to effect this purpose. Furthermore, that every person coming to the church on this occasion should leave his distinctive religious character as a denominational churchman outside and be simply a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Upon the conclusion of Dr. Matthews' remarks a prayer meeting was held, during the progress of which the Rev. Richard Newton, D. D., of Philadelphia, arrived, and was invited to take the chair by the Rev. Dr. Matthews, who introduced Dr. Newton in a few words highly complimentary to the gentleman.

Among the clergymen present were the Rev. Drs. Hutton, Booth, Dewitt, Crosby, Smith and Adams.

PERSONAL MOVEMENTS.

Ex-President Johnson, on Wednesday evening next, is expected to hold forth in the great wigwam of Tammany, to the great delight of "the great unwashed, unterrified democracy" of this city. The very short-skirted ballet girls and professional acrobats attached to that institution have been notified that their services will not be required on that particular evening to enhance the performances.

Charles Sumner's private secretary is the son of Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Father Hecker, one of the most popular of the Paulist Fathers, left in the steamer yesterday to attend the great Council at Rome.

Ex-Senator Murphy has purchased the two blocks bounded by Madison and Fourth avenues and Sixty-eighth and Seventieth streets for $512,500.

John Swanson, of Stockholm, Sweden, has bought twenty square miles of land in Missouri for a Swedish colony, and has several thousand people engaged to come there.

It has been suggested that young Kitts, of Baltimore (aged 107), who has petitioned the Council for fees due since the Revolutionary War, should put the sum into bank, for use when he grows old.

Queen Isabella has purchased a property at Bonneuil, in the north of France, for $5,000, for the use of Soeur Patroncinio and twenty-five other Sisters of Charity. Mr. Marfori acts as major domo.

At Montana, Iowa, a few days ago, Judge Chase stopped his court and halted a lawyer in the middle of his argument to marry a couple who swept up before him and could not wait till the court adjourned.

Colonel John S. Thrasher has purchased the Galveston (Texas) Civilian, and will henceforward conduct that old and reliable journal. There is no journalist in the country who surpasses Colonel Thrasher in decision of character, variety of culture and breadth of understanding.

Mr. E. G. Asay, of Chicago, has in his library one peculiar treasure—the original manuscript correspondence between Washington and James Laurens, of South Carolina, detailing the sufferings of the army at Valley Forge. Washington's letters bear his autograph, but are supposed to be in the handwriting of Alexander Hamilton.

Mrs. Carter, a colored woman, aged seventy-six years, died in Desmoines, Iowa, on the 26th ult. The mother of this aged woman, who was 112 years years old last July, was present and witnessed the death of her daughter. This remarkable woman, who is still in possession of the faculties of mind and body, was born in the eastern part of Virginia, and was a slave until her seventy-fifth year.

The Rev. Henry Niles Pierce, who has been elected Missionary Bishop of the Episcopal Church for Kansas and the Indian Territory, is about forty-five years of age. He was born in Rhode Island, and graduated at Brown University. He performed missionary labors for several years in Texas and was at one time rector of St. John's church, Mobile. He is said to be a minister of great ability, and is very popular in the missionary region now placed under his episcopal control.

Jonathan Morgan, a lawyer, linguist and mechanician, who constructed the first steamboat ever seen on a New England river, is now living at Portland, Me., having attained the ripe age of ninety-one years. He is very eccentric, and for many years lived alone in a small attic room, which served as office, bedroom and kitchen. He often boasted that his entire expense of living did not exceed fifty dollars a year, and those best acquainted with his frugal habits and mode of living were quite willing to believe him.

Mrs. Harwood died at the manor of Vaudreuil, Province of Quebec, on the 5th inst. She was Louise, eldest daughter of Chartier de Lotbinière, who was elected Speaker of the Lower Canada House of Assembly in 1794. The latter was the last male representative of the Lotbinières, (who had held seigniorial property in Canada since 1672. In 1823 Miss Lotbinière married Robert Unwin Harwood, an English merchant, who, in 1858, represented the county of Vaudreuil in the House of Assembly, and in 1860 the Rigaud Division in the Legislative Council, until his death in 1863.

THE PETRIFIED GIANT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

On Friday morning, as Mr. W. C. Newell, of Lafayette, Onondaga county, was digging a well he came across a hard substance which excited his curiosity, and upon examination found it to be the form of a man petrified into stone. I give you the dimensions, as follows, which I took to-day:—Length from head to chin, 21 inches; length of nose from brow, 6 inches; length of mouth, 4 inches; width of shoulders from point to point, 3 feet; length of middle finger, 8 inches; from the point of hip to knee joint, 3 feet; diameter through the leg at the thigh, 13 inches; diameter through calf of leg, 9½ inches; height, 10 feet 3 inches; his foot measures 19½ inches; width across the palm of the hand, 7 inches; diameter through the wrist, 5 inches; diameter across the nostrils, 3½ inches. It is a great curiosity, and thousands are going from Syracuse hourly to see the monster.

THE NEWS.

Europe.

Cable telegrams are dated October 20.

Three thousand Spanish troops are ordered for Cuba. Señors Salvochea and Guillen, Spanish republican leaders, were killed, and military executions and fights still prevailed at some points of Spain. French trade strikes are in active progress. Menotti Garibaldi is recruiting volunteers. Lord Derby remained insensible. An anti-Austrian insurrection has broken out in Dalmatia. The radical voters of Paris intend to call on their Parliamentary representatives to resign. Napoleon will review the Imperial Guard of France next Sunday. The Master of the Rolls of Ireland is dead. The London Times reads Napoleon a warning on the political agitation in France, advising him as to the means of its constitutional avoidance.

Turkey.

The Empress of France left Constantinople on Tuesday evening for Alexandria.

Egypt.

International committees are to meet at Cairo to regulate the conditions of navigation of the Suez Canal and define the exact limits and rights of consular jurisdiction subsequent to the opening.

South America.

We have mail advices from Rio Janeiro to the 23d of September. Lopez is known to have secured another strong position in the mountains, and the end of the war is as far off as ever. The allied provisional government at Asuncion is at great expense, and it is estimated that Brazil is expending four times her annual revenue.

Some excitement was created in Buenos Ayres by President Sarmiento's veto of the Intervention bill, the veto being comparatively unknown in the politics of that country.

Miscellaneous.

In his message to Congress the President, it is said, will recommend, in a manner not to be misconstrued, the recognition of the Cuban insurgents.

The Tennessee Legislature met in joint convention yesterday and balloted twice for United States Senator, Johnson receiving on the last ballot 41 votes and Etheridge 29; scattering, 28. Necessary to a choice, 54.

A special Cabinet meeting was held yesterday, and rumor is rife in Washington as to the occasion of it, the usual routine meeting having been held the day before.

There are rumors in Washington of a decided Senatorial opposition to confirming Robeson as Secretary of the Navy. It is held that Pennsylvania deserves a place in the Cabinet and New Jersey does not. Senator Drake, of Missouri, who aspires to the chairmanship of the Committee on Naval Affairs, is personally opposed to Porter, and as a consequence to Robeson.

The State Department publishes an official notice that the Russian government, through its Minister, Mr. de Catacazy, disclaims all responsibility in the matter of redeeming certain bonds of the Crédit Foncier of Poland, which unauthorized parties have stolen and are attempting to dispose of in the New York Exchange.

The officers of the privateer Cuba will have a hearing to-day before the United States Commissioner, at Wilmington, N. C. The case of the vessel will be tried at the November term of the United States District Court for North Carolina.

A report from Colonel Duncan, commanding the Republican river expedition, confirms the report of the massacre by Indians of the surveying party of twelve men, under Nelson Buck, on the Republican river early in September. On the 5th inst. a band of fifty Apaches attacked the Santa Fé mail coach, killing the driver and the guard, consisting of Colonel Stone and four soldiers, and horribly mutilating the bodies. A party of soldiers from Apache Pass were soon after started in pursuit of the marauders, whom they overtook on the afternoon of the 8th, killing twelve Indians and recapturing a large amount of stock and other stolen property.

While a clerk in the Boston Post Office was stamping a letter on Tuesday evening it exploded, injuring his arm severely. The letter contained a quantity of percussion caps.

The Grand Jury panel in Judge Benedict's court numbered several delinquents yesterday, who were ordered to show cause on Saturday why they should not be punished for contempt. Among the number is James Fisk, Jr.

In Judge Bedford's court yesterday two boys, Michael Kavanagh and Joseph White, were arraigned for stealing a lady's watch on the street. John Wilkins, a boy of sixteen, was called as a witness, but positively refused to take the oath, stating that the young highwaymen's companions had threatened him with personal violence if he testified, and his elder brother had advised him not to do so. No urging could persuade the boy to give his testimony, and finally he was allowed to go home, after promising to testify at the next term.

The Spanish Revolution—Its Latest Phase—The Situation Critical.

All our latest news from Spain is of a piece. The revolutionary movement progresses, but daylight is not near. It is impossible to doubt that matters must be worse before they can be better in that unhappy land. All immediate hope of "durable tranquillity, of temperate freedom," must now, we fear, be abandoned. Spain stands on the verge of a gulf not dissimilar to that on which stood France on the eve of the outbreak of 1789. There are no doubt points of difference; but it may safely be said that a Spanish republic in 1870 is a much more likely thing than was a French republic in 1792. It is just as certain that a Spanish republic cannot be reached but by a pathway of blood.

It now appears that Valencia, after all, has not given up the struggle. Late advices have it that when the government troops entered the city they were received by the insurgents with volleys of musketry, and that, the fire being returned, the fight commenced more fiercely than ever. The republican leaders Salvochea and Guillen have been killed, and the Regent thanks the army through Prim for its loyalty and services. It is added, however, that the garrison of San Matteo meditated going over in a body to the insurgents. The conspiracy, it is true, was discovered and frustrated, but the great fact remains that the army is not fully satisfied. This news will fly over Spain, and we may expect at any moment to learn that defection has become general. If anything were needed to prove that the present government has been reduced to almost the last extremity it is furnished by the letter which we published yesterday from our special correspondent at Madrid. Our correspondent finds it next to impossible to have any news transmitted by telegraph. Our money has been taken, but our telegrams have been garbled or retained. The extremity of the situation is equally illustrated by the bloodthirsty spirit revealed in Prim's instructions to the Captains General. When terror reigns, when truth is so much dreaded, when the national exchequer is empty and when money cannot be raised on any terms, the end cannot be far off. It is difficult to conceive of a great nation, as Spain at least ought to be, in more wretched circumstances. A great opportunity has been lost; and the absolute failure of Prim, Serrano and their friends, which is still very probable, will have few parallels in the whole range of history.

Although we have given up all hope of any good being done by the present government, we have not given up all hope of the Spanish people. We do not despair of their final success. They have all through behaved well. They were patient under Isabella so long as patience was possible. They trusted the revolutionary leaders. In spite of the republican sentiment with which a large section of the Spanish people are imbued they acquiesced in the regency. They were willing to hope, but hope has been turned to bitter disappointment. Promise has been abundant, but fruit has been nowhere. Patience is now exhausted, and the Spanish people begin to give promise that they mean to think for themselves, and that, in spite of priest or army, they may make the revolution a success. It will not be wonderful if Barcelona, Cadiz, Malaga and the other large cities swell the ranks of revolution, and by giving the army too much to do break it up. The San Matteo affair proves that such a breaking up is no longer an impossibility. If only the people could find a leader—such a man as Cromwell, for example, or Napoleon—Spain might emerge from this revolutionary crisis stronger than she has been for centuries. The defect of the revolution hitherto has been that it has failed to develop men of any calibre. In the strife, which in our judgment is now imminent, this defect may be supplied. The republican party has surely a man to set against Prim.

It is undeniable that the present anti-government movement is republican. We hear nothing of Carlists, nothing of Isabellinos. It has all along been held by a certain class that Spain had no sympathy with republican principles. This opinion was encouraged by the facility with which the government carried all its measures in the Cortes. It is notorious, however, that all the power of the government was put forth to prevent the republican party from having a majority in the Cortes, and that the republican element in the Chambers was no test of the republican strength in the country. Since 1848 the workingmen of the northeast of Spain have become republicans almost to a man; and it was stated recently at the Bâle Workingmen's Congress that the Spanish workingmen's associations could boast of one hundred and twenty-five thousand members. The priests and Napoleon are the two great enemies to a Spanish republic, and both for the most selfish reasons; but it is not impossible that an outburst may take place soon which will imperil both the Church and the empire. Unquestionably Spain has a hard road to travel, but her condition is not yet hopeless.

The Case of the Cuban Privateer.

The Cuba, or Hornet as she was called, has been surrendered to the United States and the Cuban flag hauled down. The United States Marshal boarded her and demanded the surrender. Upon Captain Higgins, of the Cuba, declining to surrender, except to an officer of the United States Navy and under a direct order from the President, Lieutenant Commander Peirson, of the gunboat Frolic, went on board the Cuba and produced the order direct from the President. Captain Higgins gave up his vessel and his sword, and is now a prisoner under the naval authorities. The despatch from Wilmington says the Cuba has been libelled, but we have no details as to the legal proceedings in the case, if there were any, or as to the precise ground on which she was libelled. To libel a vessel is simply to charge her with something against the laws and placing her under the authority of the government libelling her until the case can be tried by the courts in the regular way. But it appears that the flag of the Cuba was hauled down and her captain arrested by an order direct from the President. From this it seems that the Executive has taken the matter out of the hands of the legal authorities. However, the despatch is not clear, and we must wait for further information before forming an opinion in the matter or commenting on the action of the government. The only important fact established is that this Cuban privateer has been seized and is held for a violation of the laws. Whatever may be the legal features of the case hereafter to be developed, or whatever may be the result when a trial takes place, the vessel is prevented from doing any service for the Cubans. While we may condemn the government for its shortsighted policy or timidity with regard to Cuba, we suppose it has acted in this case upon sufficient evidence.

With all our sympathy for the Cubans and wish to see the United States government take a bold and decisive course to secure their independence, we cannot help thinking Captain Higgins and the Cubans have foolishly and prematurely thrown a responsibility upon our government which compels it to act against its wishes in defending its honor and international obligations. We would rather have seen this privateer afloat and doing good service for the Cuban cause; but a great nation like the United States, when forced into such a position, must observe the laws. The Cuban Junta, or agents of the Cuban government here, show little ability. Nor do the crowds of young Cubans in this country show by their acts that ardent patriotism they talk so much about, for instead of loafing away their time here they should be fighting for their country. How truly the poet expresses it when he says,

> Hereditary bondsmen! know ye not,
> Who would be free themselves must strike the blow?

However, these temporary misfortunes may be but as a passing shadow. They may lead the Cubans to renewed energy, and the United States to a more positive policy soon in favor of Cuban independence. Though the Hornet is seized, other vessels with expeditions and supplies are running into Cuban harbors. There is reason to believe the brave Captain Harris, who sailed with the Lilian about the same time the Hornet was at sea, has landed his valuable cargo on the island. The reverses the Cubans may meet with—and great reverses are incident to all such movements—should have the effect only of stimulating them to greater energy and determination.

THE SITUATION IN PARAGUAY.—The news which we publish this morning from our special correspondents in South America corroborates the views we have taken regarding the condition of President Lopez. After suffering almost innumerable defeats he is still in a position to face the enemy. The allies have abandoned the pursuit, and Lopez, safe for the present from molestation, no doubt will improve his chances to strengthen his army by fresh accessions of men and war material.

THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT orders three thousand additional troops to Cuba. Is the government really getting the better of the insurrection at home, or is the Cuban reinforcement story merely a "make believe?"

THE FIRST SNOW STORM.—St. Louis, of all our great cities, carries off this fall the prize of the first snow storm. They had a snow storm there on Tuesday last, continuing from seven in the morning till noon. The old weathercocks say that this early beginning of snow is a sign of a rough winter.

How Napoleon Holds the "Reds"—A French Revolution Postponed.

The French democrats and revolutionary "reds" have, as we are assured by cable telegrams and our special correspondence by mail from Europe, abandoned the idea of their grand legislative oppositionist demonstration in Paris on the 26th instant. The programme of the movement was duly prepared, but has not, it appears, been perfected, for the simple reason that the chief actors did not feel themselves quite "up to" the parts in which they were likely to be cast, the managers becoming convinced at the same time that the play was old-fashioned and not likely to "draw." The fact is it was not popular. The Paris press, so far from "puffing" the enterprise, came out flatly against it, the Avenir National—the only sincere paper, it may be, of the republican organs—pronouncing it "useless, inopportune and susceptible of ending fatally." It was shown, indeed, that it was more than "susceptible," if that is the word, of producing very unpleasant results; for we find that the democratic republican "reds" were assaulted and "very roughly handled" by the populace after the adjournment of a preliminary meeting. The Parisians, in truth, are out of tone with trading agitators and émeutes made to order or undertaken in the interest of foreign government intriguers. They have become commercial, trading and shop-keeping. They invest their money in the funds and savings banks, and find that it pays better in such shape than it would when in the pantaloons pockets of the political "leaders." The Paris Pays, indeed, tells us so in the following words:—"When an émeute is likely to cost something more than a box at the Opera Comique the Parisian keeps aloof; and if the disturbance is likely to interfere with the sale over the counter, and, by frightening the bill discounters, imperil the monthly settlement, he becomes ferocious against the disturber of order. In 1848 the grocers dispersed the bands who perambulated the streets to the tune of the Lampions, and the last riots on the Boulevard owed their repression to the resistance of the proprietors and waiters of the cafés, whose receipts were reduced to zero by the row."

The sales "across the counter" and the "monthly settlement" speak the whole story, particularly "the monthly settlements." Since the establishment of the empire under Napoleon III. the French government has asked six loans from the French people, embracing the period from the year 1854 to 1866-67. The first, in 1854, was for two hundred and fifty millions of francs; in 1855 two loans, amounting in the total to twelve hundred millions, the entire aggregate of the six footing up the enormous sum of two thousand six hundred and ninety millions of francs. The French people supplied the cash so freely that on different occasions the doors of the places of "inscription" had to be closed by the police against persons wishing to invest after the required sum had been obtained. Then, again, we find that in 1868 the total interest payable on French rentes yearly was 343,544,505 francs, and that the holders of scrip numbered 100,095,683.

This is the real secret of how Napoleon, with all his faults and the coup d'état, holds the "reds"—not in personal fetters of steel, as in the days of the Bastile—but by warping French society against them in delicate, wavy threads of gold. The "reds" do very little work and consequently have very little cash to "inscribe" in any useful investment, and just so far the Emperor and the people repudiate them. France has had about enough of revolution. An old Asiatic tiger hunter at Singapore, having been severely wounded in a struggle with one of the animals, gave up tiger hunting immediately after his escape, remarking to his friends, who advised him to continue the exercise, "Tiger hunting is a very fine sport so long as you hunt the tiger, but when the tiger begins to hunt you it is very bad sport indeed." Such is the situation, as it appears to us, in France.

The Late Louisville Commercial Convention—Asking Too Much.

General Walbridge, in his speech on Tuesday, before the Chamber of Commerce at Cincinnati, gave an account of the proceedings of the recent Louisville Convention. He described this Convention as national in its character, embracing delegates from every State in the Union. Among the prominent sentiments which he said prevailed in the Convention was one that the public debt should be paid as it was stipulated when contracted. This, however, may mean anything or nothing. Another was that the South had been impoverished by the rebellion, and that she should be aided by the general government so as to develop her natural resources. Such, he declared, was the unanimous opinion of the Convention, and to this end, he added, it was decidedly in favor of opening a water line communication between the Ohio and the Atlantic, of reconstructing the levees on the Mississippi, of giving aid to the steam lines projected between Southern ports and Europe and of aiding in the construction of another continental railway.

Now, we must respectfully submit that all this is asking a little too much. Desirable as the accomplishment of these various objects may be, to demand it from government now, while laden with the present huge burden of debt, is at least inopportune. If the people of Virginia and Ohio cannot together effect the completion of the canal from Lynchburg across the Alleghanies to the Ohio they will have to wait. If the estates along the Mississippi are not valuable enough to raise loans upon for the building of levees the owners of the estates will also have to wait. Similar patience must be exercised by the projectors of steam lines from Southern ports to Europe, if private enterprise prove unequal to the task of establishing them. And as for extending government aid to another continental railway, we understand that all that is wanted by General Fremont, who is at the head of the Southern Pacific Railway enterprise, is the right of way through the public domain. Doubtless this will be accorded through Arkansas, the Indian country, New Mexico and Arizona, and Texas will make ample donations for the purpose, while the Californians will do their share towards completing the road commenced at San Diego. But it is out of the question to talk of additional grants of government bonds in aid of railways, canals, steam lines and levees. What has been done for the Pacific Railroad must suffice for the present. President Grant has clearly intimated that this is the case, and that our first object should be to lighten instead of increasing the burden of public taxes. We repeat that the Louisville Convention asks too much. The South is getting on very well with its cotton crop of and its sugar and tobacco crops. We rejoice in the returning prosperity of the Southern people, and we believe that the time has come for them to help themselves.

Father Hyacinthe—The Puritans After Him.

The Puritan pastors of Boston had a meeting the other evening in the Meionaon (whatever that may be), to consider the propriety of inviting Father Hyacinthe to the hospitalities of "the Hub." They had prayer, after which the Rev. Gilbert Haven, D. D., explained the object of the meeting, remarking, in conclusion, that "it was not known that Father Hyacinthe had left the Catholic Church;" that "all that they knew was that he had taken a very bold step and had incurred the displeasure of the Pope, and if welcomed here (in Boston) it might lead him further in the good work." Some discussion followed as to the form of the proposed invitation, whether it should be by committee or by letter, and whether on religious or patriotic considerations; but it was at length agreed to appoint a committee of five parsons, one from each of the denominations in the meeting, to confer with Father Hyacinthe, and so a committee of nine was appointed. But we apprehend that this committee will not make much out of Father Hyacinthe. As friends he will receive them kindly, but as heretics he will dismiss them. He believes in the holy Catholic Church; but he wants it to go forward in the light of the nineteenth century, and not backward to the Council of Trent and the dark ages. If the Puritans of Boston can get up and send forward a committee of Catholics to wait upon Father Hyacinthe they may capture him; but a committee of Roundheads will not answer. Upon the whole, however, we think that the best thing the Boston Puritans and our Protestant friends generally can do with Father Hyacinthe is to let him alone. His battle is inside the lines of the Catholic Church, and until this conflict shall have been decided, for him or against him, all Protestant intrusions upon him will be impertinent if not offensive.

Important Discoveries in the Colorado Country.

Among the recent arrivals at Washington we regard as the most important that of Colonel Samuel Adams, in the service of the War Office, from a "prospecting" tour of four years, with a party of eleven men, in the Colorado country. We mean the extensive region on the western flank of the Rocky Mountains drained by the tributaries of the great Colorado of the West—a region from north to south through Colorado Territory, the northwest corner of New Mexico, and into the heart of Arizona, of some seven hundred miles in length, with a width of three or four hundred miles. This region, from 1845, when first crossed by Fremont in the north, to this time, has been crossed at various points by Gunnison, Simpson, Sitgreaves and other government explorers going west in search of a route for a Pacific railroad; but it was reserved for Colonel Adams to explore it from north to south, and with a special eye to the resources of this interesting region.

Where Fremont crossed it in 1845, between latitudes thirty-eight and forty north, he has left upon the map this endorsement:—"Elevated plains, fertile, gently rolling, with fresh water lakes and timber." In the report of Simpson's detour further south, 1849, we have numerous illustrations of ancient ruins, inscriptions, paintings and pottery in the Cañon de Chaco and Cañon de Chelly, tributaries of the Colorado. On the line of Sitgreaves' tour of 1852 in the valley of the Colorado Chiquita, another tributary of the great Colorado, we have the localities marked of numerous ruins, "San Francisco Forest," springs, &c. Colonel Adams from north to south has crossed all these lines of exploration, and discovered an extent and variety of natural resources in the country "prospected" hitherto unknown. He found rich gold mines that can be worked all the year round, and in the central portions of Arizona and New Mexico he found the richest country he has ever seen. He saw there wild wheat, rye, oats and barley growing six feet high, and ruins of ancient cities built of stone, fortifications, canals and abandoned mines. The party also discovered oil wells, tar wells, and salt and coal in abundance, and in one section forests of splendid timber sufficient to supply all the wants of the timberless regions of Southern Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona, which are now supplied from Oregon by way of the Pacific and the Gulf of California and lower Colorado river.

Here, then, on the western flanks of the Rocky Mountain chain we have resources sufficient to make of the Territories of Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona rich and prosperous States in agricultural products and manufactures. While, therefore, the lofty tablelands on both sides of the great cañon of the main Colorado for a hundred or hundreds of miles may be worthless, as described by Professor Powell, it is disclosed by Colonel Adams that eastward among the tributaries of the Colorado there is an extensive region which may be pronounced among the richest in the Union in its natural products, with the finest climate in the world. Thus, in the course of the development of this beautiful mountain country, every opening in the chasm of the Colorado torrent may be filled with mills, foundries and factories, and the torrent itself may be made available for transportation to the sea.

Such is the value of the intelligent explorer of unknown lands in these days of the progress and expansion of the civilized races of the earth; and still, within the spacious boundaries of the United States, we have much to learn, leaving Alaska, from the report of General Thomas, as only fit to be left out in the cold.

MAYOR HALL TO HORACE GREELEY.—Read the Mayor's letter elsewhere in these columns. The Mayor has these advantages over his adversary:—He does not lose his temper, and he is always witty, sparkling and entertaining, while Greeley, in his efforts to be serious and impressive, is apt to be dull, or somewhat too free in offensive epithets withal.

What the Canadians Have to Suffer—The Union Still Open to Them.

The people of the New Dominion have been frequently invited to come into the Union and be thus completely reconstructed as free American citizens under the flag of the United States. We have ourselves advised them to this step on many and divers occasions, and have been rejoiced, on account of the Canadians themselves and their worldly future, to hear frequently and from reliable sources that our advices have been favorably received generally in the territory. The complete fruition has, however, been always retarded by some outside foreign event, such as the arrival of Prince Arthur, the tour of the Mohawks to meet him, a plan of some English loan to the Grand Trunk Railroad, or the arrangement of a visit of the entire Anglo-Canadian Cabinet to London, where its members are, for the most part, merely permitted to warm themselves—Canadians can do it after the home cold—in the outside corridors leading to the Foreign Office, Downing street.

This is really to be regretted; for the Canadians may just as well have an American citizen vote, with the fun, and, perhaps, profit of casting it, as be made to take an involuntary part in all our great election contests, Presidential and in New York city and State, without any collateral advantage. They are in this difficult and embarrassing situation just at present. We are about to have "a good time" at our election next month, and just for the reason that we are the "Toronto field battery is ordered out," and "kits" and "provisions" and "guns" and "stores" fit for the use of a fine army are lying about that city for miles. Gunpowder is handled as if it were perfumed snuff; Kingston is in arms, and every young British trumpeter on this side the ocean is busy practising to sound the "advance" and "charge" for the use of the regular troops, tooting out the "retreat" for the locals and volunteers. Two royal gunboats, fully armed and equipped, are running round the lakes; the militia are hurrying off to Goderich, while Prince Arthur has assumed a sort of amphibious and neutral position on the Lower Ottawa.

Here we have a regular Canadian flurry, and all because New York is about to have an election, and that certain Irish-American gentlemen are very anxious to be elected, requiring only a little more cash just "to carry the thing right through." They appear likely to have it, and a good deal of it, too, soon, as they have chartered and armed the gunboat Sunburst—"what's in a name?"—to be despatched to Canada to look for it and carry it back—all in Canadian silver. Much better for the Canadians they were in the "ring" themselves, as they will be some fine morning or other. What ticket will they hold?

THE TENNESSEE SENATORSHIP.—Two ballots were had by the Tennessee Legislature yesterday, neither of which resulted in the selection of a United States Senator. Mr. Johnson remained at the head of the poll, but it was evident that his enemies were determined to prevent his election if they could. The balloting to-day will, we trust, result in the success of the ex-President. He is such a man as the country needs in the United States Senate, and if the Tennessee legislators desire their State represented by a man of prominence, of ability and of integrity they will no longer listen to the clamors of the impracticables who oppose him, but will make Mr. Johnson their choice without delay.

THE PETRIFIED GIANT.—They have found in the neighborhood of Syracuse, according to the Standard of that city of salt, what is supposed to be a petrified giant, a manly figure in stone, over ten feet high. If the report is true the discovery is certainly a wonderful thing, as a work of nature or a work of art. If it is the petrified body of a man, then we may say that around the Syracuse salt works and of the age in which he flourished "there were giants in those days;" but if "the critter" is only a statue cut by some cunning hand from a block of stone the questions recur, who was the sculptor? Where did he come from and what did he get for his job? And is it the effigy of the veritable big Indian, or what? Western New York, however, is famous for wonderful discoveries, such as the dead body of Morgan by Thurlow Weed—"a good enough Morgan till after the election"—and the golden plates of the book of Mormon by Joe Smith. The petrified giant no doubt belongs to this class of discoveries; but as it is a harmless sensation we hope it may live through the allotted period of a nine days' wonder.

Farwell has been detached from the Washington Navy Yard and ordered to the Lancaster. Lieutenant Commander Henry Glass has been ordered to equipment duty at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. OBITUARY.

A Dublin despatch dated yesterday reports the death of this gentleman. He was yet in the prime of life, having been born in November, 1816. Educated at Trinity College, Dublin, he graduated with credit, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1839. In 1857 he was made Queen's Counsel, and in the early part of 1866 was appointed Attorney General for Ireland. During October of the same year he was made Master of the Rolls in Ireland, a position held at the time of his death. For a few months Mr. Walsh was one of the members for the University of Dublin. He wrote and published several works, among which the best known are "Justice of the Peace for Ireland" (1844), "Reports in Chancery, Irish" (1845-49), and "Ireland Sixty Years Ago," (1847).

A FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLAR LIBEL SUIT.

N. D. Morgan, President of the North American Life Insurance Company, has sued Messrs. Sutton, Bowne & Co., as publishers of the Aldine Press, for libel, and lays his damages at $50,000. The article to which exception is taken appears in the October number of the Aldine, and criticises the peculiar plan of registered life policies practised by Mr. Morgan's company.

BURGLARY IN FIFTH AVENUE.

Some time during Tuesday night the residence of Le Grande P. Cannon, No. 311 Fifth avenue, was entered by burglars, it is believed, who accomplished it by working in through one of the windows. They then proceeded up stairs, broke into closets, trunks, drawers, &c., and stole a large amount of valuable furs, clothing, &c., the exact value of which cannot be ascertained, as the family are in the country, and the only occupant of the house was an old man who was left in charge. He can give no satisfactory account of the occurrence, but was in the house at the time. Suspicions point strongly to certain persons who are under the surveillance of the police.

ENGLAND.

British Advice to Napoleon.

LONDON, Oct. 20, 1869.

The London Times says:—

France, unfortunately, has irreconcilables of a deeper dye than Gambetta and Bancel, whose manifesto is violently attacked by their former associates, while Raspail adheres to his resolution to go to the Legislative Chamber on the 26th inst. So a riot may still be found unavoidable, in which case the authors of the manifesto will have to see what course it is best for them to pursue. France has been brought to this pass through the Emperor's hesitation, not merely in respect to measures, but in the choice of persons to introduce them. The Emperor cannot mean to present himself before the chambers with his old Cabinet. Whatever merits Rouher and Forcade may have, no one can regard them as more than clerks in their master's Cabinet. No one believes they can be raised to the rank of independent and responsible Ministers. It is said the Emperor does not know where to find others. If the situation arises men will be forthcoming. In the meantime any other men are preferable to these. So long as the Emperor is surrounded by the men of yesterday no one can have faith in his good intention for the morrow.

Snow Storm at Denver—Discovery of Supposed Remains of One of Fremont's Exploring Parties—Massacre of Buck's Surveying Party—Capture of a Mail Coach by Apaches and Murder of the Driver and Guard.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct 20, 1869.

Last night snow fell at Cheyenne to the depth of one inch and at Denver to the depth of two inches.

A party of mountaineers discovered some days ago in Southwest Colorado, between the Opal fork of the Rio Grande and the Saquatchie, the bones of six men and forty-six horses, which are supposed to be the remains of a party lost from General Fremont's exploring expedition, of whom nothing has been heard since they started out, twenty years ago.

A report has been received at the department headquarters from Colonel Duncan, who recently commanded the expedition of the Republican river. There is no further doubt that the surveying party of twelve men under Nelson Buck were murdered by the Indians on the Republican river in the latter part of August or early in September.

The following is just received from Santa Fé:—A letter from Apache Pass, dated October 9, reports that about sixty Apaches, led by a chief named Cacliez, attacked a mail coach on the 5th inst., killing the driver, Colonel Stone and four soldiers of the Twenty-first infantry, acting as an escort. They left the bodies of the murdered men naked and horribly mutilated, and carried off the coach and mules. They also captured 300 cattle owned by a man named Scott in the neighborhood. Scott brought the news to Apache Pass, and thereupon Lieutenant Winter and twenty-seven men of the First cavalry started in pursuit and came upon the Indians ninety miles south of Apache Pass Friday forenoon. A fight ensued, in which twelve Indians were killed, the others making their escape. The troops recaptured the mail coach, mules and stock, as well as thirty horses and a large quantity of supplies owned by the Indians.

Adjournment of the Legislature—Arrest of Ex-Revenue Officers for Counterfeiting Tobacco Stamps.

RICHMOND, Oct. 20, 1869.

The Legislature this morning adjourned to meet on the second Tuesday after Congress shall have admitted the State into the Union.

For some time past the authorities at Washington have been apprised of the existence of a gang engaged in the manufacture and sale of counterfeit internal revenue tobacco stamps. A detective was sent here to watch the parties engaged, and to-day the following persons were arrested charged with having in their possession and selling the counterfeit stamps:—Frederick Bannasch, ex-Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue; Captain Thomas W. Roach, ex-detective of the Revenue Department, and Lieutenant John H. Stone, late United States Whiskey Inspector, and at present a special detective. Counterfeit stamps to the amount of $3,000 were seized in the hands of Bannasch. They were sixty pound tobacco stamps, class 32. The United States Commissioner bailed Bannasch and Roach in $10,000, and Stone, against whom the evidence is not so strong, in $5,000 to appear on the 22d inst. It is said the bogus stamps were sent from the manufacturers in New York and are pretty thoroughly circulated in the South.

Great Fire in Cincinnati—Destruction of Lane College, the Young Men's Mercantile Library, and the Chamber of Commerce—Fireman Killed.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 20, 1869.

The College Building is now on fire. The flames on the roof, which is of tin, are thought to extend from end to end. Engines are at work. The building contains the Lane College, Young Men's Mercantile Library, Chamber of Commerce and several stores and offices.

The College Building is a wreck. The rooms above the Mercantile Library and the Chamber of Commerce are burned out entirely. The whole roof and floor above the Chamber of Commerce fell in, taking the floor of the latter to the cellar. That above the Mercantile Library did not fail. A portion of the floor over the reading room was cut by the firemen to let water through. The damage to the building amounted to $40,000; insured in Cincinnati companies. The college loss is $25,000; insured in home companies. The loss of the Mercantile Library is $30,000. The Mercantile Library lost most in three rooms on the third story. The records and valuable English books of Mr. McArthur, the librarian, were all removed safely, but much damage was done to other books on the shelves by water in the main library room. The total loss on the books was $10,000. The insurances on all the above losses are in home companies, except in the Phenix, of Hartford, $5,000; Western, of Buffalo, $5,000; Security and Manhattan, of New York, $5,000 each; Cleveland, of Cleveland, $5,000; Sun, of Cleveland, $2,000. In the fourth story there was a small bookbindery, five dwelling rooms, Appleton's picture framing room, Fleetwood's and Fleetwood's lithographing rooms and two or three rooms for storing goods and furniture. Appleton and Fleetwood lost $10,000. Loss of the other parties, $5,000, mostly insured in Cincinnati companies. On the third floor, besides three library rooms, were Bliss' schoolroom, the law schoolroom, and Winkeler's bookbindery. The loss is $5,000. The insurances were not ascertained. The stores occupying all the first floor were damaged but slightly, and that by water, except the portion occupied by J. N. Harris, manufacturer of patent medicines, directly beneath the Chamber of Commerce room, into which the roof and all the floors fell. Mr. Harris loses $5,000; he is fully insured in the Franklin Company of Cincinnati. The total loss is near $75,000. The valuable statuary in the Mercantile Library room was all saved. The Chamber of Commerce and the Mercantile Library occupied all the second floor.

Captain Matt Schweb, of the Phœnix Hook and Ladder Company, was taken out of the wreck of the College Building this evening, at nine o'clock. He, with others, stood at the head of the stairs in the building fighting the fire when the ceiling fell in, enveloping all in smoke and fire. The others escaped, but he was killed. His head and breast were badly burned.

THE BLOOD HORSE ASSOCIATION.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 20, 1869.

There were two races to-day over the Blood Horse Association's course. The weather was rainy and the track heavy, notwithstanding which there was a large attendance. The first race was for the Merchants' Post Stake, two mile heats, entrance $50; purse $1,000; second horse to receive $200.

Babcock's Humboldt	1	1
Buford's Crossland	2	2
Paul's Jackson	3	3

Time, 3:46½—3:13½. Crossland was the favorite in the pools.

Franklin's Donovan	3	1	1
McCormick's Sue Morrissey	1	2	3
Richards & Kilgour's John Kilgour	2	3	2

Time, 1:48—1:48½—1:49.

WILLIAMSPORT HORSE FAIR.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 20, 1869.

There was an increased attendance at the Herdick Park races to-day. The ground was in excellent condition and the weather was favorable. The accommodations for visitors are ample. The stands are well arranged and will seat over 2,500 people.

The race for the $1,000 purse was again postponed after the third heat. The race for $5,000, for horses that never beat 2:27, was also postponed at the end of the second heat, the sorrel mare Idol winning both heats.

The race for horses that had never beaten four minutes, for a purse of $500, was won by Fanny Fern in three straight heats.

The race for $1,500, for horses that never beat 2:42, was drawn.

TROTTING AT HARTFORD.

HARTFORD, Oct. 20, 1869.

The race to-day for $2,000 between Lucy and George Wilkes was won by the latter in three straight heats. Time, 2:33—2:31½—2:33.

THE GOLD RING AND THE GRAND JURY.

Yesterday afternoon Messrs. Jay Gould and James Fisk, Jr., were formally served with writs of subpœna requiring their attendance before the Grand Jury now in session, and, of course, it would be strange to suppose that these gentlemen were so summoned for any other purpose than to give evidence in connection with the recent Wall street panic and fraud operations in gold.

It will be remembered that Judge Ingraham, at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, recently charged the Grand Jury specially on the subject, and it is probable that the affair will now be very thoroughly sifted.

IS REAL SUNNING HIMSELF?

Taking a Ride on a Street Car—A Deputy Sheriff Doing Escort Duty.

A rumor of a startling character was circulated in police circles yesterday that if true may well cause alarm to all law-abiding citizens. It seems that John Real, the condemned murderer of officer Smedick, of the Twenty-first precinct, was escorted from a felon's cell on Monday afternoon and allowed the freedom of the city. A conductor of the Second Avenue Railroad, who has known Real long and intimately, asserts that the convict and his charge entered his car at the corner of Second avenue and Thirty-fourth street; that Real shook hands with him and rode down town. The gentleman to whom the conductor made these statements is entirely reliable and declares his belief in their correctness.

SOCIETE DE BIENFAISANCE BELGE.

A meeting of the Belgian residents of New York was held last evening in the lecture room of the Cooper Institute, for the purpose of organizing a benevolent society for the relief of distressed Belgians. The chair was taken by Mr. C. Mali, who pointed out briefly the motives which had brought them together, and introduced Mr. Ernest Van Bruyssel, the Belgian Consul to the United States, to the meeting.

Mr. Van Bruyssel expressed his regret that he and his countrymen had been compelled by dire necessity to set about forming an exclusive society. He had found, however, that nationality regulated much of the benevolence of Europeans in this city. Belgians in distress therefore fared badly at the hands of French and Germans. So they had to look to themselves. If all the Europeans would unite together and form one powerful organization they would gladly merge into it. Until that was done they should supply the wants of their necessitous brethren as best they could, and he urged his countrymen throughout the Union to generously aid the efforts now being made. While the French, English, German and Swiss immigrants were provided for the destitute Belgian had to depend on accidental individual charity. Every motive, therefore, suggested to them that they should make a grand endeavor to establish a benevolent organization. These views were endorsed by the meeting. Much discussion was created upon the statutes, which were finally approved.

Subscriptions to the amount of $1,500 were taken and a committee formed to watch over the interests of the society. If the genial, sympathetic feeling of the meeting be reciprocated, as was anticipated last evening, the "Société de Bienfaisance Belge" may be looked on as fairly launched on its career of usefulness.

CIRCLE LYRIQUE FRATERNEL.

A ball was given last evening at the Germania Assembly Rooms by this association, organized both for social and benevolent purposes. Its headquarters are in Prince street, where agreeable reunions are held, among the attractive features of the institution being the vocalization of the members. The Circle Lyrique Fraternel is in fact a singing society, though it has likewise in view the aid of the sick and destitute belonging to it. The ball last night, the first held under the auspices of the society, was comparatively successful, the attendance comprising over a hundred couples. The decorations were appropriate and a good band of music contributed to render the terpsichorean festivities very enlivening. A lengthened programme of dancing was agreeably gone through, and the company separated at a late hour, evidently pleased with the first public venture of the association.

FIRE IN EAST EIGHTEENTH STREET.

Several Shanties and Stables Burned.

About half-past six o'clock last night a fire broke out in the junk shop of John Ryan, in rear of No. 430 East Eighteenth street. It was badly burned, involving a loss of $1,000. The fire extended to several stables, occupied by a number of carmen, all of which were destroyed. The horses, however, were saved, with the exception of Ryan's, valued at $150, which was burned, together with his house and stable. Ryan's total loss on building and stock, it is believed, will reach $3,000, upon which there is no insurance. The stable and coal sheds of John Riley adjoining were damaged about $1,000; insured in the Williamsburg and Tradesmen's Insurance companies. Two frame shanties, worth about $200 each, belonging to the estate of Isaac D. Lapham, were slightly damaged.

WASHINGTON.

The Coming Message of the President.

Cuban Recognition to be Strongly Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1869.

Special Meeting of the Cabinet.

There is a good deal of speculation to-night over a special meeting of the Cabinet, which convened this morning about ten o'clock and remained in session until near noon. The fact that a regular Cabinet meeting was held yesterday, at which, of course, all the routine business would naturally be transacted, gives rise to the surmise that something of importance must have been brought to the attention of the President since which required a Cabinet consultation. The members of the Cabinet are unusually reticent about the meeting, and refuse to give any intimation of what was done. There are all sorts of speculation about it; some have it that the meeting was occasioned by a cable despatch from Sickles relative to Cuba, others that it was a telegram from Motley, and still others that it was to consider some important revenue matters. There can be little doubt that business of importance was considered, but guessing is useless under the present circumstances.

Rumored Opposition to the Confirmation of Secretary Robeson—The President Favoring Cuban Recognition.

There is a story going about here to the effect that certain Senators, and particularly Drake, of Missouri, intend to oppose the confirmation of Secretary Robeson on the meeting of Congress. Neither Robeson nor Belknap, it will be remembered, have yet received a Senatorial endorsement, which is necessary to their complete appointment. Grimes' retirement from the Senate leaves the chairmanship of the Naval Committee vacant, and Drake is said to be an eager candidate for the position. Drake is a man of strong likes and dislikes, and is reported to have some personal spite against Vice Admiral Porter. This spite, it is reported, extends to Robeson, whom Drake assumes to be identical with Porter. He believes Porter has great influence over Mr. Robeson, and therefore desires to defeat the latter's confirmation in the hope of getting in some one who will throw Porter overboard altogether. This is one of the alleged reasons. Another is that Congress at its last session cut down materially the estimates for the navy, which economical hint, it is given out, has been disregarded by the department, which has expended the entire appropriation in addition to such sums as were obtained from the sale of war vessels. The cause of this expenditure ought to be satisfactory to inquisitive Senators. The department desired to place its vessels in proper trim for use in case of any difficulty that might spring out of the Cuban complications, and laid out the money to very good purpose. A third third reason assigned for the anti-Robeson movement is the fact that the great State of Pennsylvania has no representative in the Cabinet, while the little democratic region of New Jersey is honored with one. The Keystoners think that after two hard struggles, successfully made, to keep republicanism in the ascendant in their State, they are entitled to a Cabinet recognition in preference to Jersey. On the other hand it is stated that there is precious little vitality in the anti-Robeson movement. The Naval Secretary feels quite easy in his shoes, and troubles his mind with no fears as to his confirmation, Drake to the contrary notwithstanding. On the reassembling of Congress Mr. Robeson and his friend Porter may suddenly loom up into very great importance. Should the President act as some of his friends declare he will regarding Cuba Senators will very probably be in no mood to bother either Robeson or Porter. These friends of Grant say that in his message he will incorporate all that has transpired in Cabinet and diplomatically regarding Cuba, and that he will recommend Congress to sustain the republican cause in the "ever faithful isle," or at least express himself in such unmistakable language on the subject as to show himself in favor of recognizing the struggling patriots. Should Mr. Fish's prediction of a war with Spain then come true, of course the struggle would be mainly on the ocean and Porter would be the man of the hour.

The Fenian Prisoners in Great Britain.

John M. Moriarty, President of the Irish Republican Association of Philadelphia, had an interview with President Grant and Secretary Fish to-day in behalf of the American citizens of Irish birth now in British prisons. Mr. Moriarty stated that these men had been convicted not for expressions or any overt act in England, but for sentiments uttered in the United States; and that as Mr. Gladstone had refused to liberate them he thought it was the duty of this government to insist that the prisoners should be set at liberty. The President remarked that several delegations had called upon him in relation to the same subject. His sympathies were with those prisoners, and, therefore, he should be gratified at their release. He had placed the matter in the hands of Secretary Fish subsequently. The last gentleman informed Mr. Moriarty that he had already exerted his influence to secure the object of his visit and would persevere to that end; and he gave the assurance that the government would adopt every means in its power to protect all American citizens both at home and abroad in all their rights.

Arguments in the Supreme Court.

In the Supreme Court of the United States to-day argument was continued in the case of Joshua Birrell vs. The Propeller Mohawk, the Western Transportation Company claimant, and the case of The President, &c., of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company vs. the Pennsylvania Canal Company, in error to the Circuit Court for the Southern district of New York.

Stolen Bonds of the Credit Foncier of Poland.

The following official notice has just been promulgated:—

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20, 1869.

Mr. de Catacazy, the Minister of Russia, has informed this Department that certain parties are trying to put into circulation at the New York Exchange some bonds of the Crédit Foncier of Poland, which were stolen from the Bank of Warsaw during the late insurrectionary movement in the Polish provinces; that as soon as the imperial authorities became aware of this robbery they published the numbers of the stolen bonds, and declared them not payable in consequence.

Mr. de Catacazy further states that, being unable to dispose of these bonds in the European markets, the robbers or their accomplices are now trying to find dupes in America; and he disclaims on behalf of the government of Russia all responsibility for any losses which may accrue to citizens of the United States from the purchase of the bonds referred to.

THE TRENTON INTERNAL REVENUE CASE.

United States Marshal Plummer, at Trenton, N. J., yesterday returned a writ of execution, having levied on the property of Messrs. Keeney, Wakeman, Prentice, Gilbert and McLoughlin (deceased), the sureties of ex-Collector Thorne, against whom the government recently obtained a verdict for $100,000, the amount of security in bonds filed by them for the faithful discharge of Thorne's duties as Collector of the Fifth district of New Jersey. The property levied consists of real estate in Jersey City. The sureties attempted to effect a compromise with the government by offering $25,000, which was refused. They then allowed the matter to lie in obeyance, manifesting no disposition to discharge, the claim when the District Attorney obtained a writ of execution as above mentioned. An indictment is pending against Thorne also for criminal neglect in causing the government to lose the tax—two dollars a gallon—on 50,000 gallons of whiskey.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Election of a Representative to the Suez Canal Opening—The Tare on Cotton in Liverpool.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday at the rooms, corner of Cedar and William streets. Some time was lost in hunting up nine members out of the 800 or 900 comprising the Chamber, and when, finally, the nine were secured the President, Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, called the meeting to order. He stated that it was a special meeting for a special object, and asked the Secretary to read the communication on which the call for the meeting was based. Mr. Wilson, the Secretary, then read from a slip of the HERALD of Monday last a copy of a letter sent by order of the Viceroy of Egypt to the editor of the HERALD inviting him to attend the opening of the Suez Canal. A similar letter had been sent to the President of the Chamber, but he could not attend, and he assured the gentlemen that he thought it would be in order for the Chamber to select a member to represent the commerce of this country at the opening of the Suez Canal. He said it would be one of the most important and most interesting events affecting commerce that has ever transpired. The improvements, he said, come so rapidly on us that we can scarcely comprehend them. He then went on to recite some of the events which have affected commerce and awarded "steam and electricity" such complimentary notice as would delight the hearts of certain "progressive" residents of the New World. He then said that Mr. S. B. Ruggles, a member of the Chamber, was at present in Paris, and would, no doubt, be happy to represent the Chamber at the opening of the Suez Canal. On motion, then, Mr. Ruggles was chosen to act as representative of the Chamber, and a vote of thanks, together with the notice of the election of Mr. Ruggles, was ordered to be transmitted to the government by which the invitation was sent to the President of the Chamber.

By unanimous consent of the nine gentlemen present Mr. Maury was permitted to offer a report from the special committee on the subject of a communication from the Chamber of Commerce in Liverpool. The report, which was unanimously adopted, is as follows:—

The committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to consider the communication from the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, recommending tare and draft on cotton purchased in this country, has had the subject under full consideration and cannot recommend any action on the question.

At first sight it would seem that the consumer or the party in England ordering purchases of cotton would get more cotton for his money, but the differences between Liverpool and New York weights are all so closely allowed for, even to the hundredth part of a penny per pound, that this would not be the effect, and no means except a man's own judgment can in either case deal with the question of loss in weight by evaporation, which is an uncertain and often an important percentage. Thus, if the Liverpool proposition were adopted, the condition of the trade would not be improved, and a new series of questions and disputes would probably arise.

It would be practically impossible to bring about the change suggested by the Liverpool Chamber.

The various local associations in all our ports are constantly engaged in devising improved regulations respecting the purchase and sale of cotton, and all such questions may be safely left in their hands.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. MAURY.
HENRY M. TABER.

There being no further business before the Chamber the nine gentlemen adjourned.

THE STATE CANALS.

Convention of Merchants Interested in Reform—Organization of a "Commercial Union."

The convention of delegates from the various Boards of Trade and of individuals throughout the State interested in reforming the canal management and improving the canal trade was held yesterday at the rooms of the Citizens' Association, 813 Broadway, in this city, pursuant to the call made September 17 last by the joint committees of the association, the Chamber of Commerce and the New York Produce Exchange. The Convention was called at ten o'clock A. M., and no persons were admitted except those who presented invitations of the joint committees or who bore credentials from trade organizations.

All the prominent and some of the lesser cities and towns along the line of the canals were represented and the meeting was large and earnest. Mr. Jeremiah P. Robinson was elected President of the Convention and Mr. Joseph F. Daly Secretary. Addresses were made by ex-Mayor Fish, of Rochester, Messrs. Niles, of Buffalo; Duganne, of New York; Lacy, of Albany; Messrs. Nathaniel Sands, James P. Wallace and Edward Hincken; Messrs. Niles, Case and W. H. Barclay, of Buffalo; Mr. Peter Cooper and others. The Convention unanimously resolved that an organization must be formed among those persons interested through the State in the reform of the canal system and trade, which organization should extend along the whole line of the canals, and have for its object the protection of the canals and their trade and the prosecution of corrupt and neglectful canal officers. A committee of six, with the president and secretary, was appointed to prepare and submit a plan of organization. This committee returned after a long session and reported a complete system of secret organization among persons interested in the canal trade. This plan was unanimously adopted by the Convention.

The leading features of the plan are:—A State Central Committee of nine persons, having its headquarters in one of the principal cities of the State, whence as a base of operations its movements against the fraudulent contractors and corrupt officials of the canal ring are to proceed. This committee is vested with power to call conventions and delegates from localities at such times and places as may be proper, in order to decide on any plan of operations in the Legislature or elsewhere. A corps of trusty agents, unknown to each other, are to be set upon short sections of the canals night and day to collect evidence against contractors, officials, thieves, &c., who make daily reports with sworn affidavits, sufficient to base charges and impeachments upon. In every village, town and city of the State on the line of the canals local executive committees are to be established, who employ local detectives and agents to follow the tracks of officials and contractors, to gather proofs, &c., and to forward sworn affidavits to the central committee to be used in prosecutions of the delinquents.

Resolutions were adopted concurring in the memorial presented to the Legislature last year in behalf of the State Canal Convention, recommending that the State Central Committee elected by this Convention be instructed to support the objects of the memorial before the next Legislature, and urging the speedy completion of improvements in the canals, &c.; also the reduction of the rate of tolls and the abolition of the contract repair system in canals, and that it be recommended to the Legislature that the canal debt of this State, now about $9,000,000, shall be funded for a term of eighteen years, and that the tolls shall be reduced to the lowest practicable sum, thus enabling our canal system to present the cheapest possible means of commercial intercourse between the Atlantic seaboard and the States of the great West.

DOMESTIC INFELICITIES IN NEW JERSEY.

Interesting Divorce Suits—Opinions by the Chancellor.

Yesterday in the Court of Chancery at Trenton Chancellor Zabriskie delivered opinions in the cases of Flavell vs. Flavell and Codington vs. Codington.

In the first case the Chancellor said it was a suit by Abraham W. Flavell for a divorce from his wife, the defendant, Charlotte A. Flavell, on the ground of adultery. The answer denied the adultery, and also charged the complainant with adultery by way of recrimination and as a defence to the suit. The cause is upon admitting the testimony of George Moore, who was sworn on the part of the complainant, and after the first day's examination either absented or secreted himself, both parties having vainly endeavored to find or procure him. Moore had not signed either his direct or cross-examination, so far as proceeded with. The defendant asked to suppress the testimony of Moore for that reason, and the Chancellor, after an elaborate dissertation on the admissability of certain evidence and the citation of numerous judicial authorities, arrived at the conclusion that Moore's deposition not being signed by him was imperfect and could not be read. The Chancellor ordered a decree for divorce to be entered in favor of Abraham W. Flavell.

The bill in the case of Codington vs. Codington was for a divorce a vinculo for desertion. The defendant (wife) being out of this State was served with a notice to appear and defend the suit, but she failed to do so. The special master reported that the case was not within the jurisdiction of this court, and that the divorce should not be granted. The parties were married in the city of New York, and resided there four years after their marriage, after which they removed to Bergen Point, in this State, in 1858, with the intention of living there. On the 27th of July in that year the defendant deserted her husband and has never since lived with him. The complainant resided at Bergen Point for a month or two after his wife left him and then returned to New York. In this case neither of the parties resided in this State for more than two months after the desertion commenced. The residence of these parties being in the State of New York, neither party, by stepping over to this State with his trunk and taking lodgings for a few weeks, can give to this court jurisdiction in the matter. Even if the requirements of the statutes of the State were strictly complied with, the decree of divorce would be a nullity, and in the State of New York the marriage relation would still exist. The Chancellor held that this case was not within the provisions of the statute, for the first section provides that the parties or one of them shall be inhabitants of the State at the time of the desertion complained of, and the last clause requires that one of them shall have been a resident of the State for three years during which such desertion shall have continued. On these grounds the application for a divorce was denied. A number of other opinions were read, but they were of an uninteresting character. The calendar for this term is unusually large.

FRIGHTFUL CUTTING AFFRAY.

A Steamboat Deck Hand Attacks and Mutilates a Barge Watchman—Anti-Mortem Statement—Arrest of the Would-Be Murderer.

Last night another terrible altercation, unfortunately alike to the deadly quarrels of late that have cast discredit upon the city, took place on the dock at the foot of Warren street between John S. Gormley and John Edge, during which the latter was frightfully cut in the neck with a knife used by the former. The nature of Edge's wounds is such that serious doubts are entertained of his recovery. The particulars gathered at a late hour last night reveal that Edge is a watchman on board the barge Susquehanna, at the above pier, and his assailant is a deck hand employed on board the steamboat Montana, plying hence to Perth Amboy. About seven o'clock in the evening Gormley sauntered down the dock and went on board the barge, when he was ordered off by the watchman, during which unpleasant words passed between them, but at that time no blows were struck, when, in obedience to Edge's commands, Gormley retreated, and when on the dock still persistently abused the former, daring him "to come off and fight." Edge very foolishly did so, when, still further provoked, he struck Gormley, who drew a knife and stabbed him in the left side of the neck, repeating the blow with like terrible effect after the two had clinched and were fighting on the pier. A crowd soon gathered, drawn together by the loud cries, when the wounded man crawled back to the barge, the blood gushing in a large stream from the gashes. He was soon afterward removed to the City Hospital by officer Markey, of the Third precinct, who, hearing of the disturbance, promptly arrested Gormley and one or two friends that were near the scene of blood.

Coroner Flynn was at once notified of the dangerous condition of the wounded man, when he at once repaired to the hospital with his deputy, Dr. Shine, and, after empanneling a jury, the following

was taken:—

My name is John Edge; am twenty-seven years of age. Live on board the barge Susquehannah. I do not know whether I shall die or not; I hope to recover; I am a watchman on board the barge named, now lying at the foot of Warren street; she hails from Newburg. This evening, about seven o'clock, three men came on the dock; three men, the prisoner (Gormley) being one of them, who alone soon after came on board the barge. I ordered him off, but he refused to go. He wanted to fight with me. The other two men then called him and he went off. He then wanted me to come off to the dock and there fight him. I went on the dock and struck the prisoner. He then cut me with a knife in the neck, when I threw him down. At this time he cut me a second time. Finding myself cut I got back to the barge, when I was taken to the hospital. The man here present is the same one that cut me.

The jury after this statement rendered the following verdict:—"John Edge came to his wounding on the night of October 20, on the Warren street dock, at the hands of John S. Gormley, with a knife."

The prisoner was then taken to the station house on Chambers street, where he was securely incarcerated. Gormley is but twenty-one years of age, and in his statement says that he was knocked down during the trouble, when he cut some one. He is not an unpleasant looking fellow, and says he was on the dock looking for freight for the steamer on which he is a deck hand. Although not drunk when arrested, he had been drinking. He was very anxious at a later hour in the night to know of the condition of his victim.

The wounds Edge received may prove fatal, and it is feared they will; but there is a chance of his recovery; yet the surgeons at the hospital could not at midnight venture an opinion upon his condition. Gormley will be araigned at the Tombs' Police Court this morning, and the disposition then made of him will depend upon Edge's chances of life. The knife used is a pocket knife, formerly four-bladed, but now has but three. The large blade is badly stained with blood.

British Advice to Napoleon.

LONDON, Oct. 20, 1869.

The London Times says:—

France, unfortunately, has irreconcilables of a deeper dye than Gambetta and Bancel, whose manifesto is violently attacked by their former associates, while Raspail adheres to his resolution to go to the Legislative Chamber on the 26th inst. So a riot may still be found unavoidable, in which case the authors of the manifesto will have to see what course it is best for them to pursue. France has been brought to this pass through the Emperor's hesitation, not merely in respect to measures, but in the choice of persons to introduce them. The Emperor cannot mean to present himself before the chambers with his old Cabinet. Whatever merits Rouher and Forcade may have, no one can regard them as more than clerks in their master's Cabinet. No one believes they can be raised to the rank of independent and responsible Ministers. It is said the Emperor does not know where to find others. If the situation arises men will be forthcoming. In the meantime any other men are preferable to these. So long as the Emperor is surrounded by the men of yesterday no one can have faith in his good intention for the morrow.

Snow Storm at Denver—Discovery of Supposed Remains of One of Fremont's Exploring Parties—Massacre of Buck's Surveying Party—Capture of a Mail Coach by Apaches and Murder of the Driver and Guard.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct 20, 1869.

Last night snow fell at Cheyenne to the depth of one inch and at Denver to the depth of two inches.

A party of mountaineers discovered some days ago in Southwest Colorado, between the Opal fork of the Rio Grande and the Saquatchie, the bones of six men and forty-six horses, which are supposed to be the remains of a party lost from General Fremont's exploring expedition, of whom nothing has been heard since they started out, twenty years ago.

A report has been received at the department headquarters from Colonel Duncan, who recently commanded the expedition of the Republican river. There is no further doubt that the surveying party of twelve men under Nelson Buck were murdered by the Indians on the Republican river in the latter part of August or early in September.

The following is just received from Santa Fé:—A letter from Apache Pass, dated October 9, reports that about sixty Apaches, led by a chief named Cacliez, attacked a mail coach on the 5th inst., killing the driver, Colonel Stone and four soldiers of the Twenty-first infantry, acting as an escort. They left the bodies of the murdered men naked and horribly mutilated, and carried off the coach and mules. They also captured 300 cattle owned by a man named Scott in the neighborhood. Scott brought the news to Apache Pass, and thereupon Lieutenant Winter and twenty-seven men of the First cavalry started in pursuit and came upon the Indians ninety miles south of Apache Pass Friday forenoon. A fight ensued, in which twelve Indians were killed, the others making their escape. The troops recaptured the mail coach, mules and stock, as well as thirty horses and a large quantity of supplies owned by the Indians.

The Legislature this morning adjourned to meet on the second Tuesday after Congress shall have admitted the State into the Union.

For some time past the authorities at Washington have been apprised of the existence of a gang engaged in the manufacture and sale of counterfeit internal revenue tobacco stamps. A detective was sent here to watch the parties engaged, and to-day the following persons were arrested charged with having in their possession and selling the counterfeit stamps:—Frederick Bannasch, ex-Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue; Captain Thomas W. Roach, ex-detective of the Revenue Department, and Lieutenant John H. Stone, late United States Whiskey Inspector, and at present a special detective. Counterfeit stamps to the amount of $3,000 were seized in the hands of Bannasch. They were sixty pound tobacco stamps, class 32. The United States Commissioner bailed Bannasch and Roach in $10,000, and Stone, against whom the evidence is not so strong, in $5,000 to appear on the 22d inst. It is said the bogus stamps were sent from the manufacturers in New York and are pretty thoroughly circulated in the South.

Great Fire in Cincinnati—Destruction of Lane College, the Young Men's Mercantile Library, and the Chamber of Commerce—Fireman Killed.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 20, 1869.

The College Building is now on fire. The flames on the roof, which is of tin, are thought to extend from end to end. Engines are at work. The building contains the Lane College, Young Men's Mercantile Library, Chamber of Commerce and several stores and offices.

The College Building is a wreck. The rooms above the Mercantile Library and the Chamber of Commerce are burned out entirely. The whole roof and floor above the Chamber of Commerce fell in, taking the floor of the latter to the cellar. That above the Mercantile Library did not fall. A portion of the floor over the reading room was cut by the firemen to let water through. The damage to the building amounted to $40,000; insured in Cincinnati companies. The college loss is $25,000; insured in home companies. The loss of the Mercantile Library is $30,000. The Mercantile Library lost most in three rooms on the third story. The records and valuable English books of Mr. McArthur, the librarian, were all removed safely, but much damage was done to other books on the shelves by water in the main library room. The total loss on the books was $10,000. The insurances on all the above losses are in home companies, except in the Phenix, of Hartford, $5,000; Western, of Buffalo, $5,000; Security and Manhattan, of New York, $5,000 each; Cleveland, of Cleveland, $5,000; Sun, of Cleveland, $2,000. In the fourth story there was a small bookbindery, five dwelling rooms, Appleton's picture framing room, Fleetwood's and Fleetwood's lithographing rooms and two or three rooms for storing goods and furniture. Appleton and Fleetwood lost $10,000. Loss of the other parties, $5,000, mostly insured in Cincinnati companies. On the third floor, besides three library rooms, were Bliss' schoolroom, the law schoolroom, and Winkeler's bookbindery. The loss is $5,000. The insurances were not ascertained. The stores occupying all the first floor were damaged but slightly, and that by water, except the portion occupied by J. N. Harris, manufacturer of patent medicines, directly beneath the Chamber of Commerce room, into which the roof and all the floors fell. Mr. Harris loses $5,000; he is fully insured in the Franklin Company of Cincinnati. The total loss is near $75,000. The valuable statuary in the Mercantile Library room was all saved. The Chamber of Commerce and the Mercantile Library occupied all the second floor.

Captain Matt Schweb, of the Phoenix Hook and Ladder Company, was taken out of the wreck of the College Building this evening, at nine o'clock. He, with others, stood at the head of the stairs in the building fighting the fire when the ceiling fell in, enveloping all in smoke and fire. The others escaped, but he was killed. His head and breast were badly burned.

THE BLOOD HORSE ASSOCIATION.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 20, 1869.

There were two races to-day over the Blood Horse Association's course. The weather was rainy and the track heavy, notwithstanding which there was a large attendance. The first race was for the Merchants' Post Stake, two mile heats, entrance $50; purse $1,000; second horse to receive $200.

Babcock's Humboldt	1	1
Buford's Crossland	2	2
Paul's Jackson	3	3

The race for four year olds, mile heats, for a purse of $300, resulted as follows:—

Franklin's Donovan	3	1	1
McCormick's Sue Morrissey	1	2	3
Richards & Kilgour's John Kilgour	2	3	2

WILLIAMSPORT HORSE FAIR.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 20, 1869.

There was an increased attendance at the Herdick Park races to-day. The ground was in excellent condition and the weather was favorable. The accommodations for visitors are ample. The stands are well arranged and will seat over 2,500 people.

The race for the $1,000 purse was again postponed after the third heat. The race for $5,000, for horses that never beat 2:27, was also postponed at the end of the second heat, the sorrel mare Idol winning both heats.

The race for horses that had never beaten four minutes, for a purse of $500, was won by Fanny Fern in three straight heats.

The race for $1,500, for horses that never beat 2:42, was drawn.

TROTTING AT HARTFORD.

HARTFORD, Oct. 20, 1869.

The race to-day for $2,000 between Lucy and George Wilkes was won by the latter in three straight heats. Time, 2:33—2:31¾—2:33.

THE GOLD RING AND THE GRAND JURY.

Yesterday afternoon Messrs. Jay Gould and James Fisk, Jr., were formally served with writs of subpoena requiring their attendance before the Grand Jury now in session, and, of course, it would be strange to suppose that these gentlemen were so summoned for any other purpose than to give evidence in connection with the recent Wall street panic and fraud operations in gold.

It will be remembered that Judge Ingraham, at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, recently charged the Grand Jury specially on the subject, and it is probable that the affair will now be very thoroughly sifted.

IS REAL SUNNING HIMSELF?

Taking a Ride on a Street Car—A Deputy Sheriff Doing Escort Duty.

A rumor of a startling character was circulated in police circles yesterday that if true may well cause alarm to all law-abiding citizens. It seems that John Real, the condemned murderer of officer Smedick, of the Twenty-first precinct, was escorted from a felon's cell on Monday afternoon and allowed the freedom of the city. A conductor of the Second Avenue Railroad, who has known Real long and intimately, asserts that the convict and his charge entered his car at the corner of Second avenue and Thirty-fourth street; that Real shook hands with him and rode down town. The gentleman to whom the conductor made these statements is entirely reliable and declares his belief in their correctness.

SOCIETE DE BIENFAISANCE BELGE.

A meeting of the Belgian residents of New York was held last evening in the lecture room of the Cooper Institute, for the purpose of organizing a benevolent society for the relief of distressed Belgians. The chair was taken by Mr. C. Mali, who pointed out briefly the motives which had brought them together, and introduced Mr. Ernest Van Bruyssel, the Belgian Consul to the United States, to the meeting.

Mr. Van Bruyssel expressed his regret that he and his countrymen had been compelled by dire necessity to set about forming an exclusive society. He had found, however, that nationality regulated much of the benevolence of Europeans in this city. Belgians in distress therefore fared badly at the hands of French and Germans. So they had to look to themselves. If all the Europeans would unite together and form one powerful organization they would gladly merge into it. Until that was done they should supply the wants of their necessitous brethren as best they could, and he urged his countrymen throughout the Union to generously aid the efforts now being made. While the French, English, German and Swiss immigrants were provided for the destitute Belgian had to depend on accidental individual charity. Every motive, therefore, suggested to them that they should make a grand endeavor to establish a benevolent organization. These views were endorsed by the meeting. Much discussion was created upon the statutes, which were finally approved.

Subscriptions to the amount of $1,500 were taken and a committee formed to watch over the interests of the society. If the genial, sympathetic feeling of the meeting be reciprocated, as was anticipated last evening, the "Société de Bienfaisance Belge" may be looked on as fairly launched on its career of usefulness.

CIRCLE LYRIQUE FRATERNEL.

A ball was given last evening at the Germania Assembly Rooms by this association, organized both for social and benevolent purposes. Its headquarters are in Prince street, where agreeable reunions are held, among the attractive features of the institution being the vocalization of the members. The Circle Lyrique Fraternel is in fact a singing society, though it has likewise in view the aid of the sick and destitute belonging to it. The ball last night, the first held under the auspices of the society, was comparatively successful, the attendance comprising over a hundred couples. The decorations were appropriate and a good band of music contributed to render the terpsichorean festivities very enlivening. A lengthened programme of dancing was agreeably gone through, and the company separated at a late hour, evidently pleased with the first public venture of the association.

FIRE IN EAST EIGHTEENTH STREET.

Several Shanties and Stables Burned.

About half-past six o'clock last night a fire broke out in the junk shop of John Ryan, in rear of No. 430 East Eighteenth street. It was badly burned, involving a loss of $1,000. The fire extended to several stables, occupied by a number of carmen, all of which were destroyed. The horses, however, were saved, with the exception of Ryan's, valued at $150, which was burned, together with his house and stable. Ryan's total loss on building and stock, it is believed, will reach $3,000, upon which there is no insurance. The stable and coal sheds of John Riley adjoining were damaged about $1,000; insured in the Williamsburg and Tradesmen's Insurance companies. Two frame shanties, worth about $200 each, belonging to the estate of Isaac D. Lapham, were slightly damaged.

WASHINGTON.

The Coming Message of the President.

Cuban Recognition to be Strongly Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1869.

Special Meeting of the Cabinet.

There is a good deal of speculation to-night over a special meeting of the Cabinet, which convened this morning about ten o'clock and remained in session until near noon. The fact that a regular Cabinet meeting was held yesterday, at which, of course, all the routine business would naturally be transacted, gives rise to the surmise that something of importance must have been brought to the attention of the President since which required a Cabinet consultation. The members of the Cabinet are unusually reticent about the meeting, and refuse to give any intimation of what was done. There are all sorts of speculation about it; some have it that the meeting was occasioned by a cable despatch from Sickles relative to Cuba, others that it was a telegram from Motley, and still others that it was to consider some important revenue matters. There can be little doubt that business of importance was considered, but guessing is useless under the present circumstances.

Rumored Opposition to the Confirmation of Secretary Robeson—The President Favoring Cuban Recognition.

There is a story going about here to the effect that certain Senators, and particularly Drake, of Missouri, intend to oppose the confirmation of Secretary Robeson on the meeting of Congress. Neither Robeson nor Belknap, it will be remembered, have yet received a Senatorial endorsement, which is necessary to their complete appointment. Grimes' retirement from the Senate leaves the chairmanship of the Naval Committee vacant, and Drake is said to be an eager candidate for the position. Drake is a man of strong likes and dislikes, and is reported to have some personal spite against Vice Admiral Porter. This spite, it is reported, extends to Robeson, whom Drake assumes to be identical with Porter. He believes Porter has great influence over Mr. Robeson, and therefore desires to defeat the latter's confirmation in the hope of getting in some one who will throw Porter overboard altogether. This is one of the alleged reasons. Another is that Congress at its last session cut down materially the estimates for the navy, which economical hint, it is given out, has been disregarded by the department, which has expended the entire appropriation in addition to such sums as were obtained from the sale of war vessels. The cause of this expenditure ought to be satisfactory to inquisitive Senators. The department desired to place its vessels in proper trim for use in case of any difficulty that might spring out of the Cuban complications, and laid out the money to very good purpose. A third reason assigned for the anti-Robeson movement is the fact that the great State of Pennsylvania has no representative in the Cabinet, while the little democratic region of New Jersey is honored with one. The Keystoners think that after two hard struggles, successfully made, to keep republicanism in the ascendant in their State, they are entitled to a Cabinet recognition in preference to Jersey. On the other hand it is stated that there is precious little vitality in the anti-Robeson movement. The Naval Secretary feels quite easy in his shoes, and troubles his mind with no fears as to his confirmation, Drake to the contrary notwithstanding. On the reassembling of Congress Mr. Robeson and his friend Porter may suddenly loom up into very great importance. Should the President act as some of his friends declare he will regarding Cuba Senators will very probably be in no mood to bother either Robeson or Porter. These friends of Grant say that in his message he will incorporate all that has transpired in Cabinet and diplomatically regarding Cuba, and that he will recommend Congress to sustain the republican cause in the "ever faithful isle," or at least express himself in such unmistakable language on the subject as to show himself in favor of recognizing the struggling patriots. Should Mr. Fish's prediction of a war with Spain then come true, of course the struggle would be mainly on the ocean and Porter would be the man of the hour.

The Fenian Prisoners in Great Britain.

John M. Moriarty, President of the Irish Republican Association of Philadelphia, had an interview with President Grant and Secretary Fish to-day in behalf of the American citizens of Irish birth now in British prisons. Mr. Moriarty stated that these men had been convicted not for expressions or any overt act in England, but for sentiments uttered in the United States; and that as Mr. Gladstone had refused to liberate them he thought it was the duty of this government to insist that the prisoners should be set at liberty. The President remarked that several delegations had called upon him in relation to the same subject. His sympathies were with those prisoners, and, therefore, he should be gratified at their release. He had placed the matter in the hands of Secretary Fish subsequently. The last gentleman informed Mr. Moriarty that he had already exerted his influence to secure the object of his visit and would persevere to that end; and he gave the assurance that the government would adopt every means in its power to protect all American citizens both at home and abroad in all their rights.

Arguments in the Supreme Court.

In the Supreme Court of the United States to-day argument was continued in the case of Joshua Birrell vs. The Propeller Mohawk, the Western Transportation Company claimant, and the case of The President, &c., of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company vs. the Pennsylvania Canal Company, in error to the Circuit Court for the Southern district of New York.

Stolen Bonds of the Credit Foncier of Poland.

The following official notice has just been promulgated:—

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20, 1869.

Mr. de Catacazy, the Minister of Russia, has informed this Department that certain parties are trying to put into circulation at the New York Exchange some bonds of the Crédit Foncier of Poland, which were stolen from the Bank of Warsaw during the late insurrectionary movement in the Polish provinces; that as soon as the Imperial authorities became aware of this robbery they published the numbers of the stolen bonds, and declared them not payable in consequence.

Mr. de Catacazy further states that, being unable to dispose of these bonds in the European markets, the robbers or their accomplices are now trying to find dupes in America; and he disclaims on behalf of the government of Russia all responsibility for any losses which may accrue to citizens of the United States from the purchase of the bonds referred to.

THE TRENTON INTERNAL REVENUE CASE.

United States Marshal Plummer, at Trenton, N. J., yesterday returned a writ of execution, having levied on the property of Messrs. Keeney, Wakeman, Prentice, Gilbert and McLoughlin (deceased), the sureties of ex-Collector Thorne, against whom the government recently obtained a verdict for $100,000, the amount of security in bonds filed by them for the faithful discharge of Thorne's duties as Collector of the Fifth district of New Jersey. The property levied consists of real estate in Jersey City. The sureties attempted to effect a compromise with the government by offering $25,000, which was refused. They then allowed the matter to lie in obeyance, manifesting no disposition to discharge, the claim when the District Attorney obtained a writ of execution as above mentioned. An indictment is pending against Thorne also for criminal neglect in causing the government to lose the tax—two dollars a gallon—on 50,000 gallons of whiskey.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Election of a Representative to the Suez Canal Opening—The Tare on Cotton in Liverpool.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday at the rooms, corner of Cedar and William streets. Some time was lost in hunting up nine members out of the 800 or 900 comprising the Chamber, and when, finally, the nine were secured the President, Mr. Wm. E. Dodge, called the meeting to order. He stated that it was a special meeting for a special object, and asked the Secretary to read the communication on which the call for the meeting was based. Mr. Wilson, the Secretary, then read from a slip of the HERALD of Monday last a copy of a letter sent by order of the Viceroy of Egypt to the editor of the HERALD inviting him to attend the opening of the Suez Canal. A similar letter had been sent to the President of the Chamber, but he could not attend, and he assured the gentlemen that he thought it would be in order for the Chamber to select a member to represent the commerce of this country at the opening of the Suez Canal. He said it would be one of the most important and most interesting events affecting commerce that has ever transpired. The improvements, he said, come so rapidly on us that we can scarcely comprehend them. He then went on to recite some of the events which have affected commerce and awarded "steam and electricity" such complimentary notice as would delight the hearts of certain "progressive" residents of the New World. He then said that Mr. S. B. Ruggles, a member of the Chamber, was at present in Paris, and would, no doubt, be happy to represent the Chamber at the opening of the Suez Canal. On motion, then, Mr. Ruggles was chosen to act as representative of the Chamber, and a vote of thanks, together with the notice of the election of Mr. Ruggles, was ordered to be transmitted to the government by which the invitation was sent to the President of the Chamber.

By unanimous consent of the nine gentlemen present Mr. Maury was permitted to offer a report from the special committee on the subject of a communication from the Chamber of Commerce in Liverpool. The report, which was unanimously adopted, is as follows:—

> The committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to consider the communication from the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, recommending tare and draft on cotton purchased in this country, has had the subject under full consideration and cannot recommend any action on the question.
> At first sight it would seem that the consumer or the party in England ordering purchases of cotton would get more cotton for his money, but the differences between Liverpool and New York weights are all so closely allowed for, even to the hundredth part of a penny per pound, that this would not be the effect, and no means except a man's own judgment can in either case deal with the question of loss in weight by evaporation, which is an uncertain and often an important percentage. Thus, if the Liverpool proposition were adopted, the condition of the trade would not be improved, and a new series of questions and disputes would probably arise.
> It would be practically impossible to bring about the change suggested by the Liverpool Chamber.
>
> The various local associations in all our ports are constantly engaged in devising improved regulations respecting the purchase and sale of cotton, and all such questions may be safely left in their hands.
> All of which is respectfully submitted.
> M. MAURY.
> HENRY M. TABER.

There being no further business before the Chamber the nine gentlemen adjourned.

THE STATE CANALS.

Convention of Merchants Interested in Reform—Organization of a "Commercial Union."

The convention of delegates from the various Boards of Trade and of individuals throughout the State interested in reforming the canal management and improving the canal trade was held yesterday at the rooms of the Citizens' Association, 813 Broadway, in this city, pursuant to the call made September 17 last by the joint committees of the association, the Chamber of Commerce and the New York Produce Exchange. The Convention was called at ten o'clock A. M., and no persons were admitted except those who presented invitations of the joint committees or who bore credentials from trade organizations.

All the prominent and some of the lesser cities and towns along the line of the canals were represented and the meeting was large and earnest. Mr. Jeremiah P. Robinson was elected President of the Convention and Mr. Joseph F. Daly Secretary. Addresses were made by ex-Mayor Fish, of Rochester, Messrs. Niles, of Buffalo; Dugunne, of New York; Lacy, of Albany; Messrs. Nathaniel Sands, James P. Wallace and Edward Hincken; Messrs. Niles, Case and W. H. Barclay, of Buffalo; Mr. Peter Cooper and others. The Convention unanimously resolved that an organization must be formed among those persons interested through the State in the reform of the canal system and trade, which organization should extend along the whole line of the canals, and have for its object the protection of the canals and their trade and the prosecution of corrupt and neglectful canal officers. A committee of six, with the president and secretary, was appointed to prepare and submit a plan of organization. This committee returned after a long session and reported a complete system of secret organization among persons interested in the canal trade. This plan was unanimously adopted by the Convention.

The leading features of the plan are:—A State Central Committee of nine persons, having its headquarters in one of the principal cities of the State, whence as a base of operations its movements against the fraudulent contractors and corrupt officials of the canal ring are to proceed. This committee is vested with power to call conventions and delegates from localities at such times and places as may be proper, in order to decide on any plan of operations in the Legislature or elsewhere. A corps of trusty agents, unknown to each other, are to be set upon short sections of the canals night and day to collect evidence against contractors, officials, thieves, &c., who make daily reports with sworn affidavits, sufficient to base charges and impeachments upon. In every village, town and city of the State on the line of the canals local executive committees are to be established, who employ local detectives and agents to follow the tracks of officials and contractors, to gather proofs, &c., and to forward sworn affidavits to the central committee to be used in prosecutions of the delinquents.

Resolutions were adopted concurring in the memorial presented to the Legislature last year in behalf of the State Canal Convention, recommending that the State Central Committee elected by this Convention be instructed to support the objects of the memorial before the next Legislature, and urging the speedy completion of improvements in the canals, &c.; also the reduction of the rate of tolls and the abolition of the contract repair system in canals, and that it be recommended to the Legislature that the canal debt of this State, now about $9,000,000, shall be funded for a term of eighteen years, and that the tolls shall be reduced to the lowest practicable sum, thus enabling our canal system to present the cheapest possible means of commercial intercourse between the Atlantic seaboard and the States of the great West.

DOMESTIC INFELICITIES IN NEW JERSEY.

Interesting Divorce Suits—Opinions by the Chancellor.

Yesterday in the Court of Chancery at Trenton Chancellor Zabriskie delivered opinions in the cases of Flavell vs. Flavell and Codington vs. Codington.

In the first case the Chancellor said it was a suit by Abraham W. Flavell for a divorce from his wife, the defendant, Charlotte A. Flavell, on the ground of adultery. The answer denied the adultery, and also charged the complainant with adultery by way of recrimination and as a defence to the suit. The cause is upon admitting the testimony of George Moore, who was sworn on the part of the complainant, and after the first day's examination either absented or secreted himself, both parties having vainly endeavored to find or procure him. Moore had not signed either his direct or cross-examination, so far as proceeded with. The defendant asked to suppress the testimony of Moore for that reason, and the Chancellor, after an elaborate dissertation on the admissability of certain evidence and the citation of numerous judicial authorities, arrived at the conclusion that Moore's deposition not being signed by him was imperfect and could not be read. The Chancellor ordered a decree for divorce to be entered in favor of Abraham W. Flavell.

The bill in the case of Codington vs. Codington was for a divorce a vinculo for desertion. The defendant (wife) being out of this State was served with a notice to appear and defend the suit, but she failed to do so. The special master reported that the case was not within the jurisdiction of this court, and that the divorce should not be granted. The parties were married in the city of New York, and resided there four years after their marriage, after which they removed to Bergen Point, in this State, in 1858, with the intention of living there. On the 27th of July in that year the defendant deserted her husband and has never since lived with him. The complainant resided at Bergen Point for a month or two after his wife left him and then returned to New York. In this case neither of the parties resided in this State for more than two months after the desertion commenced. The residence of these parties being in the State of New York, neither party, by stepping over to this State with his trunk and taking lodgings for a few weeks, can give to this court jurisdiction in the matter. Even if the requirements of the statutes of the State were strictly complied with, the decree of divorce would be a nullity, and in the State of New York the marriage relation would still exist. The Chancellor held that this case was not within the provisions of the statute, for the first section provides that the parties or one of them shall be inhabitants of the State at the time of the desertion complained of, and the last clause requires that one of them shall have been a resident of the State for three years during which such desertion shall have continued. On these grounds the application for a divorce was denied. A number of other opinions were read, but they were of an uninteresting character. The calendar for this term is unusually large.

FRIGHTFUL CUTTING AFFRAY.

A Steamboat Deck Hand Attacks and Mutilates a Barge Watchman—Anti-Mortem Statement—Arrest of the Would-Be Murderer.

Last night another terrible altercation, unfortunately alike to the deadly quarrels of late that have cast discredit upon the city, took place on the dock at the foot of Warren street between John S. Gormley and John Edge, during which the latter was frightfully cut in the neck with a knife used by the former. The nature of Edge's wounds is such that serious doubts are entertained of his recovery. The particulars gathered at a late hour last night reveal that Edge is a watchman on board the barge Susquehanna, at the above pier, and his assailant is a deck hand employed on board the steamboat Montana, plying hence to Perth Amboy. About seven o'clock in the evening Gormley sauntered down the dock and went on board the barge, when he was ordered off by the watchman, during which unpleasant words passed between them, but at that time no blows were struck, when, in obedience to Edge's commands, Gormley retreated, and when on the dock still persistently abused the former, daring him "to come off and fight." Edge very foolishly did so, when, still further provoked, he struck Gormley, who drew a knife and stabbed him in the left side of the neck, repeating the blow with like terrible effect after the two had clinched and were fighting on the pier. A crowd soon gathered, drawn together by the loud cries, when the wounded man crawled back to the barge, the blood gushing in a large stream from the gashes. He was soon afterward removed to the City Hospital by officer Markey, of the Third precinct, who, hearing of the disturbance, promptly arrested Gormley and one or two friends that were near the scene of blood.

Coroner Flynn was at once notified of the dangerous condition of the wounded man, when he at once repaired to the hospital with his deputy, Dr. Shine, and, after empanneling a jury, the following

was taken:—

> My name is John Edge; am twenty-seven years of age. Live on board the barge Susquehannah. I do not know whether I shall die or not; I hope to recover; I am a watchman on board the barge named, now lying at the foot of Warren street; she hails from Newburg. This evening, about seven o'clock, three men came on the dock; three men, the prisoner (Gormley) being one of them, who alone soon after came on board the barge. I ordered him off, but he refused to go. He wanted to fight with me. The other two men then called him and he went off. He then wanted me to come off to the dock and there fight him. I went on the dock and struck the prisoner. He then cut me with a knife in the neck, when I threw him down. At this time he cut me a second time. Finding myself cut I got back to the barge, when I was taken to the hospital. The man here present is the same one that cut me.

The jury after this statement rendered the following verdict:—"John Edge came to his wounding on the night of October 20, on the Warren street dock, at the hands of John S. Gormley, with a knife."

The prisoner was then taken to the station house on Chambers street, where he was securely incarcerated. Gormley is but twenty-one years of age, and in his statement says that he was knocked down during the trouble, when he cut some one. He is not an unpleasant looking fellow, and says he was on the dock looking for freight for the steamer on which he is a deck hand. Although not drunk when arrested, he had been drinking. He was very anxious at a later hour in the night to know of the condition of his victim.

The wounds Edge received may prove fatal, and it is feared they will; but there is a chance of his recovery; yet the surgeons at the hospital could not at midnight venture an opinion upon his condition. Gormley will be araigned at the Tombs' Police Court this morning, and the disposition then made of him will depend upon Edge's chances of life. The knife used is a pocket knife, formerly four-bladed, but now has but three. The large blade is badly stained with blood.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 20—6 P. M.

It will be gratifying to the numerous creditors of the Gold Exchange Bank to learn that the process of liquidation has progressed so far as to enable the receiver to pay twenty-five per cent of all claims which have been adjusted, and the following notice has been accordingly issued:—

NEW YORK, Oct. 20, 1869.

The undersigned hereby gives notice to all creditors of the Gold Exchange Bank whose claims have been adjusted that, pursuant to an order this day obtained from the Supreme Court giving express authority to make such payments, he is prepared to pay twenty-five per cent upon the amounts of such adjusted claims on and after the 21st inst. Dealers whose statements have been approved will please hand them in without delay, and upon verification of the same the twenty-five per cent will immediately be paid. C. N. JORDAN; Receiver.

Outside of the Vanderbilt stocks there was no interruption to the dullness which seems to have settled upon Wall street. The money market was abundantly supplied at five to seven per cent, according to the standing of borrowers and the character of collaterals. Prime commercial paper was quoted at nine to twelve per cent discount. In the foreign exchanges there was more activity, and some of the prime bankers advanced their rates a quarter per cent, and all of them an eighth per cent. It seems that the large imports create an urgent inquiry for bills, and although the produce exports are large the bills drawn against them are rapidly absorbed. Heretofore the regular drawers had to compete with the offerings of bond bills as well as of produce bills, but the exports of bonds have been light of late, while a number of coupons have arrived from Europe, which, if not reinvested, must be covered by bills of exchange. The gold market was extremely dull and the price still stood at 130 a 130⅛. The government market was firm at the noon board in consequence of the proposal of the government to purchase two millions of bonds to-day, and the 67's sold quite freely at 115⅞. The offerings at the Sub-Treasury were so large, however—over $8,000,000—that the market became heavy and prices fell off an eighth to a quarter per cent for the leading issues. The bonds purchased by the government were in the lots and at the prices following:—

Southern securities were without special feature and the market dull, except for the Tennesses and the North Carolinas, which absorb any speculative interest there may be in this department of the Stock Exchange.

At the last session of the board the following quotations were made for the Southern State bonds:—Tennessee, ex coupon, 61¼ a 61½; do., new, 54¼ a 54½; Virginia, ex coupon, 50½ a 51; do., new, 52½ a 55; Georgia sixes, 84½; do., sixes, small, 90½ bid; North Carolina, ex coupon, 46½ bid; do., new, 40 a 42; do., special tax, 43½ a 44; Missouri sixes, 87½ a 87¾; Louisiana sixes, 68 a 68½; do. levee sixes, 63 a 63½; do. do., eights, 83; South Carolina sixes, new, 68½ a 68.

The Union Pacific Railroad earned during the first fifteen days in October $412,024, which are the largest earnings for the same length of time since the road has been in operation.

The record of the stock market is the old one of activity and buoyancy in the Vanderbilt shares, New York Central having sold at 194, Hudson River at 175 and Harlem at 149½. Lake Shore was also a favorite in the afternoon dealings in the Long Room, and many of the "shorts" were constrained into buying, which put the price to 94. The directors are to hold a stated meeting at Cleveland on Friday next, but with what object is not published. Meantime there were reports in circulation to-day that the committee have arranged to issue two millions of ten per cent income bonds, and also paid sixty per cent along with the twenty-five per cent margin required to fulfil the contract for the purchase of Wabash stock. The increased earnings of the St. Paul road created a demand for the stock, which sent the price to 70. Reading was strong and rose to 97 upon the statement that its earnings for the expired nine months of 1869 were $2,500,000, against $1,100,000 in 1868. The Vanderbilt stocks became dull late in the day and the speculative feeling visited the rest of the list. Northwestern common suddenly advanced to 71¾, as against 70½ in the forenoon. Rock Island also came in for a share of attention and sold up to 107¾. In the miscellaneous list Pacific Mail was very quiet. In the express stocks Adams and American were strong and Wells-Fargo weak. The following were the closing prices of stocks at the last session of the Stock Exchange:—Canton, 51¼ a 51½; Cumberland, 27½ a 27¾; Western Union, 36¼ a 36½; Quicksilver, 12½ bid; Mariposa, 8 a 8½; do. preferred, 16½ a 17; Pacific Mail, 58¼ a 58½; Boston Water Power, 14½ a 14¾; Adams Express, 57 a 58½; Wells-Fargo Express, 19¼ a 20; American Express, 34 a 35; United States Express, 57 a 58½; New York Central, 190¾ a 191; Erie, 31¼ a 31¾; do. preferred, 53 a 58; Hudson River, 174 a 174½; Harlem, 149½; Reading, 96⅜ a 96½; Michigan Central, 123 bid; Lake Shore, 92¼ a 92⅜; Illinois Central, 135 bid; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 97 a 98; Chicago and Northwestern, 71¼ a 71¾; do. preferred, 84 a 84¼; Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati, 76 a 78; Rock Island, 107¼ a 107⅜; Milwaukee and St. Paul, 68⅛ a 68½; do. preferred, 81⅝ a 81⅞; Toledo and Wabash, 65¾ a 66; Fort Wayne, 84¼ a 85; Alton and Terre Haute, 32; do. preferred, 57 bid; Ohio and Mississippi, 27 a 27¼; Delaware and Lackawanna, 110 a 110½; New Jersey Central, 101¼ a 101½; Chicago and Alton, 141½ a 144; do. preferred, 142 a 145; Morris and Essex, 88 bid; Hannibal and St. Joseph, 110 a 110½; do. preferred, 110 bid; Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central, 24 a 24¼. —The wheat market opened steady, with a fair demand, but closed heavy and lower, under a pressure to sell car lots, which were placed as low as $1 45 a $1 47 delivered, prime samples being $1 47 a $1 48 in store. The favorable tenor of the cable news was counteracted by the high rates of freight by steamers (which were fully 2d. per bushel higher than they were two or three days ago) and the pressure to sell car lots. The sales—mostly of car lots—comprised about 160,000 bushels, at $1 18 a $1 18 for rejected spring, $1 28 a $1 39 for Illinois winter; $1 45 a $1 50 for inferior to choice red and amber winter, delivered; $1 47 a $1 48 for do. in store; $1 50 a $1 55 for white Western, closing dull and irregular. For prime No. 2 spring $1 36 was bid and $1 40 asked. Corn was dull and lower to sell to any extent, though the range of prices was about the same. The sales were about 65,000 bushels at $1 a $1 08 for common to choice mixed Western and $1 08 a $1 10 for white and yellow. Rye was quiet. Sales 10,000 bushels at $1 18 a $1 20 for State, in small lots, and $1 07 for Western, at depot. Oats were dull and irregular. Sales 50,000 bushels at 58c. a 62c., with small sales of white State at 63c. a 64c. Barley was scarce and firm, with sales of 10,003 bushels at $1 35 for two-rowed State and $1 50 a $1 57 for Canada West. Of barley malt the sales were 2,500 bushels at $1 70 for Canada West.

FREIGHTS.—The market was less active, but rates were firm and in some cases higher. The chartering business was quiet, but all kinds of vessels were held for full rates. The engagements were:—To Liverpool, 22,500 bushels wheat at 9d., 1,000 bbls. flour at 2s. 6d., 400 bales cotton at ⅜d., 1,000 bbls. rosin at 2s. 6d. and per steamer 15,000 bushels wheat at 10½d. and 3,600 bales cotton at ⅜d.; to London, 1,000 bbls. flour at 2s. 6d., 1,000 bales hops at 3-16d. and 1,000 bbls. rosin at 3s.; to Bristol, 120 tons heavy goods at 27s. 6d. The charters were:—A bark from Philadelphia to Gibraltar for orders, Spanish ports excluded, with 2,200 bbls petroleum at 6s. 6d. flat; a bark from Philadelphia to a direct port on the Continent, with 2,600 bbls. petroleum on private terms, and a bark from Savannah to Liverpool or Havre, with about 1,700 bales cotton at ½d.

GUNNIES were dull and heavy. Bags were quoted 16c. a 16½c. and cloth 22½c. a 23¼c., without sales. Sales 50 bales bags, in Boston, at 16c.

HOPS.—The market was quiet, the demand from all sources continuing light, but holders were indisposed to operate except at full figures. A few small lots were taken by consumers at 15c. a 20c. for new, and 4c. a 9c. for old, according to quality.

HEMP.—We heard of no sales of consequence, the demand being very light. Manila was quoted 14c., gold; jute 4½c. a 5¼c., do.; Sisal 11¼c. a 12c., do., and Tampico 7¾c. a 8c., do., in bond.

HAY.—The demand was only moderate, but prices were steady. Shipping was selling at 65c., retail lots at 80c. a $1 10, long rye straw $1 a $1 05 and short do. at 80c. a 85c.

MOLASSES.—The market was quiet, the demand being light, but prices were steady at the quotations published in our last issue. We heard of no sales of consequence.

NAVAL STORES.—Spirits turpentine was scarce and prices advanced materially in consequence, the market closing at 47½c. a 48c. for merchantable and shipping lots; 200 bbls. were sold to arrive at 47c., and early in the day a small lot was sold on the spot at 46c. Rosin was slow of sale, but prices were generally firm. The sales were 250 bbls. pale at $5 a $5 25 a $5 50 and 100 do. No. 1 at $4. We quote:—Strained, $2 20 a $2 30; No. 2, $2 35 a $2 75; No. 1, $3 a $4 25; pale, $4 50 a $5 25; extra do. and window glass, $5 50 a $5 25. Tar was quiet, closing at $2 75 a $2 87½ for Washington and $3 for Wilmington.

OILS.—Linseed was dull and heavy. Small lots were selling at 97c. a $1 in casks and bbls. Other kinds were dull at former prices. No sales of consequence were reported.

PROVISIONS.—Receipts, 145 bbls. pork, 54 packages cut meats and 90 do. lard. The business in pork was light, the sales being confined to small lots, which commanded the prices current yesterday. About 500 bbls., in lots, were sold at $30 75 a $31 for new mess and $34 for city do. 250 bbls. new mess, for January delivery, were sold at $28, seller's option. Dressed hogs were a trifle easier, closing at 13⅛c. a 13⅜c. for city. Live hogs were quoted 10⅞c. a 11⅛c., with arrivals of 4,748 head. Beef was moderately dealt in at steady prices, the sales being 50 bbls., at $5 a $12 for plain mess and $12 a $17 for extra do. Tierce beef was inactive and prices were nominal. Beef hams were steady, with sales of 75 bbls. at $18 a $26, including choice brands at $22 a $25. Both cut meats and bacon were quiet, owing to the small stock and the high prices asked; quotations were unchanged. For lard the market was moderately active at former prices, the sales being 800 packages at 16⅛c. a 17⅛ for No. 1 to prime steam and 18¼c. a 18⅝c. for kettle rendered. Butter and cheese were unchanged.

PETROLEUM.—For crude in bulk the market was more active, but at lower prices; there were sellers at 17⅛c., but no buyers above 17⅛c. 2,700 bbls., deliverable during the first part of November, were sold at 17⅛c. No spot sales were reported. Crude in bbls. was dull and nominal at 25c. The market for refined was quiet, but firm, closing at 33⅛c. a 33½c. for spot and 33c. for October. The stock is extremely light, which checks business. The sales were 1,000 bbls. on the spot at 33⅛c., and 4,000 do. for the balance of this month at 32⅞c. a 33c., chiefly at the latter price. Naphtha was firm at 11c., at which price there were sold 1,000 bbls. of prime quality. In Philadelphia the market was quiet, but firm, closing at 32⅞c. a 33c. for October. We heard of no sales.

STEARINE.—The demand was slow, and we heard of no important sales. Prices were heavy, at 17c. a 19c. for common to choice in hhds. and tierces.

SEEDS.—Grass were dull and nominal at yesterday's quotations. For linseed the market was dull, at $2 17½, gold, duty paid, at which price the last sale was made.

SUGAR.—The market for raw was moderately active at former prices, the sales, which were chiefly to refiners, being 500 hhds., 11⅛c. a 12c., for Cuba and Porto Rico, and 650 boxes part at 12⅛c. ANOTHER BROKEN RAIL.

Accident on the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad—Several Persons Injured.

[From the Lynchburg (Va.) Republican, Oct. 19.]

About six o'clock yesterday morning the down mail train of the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad met with an accident, three-quarters of a mile west of Lisbon, which came near being attended with the most tragic consequences. While the train was moving along at its usual rapid speed, there being no suspicion of any danger impending, the ladies' car and the sleeping car were suddenly and violently thrown from the track by the breaking of a rail under the wheels of the ladies' car. The accident happened at a time when the train was on the crest of a steep embankment. One end of the ladies' car was thrown over the verge of the embankment, but was checked by some fortunate chance, and did not make the perilous descent. The sleeping car made one revolution. Strange to say, though seven or eight persons were more or less painfully and severely bruised, no serious injuries were sustained by any of the passengers or railroad hands. The lamps which were burning in the two cars were put out by the concussion, leaving the disordered scene in darkness. The stove in the ladies' car, being one of the new patents, secured to the floor and roof of the car, did not slip from its place, and its doors did not open, thus saving the terror-stricken passengers from the possible additional distress and danger of fire.

The following is a list of the persons whose bruises are most considerable. None of these, even, are considered seriously hurt:—

John Liggan, conductor of the sleeping car, bruised about the face and body.

Mrs. Beattie, of Glade Spring, who was on her way to Richmond.

Judge Biggs, of North Carolina, who was returning home from the Louisville Convention.

The two damaged cars were left near the track where the accident occurred. The passengers were transferred to the other cars, and the train reached the city with only a half hour's detention beyond the schedule time.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE IN THE BOSTON POST OFFICE.—As Mr. E. P. Cotting, a mailing clerk in the Post Office, was engaged in stamping letters at seven o'clock last evening, something contained in one of the letters exploded with a loud report, the powder or other matter burning his right hand and wrist so badly as to require dressing by a physician. The envelope was also badly torn by the explosion, so much so that the name of the party to whom it was addressed was destroyed. Enough was left, however, to show that it was directed to Mrs. S., box 381 Woonsocket, R. I. The superscription appeared to be in a lady's hand writing, and it is conjectured that some jealous or revengeful woman had taken this method to mutilate if not kill the object of her hatred. The murderous missive was dropped into one of the boxes at the Post Office between six and seven o'clock, and hopes are entertained that the guilty party will be discovered.—Boston Herald, Oct. 20.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 20—6 P. M.

It will be gratifying to the numerous creditors of the Gold Exchange Bank to learn that the process of liquidation has progressed so far as to enable the receiver to pay twenty-five per cent of all claims which have been adjusted, and the following notice has been accordingly issued:—

NEW YORK, Oct. 20, 1869.

The undersigned hereby gives notice to all creditors of the Gold Exchange Bank whose claims have been adjusted that, pursuant to an order this day obtained from the Supreme Court giving express authority to make such payments, he is prepared to pay twenty-five per cent upon the amounts of such adjusted claims on and after the 21st inst. Dealers whose statements have been approved will please hand them in without delay, and upon verification of the same the twenty-five per cent will immediately be paid. C. N. JORDAN, Receiver.

Outside of the Vanderbilt stocks there was no interruption to the dulness which seems to have settled upon Wall street. The money market was abundantly supplied at five to seven per cent, according to the standing of borrowers and the character of collaterals. Prime commercial paper was quoted at nine to twelve per cent discount. In the foreign exchanges there was more activity, and some of the prime bankers advanced their rates a quarter per cent, and all of them an eighth per cent. It seems that the large imports create an urgent inquiry for bills, and although the produce exports are large the bills drawn against them are rapidly absorbed. Heretofore the regular drawers had to compete with the offerings of bond bills as well as of produce bills, but the exports of bonds have been light of late, while a number of coupons have arrived from Europe, which, if not reinvested, must be covered by bills of exchange. The gold market was extremely dull and the price still stood at 130 a 130⅛. The government market was firm at the noon board in consequence of the proposal of the government to purchase two millions of bonds to-day, and the 67's sold quite freely at 118⅜. The offerings at the Sub-Treasury were so large, however—over $8,000,000—that the market became heavy and prices fell off an eighth to a quarter per cent for the leading issues. The bonds purchased by the government were in the lots and at the prices following:—

Southern securities were without special feature and the market dull, except for the Tennessees and the North Carolinas, which absorb any speculative interest there may be in this department of the Stock Exchange.

The Union Pacific Railroad earned during the first fifteen days in October $412,024, which are the largest earnings for the same length of time since the road has been in operation.

The record of the stock market is the old one of activity and buoyancy in the Vanderbilt shares, New York Central having sold at 194, Hudson River at 175 and Harlem at 149½. Lake Shore was also a favorite in the afternoon dealings in the Long Room, and many of the "shorts" were constrained into buying, which put the price to 94. The directors are to hold a stated meeting at Cleveland on Friday next, but with what object is not published. Meantime there were reports in circulation to-day that the committee have arranged to issue two millions of ten per cent income bonds, and also paid sixty per cent along with the twenty-five per cent margin required to fulfil the contract for the purchase of Wabash stock. The increased earnings of the St. Paul road created a demand for the stock, which sent the price to 70. Reading was strong and rose to 97 upon the statement that its earnings for the expired nine months of 1869 were $2,500,000, against $1,100,000 in 1868. The Vanderbilt stocks became dull late in the day and the speculative feeling visited the rest of the list. Northwestern common suddenly advanced to 71⅞, as against 70⅞ in the forenoon. Rock Island also came in for a share of attention and sold up to 107⅞. In the miscellaneous list Pacific Mail was very quiet. In the express stocks Adams and American were strong and Wells-Fargo weak. The following were the closing prices of stocks at the last session of the Stock Exchange:—Canton, 51½ a 51¾; Cumberland, 27½ a 27¾; Western Union, 36¼ a 36⅜; Quicksilver, 12½ bid; Mariposa, 8 a 8½; do. preferred, 16½ a 17; Pacific Mail, 58⅛ a 58¼; Boston Water Power, 14⅛ a 14¾; Adams Express, 57 a 58¼; Wells-Fargo Express, 19¾ a 20; American Express, 34 a 35; United States Express, 57 a 58¼; New York Central, 190¾ a 191; Erie, 31⅛ a 31¼; do. preferred, 53 a 58; Hudson River, 174 a 174½; Harlem, 149½; Reading, 96⅞ a 96⅞; Michigan Central, 123 bid; Lake Shore, 92⅞ a 92⅞; Illinois Central, 135 bid; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 97 a 98; Chicago and Northwestern, 71⅛ a 71⅜; do. preferred, 84 a 84⅛; Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati, 76 a 78; Rock Island, 107⅛ a 107⅜; Milwaukee and St. Paul, 68⅛ a 68⅜; do. preferred, 81⅝ a 81⅞; Toledo and Wabash, 65⅞ a 66; Fort Wayne, 84⅞ a 85; Alton and Terre Haute, 32; do. preferred, 57 bid; Ohio and Mississippi, 27 a 27⅛; Delaware and Lackawanna, 110 a 110½; New Jersey Central, 101⅛ a 101⅞; Chicago and Alton, 141½ a 144; do. preferred, 142 a 145; Morris and Essex, 88 bid; Hannibal and St. Joseph, 110 a 110½; do. preferred, 119 bid; Columbus, Chicago and Indiana Central, 24 a 24⅛.

—The wheat market opened steady, with a fair demand, but closed heavy and lower, under a pressure to sell car lots, which were placed as low as $1 45 a $1 47 delivered, prime samples being $1 47 a $1 48 in store. The favorable tenor of the cable news was counteracted by the high rates of freight by steamers (which were fully 2d. per bushel higher than they were two or three days ago) and the pressure to sell car lots. The sales—mostly of car lots—comprised about 160,000 bushels, at $1 18 a $1 18 for rejected spring, $1 28 a $1 39 for Illinois winter; $1 45 a $1 50 for inferior to choice red and amber winter, delivered; $1 47 a $1 48 for do. in store; $1 50 a $1 55 for white Western, closing dull and irregular. For prime No. 2 spring $1 36 was bid and $1 40 asked. Corn was dull and lower to sell to any extent, though the range of prices was about the same. The sales were about 65,000 bushels at $1 a $1 08 for common to choice mixed Western and $1 08 a $1 10 for white and yellow. Rye was quiet. Sales 10,000 bushels at $1 18 a $1 20 for State, in small lots, and $1 07 for Western, at depot. Oats were dull and irregular. Sales 50,000 bushels at 58c. a 62c., with small sales of white State at 63c. a 64c. Barley was scarce and firm, with sales of 10,000 bushels at $1 35 for two-rowed State and $1 50 a $1 57 for Canada West. Of barley malt the sales were 2,500 bushels at $1 70 for Canada West.

FREIGHTS.—The market was less active, but rates were firm and in some cases higher. The chartering business was quiet, but all kinds of vessels were held for full rates. The engagements were:—To Liverpool, 22,500 bushels wheat at 9d., 1,000 bbls. flour at 2s. 6d., 400 bales cotton at ⅜d., 1,000 bbls. rosin at 2s. 6d. and per steamer 15,000 bushels wheat at 10½d. and 3,000 bales cotton at ⅜d.; to London, 1,000 bbls. flour at 2s. 6d., 1,000 bales hops at 3-16d. and 1,000 bbls. rosin at 3s.; to Bristol, 120 tons heavy goods at 27s. 6d. ANOTHER BROKEN RAIL.

Accident on the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad—Several Persons Injured.

[From the Lynchburg (Va.) Republican, Oct. 19.]

About six o'clock yesterday morning the down mail train of the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad met with an accident, three-quarters of a mile west of Lisbon, which came near being attended with the most tragic consequences. While the train was moving along at its usual rapid speed, there being no suspicion of any danger impending, the ladies' car and the sleeping car were suddenly and violently thrown from the track by the breaking of a rail under the wheels of the ladies' car. The accident happened at a time when the train was on the crest of a steep embankment. One end of the ladies' car was thrown over the verge of the embankment, but was checked by some fortunate chance, and did not make the perilous descent. The sleeping car made one revolution. Strange to say, though seven or eight persons were more or less painfully and severely bruised, no serious injuries were sustained by any of the passengers or railroad hands. The lamps which were burning in the two cars were put out by the concussion, leaving the disordered scene in darkness. The stove in the ladies' car, being one of the new patents, secured to the floor and roof of the car, did not slip from its place, and its doors did not open, thus saving the terror-stricken passengers from the possible additional distress and danger of fire.

The following is a list of the persons whose bruises are most considerable. None of these, even, are considered seriously hurt:—

John Liggan, conductor of the sleeping car, bruised about the face and body.

Mrs. Beattie, of Glade Spring, who was on her way to Richmond.

Judge Biggs, of North Carolina, who was returning home from the Louisville Convention.

The two damaged cars were left near the track where the accident occurred. The passengers were transferred to the other cars, and the train reached the city with only a half hour's detention beyond the schedule time.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE IN THE BOSTON POST OFFICE.—As Mr. E. P. Cotting, a mailing clerk in the Post Office, was engaged in stamping letters at seven o'clock last evening, something contained in one of the letters exploded with a loud report, the powder or other matter burning his right hand and wrist so badly as to require dressing by a physician. The envelope was also badly torn by the explosion, so much so that the name of the party to whom it was addressed was destroyed. Enough was left, however, to show that it was directed to Mrs. S., box 381 Woonsocket, R. I. The superscription appeared to be in a lady's hand writing, and it is conjectured that some jealous or revengeful woman had taken this method to mutilate if not kill the object of her hatred. The murderous missive was dropped into one of the boxes at the Post Office between six and seven o'clock, and hopes are entertained that the guilty party will be discovered.—Boston Herald, Oct. 20.

ITALIAN OPERA.

SEASON OF 1869-70.

Mr. Maretzek has the honor to announce that the First Series of Representations of the Regular Season of Italian Opera will commence on or about

NOVEMBER 1, 1869.

Confident that the general public will receive with pleasure the announcement that the plans are perfected for making the programmes for the forthcoming season conspicuously brilliant, the Director takes pleasure in submitting for approval the following engagements:—

SOPRANOS.

MISS CLARA LOUISA KELLOGG,
recognized in Europe and America as one of the most gifted and successful of the LEADING PRIME DONNE OF THE DAY,
was engaged by Mr. Maurice Strakosch to appear in Paris this season. But, believing that the co-operation of this eminent young American artist would be indispensable to the thorough presentation of several new works that are to be introduced at the Academy, Mr. Maretzek has at a great sacrifice prevailed upon Mr. Maurice Strakosch to yield his right to her valued services and permit her to remain in New York for the present.
MADAME CAROLINA DE BRIOL.
(From the San Carlo, Naples.)
Combining a magnificent voice with dramatic genius of an unexceptionally high order, Madame Briol has, within a very brief period, obtained an exalted reputation throughout Italy, which, it is confidently felt, will be reaffirmed by the critical judgment of the American public.
MISS LOUISE C. TREUER
(her first appearance).
MEZZO-SOPRANOS AND CONTRALTOS.
MADAME LUCY ESCOTT,

SIG. G. COTTONE,
From Royal Opera, London.
Sig. B. REYNA.
Sig. G. R. ANTONUCCI
Sig. N. BARILI, and
Sig. GEORGIO RONCONI.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
In conclusion, Mr. Maretzek has the extreme satisfaction of announcing that he has completed arrangements with Mr. Max Strakosch for presenting in Opera, for a LIMITED NUMBER OF NIGHTS ONLY,
the illustrious Cantatrice,
MISS CARLOTTA PATTI,
whose peerless vocalization has electrified the most critical audiences of Europe and America, and everywhere created an interest parallel only in the memorable history of two or three singers whose extraordinary talents, like hers, have justly been considered phenomenal.
THE REPERTOIRE
will include most of the favorite standard works of the favorite composers, in addition to which the management intends producing, during the season of 1869-70, the following
NEW OPERAS,
Presented for the first time in America:—
